The men played together well but had a lamentable tendency to fumble at critical times. The only touchdown of the game came as the result of a fumble. Donaldson, the freshman quarterback, misjudged a punt by Saunders and fumbled it on his 25 yard line. Keator, a sophomore back, got the ball and carried it over the line after a sensational run. Neither team understood the new rules, so they were compelled to resort to old fashioned football.

It is stated on good authority that and intramural league composed of teams from the college, science schools, medical, law and pharmacy departments will be formed at Columbia next year in an effort to develop some good players for an intercollegiate varsity team for the fall of 1909.

Football continues to be the lifesaver of all sports at the University of Pennsylvania. With the report of the treasurer at the annual meeting of the Athletic Association, held last night, it was brought to light that the only other sport which paid expenses for the fiscal year ending September 1, 1907, was basketball. The three other major sports, baseball, track athletics and rowing, and all of the other minor sports, were run at a dead loss.

Hilaire Blatz, of Somerset street, is confined to his home with an attack of the grip.

—The weekly chase of the Watchung Hunt Club will be held this afternoon, the riders meeting at Scotch Plains near the home of Dr. Coles. It is expected that a number of guests from New York and the Oranges will join in the chase.

ANENT THE NEW COUNTY

Opinions of the State Press on Mayor N. B. Smalley's Proposition.

NOT TAKEN VERY SERIOUSLY.

Other Papers Coincide With The Daily Press In Its Belief That Idea Is Impracticable.

Following are some opinions expressed by New Jersey newspapers on Mayor Smalley's new county idea:

Newton B. Smalley, formerly Mayor of North Plainfield, now a resident of North Plainfield township and a member of the Somerset Board for the Equalization of Taxes, has recently promulgated a plan for the formation of a new county to include Plainfield, North Plainfield, South Plainfield, Dunellen, New Market, Watchung, Scotch Plains and Fanwood. Mr. Smalley has long been identified with some kind of a movement to get North Plainfield out of Somerset. This is the most novel of all the plans suggested, but yet it is the fairest. This plan would not rob one county of all the territory, but would take a portion from the three counties of Somerset, Union and Middlesex, which are contiguous at that point.

This plan nas several objectionable features which are likely to prove fatal. These objections are largely of a political nature. To take off the portions mentioned from each of these counties would make each one of them Democratic, or dangerously tlose. The new county would be a strong Republican county. But the Republican party, now in power in the State, would be foolish to create one new senatorial district which would be Republican, and turn over three others which are now almost certainly Republican to the Democrats. That would surely be sucidal.

Besides this the creation of a new county in the central part of the State would scarcely meet with favor in South Jersey where the representatives are always jealous of the power of the North Jersey counties.

We would suggest to Mr. Smalley, however, that a still better plan would be to bring Plainfield over to Somerset, thus increasing the population of this county to nearly 60,000 and reducing Union to about 100,000. This would be a fair and just proposition. The complaint is now that Plainfield as well as North Plainfield, pay large sums to their respective counties in taxes and receive an unfair proportion of improvements in return. If the two places were in Somerset and consolidated, as they desire to be, they would be of sufficient political power in the county to get such recognition as they desire.

Mr. Smalley, who is a genius in the way of suggesting new plans for governmental functions, will doubtless see the justice in this suggestion. He has made the mistake in the present instance of thinking only about the proposed new county and forgetting how others may feel. This was the case in the proposed plan to divorce North Plainfield from Somerset county. Both sides must have something to say.—Somerville Unionist Gazette.

Talk about making a new county to add to the State's 21 was a feature of the Plainfield-North Plainfield Board of Trade banquet the other night.

Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, was the talker. Of course it was just talk. But it was proper enough sort of talk for a Board of Trade banquet, an occasion when one hears a lot of talk that never materalizes into anything substantial.

The particular part of Mr. Smalley's speech that interests us in Middlesex is the suggestion that Dunellen, New Market and South Plainfield be taken away from us by legislative enactment and grafted upon Plainfield. It's a pretty idea. But if we know the sentiment of the communities named we would say that they are perfectly satisfied with their present relations with old Father Middlesex and cannot be tempted away from him by any allurements of a new affinity.

We doubt if there are more splendid roads to the square mile in the country than in the territory contiguous to Dunellen, New Market and South Plainfield. Those who drive or motor in that section will confirm this. For if any particular part of Middlesex county has been well looked after by the Board of Freeholders it is the section referred to.

It is 50 years since New Jersey created a new county (that of Union in 1856). It will probably be just as long before Mr. Smalley's dream, evolved in the smoke of a Board of Trade banquet, is realized.—New Brunswick Home News.

Mrs. George Clark, of Lebanon, Hunterdon county, has returned home after a short visit with her sister, Mrs. A. D. Edgar, of East Front street.

Howard George, of Craig place, who holds a position with the Ingersoll-Rand Company in New York, is taking two weeks vacation. After New Years he may be stationed at the company's plant at Easton.

Plainfield, N. J., December 14, 1907.

CONSOLIDATION.

Residents of El Mora have started a movement for the annexation of that village to the city of Elizabeth and already the scheme has received the influential support of the Board of Trade at the county seat. It is but one of a number of similar movements in this vicinity. Somerville wants Raritan to consolidate with it and only recently Bound Brook had a pet notion of taking in South Bound Brook.

So far as the plan to consolidate North Plainfield with Plainfield is concerned, it is still in statuo quo as a lawyer would say. Nothing has been done since the admirable report of the bi-municipal consolidation commission was filed with the governing bodies of the two municipalities. There is every reason to expect, however, that the incoming administration in the borough will leave no stone unturned to further the object, which will be of particular benefit to the taxpayers of that place.

The question presented here is not analogous to the consolidation schemes hereabouts for a vital part of the plan is to take away from Somerset county that territory embracing North Plainfield. Consequently stubborn resistence is to be expected from the rural county for it thrives on the borough's tax receipts. As for the idea of a new county, hardly anyone takes it seriously. To agitate such an impossibility is only to further delay the much desired day when the borough and city will be one in law as they are now in interest.

THE REASON WHY.

Insurance heads loot their treasuries, bank presidents live riotous lives on trust funds, railroad managers juggle with stockholders' earnings, et cetera, et cetera.

The Chief Magistrate of the Nation gives his moral support to the crusade to put an end to the criminal work of these "eminently respectable" thieves. The thieves cry out to him, "You have destroyed public confidence!" Public confidence in whom? Why, in these thieves!

A supposedly decent New York paper which caters to barons of finance, takes up the cry. It brands this high sheriff as a "conscienceless demagogue." He has destroyed public confidence; his utterances and his pursuit of criminal trusts and the like have done real injury to those pirates of high estate.

Under the circumstances, why shouldn't Roosevelt be blackguarded by this sheet and its friends. Simple, isn't it?

An annonymous Colbyite prophet in a Metropolitan paper sees a "tiff" between John Kean and J. Franklin Fort. Wonderful, wonderful.

In its report of a People's Lobby meeting, a Newark paper refers to R. Henry Depew as "the Mayor of Plainfield."

TYPHOID IN TRENTON.

Secretary of Hospital Board One of Latest Victims.

With over fifty cases of typhoid fever now raging in Trenton the epidemic seems to be on the wane. Only four cases were reported to the health authorities yesterday, and physicians say that with ordinary care the disease should now be checked. It is the general opinion that the drinking water supplied from the Delaware river has been responsible for the spread of the disease. The river for several days past has been fifteen feet above normal and in a filthy condition.

I. Scott Scammell, secretary of the board of managers of the State Hospital for the Insane, was removed to Mercer Hospital yesterday suffering from the fever. He is in a serious condition. Charles Stevenson, one of the best known stage managers in the country, is another down with the disease.

WANT LAWMAKERS' HELP

Anti-Saloon League Superintendent Writes Lawmakers in Local Option Campaign

CLAIMS GREAT PROGRESS MADE

Anti-Saloon League Head Urges That League Does Not Ask Them to Vote Against Saloons, but to Give People Chance to Vote.

Newark, Dec. 14.—Evidently the Anti-Saloon League is still busy; they are continuing their everlasting campaign for local option. It appears that the League has enlarged its constituency, increased its number of workers, and is advancing in every way in the State. The public sentiment which is coming up in such a tide from the West and South; the recent elections all over the Union, and our own in this State, seems to have given them great encouragement, and their superintendent, Mr. J. Frank Burke, has just issued a letter to each member of Assembly and Senator, bearing upon their attitude on the local option bill, as follows:

Newark, N. J., Dec. 4th, 1907.

Dear Sir: As you probably know the church forces of the State, whose agent the Anti-Saloon League is, have been and still are, urging the adoption of a local option law. Nearly all the denominational bodies, either directly or indirectly, have commissioner us as their servants to work for that end. I am enclosing a copy of the bill as introduced in the last session of the Legislature, together with some other literature.

As representing the people of Union county, we know that you are interested to carry out the will of the majority and hence we desire to suggest:

This bill, urged by our people, simply provides that the right of majority rule by the citizens of any community shall not be abridged on the question of the issuance of licenses, any more than it is on other important matters. Today licenses are granted to sell intoxicating liquor in communities without the consent of a majority of the people, and oft-times against their almost unanimous protest. The people have no redress under our present law. In every other State east of the Mississippi, except New Jersey, the people have some power of effective local veto over the issuance of licenses. There are only five States in the entire Union in which all such power is withheld from the people, the other four lying in the far West. The righteousness of our request and the growing knowledge of the position which New Jersey occupies on this question, as you undoubtedly know, are awakening our citizenship to a keen sense of humiliation that the right of suffrage on this question is being denied them, and yet being granted everywhere else in the Union.

I do not suppose that it is necessary to call attention to this rapidly increasing sentiment, but as we are in constant touch with some twelve or fifteen hundred clergymen, with access to the pulpits of nearly all of the churches, with five men devoting their entire time to organization and agitation work throughout the State, and with other extra men with them presenting the work on Sunday before congregations, besides coming in contact with a large number of people through our paper and week day services, we assure you that the sentiment is not only rapidly increasing in every locality of the State for this fair local option law, but in some sections it is reaching almost the point of unanimity.

We trust that you can see your way clear to aid this fair measure by your vote and influence. There was some complaint from some of the Assemblymen in our last primary campaign, as well as before election, that they did not thoroughly understand just what the church people were asking for in this particular bill, or they would not have voted against it. May we impress this thought upon you, that there may be no misunderstanding in regard to the nature of our bill. It does not ask you to vote for or against the saloon, but simply that you grant to the people the right to decide the matter for themselves.

I am sending you our paper, "The Issue," and will forward you other literature from time to time.

We trust that you can see your way clear to aid this measure by your vote and influence. We would be glad to mail you any data that is available, or we would be pleased to meet with you for personal conference.

Yours very truly,
J. FRANK BURKE,
State Superintendent.

Superintendent Burke, in commenting on the situation said:

"The Anti-Saloon League will appear before the Legislature requesting the enactment of a fair local option law, with creditable work done the past year. The man who introduced the bill last year will be present. The most open opponent of the bill, Mr. Perkins, will not be there, having failed of a nomination. No member of the Judiciary Committee which held up the bill a year ago will be present this year. Twenty-one of the forty-five men who voted against the bill last year will fail to answer to the roll call. The people have become aroused over the State in behalf of the bill, and the work done during the primaries this last fall is nothing compared with the work we will be able to accomplish next year by the direct primaries. Our hope lies in the people, and the most effective execution can be accomplished at the direct primaries, when the delegates and party machinery are not able to protect the foe of local option.

"I am hearing from a number who were members of the Assembly last year, who are favorable this year. Some of them have been converted to the very fairness and justice of our request. Others are seeing that the power of the liquor men is a myth, and they all see the tremendous strides being made throughout the whole Union and are awakening to the fact that the people will not stand being at the rear end of the procession any longer.

"The field is clear for consideration of the local option bill. Now the people of the State have so emphatically spoken on the matter that only those who have so committed themselves to the liquor men's so-called Sunday local option idea that there is no retreat, will present themselves as a sacrifice in the Legislature for the execration of public opinion. These are so few and so out of harmony with the public sentiment in the State and the spirit of the times that they will be marged for all time to come.

"The forces for genuine local option are daily becoming better organized. From the furtherest corner of the State comes the news of the awakening. The office of the league is so equipped that within thirty-six hours the furtherest bounds of the State will be able to learn the facts in any crisis. Never has there been a brighter outlook from the standpoint of united public sentiment for the people being granted their just demand in regard to this mater than this winter."

RESPITE FOR DICKINSON.

No Move Made at Meeting of County Committee.

There was no indication of trouble at the meeting last night of the Hudson Republican County Committee. Sheriff Kaiser, chairman of the committee, and County Clerk Rotherham were on hand, but neither made any move that would have a bearing on the contest for the chairmanship of next year's committee. Colonel Dickinson was not at the meeting. It was explained by his supporters that he had an important engagement.

Secretary George M. McCarthy was also absent.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Local musical people are planning the organization of a borough choral society, and a meeting of those interested is to be held the first of the week. It is planned to hold rehearsals one evening a week for the next few months and at the end of that time, if the interest is sustained, a choral will probably be given. The material will be taken largely from the church choirs of the local churches, where much interest is being shown in the formation of the society.

At a meeting of the Farther Lights Missionary Society held this afternoon at 3 o'clock, a reorganization was effected. The society has been inactive for some time past, and threatened to die out. The meeting this afternoon was well attended and the society will begin a program of missionary activity for the winter.

Rev. George H. Gardner will preach another of his special sermons at the evening service tomorrow night. His topic will be "The Vacant Chairs in the Home," and there will be special music by the choir and soloists.

John Thornton and Claude Pennington are building an ice boat for use on New Market pond this winter. The two are preparing to do some fast sailing, for the lines of the craft are built for speed.

Building and Loan dues are payable on or before Monday night, after which time interest will be charged.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Miss Marguerite Jahn was tendered a surprise party by a number of her little friends at her home, last night, the hours being from 8 to 11 o'clock. The evening was given up to playing games and enjoying music, after which refreshments were served.

The Public Service Corporation has been having considerable trouble with the electric light circuit in town. A gang of men worked nearly all of Thursday night to try and locate the trouble.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be held at the usual hours: Morning preaching, 10:45; B. Y. P. U., 7:15 p. m.; evening sermon, 8 o'clock.

"The Great Divide," one of New York's last winter's success, will be the attraction tonight at the New Plainfield theatre.

School closes for the holiday vacation, Tuesday afternoon, the twenty-fourth, reopening Monday morning, January 6, 1908.

The Township Committee met last night in the town rooms. Only the regular routine business was transacted.

Miss Susie Parse was the guest yesterday of Mrs. J. C. Buchanan, of Duer street, Plainfield.

Miss Caroline Lent is spending Saturday and Sunday with friends at Bay Shore, L. I.

Rev. Mr. Dietrick will lead the prayer meeting tonight at the Methodist church.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS.

February 12 next, the anniversary of Lincoln's birth, is the date set for the laying of the cornerstone of the new $50,000 home of Camden Aerie of Eagles.

A fine of $7.50 was Thursday improsed by Justice of the Peace Schmitz in Camden on William Helmauer for neglecting his pigs. Halmauer operated a piggery on the Marlton turnpike.

Admirers of the late Rev. Allan H. Brown, preacher and educator, who founded schools and churches in all parts of South Jersey, have decided to erect a monument to his memory.

The Salem County School Teachers' Association has elected these officers: President, James A. Wantzell; vice president, Isaac Rissmiller; secretary, S. Frances Moore; treasurer, Jesse R. Madara.

The condition of Mrs. George Briss, who was shot in her residence at Risley, near May's Landing, is improved and she was taken to her home. Wesley Cousins, who is accused of shooting her, still eludes arrest.

Sylvanus Murphy, one of Ocean City's leading residents, has been in a serious condition at his home. He was about to board a train when, it is claimed, it started suddenly and threw him into a ditch.

Charged with having bought goods stolen by boys from the saloon of Michael Priori, in Camden, John Garrauti, a junk dealer of 255 Spruce street, was held for court by Justice of the Peace Barr Thursday.

Despondent because of failing eyesight, John Killian, a one-armed inmate of the Camden County Almshouse at Blackwood, Thursday tried suicide by cutting his throat with a butcher knife. He will probably recover.

Seized with an attack of heart failure, Mrs. Ellen Hurley, seventy-three years old, mother of William L. Hurley, president of Camden's Board of Trade, died suddenly Wednesday night at the home of her son, 708 Broadway.

Seventy-year-old John Connors, who seems to like jail life, was Thursday sentenced to three months in the county prison by Recorder Stackhouse on pleading guilty to stealing a family wash from the back yard of a South Fourth street house.

Contractors have begun work on several of the government life-saving stations in the vicinity of Toms River. Practically new stations are to be built at Cedar Creek and Forked River, at a cost of $9,000. Extensive repairs are to be made to the Toms River, Mantoloking and Shark River stations.

Herman Smith, of Hancock's Bridge, Salem county, intends to have watermelon for his Christmas dinner, having preserved a number in an unique manner. He placed them side by side on the ground and covered them with a stack of hay. Recently the stack was removed and the melons were found to be as fine as the day they were put there.

The canning plant of Benjamin Knight, on Fifth street, Salem, was destroyed by fire Thursday under circumstances which will be investigated by the authorities. It was said that a Baltimore firm of canners, which has operated the Owen Jones cannery, a short distance away, was to have purchased the buildings Thursday. Knight's loss is not given, but is said to be covered by insurance of $4,000.

The members present were State Superintendent Baxter, president; Addison Rosenkrans, Paterson; Addison B. Poland, Newark; James E. Bryan, Camden; Thos. N. M. White, Trenton; Mrs. George B. Crater, Newark, and Miss Elizabeth A. Allen, secretary, of Hoboken.

INVOKES UNWRITTEN LAW.

Grand Jury Refuses to Indict Man Who Killed "Black Hand."

The Herkimer County Grand Jury in New York, yesterday refused to indict Joseph Dove, an Italian resident of the village of Frankfort, who a few days ago shot and killed Joseph Skraw, a Blanch Hand agent.

By its action the jury has indirectly given the Black Hand gang which has so long terrorized the Italians of Herkimer county a blow which, it is alleged, will end the practise.

BREWERS WANT DIVES PUT OUT OF BUSINESS

Almost every brewery in New Jersey was represented at a secret meeting of the New Jersey Brewers' Association, in the Union Building, Newark, Thursday afternoon, when the question of ridding the brewing industry of the State of low grade saloons and otherwise raising the standard of the saloon business, as a means of stemming the wave of prohibition that they believe has begun to sweep the country, was discussed.

Ex-Judge Gottfried Krueger, president of the association, called the meeting to order, and at its termination there seemed to be a disposition on the part of those who attended to conceal whatever business had been transacted.

From a reliable source it was learned that the greater part of the time was devoted to a discussion about the various local option movements on foot throughout the country, which were beginning to be felt seriously by brewers in different parts of the country, it was admitted. While the association took no definite action in this respect, there were suggestions galore poured into the ears of those present who are members of the executive board, and consideration will be given this matter pending a meeting of the executive board subject to the call of the chair.

Before the board is called together the members will consult with similar committees of the United States Brewers' Association and the Brewers' Board of Trade of New York for the purpose of obtaining information as to how best to proceed with the putting into effect of some of the suggestions made at yesterday's meeting.

In the opinion of a majority of the brewers, it is said, the question of low grade saloons, dives and establishments that were run in what could be termed a disorderly manner was the one serious problem now confronting the brewers.

What was considered one of the best suggestions, and one which it was admitted would likely be carried out, was that the police departments of the various municipalities of the State be requested to co-operate with the brewers in a crusade upon the objectionable saloons. It was stated that one plan of action which might be followed would be a practical boycott by the association, a refusal on the part of the brewers to sell to a saloonkeeper who failed to maintain his place of business at a standard to be fixed by the brewers.

It was proposed that private detectives be engaged by the association to help in the matter of detecting vialotions of the law by saloonkeepers.

AMUSEMENTS.

That the merry English comic opera "Tom Jones," is an unqualified success at the Astor heatre is unequivocally demonstrated at every performance by the crowded and enthusiasttic houses which greet it. New York has not known in years a musical offering of so great charm as this genuine comic opera which delighted London during a long run before Henry W. Savage brought it to this country. The old English melodies in which "Tom Jones" abounds have a distinctive quality which is delightful both in point of real worth and because the music is a welcome change from the jingle of so-called musical comedy with which the public has been bombarded for so many years. Mr. Savage is presenting this musical offering with a superior company and the stage pictures with the rich and striking costumes and the many attractive groups, please the eye, while the ear is delighted by the succession of melodies. The mid-week matinee at popular prices affords a fine chance for suburbanites to attend "Tom Jones."

George M. Cohan's new musical comedy drama, "The Talk of New York," with Victor Moore in the role of "Kid" Burns, has scored the greatest success ever made by a Cohen piece in the metropolis. When an author and composer can start every man and woman in an audience whistling, humming or tapping his or her feet in time to the music, it is safe to declare that the musical piece they are witnessing is a hit. This hppens at every performance at the Knickerbocker and it is a foregone conclusion that "The Talk of New York" will make a run on Broadway that will extend far into summer weather. There are a number of characteristic Cohan songs in "The Talk of New York." Of the sixteen musical numbers which Mr. Cohan has provided, the following have made remarkable hits and will undoubtedly remain popular for a long time to come—"Put a Little Bet Down for Me," "Mr. Burns of New Rochelle," "Burning Up the Boulevard," "Busy Little Broadway," "Follow Your Uncle Dudley," and "Under Any Old Flag at All."

The Hippodrome's latest thriller and spectacle, "The Auto Race," with its gorgeous ballet of "The Four Seasons," is drawing large crowds in New York. These great spectacles exceed in every way every previous production seen at the Hippodrome, and it is the universal opinion that Messrs. Shubert and Anderson have produced the most gorgeous and most beautiful spectacle ever seen anywhere. The circus acts are introduced in a novel manner upon the lawn of Lady Gay Spanker's country home, and it is a picturesque sight to see the twelve elephants going through their tricks upon the green grass. The exhibition of Diabolo by the Phillipart Brothers is another interesting feature of the circus.

The return to the original cast to George Broadhurst's play, "The Man of the Hour," at the Savoy theatre has given a new impetus to the long run it has enjoyed. No play produced in recent years has attracted quite the attention it has from public men and civic and political organizations. Rev. John Johnson, of Minnesota, for whom Col. Henry Waterson has started a boom for the presidential nomination, saw "The Man of the Hour" last week. He has been quoted as saying: "It is one of the strongest plays I have ever seen and a play with a good moral. It cannot help but be of value. It sets before the people very forcibly some conditions which we are prone to lose sight of." The popoularity of the play is of increasing growth. The public seems to be more rapidly appreciating its uniqueness. Its strong hold is in the truth of its basic plot. Men familiar with political wiles wonder at its success but they applaud it.

"The Warrens of Virginia," the new Belasco offering at the Belasco, is written along lines that perhaps would have been resented twenty years ago when the sectional feeling was more intolerant than in the present day. It presents the war of the States through the home-life of a Confederate general and largely through Southern spectacles in a manner that could not possibly offend the most violent Northern sympathizer of today but which two decades ago would have stirred up a small conflict. Today the war is little more than a reminiscence and the changed aspect in which the event presents itself now is beautifully shown at the Belasco theatre in the loving home life of General Warren (Krank Kenan) and the dramatic love story between his daughter (Charlotte Walker) and a young Union officer who was her wooer before the war.

A genuine holiday pantomime will be produced in New York Christmas week, at Blaney's Lincoln Square theatre by Charles E. Blaney under the title "The Bad Boy and His Teddy Bears." The piece may be further described as a big extravaganza introducing ballets, large choruses, a half dozen comedians, numerous vaudeville features and a wealth of mechanical and electrical effects. The book of the extravaganza is by Charles E. Blaney, score by Ted Coleman. This production will be by far the most important and most pretentious of any of Mr. Blaney's numerous undertakings. As indicated by the title, the popular Teddy Bears will be an important feature. In the cast will be Harry Pilcer, Willie Barrows, Josie Barrows, the six dancing belles, and a dozen or more well known vaudeville players. During the engagement at Blaney's Lincoln Square theatre, bargain matinees will be given every day during Christmas and New Yeark's weeks.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Henry Miller's artistic production of "The Great Divide" comes to town with the "hall mark" of a two seasons' run in New York. This play of vital passions and unique naturalism will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight.

Golden Voiced Al. H. (Metz) Wilson, characterized as the "Ambassador of German dialect," will sing his sweet songs before a local audience at the New Plainfield theatre Monday night. Standing out bright and pleasing in his singing repertoire will be the "Fairest Flower of All," which is said to suit the sympathetic qualities of his marvelous voice better even than any of the great successes that have brought him fame. To hear "Metz" sing at all is a treat; in that song a revelation.

The tremendous demand for the musical play, "His Honor the Mayor" by managers throughout the country is evidenced by the number of applications received at the offices of Klaw & Erlanger for this attraction. The remarkable success met with by this production during its long summer run in New York has spurred the managers of other cities to request that it be presented in their city. The manager of Klaw & Erlanger's booking department is authority for the statement that there had been 1,000 written requests for "His Honor, the Mayor." Of course it will be impossible to comply with all these demands, but a very satisfactory route is being laid out for this merry musical success. It will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night.

William LaRue, of East Second street, who has been detained at home by a slight illness, has recovered.

Mrs. William Springer, of Newark, has been spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dreier, of West Front street.

Miss Bertha Brewer, of Stone street, has returned from Wilmington, Del., where she attended the funeral of a relative.

The CASTLE of LIES

BY ARTHUR HENRY VESEY

(COPYRIGHT, 1906, by D. APPLETON & COMPANY)

CHAPTER XXI.

I Am Trusted Until Midnight.

"Now, Haddon, what is the game?"

Locke had seated himself. He had selected with care a cigar from his case (which he did not offer to me), and was regarding me with the brutal amusement of one who has come across a snake sunning in the white road, and who heads off its desperate attempt to escape with a walking stick.

I was silent. I refused to be catechised like a schoolboy. Had I met Locke, his mind still unprejudiced against me, I should gladly have told him everything, even at the risk of making myself ridiculous in his eyes.

But his mind was so evidently made up regarding me, his interference had been so fatally ill-timed, that I could not bring myself to the humiliating position of one who beseeches—of one who explains, only to be doubted after all.

The episode in the porter's lodge was even now far from clear. I have already said that I knew that Helena's escape was not due to any heroism of mine.

Dr. Starva had concealed himself behind the glass partition of the porter's lodge in the landing. Unobserved, I had stood flat against the wall, watching him.

I had seen Helena coming up the stairs; I had seen Dr. Starva level his revolver at her; I had heard the crash of glass and the report of a revolver. I had supposed that Starva had fired and missed.

Now it appeared that Locke's shot had shattered the glass of the lodge, while Starva had not fired at all. But why Locke should have been in the stairway—why he should have been concealed there—was not so clear. Certainly I had no intention of humiliating myself further by asking for an explanation.

"Come; I'm waiting," he cried sharply.

"You are waiting—for what?" I demanded with an assurance I did not feel. I was playing for time. Should I, or should I not, try to make all clear to Locke? That was the question I was asking myself over and over.

"You remember I warned you. I told you you were a pawn in the clever hands of Countess Sarahoff. I prefer to think that you are her tool rather than her accomplice. But if you have been fool enough to allow yourself to be caught in the net of her intrigue, if you have made your interests at one with hers, you must expect to pay the piper as well as she."

"I see. You are Nemesis dogging me to justice?"

I had decided. No matter what happened I would keep my own counsel for the present. I was not to be bullied into a confession.

"So you admit that the law has its terrors for you," cried Locke quickly.

"And are you Justice or the Law in disguise? By heaven, you are assuming a rather high-handed manner. What the devil is your right to play the part of inquisitor?"

"What the Devil Is Your Right to Play the Part of Inquisitor?"

"Gently gently. I said nothing about my right."

"Then I might ask what is your game?"

"I make no pretense to any right. I happen to hold the cards. That's all."

"By that you mean, I suppose, that you have put two and two together and made the sum of five. Well, perhaps I say your arithmetic is at fault, and perhaps I don't choose to enter into an argument to enlighten you."

"We shall se," said Locke quietly. "Now, Haddon, don't think that I am simply amusing myself. I am only too willing to give you every benefit of the doubt. You are an American; you have been at the same university as myself; you have suffered from an unpleasant notoriety the past week or two. I went to your hotel at Lucerne and offered you my friendship—"

"And you come as a friend now? Scarcely, you will admit that."

"I offered you my friendship. I showed my sincerity by taking you more or less into my confidence. I gave you a chance to confide in me in return. I had seen you fascinated by a woman whom I knew to be a dangerous companion. When I warned you, you were clever enough to affect a disingenuous innocense."

"What shrewd observers you newspaper men are!"

"That very evening," continued Locke, frowning, "you dine with her and her accomplice—not openly in the restaurant, but in her own sitting room. Late that evening, in company of Dr. Starva, you take the boat for Vitznau. You install yourself with him in the suite of Sir Mortimer Brett. You assume his character; more than that, you don his very cloak and hat. As Sir Mortimer, then, you have access to his rooms."

"Let me compliment you on the admirable manner in which you have played the spy. You traced me, then, from the hotel to the boat, and thence to the hotel?"

"Not at all. I preferred to keep an eye on the big fish in the puddle. It was Madame de Varnier, alias the Countess Sarahoff, whom I was watching. I knew that the moth would follow the flame. When I had assured myself that our beautiful adventuress had retired to her room across the corridor from Sir Mortimer's suite, I had nothing to do but await the arrival of the poor little moth, ensconced in a comfortable chair with my cigarette. Allow me to return the compliment and congratulate you on your perfect success in masquerading as the sick Sir Mortimer. It was a delightful little bit of comedy."

Had Locke taken the boat in the company of Dr. Starva and myself he would doubtless have observed the episode of the brandy, and drawn his conclusions. His attitude toward me would then have been very different. He would have seen for himself that the comedy I enacted was for the benefit of Dr. Starva. If I ignored Locke's suspicions of me even now, if I gave to him my confidence at this late date, would he believe that? Impossible!

I raged at the network of chance that enmeshed me, but I did not attempt to extricate myself. I had lain passive too long. I was trusting blindly to fortune. More than ever I was determined to wait my own time before I made my position clear. If I carried my plans to a successful conclusion, the result would justify my actions; if I failed, I should at least have held to my purpose.

"Having seen Dr. Starva and yourself safely landed in Sir Mortimer's rooms," continued Locke, "I am free to join my acquaintance, Captain Forbes, in the garden, meanwhile keeping an inquisitive eye cocked toward the shutters of Sir Mortimer's salon. And Captain Forbes, as well as myself, has his own interests in the missing Sir Mortimer. Presently he sees the light shining through those shutters. He is overjoyed to observe that Sir Mortimer is returned, and more than overjoyed that he can at last rid himself of the burden of his dispatches. You know how he did that, even better than myself."

"And you are waiting for me to enlighten you?"

"All in good time, my dear Mr. Haddon. But I have not yet shown you all my hand. Were I to call your game now, you might think I had a couple of aces at the most. I am going to show you that I have a royal flush."

"It is hard to beat a royal flush, I admit," I said lightly.

"I await developments, then, in the garden. My vigilance is soon rewarded. Shutters are thrown stealthily back; my classmate Haddon tiptoes onto the balcony; he listens outside the shutters of the salon."

"And does it not seem to you strange that the partner of Madame de Varnier's intrigues should distrust her to the extent of spying on her movements?"

Locke pulled at his cigar thoughtfully. I awaited his answer not without interest.

"It did indeed raise the faint hope in my breast," he returned cynically, "that my friend Haddon perhaps was not so guilty as the circumstances had proved him to be. But when I remember that Captain Forbes was insisting on his right to see Sir Mortimer, I could understand that my quondam friend Haddon was anxious for his own neck. I guessed that he was listening to the futile attempts of the adventurers to deny Captain Forbes admission to the bedchamber of the psuedo Sir Mortimer."

"You have an answer for every question."

"I can put two and two together and make four," returned Locke complacently.

"But if one of those numbers is x, the unknown quantity? The addition is then not quite so simple."

"And the American tourist, Mr. Haddon, is the great unknown quantity, I suppose."

He looked at me with cool, level eyes. A big man, in body, brain and heart, Locke had both the virtues of bigness and its faults. To crush obstacles—that was his method. Finesse he despised. He went to the end in view in a direct line, ruthlessly throwing aside any obstruction, physical or moral, that hindered.

Such a man arrives invariably. He is not to be denied. But he blunders often. He arouses in some natures an instinctive antagonism—a latent obstinacy—that arrays itself against him quietly but determinedly. He makes an enemy when he might have made a friend.

For example, Locke has made up his mind that an American, a man of his own university, could not in the nature of things be a coward. Very well, he offers him his friendship in blind faith. But presently this man interferes with his plans—goes his way without consulting the newly acquired friend. When, therefore, circumstances place this acquaintance in an ugly light he is quite as ready to believe the bad as he had been ready to believe the good.

In a word, he imagined that he had done more than his duty in offering his friendship and confidence. When he made up his mind that this friendship and confidence was not returned, his friendship turned to intense dislike. There was no middle course for him. He enjoyed a fight quite as much as a love feast, perhaps better.

"To resume my narrative," drawled Locke, "you disappear within the chamber. My friend Forbes is having his little interview with you. But presently I see you again at the window, packet in hand. You lean far out; you toss the packet into the basin of an empty fountain. The shutters are closed. Your work is finished for the night. And so is mine—that is, after I have rescued from the empty fountain the packet.

"Which you promptly returned to Captain Forbes, no doubt."

"Who has a greater right to it?" returned Locke coolly.

But he had not returned it to Forbes; I was sure of that. Locke was a newspaper man trained in the school of modern journalism. He had determined on a grand coup for his paper. If the sealed dispatch promised to be of assistance to him he would break the seal.

That would not suit me at all. My task was to hush up the scandal of Sir Mortimer Brett and his mistress. Locke was determined to give it the fullest publicity. Our ends were utterly at variance. Every sentence of his recital made me see that more clearly.

I saw, too, that the object of his story was to overwhelm me with the certainty that I must make a full confession to him or suffer those consequences. My one hope was to avert those consequences until my interview with Madame de Varnier. I hoped everything from that.

For the present I need fear nothing from Forbes. Helena had given me her word that she would trust me until midnight. But the silence of Helena and Forbes was useless unless Locke also was silent. I awaited the rest of his narrative with anxious concern.

"The next morning I bestir myself early, you may be sure of that Captain Forbes' rest had been equally perturbed. Together we discover the startling fact that, early as we had aroused ourselves, our patient with his nurse and physician had been even more energetic. But my discovery is of a nature more dramatic than that of the king's messenger. He imagines that it is Sir Mortimer who has fled. I am forced to the reluctant conclusion that it is Mr. Ernest Haddon, American tourist, masquerading as the diplomatist, Sir Mortimer Brett. Is it necessary that I enter into explanations for this discovery, or shall we take the fact for granted?"

"Take it for granted by all means, since you have already taken so much for granted."

"I shall not bore you much longer. Captain Forbes and myself join forces. I needed but one argument to persuade him to do that. I knew where Madame de Varnier and her fellow conspirators were bound; Captain Forbes did not."

"And Mrs. and Miss Brett—did you reveal your suspicions to them?"

"So far," Locke looked at me significantly, "I have revealed them to no one. We arrive at Alterhoffen, then, the four of us. Captain Forbes insists on storming the chateau. With what result you know better than I. As for myself, I prefer to keep my counsel, and, first of all, to give my friend Haddon a friendly hint. I bribe one of the servants at the castle to convey a note to him requesting the honor of an interview at ten this morning. My friend Haddon denies me the honor of an interview. Then if the mountain will not come to Mohammed, Mohammed must go to the mountain.

"I am directed to the castle by the stairway that leads to the village street. I have not descended a dozen steps of the gloomy stairway when I hear some one coming up them in furious haste. Naturally, I pause; and quite as naturally I take the precaution of placing my hand on the revolver in my hip pocket, which I carry with me, remembering the fate of my acquaintance, Captain Forbes.

"To my surprise the person in this extraordinary haste conceals himself in the little glass-covered room at the angle of the stairs. I descend the steps cautiously and curiously. There are other surprises in store for me. First of all I see a second figure standing flat against the wall. As my eyes become accustomed to the darkness I am startled to discover that the man concealed in the lodge has a revolver in his hand. For the moment I think he is lying in wait for myself. But almost immediately I hear steps from below. There is a click as the trigger is cocked. I am averse to bloodshed—even the killing of a would-be murderer. I fire, not at him, but to shatter the pane of glass and divert his aim.

"Now for my last surprise. The assassin, rather tardily I must say, has been grappled with by the man who had concealed himself against the wall and was apparently awaiting developments. But the would-be assassin has succeeded in freeing himself from this very faint-hearted assailant. I pursue the assassin; he eludes capture; I return ruefully to the hotel to find—my friend Haddon receiving the warm thanks of the heroine for saving her life."

"A great deal of this is ancient history," I said, my voice trembling with shame and rage, "such of it as is not fiction. You return, then, to unmask the would-be hero. And now, what?"

"And now," said Locke in a deep voice, his face thrust close to mine, "I want to know this: Why were you hiding in that stairway? Why did you stand there passively while the man was committing the act of murder before your eyes? Why did you pretend to struggle with the assassin, pretend to struggle, I say?"

"Even a coward will fight, I suppose, when he is cornered," I said bitterly.

"Bah! don't mention that word to me again. I am sick of your hypocrisy. You don't deceive me, let me tell you. Your plea of cowardice is a convenient subterfuge. Every fact points to your being in league with these adventurers. A coward wouldn't have taken the risks you have taken. You saw the man hiding in the stairway; you saw him about to fire on a helpless girl; and you raised no hand. Am I talking plainly enough?"

I looked into Locke's eyes, glaring with rage and contempt, and I laughed aloud. It was actually a relief to have my weakness exalted to the plane of deliberate villainy.

"Laugh, my friend, but I am not to be deceived by a laugh."

"And now that I stand abased in my naked deviltry?"

"I give you five minutes to make a full and complete confession. If at the end of five minutes you still refuse, I shall have you promptly arrested for being a partner in the intrigues of the Countess Sarahoff, for masquerading as Sir Mortimer Brett, and for being an accomplice in the murder of Miss Brett."

Five minutes! The time was not long. I knew Locke would keep his word; but more than ever I was stubbornly resolved to refuse taking him into my confidence.

Could I tell him my reasons for acting as I had done? Could I tell him that I had set out on the romantic quest of saving a life for the life that had been lost? Would he believe that? At least without appealing to the woman who had set me that task? To drag in her name was impossible.

The minutes passed swiftly. So this was the end of my task! Disgrace and imprisonment! I had warned Helena that might be the case. I looked across the valley at the pinnacles of the Castle of Happiness. What a fool I have been!

"Your time is almost up," said Locke grimly, looking at the watch he had placed on his knee. "And Miss Brett is walking in the garden over there. Do you wish her to see you marched off to prison?"

On the contrary, it was she who must set me free! I would put her to the supreme test. Now if she trusted me as she had promised, I might yet escape from the awkward dilemma.

"Until Twelve To-Night," She Said.

I rose to my feet. I called to her, "Miss Brett!"

She came to us. My maneuver so completely astonished Locke that he stared at me speechless.

"Miss Brett," I said quietly, "Mr. Locke has taken upon himself the task of bringing me to justice. He finds me guilty of complicity in the intrigues of Madame de Varnier. He refuses to believe that I am acting in your behalf. I cannot blame him for his suspicions. The facts are almost wholly against me—the surface facts. I do not even deny most of them. But he has woefully misconstrued my motives in every case. I refuse absolutely to tell him what those motives are. He has threatened me with arrest unless I make to him a full and complete confession without delay. Mr. Locke, as I have said, is acting on the behalf of your mother and yourself. Personally he has no right whatever to make any complaint against me."

"Miss Brett will be the last person to shield you from punishment when she knows the truth," interrupted Locke, bewildered at my audacity in appealing to her.

"Among other things, Miss Brett," I continued eagerly, "he accuses me of being an accomplice in your attempted murder in the stairway."

The attention of renters of Safe Deposit boxes in New York is called to the fact that New York State levies a tax on the contents of the Safe Deposit box of a non-resident at his or her death, which tax may, of course, be avoided by keeping one's valuables in the same State in which one resides. It is, therefore, greatly to the advantage of a resident of New Jersey to keep personal property in a Safe Deposit box within the State.

BOROUGH SCHOOL FIVE DEFEATS ALUMNI, 41-8

In a one-sided game played at Debele Hall, last night, the North Plainfield High School basketball five won from a picked team of the school alumni by a score of 41-8. The alumni made all their points in the first half, when Woodland and Webster each caged the ball twice from the floor.

Despite the over-balanced score, the game was fast and snappy throughout; the undergraduates were supported by the cheers of a score or more of the school pupils, while the alumni had three loyal rooters and a yellow cat for a mascot. They attribute their defeat to the fact that it was Friday the thirteenth, a fact which even their feline mascot could not counteract. For the undergraduates, Captain Conroy and "Tone" Overton took the laurels in the scoring, the former scoring sixteen points from the floor and the latter fourteen. The score at the end of the first half was 22 to 8 and in the second period the undergraduates added nineteen points to their score without allowing the alumni to score. The summaries:

N. P. H. S.		ALUMNI.
Conroy (capt.)	right foward	Kenney
B. McClintock	centre	Woodland (capt.)
Steiner	left guard	Webster
F. McClintock, Herman	right guard	Burtis

Baskets from the floor: Conroy, 8; Overton, 7; B. McClintock, 3; Woodland, 2; Webster, 2; F. McClintock, Steiner. Baskets from fouls: Overton. Referee, William Day, Jr. Scorer, Ellsworth Bennett. Timer, Fred Becker. Twenty minute halves.

HOPE Y.M.A. FIVE LOSES TO MARATHON A.C. 57-34

The Hope chapel basketball five were defeated 57-34 in a game with the Marathon A. C. team played at the Westfield Club, last night. It was the first game of the season for the local players, who kept the score sea-sawing during the first half, which ended 30-29 in favor of the Marathons. The home team worked well together in the second half, increasing their lead to twenty-three points before time was called.

The Hope five was especially hampered by the slippery floor, for the game was played in the main dance hall of the building. At the conclusion of the game, the players held a dance until a late hour. A return game has been scheduled for December 31, when the teams will meet in this city. The summaries:

Marathon A. C.		Hope Y. M. A.
Sprague (capt.)	left forward	Hunter
Trymillion	right forward	Snyder (capt.)
Smith	centre	Mortimer
Martel		Rimmer

Referee, W. McElroy. Scorer, Alpears. 20 and 15 minute halves.

WELLINGTON TEAM GOES TO THE BOTTOM

One of the most exciting series yet played in the five-man bowling tourney took place last night when John Campbell's Garibaldis clashed with Frank Blatz's Wellingtons. It was a struggle to get away from last place and Campbell's men won out, getting two of the three games, the last and deciding one by a solitary pin. The excitement was at fever heat until the last ball was rolled and some tall cheering broke out when the result was made known.

A peculiar feature about the series was that it brought out the highest and the lowest scores of the tourney. Orrie Dodge got the top-notcher, a 248, while Walter Crowley was the hard luck individual who stands at the bottom of the list. He has an erratic hook ball that makes a half moon on the alley and leaves the pins in the wierdest kind of shapes. He pulled out with an even hundred. Captain Blatz hit the timber in the second game for 234 and John McLaughlin got 201. These were the only double entry marks in the series.

The scores:

WELLINGTON.

Blatz	168	234	178
Pope	184	170	178
Montross	134	157	144
Firstbrook	109	109	109
Gilmore	169	176	191
Totals	764	846	800

GARIBALDI.

Campbell	159	181	133
Crowley	169	100	110
McLaughlin	165	201	175
Cutting	135	135	135
Dodge	189	154	248
Totals	817	771	801

BASEBALL SEASON PLANS

Inter-City Amateur League to Discuss Arrangements Next Saturday Night.

SOMERVILLE MAY JOIN IN.

Six Strong Clubs Will Comprise the Organization—Clinton Avenue Players Already Signed —Prospects Bright.

The Inter-City Amateur Baseball League will hold a meeting on Saturday night, December 21, when the initiative will be taken in the discussion of plans for next season. There will be some changes in the makeup of the organization, it being the purpose to invite clubs from several nearby places to place teams in the league. Local fans will welcome the possibility that the West Ends of Somerville may join. The fact that the Somervillians were not included last year was a source of regret to many and efforts will be made this year to increase the rivalry by asking them to become members of the league.

Rahway, Scotch Plains, Westfield, New Brunswick and Roselle will also be asked to unite forces with the league. These teams together with the Clinton Avenues, present champions and the Y. M. C. A. should comprise a strong organization. The idea is to have six well-balanced clubs. This would make it possible to compile an attractive schedule of games, and the same time give the the two local teams an opportunity to occasionally play some club outside the league. The Clinton Avenue Club has secured the lease on Crescent Oval for another season and it is expected that the grounds will be used jointly by that club and the Y. M. C. A. aggregation as before.

Thus far the Clinton Avenue Club is the only one in this vicinity which has announced its list of players for 1908. It is exactly the same as last year, every member signing for another season. This is an advantage to the club for the members have been playing together several seasons and will no doubt show an improvement over last year. Manager Ernest Dorflinger will continue in that position and Brit. Martin will be retained as captain. The fact that Clifford Randolph will again be the chief twirler will be hailed with enthusiasm by the fans. He was undoubtedly the best in the league last year and his work during 1908 should be even better than before.

It is impossible at present to get a line on the other teams, but it is safe to say that those who join the league will be well equipped. This will undoubtedly be true of Somerville for that aggregation will be anxious to make a strong showing the first year. All things considered the fans should be given a first-class article of amateur baseball next season and the officials of the league will do all in their power to furnish high-class sport.

Hold-up Story Was a Hoax.

New Brunswick, Dec. 14.—The police were busy yesterday investigating a story of a thirteen-year-old boy, who told Dr. Long that he had been held up by a man who had poured acid into his mouth and robbed him of $1.15. He stuck to his story through several cross-examinations, but finally admitted that he had lost the $1.15, which had been given him to pay a bill, but was afraid to tell his parents. He had got the bottle of acid from the school laboratory. He had not taken any of it and his face showed no signs of having been burned with acid. This led the police to doubt the story from the beginning, but they had hard work making the boy confess it was a hoax. He was advised to go home and ask his parents to forgive him for losing the money, and this he did.

Aged Peddler Dies Suddenly.

Death came to Thomas Mellin, an aged, itinerant peddler, yesterday afternoon, as he sat on the porch of the home of Mrs. James Bageley, in South street, New Providence. The man, who had been a familiar character throughout Union county for over twenty years, appeared at the Bageley home and asked for something to eat. He died while eating the sandwich which had been given to him. The body was taken to Brewster's undertaking establishment in Springfield avenue, where it is now awaiting a claimant. Twenty cents, a partly torn envelope on which was written the name Sanford, Second street, and postmarked Plainfield, was all that was found in the man's pockets.

Officials to Attend Banquet.

Governor E. C. Stokes, Governor-elect J. Franklin Fort, United States Senators John Kean and Frank O. Briggs and Congressman Ira W. Wood, are among the prominent speakers to be heard at the annual banquet of the Newark Board of Trade on January 18. Postmaster-General George von Meyer will be one of the principal speakers and the list of invited guests include Governors, Congressmen and Senators, railroad officials and prominent men in many ranks of life.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Shirley, formerly of this city, but now of Westfield, are the parents of an eleven pound son, born to them yesterday.

NEW CONGRESSMEN FROM NEW JERSEY

In the first edition of the Congressional Directory, the book in which the autobiographies of the Congressmen, as furnished by themselves, are printed, which has just come from the printer, may be found those of the new Congressmen from New Jersey. That of Representative Hughes, who was in the Fifty-eighth Congress, is brief, only a few lines reciting his political history.

The biography of Representative Le Gage Pratt, of East Orange, states that he was born at Sterling, Mass., December 14, 1853, and is vice-president of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company of Newark. He was educated in the schools of his native State, whereupon in 1869, he entered actively upon a commercial career, first in Boston and afterward in Chicago. In 1884, he joined the ranks of Journalism and continued therein until 1886, when he became interested in life insurance, and as a special agent, did effective service for several years in Texas, and later in Illinois. In 1895 he received the appointment of State agent for the Life Insurance Clearing Company of St. Paul, and in the following year he was called to the home office and appointed general superintendent of agencies. In the meantime he had established a well-earned reputation for himself as an agency manager, and as a result, in August, 1897, he was offered and accepted the position of superintendent of agencies for the Mutual Benefit. Mr. Pratt married in San Antonio, Texas, a lady connected with many leading families in the Southland, and known to every member of the southern society of the Oranges.

Eugene Walter Leake, who succeeds Marshall Van Winkle, has a short biography. It states that he was born July 13, 1877; educated at Andover and New York Law School, receiving the degree of LL. B., from the University of the State of New York in 1896; is a member of the law firm of Hartshorne, Insley & Leake, general counsel for the Provident Institution for Savings, the New York and Texas Steamboat Company, and Hudson County Board of Health. It adds that he married Marion B. Page, of Paterson.

James A. Hamill, who takes the place of Allan L. McDermott, sets forth that he was born in Jersey City, March 30, 1877; that he received his education at St. Peter's College, Jersey City, from which institution he was graduated in 1897; receiving the degree of B. A., and in the subsequent year that of M. A.; that he completed the regular course of lectures in the New York Law School, and, in 1899, obtained the degree of B. L.; that he was admitted to the bar in New Jersey in June, 1900; was elected in 1902 a member of the New Jersey House of Assembly, where he served four consecutive one-year terms, during the last two years of which he was the leader in that body of the Democratic minority.

FAVOR ANNEXATION OF EL MORA TO ELIZABETH

Heartiest endorsement of the plan to annex El Mora to Elizabeth has been given Elizabeth by the members of the Board of Trade, who appointed a committee to confer with committees of City Council and of Union Township in order to bring about the much desired consolidation.

The discussion at the Elizabeth Board of Trade meeting grew out of the late protestations of the citizens of El Mora against so called unjust taxation, and the expression of a desire to separate from Union Township, the burden of whose taxes, they claim, falls largely upon their shoulders. The committee appointed to investigate and urge the annexation of El Mora was the following: President C. H. K. Halsey, Charles A. Trimble, H. A. Clare, W. F. Groves, E. D. Mulford and Henry I. Ishem.

The recent action of the citizens of El Mora in desiring a change in government, is due largely to somewhat sensational claims made by them as to alleged unfair taxation, whereby it is shown that the portions of Union Township lying toward Newark, have increased in valuation only 4 per cent., while El Mora property has gone up on an average of 30 per cent. in assessed valuation.

FORCASTING DECISION ON THE PERKINS LAW

It seems to be the general opinion that Court of Errors and Appeals, in the opinion to be rendered by them on the validity of the Perkins tax act, will uphold the law so far as it effects the State in revenue. The litigation has been pending for many months and the railroads seek to escape the taxes of $3,000,000 imposed by the Legislature.

It is expected that the court will hold that the Perkins act is faulty so far as it provides for assessing main stem property by the State Board of Taxation, and the second-class railroad property by local boards of assessors. This construction will not allow the railroads to escape paying the amounts that have been assessed against them. The court will hold a conference next week on the cases.

The project of forming a new county from Union and Somerset counties, is again being discussed, with Plainfield for the county seat. The other sections named for the new county are, Scotch Plains and Fanwood, of Union county, and North Plainfield and Watchung, of Somerset county. There is not much likelihood of such a proposition being carried out, as the Republican Legislature would not enact a law to take from Union county such a slice containing so many voters of that party.—Rahway Democrat.

ACKERMAN BILL READY

Civil Service Reform Measure to be Introduced in Senate Next Month.

REFERENDUM CLAUSE IS IN IT.

Superior to Colby and Other Drafts —Mr. Sumerwell Reviews Association's Work in This State.

The efforts of the New Jersey Civil Service Reform Association, which has been working for the enactment of a law that will eliminate the spoils system in the public service in the State, seem destined to be successful at the coming session of the Legislature. At the recent Republican State convention the parthy went on record as favoring a comprehensive Civil Service measure. While the campaign for Governor was on, E. K. Sumerwell, chairman of the legislature committee of the association, sent letters to the Republican and Democratic candidates, asking for their views on this subject for publication. Mr. Fort, with his characteristic frankness, replied that any law making merit and fitness the qualifications for appointment and prpomotion in the public service would be in harmony with his ideas of government. The Democratic candidate did not reply.

A bill covering a thorough Civil Service reform is now in course of preparation, and will be introduced in the Legislature by Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of Plainfield. The new measure will resemble the bill Senator Colby introduced in the last Legislature in many respects, differing only in its application. The Colby measure made its provisions mandatory on all State, county and municipal employes, but the Ackerman bill, while bringing the State employes under its provisions, will contain a referendum clause for counties and municipalities. Men familiar with the subject think the Colby measure superior in this respect, but those who are working for the new measure point out that what is wanted is the application of the principle to the State departments, and that so pleased will the citizens of the State be with the results that civic pride will compel its adoption by the counties and municipalities.

A brief account of what has been done by the New Jersey Civil Service Reform Association for the passage of a comprehensive Civil Service law is told in a report which Mr. Sumerwell has sent to the National Civil Service Reform League, which says, in part:

"The first year our bill was held in committee, but a Senate committee was appointed to consider the subject. A hearing was accorded us, and a large deputation of our members attended. After full discussion it was decided that the bill, with a few changes, should be introduced. This was done, and through the entire session of the Legislature we watched every step and used every means at command to secure the passage of the bill, which thus became one of the most prominent legislative issues.

"The Legislature was divided politically. The State has been Republican for the last twelve years, but at the election of 1906 the Democrats gained control of the House of Assembly. This led each side to seek favor for itself through the advocacy of popular measures, without actually enacting laws opposed by the political leaders of either side. The result was that out of a large number of laudable measures only a few were finally passed, the Civil Service bills going with the hopeless majority.

"Upon the reconvening of the Legislature a new bill was introduced and passed in the Senate. Again the Assembly defeated it, after changing it to provide for an elective instead of an appointive commission and postponing the date when the law should take effect.

"We can state with the utmost confidence that the feeling among our people at large is very strongly in favor of the law. No one openly opposes it, while civic bodies all over the State have urged its adoption, and many of our best citizens have personally visited the capital to plead for its enactment."

Mr. Sumerwell said that Elliot H. Goodwin, secretary of the National Civil Service Reform League, had been an indefatigable worker for the success of a Civil Service measure in New Jersey, and that it was mainly through his efforts that the Colby bill was drawn.

House Slate Practically Fixed.

The election of Professor John D. Prince, of Passaic, as Speaker of the Assembly, and William J. Martin, of Essex, as Republican leader, is now taken for granted by politicians generally. Interest contnues, however, in the contest for clerk of the House between James Parker, of Passaic,

STATE BLDG. HOSTESS RETURNS FROM THE FAIR

Miss Jessie Little, of Sandford avenue, has returned home after spending many months as hostess of the New Jersey Building of the Jamestown Exposition. Although the exposition closed on November 30, the New Jersey building is still open, being in charge of a care-taker. The structure is considered one of the most attractive on the grounds. During the progress of the fair 5,744 New Jersey people visited and registered there. This does not include thousands of people from other States who called there to meet friends and relatives.

As hostess Miss Little was highly complimented for the cordiality extended to everyone who called at the State building. Everyone was given a hearty welcome and it was the general opinion that she was the most popular hostess at the exposition.

When questioned as to how the exposition compared with others that she had attended, Miss Little said that it was most favorable and her explanation as to why it was not more liberally patronized, was that the officials did not advertise it enough. She spoke in the highest praise of the hospitality of the Southern people, adding that they could not do enough to entertain visitors from all parts of the world. In her opinion the exposition was an exceptionally fine one.

FUNERAL SERVICE OF REV. DR. W. T. GRIFFIN

With a large gathering of relatives and friends in attendance, the funeral of Rev. Walter T. Griffin, former consul to Limoges, France, was held this morning at his late home on East Seventh street. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, of New Brunswick, and was extremely simple.

Beside reading scripture passages, Dr. Johnson spoke in a tender way of his meeting with the deceased and ow the impression Mr. Griffin made upon him at the time. It was just a year ago, he said, and it was his good fortune to hear him make a prayer, a prayer that came from the heart and stamped him as a Godly man endowed with the beautiful Christian spirit. From that time on he had looked upon Mr. Griffin as one who had been consecrated and reflected it upon others.

To the family of the deceased Mr. Johnson expressed words of sympathy and offered solace in his reference to the departed one's nobleness of character and the fact that he was ready to go when called.

Following the service the body was sent to Montrose, N. Y., where burial will be made this afternoon.

Second Chamber Music Concert.

The second in the series of four Chamber Music Concerts to be given at the Casino by Joseph McIntyre, of this city, will be on Thursday night, December 19. Vladimir Dubinsky, the famous 'cellis, will be the soloist, and the assisting artist will be Carl Dufft, the well-known baritone, who has many admiring friends in this city where he has appeared before. Like the first concert the program will be a choice one and will include numbers from well-known composers. Mr. McIntyre will be at the piano and this will insure a delightful evening of music.

Drunken Son Makes Trouble.

William H. McCrady, Jr., who lives on Race street, got "soaked" outside and inside before going home late last night. It was the internal soaking with red liquor that made the trouble, for he proceeded to make trouble in the home. His father complained to Chief Marshal George Weiss of the borough force today and the lad was taken to a borough court cell, where he will await a hearing before Borough Recorder Dolliver. His father will appear against him.

Announce Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitehead Cornell Duyckinck, of Crescent avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Harriet Duyckinck, to Henry Rogers Conger, of Morristown. The Duyckincks formerly resided in Brooklyn, where they were prominent in social circles.

Tea For Debutantes.

Mrs. Randolph Rodman, of South Orange, gave a tea and reception on Saturday to introduce her daughters, Misses Nannie and Louise Rodman. The Misses Rodman are granddaughters of Rev. E. M. Rodman, of East Seventh street.

Wedded at Mendham.

James McGowan, of Morristown, and Miss Temperance Hains, of this city, formerly of Brookside, were married by Rev. J. H. Johnston at Mendham last week.

ACCEPTS A LOCAL CALL

Prof. Shaw Consents to Succeed His Brother at Seventh-day Baptist Church.

WILL BEGIN WORK ON JULY 1.

Rev. Dr. George B. Shaw Will Leave For North Loup, Neb., Next Week If His Health Permits.

Professor Edwin Shaw, of Milton College, Milton, Wisconsin, to whom the Seventh-Day Baptist church, and this city, extended a call to become its pastor, succeeding his brother, Rev. George B. Shaw, as stated exclusively in The Daily Press at the time, has accepted the invitation and will assume the pastorate on July 1 next. Announcement of the acceptance of the call was made at the services in the church on Saturday and it was received with much gratification and pleasure. The present pastor, if he recovers sufficiently from his illness, will leave for North Loup, Neb., next week, where he will become pastor of the denominational church at that place.

Prof. Shaw is a graduate of Milton College and for a number of years has been teacher of chemistry there. He is considered a very able instructor. Some time ago he was ordained as a minister and has on several occasions occupied the pulpit of denominational churches. He is said to be a powerful and impressive speaker and to also possess exceptional qualities which will aid him in pastoral work. It was on account of his desire to complete the present college year at Milton that his desire to fix July 1 as the time when he would begin his pastorate here, if that would prove acceptable to the church. Following the departure of the present pastor and the coming of Prof. Shaw, the pulpit of the church will be occupied by other ministers of the denomination, and it is quite likely that Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis and Rev. Dr. Gardner, editor of the Sabbath Recorder, will assist in this work.

MOTHER MAKES LONG SEARCH FOR HER SON

The Newark police learned yesterday that Charles H. Ritchie, the 14-year-old son of Mrs. Margaret Ritchie of that city, had been missing since the day before Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Ritchie, who is a widow, was ill on that day. The boy told his sister that he would take his air rifle and try to shoot some rabbits for Thanksgiving dinner.

Mrs. Ritchie recovered from her illness the day after Thanksgiving and learned that the boy had not been home for two nights. She traced him to Pine Brook, where he had spent the night before Thanksgiving with a farmer. Since then there has been no trace of him, although his mother and sister have continued their search over many miles of country roads in hope of discovering him in some farm house.

It is feared that the boy, who is strong and a willing worker, has been forcibly detained at some New Jersey farm. Labor is scarce and many youths no older than Ritchie have obtained work during the winter months.

Sunday at Y. W. C. A.

Some twenty-five young women, who were not afraid of the weather, gathered in the sitting-room of the Young Women's Christian Association yesterday afternoon to sing with the Glee Club as well as to hear the Glee Club render its Christmas carols. Miss Margaret Leal was accompanist. The informality of the hour made everyone present feel at home, and all joined in the rendition of hymns, old and new.

Has It In for East End Dogs.

Dog owners along Richmond street are incensed over the treatment of their pets by some neighbor who is making an effort to kill them. The animals are being fed meat, in which ground glass is mixed and two canines were taken to a local veterinary this morning for treatment. There seems to be no cause for the killing of the animals and the owners have no clue as to who is doing the work.

Miss Marjorie Fleming to Wed.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fleming, of Park avenue, have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Marjorie Fleming, and Frederick Lindsey Curtis, of Newark, Delaware. The ceremony will take place at Grace church Saturday afternoon, January 4, at 4 o'clock.

Valuable Horse Dies.

William B. Wadsworth, of West Eighth street, lost a valuable Kentucky horse Saturday by the colic. The animal was valued at $1,000.

TROLLEY CAR RIDING HAS STUNNING EFFECT

Evidently heavily charged through water gathering about the motors, the gate of a Somerset street trolley car dealt electric shocks to a half dozen or more passengers during the trip toward the mountains Saturday afternoon.

The fact that the metal work was "alive" did not become known to the conductor until a colored man touched it. He was hurled backward down the steps and landed on a section of brick pavement with an accompaniment of stars playing before his eyes. The fare collector at first thought his passenger was an ordinary rummy and was going to jerk the bell cord when he happened to hit the gate himself. He went through the open door of the car as though he had been sent for and might have struck the forward end but for falling over a few pairs of feet.

By that time he realized something was wrong and so did a crowd that had gathered at the corner. Before the conductor could give any warning, however, two more men had gotten the loose current and were doing gymnastic stunts for the benefit of the onlookers. It might have been a continuous performance but for the willingness of another passenger to stand before the danger spot and shoo everybody away. The volunteer's funny bone got the better of him later on and as the car proceeded up the street he allowed three more men to get a full dose. It was fun for him but the victims said some scandalous cuss words and vowed the Public Service would feel a draught in its finances later on.

The electricity remained in the gate during the return run and the car had to be turned into the barns for an overhauling.

CHARLES REMSON HURT; STRUCK BY AN AWNING.

Charles Remson, the messenger for Mulford Estil, of Park avenue, escaped fatal injuries Saturday, while leaving the business place of the Tower Manufacturing Company at Broadway and Duane street, New York. The strong wind tore away the awning which struck him on the head, knocking him unconscious. Employes of the concern carried him into the store where a physician was summoned. An examination disclosed a severe cut on the head, which received medical attention.

When Mr. Remson regained consciousness, he was too weak to continue his journey and another person was engaged to make his rounds. Mr. Remson recovered sufficiently to return home on his usual train at 4:30. He has been detained to his home in the borough since, but his injuries will not prove serious. He expects to resume his daily trips again in a few days.

Lad's Finger Amputated.

Threatened with blood poisoning because of improper care of a cut finger, Charles Drake, the sixteen-year-old son of William H. Drake, of Richmond street, had the ring finger of his right hand amputated Saturday. The lad, who works in a butcher shop, cut his finger several weeks ago, and the cut, which at first appeared insignificant, caused him such trouble lately that Dr. Endicott was summoned. He saw the danger from blood poisoning and the operation was performed by him at Drake's home Saturday. The lad is in no danger.

To Speak at Christmas Exercises.

Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, will make the Christmas address at the exercises of the high school and grammar departments of the North Plainfield High School Friday morning. The exercises will include the singing of Christmas carols under the supervision of Herbert Llyod, musical instructor of the school, and will be held in the assembly hall at 11 o'clock. Exercises of the primary and kindergarten grades will be held the same day at 11:45, and the program will include recitations and singing.

First of Informal Dances.

The first of the series of informal dances was held at the Park Club Saturday night under the auspices of the entertainment committee, of which Harry L. McGee is the chairman. It was largely attended, more than 100 members of Plainfield and North Plainfield society being present. The committee has arranged to hold these dances every two weeks until Lent and after that period they will be resumed and continued until the close of the social season.

Somerville Wedding.

Invitations have been sent out for the wedding of Miss Gertrude May Anderson, daughter of County Clerk and Mrs. A. G. Anderson, of Somerville, to take place at St. John's church, on Thursday evening, January 2, at half-past six o'clock.

T. A. GERE PASSES AWAY

Veteran Newspaperman Dies from Complication at Scotch Plains Home.

WAS WALT WHITMAN'S FRIEND.

Had Been Connected With the New York Commercial, The World and The Tribune—A Poet, Too.

Thomas Allen Gere, for years an authority on the commerce of the Port of New York, died on Saturday at his home, in Scotch Plains. He had been a commercial reporter for The New York Tribune for many years, and was known on the exchanges and to commission merchants and railroad men for his accurate knowledge of the growth of the commerce of the port of New York.

Mr. Gere was born in New York on August 17, 1834. As a young man he worked on the docks in Brooklyn beside the late Hugh McLaughlin, who afterward became Democratic boss of Brooklyn. Walt Whitman, in his rambles along the waterfront, made the acquaintance of the young man. Mr. Gere often said that the advice and companionship of the poet taught him more than anything else in his life. He himself was the author of a number of poems, the best known being "The Stage Driver's Story." His memory was as good for poetry as for statistics, and he could quote Shakespeare by act and scene. He began his newspaper work in 1856 and was connected with "The Commercial" and "The World" before going to "The Tribune."

He leaves three sons, Arthur E., William D. and Harry G. Gere, and four daughters, all of whom are married.

Funeral services will be held at his late residence tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

SUPT. KREBS SUGGESTS SCHOOL CONTROL PLANS

County Supervisor of Schools Henry C. Krebs, of the borough high school, presented a series of rules and regulations for the boards of education of small schools at the session of the Somerset County School Board Association held at the Somerville Court House Saturday morning. The storm kept many from attending the convention and there were only about thirty members of the board present. S. St. John McCutchen, of the borough, who was to address the convention at the morning session, was prevented from attending by the bad weather.

Mr. Krebs' report, presenting a practical working plan for the control of schools in small towns, where there has heretofore been no definite organization. The scheme practically amounts to a set of by-laws, contract forms for teachers in the rural districts throughout the county. Mr. Krebs' plan, as presented in the report, was endorsed by the board members present and will be adopted in the various country districts, after certain local changes have been made to suit the conditions of each school.

Because of Mr. McCutchen's forced absence, there was no address at the morning session of the convention. In the afternoon, however, Senator Joseph H. Frelinghuysen gave an address on "Legislation for Schools," outlining bills passed and proposed for the betterment of educational conditions in the State. There was also an address by Rev. E. A. Woods, pastor of the Baptist church, of Somerville. His topic was "Schools of the Past and Present."

Missionary Meeting.

The Women's Home Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will meet in the lecture room of the church tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. George Brown will conduct the devotional exercises, the subject being, "In Self-Denial," and Miss Margaret McCutchen will speak on the topic, "The English."

Reception to Relatives.

Jacob Blimm, proprietor of the Farmers' Hotel, entertained a score of his relatives at dinner at his home on Somerset street yesterday. There were about twenty present, including several grandchildren. The out of town guests came from Newark and New York city.

SEEK TO RE-OPEN THE ALUMINUM FACTORY

Chancellor William J. Magie, of Elizabeth, has issued an order directing that the Aluminum Press Company of Dunellen, its creditors and stockholders show cause in Chancery chambers in Newark, Wednesday next, why David M. Runyon, Philip W. Hall and Dudley Field Malone, permanent ancilliary receivers of the company, should not be granted authority and be directed to reopen the factory at Dunellen, in order to finish the work now in process of construction at the Dunellen plant, and to make such contracts for the sale or delivery thereof, as may be necessary.

The receivers seek to be further directed to complete certain other machines in the plant for the purpose of putting them on the market for sale, at such terms as the receivers deem would be for the best interests of the creditors as stockholders, and the company is asked to show cause why the said receivers should not be allowed to borrow $10,000 for this purpose.

A copy of this order of the chancellor has been served through the mail by his direction during the past three days, on all the stockholders and known creditors of the Aluminum Press Company, while a personal service of the writ has been made upon its officers, president, secretary, treasurer and cashier.

MRS. SARAH A. LAING GOES TO HER REWARD

Mrs. Sarah Ann Laing, widow of Jacob Greenleaf Laing and one of Plainfield's oldest residents, died this morning at Dr. Cooley's sanitarium on Westervelt avenue. She had been failing for the past six weeks because of the weaknesses of old age though previously she had been enjoying comparatively good health.

Mrs. Laing was born in Plainfield on November 25, 1829, in the house on East Front street, just across from the First Presbyterian church. Her parents were Nathan and Eunice Laing, the former being a native of Hunterdon county, while the latter lived in Plainfield. They were among Plainfield's pioneer families.

Mrs. Laing was married when she was seventeen years old to Jacob Laing, who was a farmer with land extending along Watchung avenue as far back as Truell hall's location, part of it being known in later years as the Meeker farm. The Ginna residence now occupies the site of the old homestead. There were seven children in the family of whom four are now living—Mrs. David A. Zeagler, of Denver; Mrs. Joseph Knapp and Mrs. George M. Fletcher, of New York, and Eugene M. Laing, of this city. She also leaves a brother-in-law and sister-in-law, Lewis C. J. Randolph and Mrs. Mary C. Laing, of Second and Liberty streets. Mrs. Laing's hsband died twenty-three years ago.

In her early life Mrs. Laing was a member of the Baptist church but afterward became identified with the Friends and was regular in her attendance at the Watchung avenue meeting house for many years. The funeral will be held in the meeting house Wednesday afternoon at 2:30.

Democratic Conference Postponed.

The storm prevented so many of the prominent Democrats of New Jersey from attending the conference in Jersey City Saturday that Robert S. Hudspeth, the State chairman, postponed the meeting until the second Saturday in January. This conference had been arranged by the Auxiliary Democratic State Committee, which has now become a permanent organization, and invitations to attend have been sent to more than a hundred and fifty Democrats throughout the State. It was expected that Chairman Hudspeth would outline his plans for next year and that some discussion on the Democratic candidate for President would take place.

Two Ways of Getting Wet.

Joseph Donnelly, an East End resident, dodged into a saloon Saturday to keep from getting wet outside. He lingered before the polished mirrors and mahogany bar so long he was wet inside when he came out and attracted Patrolman's Kelly's attention by trying to dodge between the rain drops. He was locked up on a charge of drunkenness and this morning escaped with a suspension of sentence.

Fair Postponed to Tomorrow.

On account of the severe storm on Saturday the fair announced to be held for the benefit of the Children's Home by the Misses Arnold, of 817 Third place, was postponed to tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock. Thus far $55 has been realized from the sale of tickets and a few other things offered by the young women.

BENZINE CAUSES BAD FIRE

Ignition of Fumes Wrecks Charles Rogoff's Tailoring Shop on W. Second St.

LOSS IS ESTIMATED AT $3,000.

Proprietor Escapes Injury By Quick Exit to the Street—Sleeping Boarder Left Behind In Scramble.

An explosion of benzine in the tailoring shop of Charles Regoff on West Second street, adjoining the New Plainfield theatre, at noon today, wrecked the interior and caused a loss of close to $3,000. A quick get-away was all that saved the proprietor from getting burned and he fled to the street without stopping to pick up a thing. A large number of overcoats and suits awaiting to be cleaned were destroyed and Rogoff places his loss at $2,000, partly covered by insurance. Chief Doane's estimate of the damage to the building is $800. It is owned by Mrs. Lena Hoerster, of the borough.

Rogoff was in the place at about 12:15 when Fred Ivamy dropped in with an overcoat he wanted cleaned up. The tailor went to work at it immediately and had been busy for about five minutes when the benzine he was using caught fire from a gas stove nearby. A sheet of flame spread about one corner and Rogoff jumped for the door to call for help. As he pulled it open the window glass in front of the building was forced out and a sheet of flame spread all the way across the sidewalk. It was followed by volumes of thick, black smoke and inside of a moment it seemed as if the entire building was ablaze.

Fireman Oliver Freeman was passing at the time and turned in an alarm from box 13. When the department arrived, it was impossible to get inside the place and streams of water were turned into Rogoff's store from the street. The blaze was quickly killed and in half an hour the last spark was extinguished.

Mrs. Amelia Smith occupies the second and third floors of the building, conducting a boarding establishment. Her tenants who were at home fled to the street with the exception of William Clarkson, a driver, who was asleep in a rear room on the third floor. When the fact was discovered, Joseph Stevens forced his way up the stairs and discovered him stumbling about in the blinding smoke. He was assisted to the sidewalk and quickly recovered.

Fair Association Title Changed.

The title to the fair association organized at Long Branch last September has been changed from the Monmouth County Fair Association to the Long Branch Fair Association. The Monmouth County Agricultural Association, with headquarters at Red Bank, secured an injunction against the Long Branch association, necessitating the change in name.

Mrs. Genot's Funeral.

NORTH BRANCH.

While Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hight, of North Branch, were driving the other day from their home to that of Mrs. Hight's daughter, Mrs. Peter Van Camp, near Whitehouse Station, their horse was frightened by an engine at the crossing of the New Jersey Central Railroad, at the county line, and ran away. While Mr. Hight stopped the horse without any damage being done, his wife suffered a nervous shock from which she has not recovered. She was taken to the home of D. H. Miller and Dr. Clark was summoned. She has been removed to her home since.

A number of residents of this place went to East Millstone last week to attend the funeral of Mrs. Eleanor Vreeland, who was many years ago a resident of this section. She died from a complication of diseases.

The Women's Missionary Society connected with the Reformed church at South Branch will hold its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. John Hoagland next Thursday afternoon.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Reformed church at Neshanic will hold its annual oyster supper, for the benefit of the church in Holcombe's Hall Wednesday evening.

Rev. Theodore Beekman, of Red Bank, has been spending a short vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abram Beekman, at South Branch.

The Literary Circle of North Branch was entertained on Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. A. V. N. Van Derveer.

Miss Ida De Mott, of Somerville, has been visiting relatives at Pluckemin for a few days.

David Scott, of North Branch, has returned home from a visit with friends at Neshanic.

BOUND BROOK AND VICINITY.

The corner-stone of the Methodist Episcopal church of Bound Brook, was laid in the new foundation yesterday afternoon. Services, conducted by Rev. Thomas La Monte, of Bound Brook, were held in the Congregational church at 3 o'clock. The corner-stone was laid about 4 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Smith are entertaining Mrs. Smith's sister, Mrs. Alice Van Pelt, of Atlantic Highlands, at their home at East Second street and Mountain avenue, Bound Brook.

Mrs. William Eichman, of High street, South Bound Brook, has gone to Trenton, where she will spend several days with her daughter, Mrs. Edward Foster.

Miss Dorothy Bach, who had been spending some time with friends at Roanoke, Va., has returned to her home in Mountain avenue, Bound Brook.

Mrs. Mary Pilkington and son, Harold Pilkington, of Clinton street, South Bound Brook, are visiting relatives in New York.

Mrs. Frederick A. Smith, who had been visiting relatives in Somerville, has returned to her home in South Bound Brook.

Rev. and Mrs. P. C. Bascom, of Bound Brook, have been visiting friends at Flemington for several days.

Miss Angie Kuhl, of Bound Brook, has gone to Brazil, where she has taken a pisition as musical instructor.

Mrs. Peter S. Clark, of East Second street, Bound Brook, has been visiting friends in Somerville.

Miss Grace Babcock, of New Bound Brook, has been visiting friends in Newark for several days.

Mrs. Theodore F. Sebring, of South Bound Brook, is visiting friends in Brooklyn.

Mrs. J. H. Hendrick, of Bound Brook, is visiting friends at Albany, N. Y.

BASKING RIDGE.

Rev. W. I. Dice, pastor of the Methodist church, preached yesterday morning on the subject "The Faithful Friend," and in the evening on "The Snare of the Fowler."

The Presbyterian Sunday-school will hold its annual Christmas exercises in the church on Christmas eve.

Mrs. E. J. Stewart, of Chatham, is visiting at the home of William Allen, on the Bernardsville road.

Mrs. Abbie Tappen was called to Newark last week by the illness of her sister.

Mrs. S. Teeple, of Stirling, is a guest of her daughter, Mrs. George H. Dobbs.

RARITAN.

The Sunday-school of the Third Reformed church will hold its Christmas entertainment on Tuesday night, December 24. The Sunday morning before the holiday the pastor, Rev. Dr. William H. De Hart, will preach a Christmas sermon and the choir will render special music.

Mrs. Augustus Tillman has returned to her home in Raritan, after spending a month with her son, Peter Tillman, at Rahway.

Miss Carrie Eagen has returned to her home in Raritan, after visiting her sister, Mrs. James Ireland, at Elizabeth.

Peter Conboy, John Burns and Charles Niles have been visiting in Plainfield.

WESTFIELD.

The local Sewer Assessment Commission composed of James E. Martine, William Howard and J. William Crane, has completed its work for the present and had the report presented at the meeting of Westfield Council Saturday night. Later the report will be presented to the court for confirmation. The total amount of the assessment on the trunk sewer is about six thousand dollars.

At the recent annual meeting of St. Paul's parish, Westfield, Lawrence Bastable was elected senior warden and William P. Tuttle junior warden. The following vestrymen were elected: S. M. Scott, C. W. Tremain, J. W. Barr, Lewis Ganzee, John Spalcklavet and Emory Westlake.

An option on the Whittaker and Powers lots on North avenue has been secured by the Westfield Cold Storage Company for a site for its ice and cold storage plant. Negotiations are under way with the Central Railroad for the necessary siding.

Special services were held at the Westfield Methodist church last evening celebrating the 200th anniversary of Charles Wesley.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

A dramatic entertainment under the auspices of the G. E. Club will be held in the assembly hall of the New Market school tomorrow night. The one-act farces, "Our Aunt from California" and "An Afternoon Tea Party," will be given by members of the club and there will be special music by an ochestra. At the conclusion of the entertainment, there will be a sale of ice cream and cake and the club will tender a reception to the audience. The proceeds of the affair will go toward the piano fund of the school.

"The Crowning of Christmas" is the title of the Christmas cantata to be given by the Sunday-school of the First Baptist church in connection with the Christmas exercises Monday evening, December 26. The idea of the thing is novel and many members of the school take part. Practises are now being held regularly.

Saturday's storm did much damage to the trees in the borough, the heavy wind and the great weight of ice causing many of the branches to snap off. The trolley cars also had trouble, and the slippery rails and ice feed wire caused great delay in the running schedule.

The announcement that Pond's Machine Tool Works at Plainfield will shut down for two weeks, beginning Saturday, will throw more than two-score Dunellenites out of work. The plant will be closed down for two weeks.

The regular December meeting of the township Board of Education will be held at the New Market school tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ace, of Stroudsburg, Pa., is visiting her daughters, Mrs. George Craig and Miss Anna Ace.

STORM STIRS NATURE WRITER.

Lion and the Lamb Story Discounted By This Jersey Tale.

When George Trautwein, of Midland avenue, Montclair, went out to his barn yesterday morning he found huddled up together in an unoccupied stall a small puppy, a kitten, a pigeon, and two sparrows. They had all evidently sought the same shelter from the storm of Saturday night.

Mr. Trautwein brought out a dish of milk and a handful of crumbs, and the odd quintet ate heartily of their morning meal.

In the afternoon Trautwein drove the intruders out, supposing all but the sparrows would seek their homes, but they did not. He says they stayed about the yard until he returned to the house, and then they went back to the stall.

The pup is of the coach dog variety, the cat is tortoishell in color, and the pigeon slate color. Trautwein says that if they don't leave when the weather moderates he will adopt the whole collection.

NEW JERSEY EXHIBITS ON THEIR WAY HOME.

New Jersey's exhibits to the Jamestown exposition are now on their way to Trenton, and they will be set up at the State House on their arrival at Trenton this week. Curator Silas R. Morse, who was in charge of the exhibits; Hatfield Smith, formerly in the geological department at the State House, and Benjamin Lore, of Bridgeton, were busy at the exposition two weeks packing up this State's part of the show. They filled two cars and were loaded last Tuesday. Some of the fragile exhibits, birds especially, were sent by express and are already at the State Museum.

New Jersey led the other States in the awards for its exhibits, receiving gold medals for its mosquitoes and birds, fish, games and forestry, geological comparative school, social economy and historical exhibits.

The school comparison embraces exhibits at seven expositions and attracted considerable attention among the educators who visited the Jamestown exposition. There are 15 State departments and institutions included in the department of social economy. This will be placed in a special room at the State House.

The historical exhibit arranged by Francis B. Lee, of Trenton, was one that interested every exposition visitor. It will be located on the first floor of the State House.

NEWSPAPER MAN KILLED.

George Fiske Found Badly Mangled Beside Railroad Track.

George Fiske, well dressed and about 40 years old, was found badly mangled along the tracks of the Amboy division of the Pennsylvania Railroad near Trenton, last night. He died in an ambulance on the way to St. Francis Hospital. From letters found in his pockets it was ascertained that he is a newspaper man and has a wife residing at the Hotel Berkshire, Atlantic City.

It would appear from the letters that he has been employed on the Pittsburg Dispatch and on New York and Philadelphia papers. A card showed that he was last engaged as press agent for the Jamestown Exposition, and was a member of the Jamestown Press Club. It is not known how the accident happened, but it is thought he walked off a train while it was moving.

Gerald Underhill, of Weldon, Pa., has been visiting his parents at Watchung.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS.

The right ear of John Chatterton, nine years old, of 17 Martin street, Paterson, was nearly torn off by a companion while the two were at play Saturday.

Former Director Edward G. Miller, of the Board of Freeholders, of Paulsboro, has announced his candidacy for sheriff of Gloucester county on the Republican ticket.

Trenton Methodists are to establish three new missions in that city, one in the foreign quarter, another in the factory district and a third in the aristocratic section.

Millville authorities are still searching for Wesley Cousins, who has been employed at the Snyder log camp, and who on Wednesday is alleged to have shot and severely wounded Mrs. George Briss when she refused him a drink of wine at her home near Risley.

Up a tree for several nights a cat was rescued by firemen connected with the Kaighn avenue engine-house, in Camden, Saturday, to the delight of neighbors, who had been annoyed for several days by the continual crying of the animal. The cat had been chased up the tree by a dog.

Father McShane, of St. Nicholas' Catholic church, Atlantic City, has cleared the site for the first parochial school in the resort, in Pacific avenue, adjoining the church, and is preparing for the erection of a building to give accommodation to 700 pupils.

As a result of the new rule of the Atlantic Board of Education, ordering the arrest of parents who fail to force their children to attend school, Stephen Driscoll was Saturday summoned before Recorder Hayes and forced to pay $10, because his ten-year-old boy had been adjudged a truant.

Justice Charles Hendrickson has set Saturday, December 28, at 9 o'clock a. m., at Mt. Holly, as the place of hearing the election contest brought in the Burlington County Circuit Court by M. Walter Maitland, Democratic candidate for councilman in the Second ward of Bordentown, against Joseph S. Swain, Republican, the incumbent.

Laborers today began tearing down the historic Pennington mansion at May's Landing, to make room for a new building. For many years the mansion was conducted as a public inn. When Atlantic county was separated from Gloucester county it was used as a courthouse. The timbers that have been removed are as sound as they were when laid over 100 years ago.

A man representing himself as a member of the lodge of Junior Mechanics, calling himself C. L. DeWitt, of Newport News, Va., has been travelling through New Jersey asking assistance from members of the order. Officers of the lodge at Glassboro put him up at the hotel. While there the man said he was Frank Sterling, of Pittsburg, Pa. At the hotel he had occasion to use the telephone, and while trying to make a call he heard his own description being given over the wire, accompanied by a request that he be arrested for fraud. Hanging up the receiver the man quietly slipped out of town and all traces of him have been lost.

Golden voiced singer Al. H. (Metz) Wilson, who will appear at the New Plainfield theatre tonight in his new "Metz in the Alps," has the promise of the usual large audience that has been the rule in practically every play house in which he has appeared of later years. His wonderful voice, the rich endowment of nature, has been so constantly and so rapidly adding to his fame that he now occupies foremost position on the American stage and enjoys the attention of an increasing set of admirers distinctly his own. This in addition to a magnetic personality, an acting ability that is really to be envied and a stage presence that is as pleasing as it is unique, has served to mark him as the real ambassador of German dialect, and crowded houses dot his 'seasons' tours as naturally and abundantly as flowers in spring.

Bigger, brighter and better than ever before, "His Honor, the Mayor," comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night, under the management of the Jos. M. Gaites Company, with Harry Kelly as the star. New scenery, costumes and practically the same supporting cast is promised. The only notable difference in the cast is that Bobby Barry, the clever little comedian, plays the part of the "Mayor of Kankakee." While the Pony Ballet remains the same there are more pretty girls in the chorus than formerly. The cast, besides Harry Kelly, includes Vivian Montgomery, Madelyn Marshall, Blanche Wayne, Hugh Fay, Arthur Ernest, Bobby Barry, William W. Black, George Fox, John H. Pratt, Nellie De Grasso, Dan Evans and Catherine Tanner.

CLOSED PORTALS.

The recently organized Past Councilors' Association will meet tonight following the session of Plainfield Council, Jr. O. U. A. M.

"The King of Kings" is the name of a Christmas cantata to be given at the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school next Sunday afternoon. The school choir and primary department will assist.

Mrs. Charles Westphal, of East Third street, who has been detained at home by illness, is much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Shepherd, of this city, have been visiting Mr. Shepherd's brother at Bound Brook.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Herbert, of Westervelt avenue, are parents of a daughter, born to them a few days ago.

Mrs. William Runyon and Mrs. T. A. Runyon are detained at their home on East Front street with the grip.

Miss Mary Smith, of Somerville, has returned home after a visit with her sister, Mrs. Joseph Weaner, of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. McGee, of Rockview avenue, returned home yesterday after several months spent in Venice, Italy, where Mr. McGee was occupied with business.

Mrs. John Abbott, of West Front street, sailed on Saturday for England, where she will visit Mr. Abbott's sister, who is very ill. She will be abroad several weeks.

Wallace Morton, of West Front street, who recently underwent an operation for the removal of a growth in the knee, continues to improve. He hopes to return home from the hospital within a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Compton and daughter, Miss Mary Compton, of West Front street, sailed Friday for the Bahama Islands, where they will spend the winter. The trip is made for the benefit of Mrs. Compton's health.

Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons, pastor of Grace M. E. church, who underwent an operation for neuralgia of the head three weeks ago, still remains in a weakened state, not having recovered from the severe nervous shock to his system.

—The Common Council will hold an adjourned meeting Monday night, December 23. It is likely that still another meeting will be held before January 1 to close up accounts for the year.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

BASEBALL.

After a vast deal of conferring and consulting, propositions and counter propositions, which really used up part of several days, a transaction of wholesale size was consumated between the New York and Boston clubs of the National League. The final consent of all hands necessary to the swap was not obtained until after the annual meeting of the league had come to a finish, but finally Manager McGraw of the New Yorks and Manager Kelley of the Bostons announced that it had been put through.

George Browne, right fielder; Frank Bowerman, catcher; Dan McGann, first baseman; Cecil Ferguson, pitcher, and either Bill Dahlen or Jack Hannifan, infielders, are traded to Boston for Fred Tenney, first baseman; Tom Needham, catcher, and Bridwell, shortstop. Kelley had not decided definitely whether he would take Dahlen or Hannifan, but said it would probably be Dahlen. Both McGraw and Kelley were much pleased that the trade had been put through, and both declared it was a good thing for both clubs.

McGraw has been considering Tenney as a New York probability ever since the league meeting began and had several talks with Kelley after the latter agreed to go to Boston, but McGraw had a possible deal with Cincinnati on for a while and did not get real busy on the Boston proposition until Cincinnati had turned down a deal with New York. It did not take McGraw and Kelley long to reach an understanding Saturday, but Kelley wanted to see Owner Dovey before giving his final word. New York's offer at first was Bowne, Bowerman, McGann and either Dahlen or Hannifan, Ferguson at that time not being mentioned.

In securing Joe Kelley to manage the Boston Nationals next year the owner of that club has made what appears to be an excellent move. Kelley managed the Cincinnati club several years ago, but he failed chiefly because his heart was not in his work. Kelley is a Boston boy who has always wanted to play in the Hub. He learned the inside workings of the game as a member of the champion Baltimore under Ned Hanlon. He is a hustler of the McGraw-Jennings type and now has a chance to show what he can do under favorable conditions.

FOOTBALL.

Once again Pennsylvania and Princeton are getting together. The first steps toward burying the hatchet participated in mutually have been taken, and the game is now something more than mere talk. It was at the Yale-Harvard game that a three-cornered agreement between Yale, Harvard and Princeton was talked over. The idea of making the deal four-cornered, taking in Pennsylvania, was also suggested and met with general approval.

At the Army-Navy game Manager Disston, of Pennsylvania's team, and Manager Wheeler, of Princeton, got together and talked over the subject of a game. Since then Captain Hollenback and Fullback McCormick, of Princeton, have had earnest talks upon the subject, and Hollenback has been McCormick's guest for several days. The outcome of these confabs is that Pennsylvania and Princeton are nearer to closing the breach than ever before.

A conference was held in Philadelphia last week between Hamilton W. Disston, manager of the Pennsylvania team, and Manager Wheeler, of Princeton. Another conference was to have been held in Princeton on Wednesday night, but upon request of the Tiger representative it was postponed. Every effort has been made to keep these meetings secret, and members of the Pennsylvania football committee deny any knowledge of the conference held last week. Up to this point no official action of any kind has been taken.

Both Princeton and Pennsylvania have need of the game. With all due respect to Michigan, Penn is not very strong about taking a trip to the West, if the schedule can be acceptably filled with Eastern attractions. The expenses incurred by both colleges is large, and the receipts are not as large as they would be from a Princeton-Penn game. Princeton does not like the Indian game at New York. The Tigers think it savors too much of show business and not enough of sportsmanlike contest as should be the case. A game with Penn would be purely an intercollegiate contest played on a college ground and before a college crowd. So, both Penn and Princeton would profit in several ways by the game.

$20,000 MORE FROM CARNEGIE.

Trenton members of the Mercer County Board of Freeholders have been notified that Andrew Carnegie proposes to spend $20,000 more at Princeton in the improvement to the approaches to the $50,000 bridges which he built across the lake he gave to Princeton University. Mr. Carnegie bears all of the expense attached to these improvements, and the Freeholders supervise the work.

THE FORUM.

ASSESSOR HAND'S REQUEST.

"Editor, The Daily Press:

"I invite all taxpayers in this city, and more particularly residents of the Second ward, to write to the Mayor of our city stating whether or not they have been satisfied with my work as assessor of the Second ward. I have held the position for ten years and in that time, I can honestly say that I have never shirked my duty in any way, nor have I favored any one person in making my assessments.

"For the benefit of taxpayers who are not familiar with the way in which assessments are made, I give below an outline of the work. On each twentieth day of May, the full Board of Assessors go over the city, making a statement of all new houses in the course of construction, and how much work is done on each one. As soon after this as possible each assessor proceeds with his field work, which means calling at each house for particulars of the poll, dog and personal tax. When the field work is completed a meeting is called and the entire Board considers and votes upon each assessment in each ward. In this way it can be plainly seen that no one man makes or confirms an assessment as it is necessary to have three votes before an assessment become final. Each assessor should know as much about the assessment in other wards as his sessment in other wards than his own, in order to see that his ward is not paying more than it should compared to the other wards in the city. In the matter of personal, dog and poll tax, the assessor reports to the Board and after due consideration, the asssessments are confirmed. It is a very easy thing to assess a ward too high or too low in comparison with the other wards and the close comparison of the assessments of the same style of houses in the different wards is necessary in order to equalize the assessments.

A law was passed in 1903 for the purpose of having the assessors appointed by the Mayor and not by the vote of the people. If the appointment was made by the Mayor it would be solely upon the ability and ableness of the applicant to fill the position. Neither would it be made according to the number of appeals made against the assessments levied, as a great number of appeals are made each year to the County Board of Taxation, which are so unreasonable that they are never granted. In this way, it was declared that the assessor would be able to assess in a fair and impartial way as he would not have to favor certain people in order to get their votes for re-election.

"The question that arises uppermost is, whether the work of assessing is properly done and the wards in the city assessed equally, or as near so, as good judgment and knowledge can make it?

"The intention of the present Board was to do right as near as possible to each and every individual and if errors were made, the County Board of Taxation stood ready to right the wrong.

""I wish to request in closing that the tax payers who have been dissatisfied with the work I have done in the Second ward will take their complaints to the Mayor, where I may have an opportunity of explaining my position in the cases. Those who have been satisfied will also confer a fovar by stating so."

NOTED COMPOSER TALKS

J. Granville-Smith, of London, England, Speaks at City High School.

ON PIANO EXTEMPORIZATION.

English Opera Composer Lectures On Fugue Form of Great Composers, Illustrating at the Piano.

Illustrations of musical extemporization in various styles from single and contrasting themes were given on the piano by J. Granville-Smith, of New York, at the Plainfield High School Saturday evening, in connection with an informal lecture on extemporization. Mr. Granville-Smith, who but recently returned from London, England, is well known as a composer of successful operas, as an orchestra conductor; and as a leader of large choral societies; he is a wonderful pianist and the lecture was tendered by a small but appreciative audience. Dr. Leonard Waldo, of West Eighth street, rendered several selections on the violincello in connection with the evening's program.

The remarks of Mr. Granville-Smith, who gave a lecture on music at the Plainfield High School several years ago, dealt with the essentials of extemporization, contrast in themes and the fugue form of musical composition. In treating these three topics, he used the piano to illustrate his remarks. After a few words of introduction, he gave illustrations on the piano of extemporization on a single theme or motif composition. In these illustrations, as well as in connection with his remarks on the other topics, Mr. Granville-Smith played in the style of various great composers in illustrating his remarks, making his illustrations in the style of Chopin, Handel or Grieg, but all original work.

After the rendition of Schumann's "Traumerie" and "Handel's "Sarabande" by Dr. Waldo, Mr. Granville-Smith spoke on the theory of extemporization from two contrasting themes, primary and secondary, illustrating his points on the piano. Dr. Waldo then rendered Gluck's "Andante" and Gaul's "Adoration," from the Holy City. His performance won the sustained applause of the audience. Concluding the evening's entertainment, Dr. Granville-Smith spoke on the fugue form of musical composition. This is perhaps the most difficult form of music, but one in which the harmony possibilities are the highest. In connection with his remarks on this style of work, the speaker demonstrated from various themes, executing them in the style of Bach, and from other composers suggested by Dr. Waldo and various members of the audience.

Mr. Granville-Smith holds a degree of music from Oxford University and is noted in the musical world abroad and in this country. He was secured for the lecture Saturday night by Principal Ira W. Travell, of the high school, and will appear here again Saturday evening, February 8. The proceeds of the two entertainments will be for the school piano fund, for the tel-electric piano player recently purchased by the pupils.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

AS TO MR. FOWLER.

One of the amusing features of our National legislative life is the regularity with which Congressman Charles N. Fowler manages to catch the limelight whenever the subject of finances or currency reform is under discussion or consideration. By grace of the voters of the Congressional district of which Summit is a part Fowler is enabled to appear in the role of a member of the House of Representatives though his continued absence from his duties there and his entire lack of identity with the district he is supposed to represent leaves this Fifth district actually without any official to care for its interests in the lower House of Congress.

"For years now though we have seen the newspapers of the country bombarded regularly with tales of Fowler's proposed plans to reform everything in the management of the nations finances.

"Fowler seems to have missed his vocation if all this publicity is obtained through his personal efforts. He would have been a wonder as a press agent or if he does not attend to it himself then some New York theatre should secure the services of whoever he employes for that purpose for he is exceptionally clever. And meantime we rather believe that the voters of the Fifth district would be just as glad if their alleged representative would show that he knows where the district is located and has some concern for its interests instead of spending so much time advancing the financial ideas of his New York connections—ideas that it is certain the country will never adopt."—Summit Record.

and Upton S. Jeffreys, of Camden. There has been some jealousy in South Jersey over all the offices of the lower house going to North Jersey, and two of them to one county, as would be the case if Professor Prince were elected Speaker and Mr. Parker made clerk, but Mr. Parker has many friends throughout the State, who say that his election should not be charged up to Passaic county. For the ten years previous to the present one he has served as clerk of the lower house.

For Greater New Brunswick.

Because of the New Brunswick Common question of North Brunswick township to that city there has been considerable talk about a "Greater New Brunswick." As a matter of fact, the addition of the small slice will not make New Brunswick much greater; will not add materially to the population, but will give the city a chance to add to its taxable property. The circumstances which brought about this move is one of self-protection.

LECTURE ON HOLY LAND

Dr. Wad-el-Ward Gives an Illustrated Talk at First Baptist Church.

MANY BIBLICAL SCENES SHOWN.

Levite and His Daughter Render Several Selections In Their Native Tongue During Service.

Under the auspices of the Young People's Society of the First Baptist church that edifice was thronged last night with worshippers to attend the illustrated lecture on "The Holy Land," by Dr. Wad-el Ward, who addressed the members of the Men's Club a week ago. Dr. Ward is a famous linguist, speaking thirteen different languages. He has addressed audiences on every part of the globe and has also lectured at the British Museum. He was accompanied by his daughter, and the two sang several selections in their native tongue and also in English.

The views shown by Dr. Ward gave the audience a clear and interesting idea of "The Holy Lands," including scenes where Christ was crucified, and where he was laid away in a tomb, generally accepted by all denominations, except the Catholics and Greeks, as being the authentic place. Other views included scenes in Jerusalem, Bethlehem, Bethany, Joppa, the Red Sea, the fields of Boaz and many other historic points in the Holy Land.

Being a native of Mt. Zion, although not a Jew, Dr. Ward is thoroughly acquainted with that country and he related a great many incidents of peculiar interest. In explaining the views he called to mind many familiar passages of Scripture in the Bible. He said that while some people often refer to the Word of God as being mysterious he did not agree with them. He believed it to be easily understood if studied and read in the right spirit.

The pictures shown proved Dr. Ward's contention that there are many beautiful homes in Jerusalem that will compare favorably with any to be found in this country or other parts of the world. The view of his native home was shown, with its spacious court and picturesque grounds. The beautiful architecture in the construction of temples and churches, marble mosaic and onyx being used to a large extent.

ONE YEAR'S GROWTH OF EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Episcopal annual reports show this year a remarkably even growth in membership and in finances. Communicant growth is this year at the rate of three per cent., which is considerably larger than the population growth-immigration, from which the Episcopal church can expect little, thrown in. Dioceses in which phenomenal Episcopal church increases are being made include Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Florida, Kentucky, California, Massachusetts, the Carolinas, Ohio, Texas and Tennessee.

In contributions there is not only a steady increase in the amounts going to parishes for their support, but the sums sent to missions in distant parts of the world increase about twenty per cent. per year. Sunday-schools have fewer children in them than they had a year ago. This condition of things obtains also in some principal cities, New York among them. The figures for last year were 437,266 scholars, while for the previous year they were 441,239, showing a loss of more than 4,000. The number of teachers decreased by nearly 1,000.

The cause which Episcopalians find for greatest alarm is over baptisms. Parents are not taking their children to the clergy as they once did. There were 4,000 fewer children baptized last year than the year previous, and all baptisms fell off 5,000. The lack of candidates for the ministry still obtains, although there were nearly two hundred more parishes last year in want of clergy than the year before.

ON BLUE STEEL MANHOOD

Forceful Analogy of Steel Tempering and Character Building by Dr. Lewis.

TO SEVENTH-DAY MEN'S CLUB.

Powerful Address Well Attended by Men of Seventh-Day Baptist Church and a Meeting Held Later.

In a forceful analogy between the higtest quality of steel,—the dark blue steel used in the manufacture of watch springs—and manhood, Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, formerly pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, gave a powerful talk before the Seventh-Day Baptist Men's Club at the church, last night. The occasion was a regular meeting of the club and despite the stormy night, there was a good attendance.

The speaker said that just as carbon is the largest element in the tempering of steel, so is conscience a most important element in the formation of the highest type of manhood. Conscience was defined as the highest conception of what is right, and Dr. Lewis emphasized the fact that it is an important element in character building in everything a man goes into, and without a keen conscience, no man can attain the highest and best in life. He went on to speak of the quality of manhood, which he defined as that which sustains every obligation which society and the world imposes upon it. He dwelt especially upon the point that this quality of manhood is continually asserting itself, and is the element in a man's character which brings him to himself, turning him aside from wrong doing on every occasion and setting before him a realization of what he is doing.

The whole talk and analogy centred around the definition of a man, which Dr. Lewis gave as "a being with fixed purposes which his own will has settled upon." Will power, the speaker said, is the central point of successful manhood, and is the force which tends to make him what he is. The analogy to blue steel was carried out during the entire talk, and was made vivid by the metaphor of character development like the change from pig iron to the highest type of steel used in the making of watch springs. The experiences and trials of life are the tempering process in the life of a man, for it is often-times the "roasts" that a man gets that bring out the best that is in him, and this tempering process by the hardships of life is a valuable elecent in bringing out the best in character, for the development of dark blue steel manhood.

At the conclusion of Dr. Lewis' address, there was a short business meeting of the club and various routine matters of business were continued. It is announced that future meetings of the club will be addressed by speakers who will emphasize the value of work in various professions. After the business meeting, an informal social hour was passed and refreshments were served by a committee of the club, of which Charles Neagle is chairman.

THE UNITED CIGAR STORES BIG PROFITS.

President George J. Whelan of the United Cigar Stores Company which has a branch here, went on the stand on Friday in the government's suit against the American Tobacco Company. Mr. Whelan said that he had been president since the company's organization in May, 1901.

The company has 405 stores throughout the country, he said, and about 163 stores in New York city. The total sales for 1906 were about $13,000,000, of which the sales of the United Cigar Stores Company of New Jersey amounted to $9,275,000. From indications thus far Mr. Whelan thought the business of the company would be greater this year than last by from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000. The company paid a 12 per cent. dividend in 1905, 20 per cent. in 1906 and 4 per cent. in 1907.

South Jerseymen Dine.

E. Ambler Armstrong, of the State Tax Board, gave a dinner last Saturday night to the South Jersey members of the Legislature. Governor Stokes was present, but Governer-elect Fort was absent. Mr. Armstrong himself said: "Outside of Governor Stokes and some Congressmen, only small-fry politicians were present." The Assembly slate was discussed, but nothing was determined. The feeling was that North Jersey was claiming too much. Jess, of Camden, it was stated, might still be in the speakership contest.

MURDER TRAIL LEADS TO NEW YORK CITY

Detective Sergeant John Drabell, of Orange, went to New York yesterday to work up a clew in connection with the mysterious murder of Frederick R. Romer, whose body was found in the Park Hotel at Orange on Friday morning. Romer was killed by having his squll crushed in, apparently with a hammer. The only things so far known to have been stolen were a diamond ring and Romer's overcoat. Romer's letters were thoroughly searched, however, by the slayer, and it is believed the murderer was in search of a letter that had some bearing on the case.

The Orange police intimate that there may be interesting developments within the next twenty-four hours. They have heard the story of a woman who was seen to cross Military Park in front of the hotel early Friday morning with a bundle in her arms which looked like a baby. Several men came out of a nearby alley, and later another man walked over from the direction of the hotel. The police's informant said the woman tried to shield her face as she passed him. Chief Washer is investigating this story.

OBITUARY.

John de Mattays.

John di Mattays, the four-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph di Mattays, of Richmond street, died last night. The funeral will be held this afternoon and interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Helen A. Bittenbender.

Her illness diagnosed as diphtheria but a few hours before her end, death came to three-year-old Helen Bittenbender Saturday with awful suddenness. The little one was the daughter of Austin and Sallie Bittenbender, of 228 Somerset street, and was only sick a short time.

Mrs. Mary F. Hoffman.

Mrs. Mary F. Hoffman, widow of Sering P. Hoffman, died Saturday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James L. Love, of Duer street. Acute bronchitis was the cause. Mrs. Hoffman was seventy-three years old and had lived in Plainfield for the past twenty-five years, coming here from Hunterdon county. Beside Mrs. Love, she is survived by one son, Theodore Hoffman, of New York. The funeral will be held at her late home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Catharine A. Maury.

Mrs. Catharine A. Maury, colored, widow of Robert H. Maury, died Saturday night at the home of her son, John Maury, of Webster place. She was sixty-three years old. The funeral will be held at John Maury's home tonight at 8 o'clock and burial will be at Charlottesville, Va.

Randolph Morris.

Randolph Morris, one of the oldest residents of Piscataway Township, died yesterday morning at 6 o'clock in the hospital at Orange, where he had been under treatment for a disease of long standing. He was an uncle of Luther Morris, of West Front street, and was well-known here. Mr. Morris was seventy-nine years old and was born at South Plainfield, where he continued to reside and follow the pursuit of farming, until ill-health prevented. He was a member of the South Plainfield Baptist church for many years. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Mary A. Ryno, of Tennent, Monmouth county. His wife died several years ago. Funeral services will be held Wednesday noon at 12 o'clock from the residence of his nephew, Luther Morris, on West Front street, and at 1:30 o'clock from the South Plainfield Baptist church, Rev. Mr. Attlee, the pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Hillside cemetery, South Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter McGee, of the borough, returned home Saturday from an extended trip abroad. Yesterday afternoon the Sunday-school of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, of which Mr. McGee is the superintendent, gave him an informal reception.

New Jersey Firemen's Home Report.

There are twenty-seven inmates of the New Jersey Firemen's Home at Boonton, according to the annual report submitted to Governor Stokes last week. The financial statement shows a cash balance on hand on November 1 of $5,744, as against $2,996 a year ago. The disbursements for the year aggregated $9,847. The home received from the commissioner of banking and insurance $11,500. In the special improvement fund there was a balance of $4,684, and in the fund from deceased members of $32.72. Three inmates died during the year.

LONDON HAS NO LOCAL PRIDE.

British Newspaper Takes Whirl at Big Metropolis.

Blindfold a Londoner of the center, put him down in the Caledonian road or on Brook Green or at Herne Hill, then take off the bandage and ask him where he is. The chances are ten to one he will have no notion at all. They might just as well be in the provinces. Practically they are in the provinces. They are not inhabited by Londoners in the true sense, but by people whom accident or necessity has brought within the metropolitan area and who would be just as happy 200 miles away. Their atmosphere is not metropolitan. They are not of the center. They are on the fringe.

That is why London has so little local pride. It is not a community. It is a congeries of suburbs, each with its separate narrow interests, grouped around a little city whose citizens have so wide a horizon that they can spare next to no attention for local affairs. How can civic patriotism be expected from a man who spends all his week-ends at a house in the country, the spring on the Riviera, the autumn in Scotland or the Mediterranean? London is to him only an incident with boundaries probably smaller even than those which I have suggested.

The real Londoners are those who would not consider life worth living anywhere else. The real London is the small space wherein are to be found the interests which fill their lives. Hundreds of thousands of suburbans have never seen a picture in London, never been to the opera or the play, could not tell St. Paul's from the Abbey or distinguish between St. James' and Grosvenor Square. Per contra, few real Londoners know anything about the regions on the fringe.

The immensity of London is the constant subject of bewildered comment. It is the littleness of London which astonishes me.—London World.

THE MULES WON.

Judge Decided That They Couldn't Possibly Make a Sudden Start.

"Men in the east," said a well-known westerner, while talking to some friends in the lobby of a downtown hotel here last week, "appear to me to be mostly short and stockily built, except the down-east Yankee, who is usually long and lank.

"Now, out in God's country you seldom find a man under six feet, and broad in proportion. But I'll admit it sometimes pays to be small.

"I remember that in the early 70s," the speaker went on, "a man lived in my town who was over six feet four, and he was about as broad as he was long, and weighed 400 pounds or so.

"In those good old days the festive mule pulled the street cars.

"Well, my friend brought suit against the street railway company for damages sustained by their sudden starting a car in which he was standing.

"During the trial the company brought two of their mules into the courtroom as witnesses for the defense.

"The jury viewed the complainant; took a casual glance at the mules, and at once brought in a verdict for the company on the ground that the sudden start was plainly impossible."—Washington Post.

Where Howe Led.

Discussing Washington and his birthday John Kendrick Bangs said:

"I have made a study of ghosts, as my 'Houseboat on the Styx' and other stories show. And I once dreamed, or saw in a vision, the ghost of Washington and the ghost of Gen. Howe conversing.

"The two ghosts seemed on excellent terms. Howe insisted that Washington was taking on weight—joked him about it—and finally said:

"'George, I'll run you a mile for a shilling.'

"Washington gave Howe a mocking smile.

"'No, thank you,' he said. 'I was always behind you when it came to running.'"

Vanity and the Drug Habit.

When a woman is seized by a desire to better her complexion or her figure by imbibing medicines, the quantity of stuff she will swallow in a given time is almost incredible. Vanity is the strongest weakness of the gentler sex, but the physiological effects of the course of drugs, self-prescribed and self-administered, are calculated in the end to make the vainest of women regret her methods of self-improvement.

Edwin's Explanation.

Edwin, aged three, who fondled his small cat overmuch and unwisely, appeared before his mother one day, his little face guiltily pained and a scratch upon his hand.

"What happened?" she asked.

"I bent the kitty a little," he said, briefly.

Married in Sackcloth.

In order not to lose a legacy of $25,000 left to her by an eccentric aunt, a young lady was, in France, some little time ago, married wearing a wedding dress which, though of fashionable cut, was made of sackcloth.

These Foolish Questions.

"Our train struck a bear on the way down."

"Was he on the track?"

"No; the train had to go into the woods after him."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Ten Eyck & Harris have the reputation of handling the best anthracite coal and the prices are low. Give this coal a trial and be convinced of its merits.

They say that there is a scarcity of money in trade. If you find it so deposit your cash in the Plainfield Savings Bank, where it will be safe and liberal interest is paid.

Before purchasing all your Christmas presents inspect the goods at Charles E. Vail's jewelry store on Park avenue. You will find lots of things there suitable for gifts.

Dudley S. Miller, the Park avenue druggist, besides selling the famous Rexall remedies, carries in stock the very best drugs of recognized manufacture; also toilet articles, confections and cigars.

S. Scheurer & Co., of West Front street, sell the best groceries, fruits and meats at low prices. You will find the quality the same and there is never any kick coming from patrons of this store. In preparing for the holidays just remember that by trading at this store you will get the best and be able to save money.

Miss Anna Van Camp, of South Branch, is visiting relatives here for a few weeks.

Mrs. Adam Heim, of this city, has returned from a visit with Mrs. Jacob Maurer, of Somerville.

Mrs. William Van Duyn, of this city, has been visiting Mrs. J. T. Walbel, of East Millstone.

"There are facts more tangible than that," said Locke significantly.

"But I refuse to listen to them," said Helena, reassuring me with a quiet glance. "I am not so ignorant of these facts, perhaps, as you imagine, Mr. Locke. I have every confidence in Mr. Haddon. As to causing you [illegible] that is absurd."

"The [illegible] I returned, with a passion of gratitude in my heart. "You will hear from me before midnight. If at the end of that time you do not, I think it would be well for you to consult Mr. Locke. He knows a great deal of which you are ignorant."

"Be sure of this, sir, I shall not wait until midnight to enlighten Miss Brett," cried Locke, his face purple with anger and chagrin.

"Mr. Locke, let us understand each other," said Helena, and even Locke felt that her decision was irrevocable. "Mr. Haddon is my friend. I refuse to believe him guilty of dishonor, much less of deliberate crime. I refuse, and my mother will refuse, to press any charge against him. More than that, we trust him to help us in our difficulties."

Locke closed the face of his watch with a snap.

"If you have come to that decision," he said with assumed carelessness, "there is nothing more to be said. If I can be of service to you, you will find me at the hotel at midnight, as the chivalrous Mr. Haddon has suggested."

We were alone. But Helena was of no mind to receive my thanks or my assurances that I had been absolutely ignorant that Locke or any other had been in the stairway.

"Until 12 to-night," she said.

"Until 12 to-night," I repeated. I lifted my hat and walked swiftly toward the chateau.

CHAPTER XXII.
The Secret Staircase.

"We trust him to help us in our difficulties."

Those were the words Helena had spoken; she trusted me, who had been called coward, to accomplish what the cleverest and bravest man must have hesitated at promising. For one cannot promise with reason to attempt successfully the unknown. It was the vagueness of my mission that made it so perplexing.

One cannot tear apart lover from lover as one tears a piece of paper. And yet, if Sir Mortimer were living and still enamored of his mistress, I had promised to attempt even that. If, on the other hand, Sir Mortimer were dead, I was to essay a duty even more difficult: to rescue his great name from dishonor.

Before midnight, then, there were two things to be accomplished: I must know the truth from Madame de Varnier concerning Sir Mortimer Brett, whether he were living or dead; I must rescue Captain Forbes.

It was to be a double duel. The first to be fought was Madame de Varnier, the weapons to be of her choosing, cunning and wit; the second, Dr. Starva, and he had already shown me what weapons he preferred.

To arm myself for my fight with him I supposed would be a simple matter. But when I made inquiries for a gunsmith's shop I learned to my dismay that there was none in Alterhoffen. I was compelled to return to the chateau empty handed.

The terrace was deserted. I crossed it, close to the castle walls. I intended, if possible, to enter the hall unobserved by the little door under the winding staircase through which I had followed Dr. Starva. I looked cautiously into the great room through one of the mullioned windows. No one was about. Once within the chateau, and the door locked, I gained my room, and rang the bell for the servant. Jacques, the lackey who had shown me to my room the night before, answered the call.

"It is half past one," I cried impatiently. "Is Madame de Varnier not ready for luncheon?"

The man looked his surprise.

"Luncheon has been waiting for your Excellency. I came to your room some time ago, but there was no answer when I knocked."

"I had been wandering about the chateau," I replied carelessly. "So luncheon is ready. I hope I have not kept Madame de Varnier waiting too long?"

"Madam begs to be excused. Luncheon is served for Dr. Starva and yourself."

I followed the man to the room where we had dined, not at all pleased at the seclusion that she affected. I was impatient for action. Nearly 12 hours were to elapse before midnight, but there was much to be done before then. And if she persisted in not seeing me, I wondered how I was to force my presence on her. In the meanwhile I must attempt to learn something of Captain Forbes's detention.

I lunched alone, and well. The absence of Dr. Starva was only to be expected. Even so brazen a villain as he would hesitate to meet me with unconcern. During the struggle in the porter's lodge no word had been spoken by either of us, but certainly he could not have been ignorant of my identity any more than was I of his. When we again met, therefore, it would be as avowed enemies.

Frankly, I did not look forward to that meeting with pleasure. The fate of Captain Forbes pointed too obvious a moral. I had put myself deliberately in Starva's power by my return to the chateau. If I were unmolested it would be because my services were indispensable.

I had lighted my cigarette. Jacques was noiselessly gathering up the things. I had determined to take him into my confidence. I believed it was he who had brought me the note. I suspected that he was not ignorant of my leaving the chateau. He had accepted my excuse too readily. At any rate, I believed the fellow could be bribed. I demanded carelessly:

"And Dr. Starva? Is he, too, confined to his room?"

The man shrugged his shoulders. Evidently he held Dr. Starva in no great consideration.

"One knows nothing of him. He is mysterious, this Dr. Starva."

I looked at the man keenly. The adjective was significant.

"Everything about this chateau is mysterious, it seems to me," I remarked cheerfully. "Last night, for instance, I could have sworn I heard the shout of one in distress."

"Is it possible, monsieur?"

"And when I retired I found a note on my pillow. I would give a hundred francs to the man who placed it there if I could find him."

"There is nothing too difficult to be discovered with diligence, your Excellency," he said softly, his crafty eyes cast down.

"So you were the faithful messenger." I took out my pocket-book.

"A little letter is a simple thing, and since it was not sealed, I knew that madam would not object." He smiled greedily on the notes that I had laid on the table.

"Ah, you are loyal to Madame de Varnier?"

"Very loyal, monsieur," he returned with perfect seriousness.

I intended to test this admirable loyalty. I was forgetting Captain Forbes. I proceeded cautiously.

"Am I the only guest of the chateau?" I demanded, toying with the notes.

"There is Dr. Starva, as your Excellency knows."

"And he is a man of mystery, you tell me. I suppose it not impossible that he has his friends."

"Friends?" he asked, and he gave to the word a strange note of uncertainty.

"Did not one call on him last night, just before I retired?"

"I have understood so."

"And he has come to the chateau as Dr. Starva's own guest?"

"Certainly. Dr. Starva's friends have visited him here occasionally."

"The chateau is so immense that one would find it difficult to be sure that one knew the whereabouts of all its rooms."

"If I might take the liberty, I should say that your Excellency would be interested in making an inspection of the chateau. The view from the towers is superb."

"And these towers are readily accessible?"

Jacques shook his head. "Monsieur has said that the chateau is immense. One might find it difficult without a guide."

"And you will be that guide," I said with assurance.

He shook his head still more vigorously. "Impossible! Madam would object. Besides, there is Alphonse."

"Alphonse? Who is he?"

"He is madam's confidential servant."

"At least you can tell me the way to the towers."

"I have never been to the towers," the man persisted.

"Then the staircase is concealed?" I asked sharply, irritated at his hypocrisy.

"I have seen the tapestry near the gallery move very strangely," he blurted out.

Captain Forbes, then, was imprisoned in one of the towers. The staircase leading thither was concealed behind a secret door hidden by a tapestry. This door was near the gallery. So far so well. But I remembered that there was one central tower, flanked by three smaller towers. In which of them was Captain Forbes held a prisoner? I came to the point directly. To fence with the fellow was wasting time.

"The rooms in the towers themselves must be interesting. In mediæval times they were no doubt used as dungeons, if there can be dungeons in the air. In which of these towers does Dr. Starva usually lodge his friends?"

I asked the question not without trepidation. I was tolerably sure of my man, but for the moment I feared that I had overshot the mark. He poised a tray on his palm and shuffled hastily to the door, as if he were frightened at the information he had already given.

"You have forgotten something," I said carelessly, and tapped the notes on the table. He hesitated; then, returning, snatched at them.

"When one has ascended the secret stairway," he said in a low voice, "one finds oneself in a bare room. That is the central tower. It is a triangle in shape. At the corners of the triangle there are three doors opening on three smaller rooms, the dungeons, as monsieur calls them. One of these rooms is the oratory of madam. Monsieur knows that madam is very religious. When madam is not to be seen she is at her prayers."

Again he seized his tray, but I had still another question to ask.

"Which of these rooms is the oratory? And in which does Dr. Starva lodge his friends?"

"But, monsieur, I do not know," he stammered, and again seized his tray.

"You know very well, if you think," I commanded.

He rubbed his nose, a gesture curiously reflective and agitated. He turned himself about like a top as he tried, or pretended to try, to remember toward which points of the compass the various rooms faced.

"Monsieur knows that the chateau itself does not face either south, north, east, or west. The oratory is to the south. No; it points to the west. The locked room, Dr. Starva's, that is to the east. But no—truly, your Excellency, it is impossible for me to remember."

He fled from the room, the dishes on his tray rattling in his perturbation.

But he had told me much. I knew that if I could find the secret staircase to the towers, if I could force open the door behind the tapestry, I might bag both my birds with one shot.

Captain Forbes in his prison, or Madame de Varnier at her prayers—it was all one to me.

CHAPTER XXIII.
A Terrifying Apparition.

I did not hesitate. There was no time like the present. This servant had been false to Madame de Varnier, false to Dr. Starva. He would betray me with as little compunction if it were made worth his while.

I walked slowly up the grand stairway leading from the hall. I gained the gallery that ran about the hall, meeting no one. I pretended to be interested in examining the designs of the tapestry. I tapped the wall as I moved deliberately along. It seemed to me quite solid in every direction. I began to think that Jacques had been playing with me.

As I stood there hesitating, Alphonse, the confidential servant of Madame de Varnier, appeared suddenly before me. Either his tread had been catlike or the secret staircase was very near.

I thought I read consternation on his face. I leaned over the carved railing of the gallery, gazing down into the hall.

"Am I not to see Madame de Varnier before long?"

"I shall tell madam that your Excellency is waiting."

"If you please."

I walked carelessly down the long corridor that led to my room. I closed the door, but I was careful to hold the handle in my hand, and in an instant my eye was at the keyhole.

He had paused irresolutely, looking down the corridor toward my room. Evidently he was dismayed at having been surprised by me. He was hesitating whether he should return to warn Madame de Vanier. Luckily he did not hesitate long.

Even My Entrance Was Unnoticed.

He vanished round the corner of the corridor. In an instant I had followed him. As he lifted the tapestry he touched a spring. A door opened noiselessly.

"One moment, Alphonse," I cried.

He attempted to close the door again. Finding that impossible, his presence of mind deserted him. I brushed by him, and had pushed open the door at the head of the stairway before he could come to a decision.

"Wait here!" I said in a tone of command. "I have an appointment with Madame de Varnier. You were coming for me, of course?"

"No," he answered sullenly. "Madam is at her devotions; she is not to be disturbed."

"I am the best judge of that." And added again, "Wait here!"

I found myself in a great barn-like room when I had locked the door behind me at the head of the staircase. It was lighted dimly by narrow windows placed high against the roof of rafters, and was almost bare of furniture. At the three angles of this room were the three closed doors. So far the crafty knave had told the truth.

But in which of these rooms should I find Madame de Varnier? And in which Captain Forbes?

TO DINE STORRS TONIGHT

Department Associates Will Give Banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria Tonight.

CITY CLERK FOR FIFTY YEARS.

Plainfielder Is Next to Oldest Employe On New York's Payrolls — "Ask Storrs."

Fifty years of continuous service as a clerk in the finance department of the municipal government of New York city, by Henry Justus Storrs, of Kensington avenue, this city, will be celebrated tonight at the Waldorf-Astoria by Mr. Storr's associates. He was appointed first by Comptroller Azaraiah Flagg, December 15, 1857.

Every living former Comptroller and Deputy Comptroller under whom Mr. Storrs has served, and many other prominent city officials will be present. Nearly all of the staff of the Comptroller's office will be on hand.

Comptroller Metz is responsible for the dinner. A few weeks ago he sent out a notice to all the members of the department suggesting that it would be a handsome thing to recognize Storrs' half-century of service by a testimonial dinner. There was a ready and general response from the various bureaus of the department.

Mr. Storrs stands second in the point of length of service of all the men on the city's payrolls. Alexander T. Campbell, Chief Clerk in the Corporation Counsel's office, whose half-century of service was celebrated about a year ago, is the oldest employee in the city's service.

Mr. Storrs is regarded as the best informed man on city finances now living. He is a compendium of information about city affairs and is applied to by every man in the department, from the Comptroller down, whenever any information is desired.

"Ask Storrs," is a by word in the department. He is of the old-fashioned type of official who does not have to apply to the records to supply any information that is needed, but gives it readily and accurately "out of his head."

In 1863 his title was changed to that of Chief Clerk. He has served under fourteen Comptrollers: Flagg, Hawes, Brennan, Connolly, Greene, Kelly, Campbell, Grant, Loew, Meyers, Fitch, Coler, Grout and the present occupant of the office, Mr. Metz. He has served with many boards which have made investigations concerning the city finances.

Chief Clerk Storrs is a raconteur. He is a member of the Society of the Cincinnati Cons of the American Revolution and several national and fraternal organizations.

WE'RE GROWING BY- A MILLION A YEAR

"With an increase to our population by immigration of 1,000,000 per annum, which is less than the present rate, and the present rate of natural increase, the United States would reach the density of China in about four generations, or more particularly, in 134 years, at which time we would have a population of 950,000,000."

This interesting statement is made in the annual report of Frank P. Sargent, Commissioner-General of Immigration, covering the fiscal year 1907, ended June 30 last. To it he adds:

"This is no sense an estimate of future population; it is simply an illustration of the present pace."

Important recommendations looking to further amendments of the laws governing the admission al aliens are incorporated in Commissioner Sargent's report.

Among other recommendations made by him are the following:

That legislation be adopted to check violations of the immigration laws by professed seamen.

"That public health and marine hospital surgeons be stationed at the principal foreign ports of embarkation to examine all aliens applying for pasage to the United States.

"That arrangements be made for placing on board a number of the large transatlantic liners female inspectors, thoroughly qualified and equipped with a knowledge of foreign languages, charged with the duty of intermingling with the female steerage passengers and making their acquaintance, the object being thus to assist in preventing the importation of women for immoral purposes.

"That either by the addition of legislation or by international argreement an arrangement be perfected by which the detection of members of the criminal class may be assured —preferably a requirement that, as a prerequiste to examination, aliens shall present passports granted to them by their own governments.

"That an international conference on emigration and immigration, for the holding of which provision is made in the new immigration act, be called at the earliest practicable date."

He also urges that appropriations be made for certain improvements demanded by existing conditions at Ellis Island, notably the construction of a new ferrboat, of a new refrigerating plant, the dredging of a part of the harbor, the rehabilitation of the water supply system and the completion of hospital quarters already under construction, and the building of additional quarters.

In point of numbers, the fiscal year 1907 was the banner twelve-month period in the history of the immigration service. Aliens to the number of 1,285,349 were admitted, as compared with 1,100,735 in 1906.

The total amount of money brought into the country by immigrants in the year was $25,599,000, or an average of almost $20 per person. Europe contributed 1,199,566 persons to the volume of immigration. More than 40,000 came from Asia, among them 30,000 Japanese and 961 Chinese.

Y. M. C. A. FIVE LOSES AT RAHWAY, 50-31

By the individual playing of Orr, the centre of the Rahway Y. M. C. A. five, who scored nineteen baskets from the floor, the local association team was defeated Saturday night at Rahway by a score of 50-31, in the Northern New Jersey Y. M. C. A. basketball league. This is the first victory of the season for Rahway, and the Plainfielders still have to strike their winning pace.

The local five played fast basketball throughout both halves, and except for Orr, held their opponents down pretty well. The passing and shooting showed improvement over the other games. Miner's guarding was a feature. At the end of the first half the score was 26-16 in favor of Rahway, but fast work at the beginning of the second half cut this lead down to seven points. Orr's playing in the second half was the feature of the game. He scored twenty-points for his team, the only other basket during the second period was by Boyne. The line-up and score of the game follow:

RAHWAY.		PLAINFIELD.
Trembley	right forward.	Gilmore
Orr	centre.	Collier
Gibbins	right guard.	Gavett

Baskets from the floor, Orr, 19; Collier, 4; Miner, 3; Boyne, 3; Gavett, 2; Rumsey, 2; Miller, 2; Gilmire, Gibbons. Goals from fouls: Collier, 6; Gavett. Referee, Charles B. Morse. Twenty minute halves.

Y. W. C. A. Gymnasium Classes.

The regular meetings of all classes in the gymnasium at the Young Women's Christian Association will be held as usual this week. For the following two weeks the gymnasium will be closed with the exception of next Thursday evening, December 26, when all young women thus registered will be invited to join together in all kinds of athletic "stunts." The members of the evening gymnasium classes on Thursday had a practical lesson in bandaging after some strenuous basketball practice, and now they are ready to care for sprained ankles and broken noses, though they hope not to have any. Those who are not in gymnasium classes this term because they have no gymnasium suits should ask for a suit for Christmas and be ready to join the new class which is to start in January.

High School Basketball.

The Plainfield High School basketball team will open its season in the local scholastic league tomorrow afternoon, when they will meet the North Plainfield High School five at the Y. M. C. A. at 3:30. The boroughites have already begun to arrange a schedule of games outside of the league and will play the Westfield High School team Wednesday night and the Mono A. C. team Friday night. Both games will be at Debele Hall.

CENTENNIAL OF THE BIRTH OF WHITTIER

"Beneath the moonlight and the snow
Lies dead my latest year:
The winter winds are wailing low
Its dirges in my ear.

"I grieve not with the moaning wind,
As if a loss befell;
Before me, even as behind,
God is, and all is well!

"His light shines on me from above,
His low voice speaks within—
The patience of immortal love
Outwearying mortal sin.

"Not mindless of the growing years
Of care and loss and pain,
My eyes are wet with thankful tears
For blessings which remain."

—Opening stanzas from Whitter's "My Birthday."

The first of John Greenleaf Whittier's eighty-four birthdays occurred a century ago tomorrow, on his father's farm near Haverhill, Mass., where the poet spent the first eighteen years of his life. He was a farmer's son and a farmer's boy, getting his learning from a district school and from the newspaper that found its way into the house about once a week. The farm was comfortable but burdened with debt, and only by constant work was he able to get a coveted summer term at the academy. Later he in turn became teacher at another school, and in 1830 he became editor of the New England Review, of Hartford, Conn., a position he gave up after two years to return to the farm. It was from there that he published a pamphlet on "Justice and Expediency," and from there was elected to the Massachusetts Legislature in 1835. Three years later he became editor of the Pennsylvania Freeman, but his office was burned and sacked by a mob, and he again returned to the farm. He was afterward associate editor of the National Era, at Washington, N. C.

The first collection of his poems, which he had been writing from the time he was sixteen years old, and which had been published in local papers and a few magazines, was made in 1847. Te contributed most frequently to the Atlantic Monthly.

Whittier was a member of the Society of Friends, and a regular attendant of its meetings, but he was broad in his sympathies. He aided in forming one of the first temperance organizations in his State. He never married and never traveled beyond his own country.

He was 81 years old when he prepared for publication an edition of his writings, which was published in seven volumes. Whittier died at Hampton Falls, N. H., September 7, 1892, when he was nearly 85 years old.

STATE GUARDS NOW ON AN ARMY FOOTING

The organized militia of this State was placed in conformity with the organization of the regular army when general orders No. 12 were issued from the Adjutant-General office Saturday.

The Governor has confirmed the order, which has also been approved by the State Military Board. It carries into effect the provisions of the act passed at the closing of the last Legislature, which makes it necessary for the State militia to comply with the Dick law, and by so doing will entitle the State to about $47,000 a year for the maintenance of its militia.

The first section of the order is devoted to a recital of the amendment to paragraph 78 of the act concerning the State militia, after which the order fixes the military organization among which are these:

"An infantry company shall consist of one captain, one first lieutenant, one second lieutenant, one first sergeant, one quartermaster-sergeant, four sergeants, six corporals, two cooks, two musicians, and not less than forty-two nor more than forty-nine privates.

"An infantry battalion shall consist of one major, one adjutant (first lieutenant), one quartermaster and commissary (second lieutenant), one sergeant-major, four companies of infantry.

"An infantry regiment shall consist of one colonel, one lieutenant-colonel, one adjutant (captain), one quartermaster (captain), one commissary sergeant-major, one chaplain (captain), one sergeant-major, one quartermaster-sergeant, one commissary sergeant, two color sergeants, one chief musician (band), one principal musician (band), one drum major (band), four sergeants (band), one cook (band), twelve privates (band), three battalions."

CHRISTMAS RUSH IS ON

As Festival Draws Near, Bigger Crowds Flock to the Shops.

MONEY SEEMS TO BE PLENTIFUL

Plainfield Tradesmen Do Not Anticipate Any Decrease In Holiday Trade This Season—Times Prosperous.

Although trade is no more active in this city now than it has been for the past month storekeepers are still convinced that they will have a satisfactory Christmas season and that the coming week will bring out the annual throng of shoppers. So far the holiday period has not differed materially from other years, and merchants insist that the eleventh hour rush on the stores will be as heavy as usual. Few local storekeepers have cut down their regular Christmas orders, and they are prepared to give St. Nick as wide an assortment to choose from as in the years when his financial backers were not obliged to struggle through a collapse in the money market. In short they are confident that the Christmas season will never lose the traditional spirit as long as there is a nickel in the toe of the stocking and a paper angel to be bought with it. They are not worrying.

In conversation with a Daily Press reporter on Saturday a Front street storekeeper explained the situation by saying that trade is as heavy as usual at this time of the year, but the demand is for a class of wares differing considerably from that of other years. "Instead of buying the finished gift as many people have done in the past the shoppers who have made their appearance so far this year have secured the materials from which to make up a present themselves," said the storekeeper, "and in a broad sense of the word this trade is as satisfactory as the regular Christmas business. There is a great demand for all kinds of colored paper and boudoir and desk fittings. An article of little intrinsic value may be given an attractive and tasteful appearance by the artistic use of fancy paper and feminine disciples of St. Nick are well aware of this fact. They are buying the smaller articles and trusting to their ingenuity to give them an effective setting with the aid of mucilage and shears. This does not mean that such methods will be followed to the serious injury of the regular trade, but it shows more than the usual tendency toward economy besides a determination to live up to the season."

It is evident that the coming Christmas is to be a particularly trying one for Dad and the army of mere men who are helpless before the annual onslaught of feminine gift-makers, and the bewildering creation that breaks on his view as a fairy palace of silver and gold that might hold in its tinselly depths a Klondike of useful articles or even a smokable cigar will on dissection probably give up the yearly slippers with a shameless rose garden in full bloom on the toes. This Christmas is to be unusually gold bricky which will be saying a great deal for it, but one thing is certain, shoppers will shop as of old and there will be no excuse for anyone getting up on Christmas morning without being assaulted by at least a sight of the traditional red, green and yellow necktie. These glorious customs rise above mere financial disturbances and labor shake-ups and in this the storekeeper rejoiceth.

A Work of Art Free.

The Plainfield Trust Company has prepared a very artistic art calendar for distribution among their depositors. The subject is a painting from the brush of Philip Boileau, entitled "Winifred." Winifred is an imaginary portrait of an American society girl of wealth, the type whose reputation for beauty and queenliness is as well known in European capitals as in the United States and which no artist has more successfully portrayed than Mr. Boileau. One of these calendars will be reserved for each of the company's depositors who are requested to call for it.

Hurried Journey in Vain.

Robert Gow, of West Fifth street, received a telegram on Thursday last, summoning him to Portsmouth, Va., because of the illness of his brother, John Gow. Mr. Gow left for Portsmouth as soon as possible but did not reach his distination until Sunday noon, only to find that his brother had passed away three hours before. The deceased was a native of Crewe, Cheshire, England, and had many friends in Plainfield.

MODERN SCHOOL METHODS

Supt. Henry C. Krebs Addresses Parents of Lower Grade Pupils at School.

A SUCCESSFUL RECEPTION.

Mr. Krebs Shows Difference of Attitude Between Teacher and Pupil as Result of New Methods.

"Some characteristics of the schools of today" was the topic of an informal address given by Supervising Principal Henry C. Krebs at the reception given by the school faculty of the primary and kindergarten grades to the parents of the pupils at the Somerset school last night. There was an excellent attendance and the reception, given for the purpose of securing better co-operation between the teachers and parents, was most successful as a social affair. President James R. Joy, of the North Plainfield Board of Education, who was to have spoken, was unable to be present. At the conclusion of Mr. Kreb's remarks, refreshments were served and a most enjoyable social hour passed in the assembly hall, where the reception was held.

Mr. Krebs said in part:

"There are very apparent differences between the schools of today and those of a generation ago, due to many reasons, one of which is the changed attitude on the part of parents and teachers toward children. It was not uncommon twenty years ago to find sixty or more pupils in charge of one teacher. Those who have several children of their own known how difficult it is to manage them, and can easily realize that the mere keeping sixty children quiet is a gigantic task. To teach much under these conditions is impossible. Today the classes number from thirty to forty, the discipline almost takes care of itself, and the teacher can devote her energies to instruction.

"Maps and pictures, free textbooks and supplies, opportunity for the study of sewing, cooking, manual training, music, and drawing now minister to the demands of civilization and add interest to the school work.

"Efforts have been made to understand the development of children in respect to their physical, mental and moral constitution. For instance, the lies that children often tell are no longer regarded as incontrovertible evdences of depravity, but in many cases as resulting from inaccurate observation, or from fear, or from some similar motive, and by no means indicate that the future life will be characterized by untruthfulness. The old school, too, punished pupils who did not sit still. Yet we all know that it is exceedingly difficult for grown people to sit still for several hours at a time, and much more difficult for children. Hence the sessions are somewhat shorter, and by means of calisthenics, games, and movement of classes, pupils are given much opportunity to change their position. In addition to this the teacher recognizes that some children are abnormally active, and she does not insist on pupils sitting still when their temperament perhaps makes this difficult.

"The atmosphere of the schoolroom of today is love, sympathy, helpfulness, co-operation, joy. School is a place of delight. The normal child of the twentieth century is eager to attend, and sad when he must remain away. This happy condition is secured through the employment of skilled teachers, and the use of the most enlightened methods of discipline and of teaching."

Funeral of Mrs. Hoffman.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary F. Hoffman was held this afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James L. Love, of Duer street. It was conducted by Rev. A. C. McCrea and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. Burial was made in the Methodist cemetery, the pallbearers being Alburtus Swalm, T. S. Armstrong, Horace J. Martin, Sr., P. B. Drake, Joseph Humble and James Lunger.

Charles Drake Improving.

The condition of Charles Drake, the sixteen-year-old son of William H. Drake, of Richmond street, whose finger was amputated by Dr. Endicott last week, shows consistent improvement. The physician, who has been in charge of the case since the lad cut his finger, is still in attendance, but the operation has completely checked all danger from blood poisoning.

Entertained at a Goose Supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bennett, of Watchung avenue, entertained the clerks of J. A. Smith & Bro.'s grocery store at a goose supper at their home last night. Mr. Bennett is manager for the grocery firm and it has been the annual custom for one of the clerks to entertain the others.

AS TO VOTING MACHINES

Story That Senator Frelinghuysen will Move to Abolish Devices Denied by Him.

HE IS STUDYING THE SUBJECT.

Will Not Help to Retire Them Unless Better Method Is Proposed—As to Senator Ackerman.

That Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen has stated that he intends to introduce a bill in the next Legislature to abolish the voting machine was emphatically denied by the representative from Somerset today. As a matter of fact the Senator has not made up his mind what position he will take on the subject of ballot reform when that much mooted question is brought up in the Senate, but it is certain that he will not lend his support to their abolition unless a better system of voting is devised.

"The report that I have decided to introduce such a bill is entirely erroneous," said the Senator to a representative of The Daily Press today. "I have always had a favorable opinion on the voting machine and would not do anything to abolish it unless I were convinced that a more satisfactory method could be obtained. I have arrived at no decision as to what course I will take on this subject but I am giving the matter my earnest consideration.

"In conjunction with my colleagues in the Senate I am studying the subject and what position I will take will be guided largely by the consensus of opinion among the others who are devoting attention to it. I thing we should act together in this matter for the good of all the voters, it effects everybody."

Senator Frelinghuysen said that he was not aware that there were any considerable number of Republicans among his constitutents who favored the abolition of the machine. In North Plainfield some time ago, Democratic County Committeeman Linbarger obtained the signatures of about one-fifth of the voting population for the retirement of the machines in that borough. The big majority of boroughites, however, heartily favor the machine method.

State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of Union, is also studying the question and has solicited the views of his constituents on the subject.

NEGRO MURDERERS ELECTROCUTED TODAY

After a night of hymn singing and prayer, Charles Gibson and Stephen Dorsey, negroes, were put to death in the electric chair in the State prison at Trenton before dawn this morning for the m urder of two women in Camden county.

It was the second time that the electric chair had been used for carrying out a capital sentence in New Jersey. The first offender to be killed legally by electricity in the State was put to death at Trenton last Wednesday.

The victims of the two men killed today were the wife of a Camden county farmer and her Italian servant.

The two executions were performed without hitch. Two contacts were sufficient in each case. Gibson was the first to be led to the chair.

Charles Gibson and Stephen Dorsey were convicted of the murder of Mrs. Frances Horner and Mrs. Vitori Natoli at the farm of Edward Horner, Mrs. Horner's husband, in Pensauken Township, Camden county, on August 20, 1907. The negroes had planned to rob the farmhouse, and in order to get Horner out of the house his barn was set on fire. When Horner went out to fight the blaze one of the negroes entered the house and, encountering the two women, crushed in their skulls with an axe. Mrs. Horner was instantly killed and Mrs. Natoli, who was employed as a domestic, died two hours later in the Cooper Hospital.

According to a foncession made by Dorsey and indorsed by Gibson it was Dorsey who committed the murders while Gibson set fire to the barn. The only booty secured by the murderers consisted of $4, which was taken from a purse on the kitchen table, two watches and a revolver belonging to Mr. Horner.

Treasurer's Balance to Charity.

The finance committee of the Somerset Club, which recently disorganized, has turned over a balance of $13.02 to the officers of the Children's Home. When the social club disorganized, William G. Debele, Henry Zimmerman and Fred Kohler, working with J. J. Stahl, treasurer of the organization, as a finance committee, found that $13.02 balance remained after all outstanding bills had been payed.

SENATOR IS NOT PLEDGED

Mr. Ackerman not Committed to Anyone in the Prosecutorship Fight.

THE CONTEST BECOMES WARM.

No Matter Who Is Appointed Chief, Assistant Will Be W. L. Hetfield, Jr.

The much circulated report that State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman has given his endorsement to District Court Judge C. Addison Swift in the prosecutorship fight is incorrect. Mr. Ackerman is taking no part in the contest and he is authority for the statement that he will be guided in his recommendation by the wishes of his constituents. Voters of Union county who have a preference in the matter may address him on the subject and the assurance is given that Union's representative will present to the Governor the name of the man whom he finds is best qualified for the position in the opinion of the public.

"I have given my endorsement to no one," said the Senator today. "As a matter of fact I have made no promises but will be guided solely by the wishes of the people. I have received some letters of recommendation and may say that I will be glad to receive the opinion of any voter on the subject as to whom he believes is the best qualified candidate."

The contest between the present assistant prosecutor, John K. English, and C. Addison Swift to succeed Nicholas C. J. English is becoming more bitter every day. Swift is supported by County Chairman Frank H. Smith and the big majority of the county leaders. But English is making a hot fight for his uncle's place and has some friends who are said to be close friends of Governor-elect Fort. The appointment will not be made until April for the successor to the present prosecutor does not take office until May 1.

It is pretty generally conceded that no matter how the fight ends, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of this city, will be assistant prosecutor.

MAN HE BEFRIENDED STOLE CLOTHES; HORSE GONE TOO

James Carter, colored, who lives on West Second street, came to police court this morning to report the theft of his horse, which was stolen from the barn on West Third street, last night. At the same time he reported that a lot of his clothes had been stolen Saturday night by a stranger he befriended by giving him lodging. He gave a description of the man who took the clothes, but has no idea of the horse thief, for he did not discover his loss until this morning, when he found the barn broken open and the animal missing.

The horse was a sorrel, with close clipped mane, and he himself put it in its usual place in the stall last night, locking the barn. When he went to the barn early today, he saw that some one had pulled out the staple which holds the padlock, and on entering found that the animal had been untied and led away. He heard no noise during the night, nor did any of the neighbors, and he has no trace of the thief's identity. At first he thought that the animal had been taken as a joke, but when it was not returned later in the day, he went to police headquarters and reported.

Two suits of clothes, some vests, shirts and underwear were taken from Carter's house Saturday night by a tall, slim, light skinned colored man to whom he gave lodging for the night. Carter met the fellow late in the evening, and consented to give him lodging. The fellow got up early Sunday morning and got away with the wardrobe. Carter followed the man, whom he describes as wearing a black hat, dark coat and blue trousers, as far as Lincoln, where he learned that the man had changed his clothes at the Lincoln Fire House, putting on one of the suits he took from Carter, and throwing his own clothes in the brook. The Lincolnites who reported this, said that the man had gone on toward Bound Brook. Carter followed this clue, but could learn nothing more, so returned home. The police are working on the case.

Mrs. Maury's Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Catharine Maury, whose death occurred Saturday night, was held last night at the home of her son, John Maury, of Webster place. It was conducted by Rev. G. W. Bailey in the presence of a gathering of friends. The body was sent to Charlattesville, Va., for burial.

Civic Association Discusses Lighting Contract and Promised New Cars.

WOODHULL RESIGNS OFFICE.

T. M. Day Elected to Succeed Retiring Treasurer—It Was a Busy Session.

Municipal matters of importance, but "not ready for publication," were discussed informally at a meeting of the executive committee of the Plainfield Protective Association, last night, at the Casino. Members of the committee declined to talk today, but it was learned that it is the intention of the association to keep hot on the trail of the Public Service Corporation until the objects desired are granted.

The contention of the association that the city should make an electric lighting contract for one year instead of five, was again discussed and it was the unanimous opinion that the contract should be for one year. This is advocated on the basis that lighting facilities are likely to be considerably cheaper within the next few years and the city should be in a position to get the advantage of the reduction instead of being tied up to a five years' agreement. The one year contract will be urged before the Common Council before it is signed by the company and the city.

Another matter that will be urged until its accomplishment is that of new trolley cars for the Fourth, Somerset streets, Arlington avenue and Netherwood lines. Col. Hine, of the company, has promised that the new cars shall be put in the local service on or before January 1 next and the association is inclined to take the official's word. In case the agreement is not fulfilled, it is the intention of the association to adopt such measures necessary to bring the corporation to task.

There were other matters discussed, but the nature of them could not be learned. It was said that they would be brought to the attention of the Common Council at the proper time.

Before the meeting adjourned Floyd T. Woodhull resigned as treasurer of the association and Thomas M. Day was elected to take his place.

BUSINESS MEN'S CLASS ORGANIZES SOCIAL CLUB

Councilman Ralph I. Tolles was elected president of the Y. M. C. A. business men's club at a meeting held in the club rooms at the association building last night. Winfield Scott Angleman was chosen as first vice president of the club, George C. M. Smith, second vice president, Harry C. Runyon, secretary, and Dr. Charles G. Davis, treasurer. There was a big turout of business men at the meeting and thirty-seven members of the gym class took part in the exercising on the floor previous to the meeting.

At the meeting, the business men had their photograph take nby flashlight. Stone was the photographer. A committee consisting of Councilman R. I. Tolles, chairman; Harry G. Runyon and Dr. Charles G. Davis, appointed to draft a constitution, presented the same at last night's meeting and it was accepted and adopted. This constitution outlines the object of the club as the physical, mental, moral and social development of the members. The club will hold regular meetings and the club room, on the second floor of the association building, will be used as a general informal place for the members on class nights.

MASS IN ST. JOSEPH'S FOR YOUTH KILLED IN VIRGINIA.

A requiem mass for the repose of the soul of Frank Haurand, Jr., a former North Plainfield boy, who was accidentally killed near his home at Doreset, Powhatan county, Va., last week, was said in St. Joseph's church by Father Brennan this morning. The young man was a member of the parish previous to his going South and was active in its auxiliary societies.

Haurand was sixteen years old and was the son of Joseph Haurand, who, until two years ago, lived on Manning avenue. From information received by local relatives he and his older brother, Henry, were on a hunting trip when the latter's gun went off unexpectedly and the charge struck Frank, causing his death. The funeral and burial took place at Doreset last week. The brothers were very well known in the borough, having atetnded he Somerset street school previous to the time the family moved South.

DEMAND ENDORSEMENTS

County Republican Committee Desires Recognition in all Future Appointments.

FOR LARGER ELECTION FEE.

Drake and Johnston Both Get Support for Tax Clerkship—The Chairman Talks.

The Union County Republican Executive Committee at its final meeting for the year last night, put itself on record as favoring the committee's endorsement in the matter of appointive positions in the county. This action is the result of a contest between two factions in the appointment of a successor to William R. Townsend as clerk of the County Board of Taxation. Mr. Pollard, a member of the board, desires the appointment of G. B. Littell, of Elizabeth, who is not an organization man, and the committee do not favor him.

The names of Lawyer H. H. Drake, of Elizabeth, and George H. Johnston, of Scotch Plains, were both presented to the committee and received its endorsement for the position of clerk of the taxation board, it being understood that either one would be acceptably for the place. In the future persons seeking county position will have to secure the committee's endosement.

A report was received from Lawyer H. H. Drake regarding the election laws and he stated that according to their provisions members of election boards are only entitled to $25, instead of $30 as before. This was followed by the adoption of a resolution that the Senators and Assemblymen of the county be asked to frame an amendment to the laws which will give the election officers $30 compensation for their work.

Frank H. Smith made a few remarks in closing his second term as county chairman. He thanked every member of the committee for the energetic and loyal support given him, to which he largely attributed the recent Republican victory in the county. He doubted if there was another county in the State which had had a more faithful committee and he personally thanked each one for his part in county affairs.

TAX APPEALS ARE BEING HEARD AT NEW BRUNSWICK.

The Middlesex County Board of Taxation is in session at New Brunswick today to hear appeals from assessments levied upon New Brunswick and Highland Park properties. The most important matter under consideration is the protest of the New Brunswick Trust Company against the levy on its property, such as stocks, bonds and other investments.

The company claims that the proper exemptions have not been allowed on its property, and it is the contention that a valuation of about $120,000 should be reduced to $28,000. Janeway & Carpenter also ask for a reduction upon its old factory site, Paterson and Schuyler streets. This is assessed at $25,000 and the firm asks for a reduction to $10,000. The Raritan River Railroad Company wants the assessment of $19,000 on its terminal property on Sandford street, cut down about $5,000.

These are the principal complainants among the largest property-owners, but it is expected that there will be a number of protests from individual holders. In the opinion of the board the objections are less numerous than ever before, but the total amount of reduction asked is large and is capable of making a big difference in the tax rate. Another matter to be considered by the board will be the protest of the city of New Brunswick against Highland Park taxing the water mains used to convey water to the latter place.

New Janitor at Y. M. C. A.

After acting as janitor of the Y. M. C. A. for fifteen months, William Culver is to be succeeded today by Henry Welle, of New York city. Culver's belongings were moved out of his quarters in the association building this morning, and he will take up his residence in the borough. Welle, who has a wife and child, will begin his new duties at once. Members of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. presented the departing janitor with a handsome pearl handled penknife in the name of the department.

Report of Pure Food Convention.

At a meeting held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Champlin Riley, of Myrtle avenue, Mrs. Stephen Haff gave a report of the Pure Food Convention at Cranford. Mrs. William Riley read an interesting paper and Mrs. Champlin Riley read a short account of the life of Mrs. Colden Sanderson. Mrs. Constance Patten also read a pertinent letter of the times. After the business meeting tea was served.

ELOPING GIRL IS LOCATED

Miss Elsie Drake Who Went Away with T. P. Davis is in Washington.

THEY ARE NOW MARRIED.

Relatives Believe That Machinist Has Obtained Divorce from His Wife in England.

Through correspondence kept up by the young woman since her departure from Plainfield, local friends have been apprised of the fact that Miss Elsie Drake, who eloped early in October with Thomas P. Davis, a boarder at her parents' home, is now living in Washington, D. C. In letters forwarded recently she conveyed the information that legal obstacles to her marriage with Mr. Davis had been removed and that they are now living happily and with no thought of returning to Plainfield. The husband is a machinist by trade and the informant declares he has a good position.

The young woman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Newton Drake, of Somerset street, and had a wide acquaintance in the city and borough. Davis came to Plainfield indirectly from Liverpool, England, where he left a wife and two children. Just previous to his appearing in this city he was an engineer on the steamship St. Paul. He secured employment in a local shop and made his home with the Drakes.

From the time of his entrance to the household, Davis and Miss Drake too a liking to each other but the former did not reveal the fact that he was a married man. In course of time their engagement was announced but something of his former life was learned by the parents just previous to the time set for the wedding and he was summarily dismissed from the home. The young woman was forbidden to see him and for a time she obeyed but later arranged clandestine meetings. They planned an elopement and when Miss Drake disappeared from home the parents surmised what had occurred, a postal card from Bound Brook eventually confirming their suspicions. The elopement caused something more than a mild sensation although the fact of their going was not made known until a week after their departure.

In her letters, the young woman does not state in positive terms that Davis secured a divorce but it is surmised that he did as he was making preparations toward this end before they went away. As she asserts that they have been married and that the law's demands were complied with the inference is taken that Davis' previous marital bonds were severed.

FIFTH ANNIVERSARY ISSUE OF P. H. S ORACLE APPEARS.

The fifth anniversary number of the Plainfield High School Oracle appeared today. This December anniversary issue contains sixty pages, and is illustrated with cuts of the school faculty, the former editors of the publication, the football team, the track team and the girls' basketball team of the school.

A feature of the issue is the publication of a series of articles by the former editors, commenting upon the Oracle of then and now. With these articles appear pictures of the writers, Arthur F. Conant, first editor-in-chief; Alden E. Moore, first business manager; Van Wyck Brooks, second editor-in-chief; Percy M. Brown, third editor-in-chief; Miss Gertrude Hunter, fourth editor-in-chief; and Francis R. Williams, editor-in-chief previous to William T. Lambert, the present editor. Various articles on school work, the contribution of members of the school faculty, appear in the issue, including an article on "Our School Life," by Principal Ira W. Travell.

NORTH BRANCH.

A wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Hardenburg, near South Branch, a few days ago, when their daughter, Miss Annie Hardenburg, and George W. Allen, were married. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Isaac Sperling, pastor of the Reformed church at South Branch, in the presence of a number of relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Allen left for a trip to Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

The Christian Endeavor Society connected with the Reformed church in this place has reorganized for the ensuing year by the election of the following officers: President, F. Marion Van Derveer; vice president, Miss Marietta Van Fleet; secretary, Miss Carolyn Lane; treasurer, Mrs. E. Wade Clark; organist, Mrs. E. Wade Clark.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. French, and Raymond J. Gulick. The ceremony will be performed Wednesday evening, January 8, at the home of the bride, at Millstone.

Harry Amerman, of Newark, was a recent guest at the homes of Arthur and John Amerman, at Neshanic.

Mrs. David C. R. Hoff has been engaged as organist in the Reformed church at Neshanic for the coming year.

Frederick Compton, of Bernardsville, has been visiting his parents, at Pluckemin, for a few days.

SOMERVILLE.

The History Club was entertained by Mrs. William A. Ackerman on East Cliff street yesterday afternoon. Papers were read by Mrs. C. H. Bateman and Miss Hazel Woods. The subject was "Scotland."

Rev. Dr. William H. DeHart, pastor of the Third Reformed church, Raritan, preached in the Second Reformed church in exchange with Rev. Dr. Edward Griffin Read Sunday.

Mrs. Louis B. Lamoreaux and daughter, Abbie, of South street, have returned from Atlantic City, where they spent a week.

Mrs. Frank E. Huntoon has moved from Somerville to her former home in Brooklyn.

BASKING RIDGE.

Victor Council, No. 179, Jr. O. U. A. M., will hold its annual reception on Thursday evening in Dayton's Hall. The committee in charge of the reception is composed of W. B. Craig, chairman; L. T. Craig, Henry Lindsley, W. S. Burnett, John Lohey.

Miss Jennie H. Dunham, who has been spending two weeks at the home of her uncle, Lewis A. Thomson, in Somerville, will return to her home, in Madisonville, this week.

Mrs. M. E. Collins is spending several days with relatives in Brooklyn.

BOUND BROOK AND VICINITY.

At the recent annual meeting of Bound Brook Council No. 1339, Royal Arcanum, of Bound Brook, the following officers were elected: Regent, Charles Byer, Jr.; vice-regent, F. R. Chamberlain; past regent, Dr. E. T. Davis; orator, F. H. Bent; guide, B. R. Prugh; chaplain, J. S. Suydam; secretary, Robert Suydam; treasurer, B. H. Kinsley; collector, T. S. Laing; warden, W. B. R. Mason; sentry, Galus Hoffman; trustee for three years, Paul Eagle; grand representative, Dr. E. T. Davis; alternate, C. Byer, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Garretson, of Linden Cottage Farm, near South Bound Brook, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss I. Leonell Garretson, to Ralph Geaugue, of Kendelville, Ind.

Mrs. Clarence Duryea and daughter, Miss Helen Duryea, of Somerville, were recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Duryea, in Prospect street, South Bound Brook.

The December meeting of Camp Middlebrook Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will be held this afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Stryker.

After spending several weeks with friends at Southport, Ind., and Ferguson, Mo., Miss Josephine La Tourette has returned to her home in South Bound Brook.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of the Presbyterian church of Bound Brook will hold a salmagundi social in the chapel

Wednesday night.

Mrs. John Dumont, of Somerville, was recently entertained at the home of her niece, Mrs. J. A. Logreen, in High street, South Bound Brook.

Mrs. J. Harman-Ashley is entertaining Miss Katherine M. Clayberger, of Philadelphia, at her home in Watchung drive, Bound Brook.

Stanley Brampton, of Bound Brook, spent last week with relatives at Waterbury, Conn.

Mrs. Harriet A. Polhemus, of Bound Brook, is visiting friends at Milltown.

WESTFIELD.

Westfield Heptasophs have elected the following officers for next year: Charles E. Smith, archon; Melvin J. Miller, provost; Edwin Shield, secretary; Augustus K. Gale, treasurer; H. C. Piker, financier; Rev. Sidney Cross, prelate; W. H. Baker, inspector; Reger O. Derry, warden; W. V. Woodruff, sentinel.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Westfield Building and Loan Association will be held at the association rooms, corner of Elm and Quinby streets, this evening. Five directors are to be elected to serve for three years. An amendment to the constitution is also to be voted on.

Westfield Park Commission has issued rules regulating skating on Clark's Lake in the park. When the lake is in condition for skating a flag will be raised. No skating will be allowed on Sunday and the police will see that the lake is cleared of skaters at 10:30 o'clock each night.

W. Edgar Reeves has been re-elected deacon at the annual meeting of Westfield Congregational church society.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Michael A. Galligher will run a 'bus line from Dunellen to the New Market school tonight for the accommodation of those who wish to attend the G. E. Club entertainment for the benefit of the school piano fund. Members of the club will participate in two farces and there will be a sale of cake and candy at the conclusion of the entertainment. There has been a large advance sale of tickets.

A well developed epidemic of grip is raging in the borough and nearly a score of Dunellenites are confined to their homes with it. The principal topic of "news" in the borough seems to be a report of those who have been taken sick. "The weather" comes in for a large share of the blame for the prevalence of the trouble.

The condition of Mrs. Josephine Stillger, who has been confined to her home with serious illness, shows some improvement today.

Mrs. J. B. Beekman, of Sayreville, has returned home after spending several days as the guest of Rev. and Mrs. George H. Gardner.

The regular meeting of Friendship Circle will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Foster Sofield, of New Market.

Paul Nelson, who has been ill with diphtheria, has passed the crisis of the disease safely and is on the road to recovery.

HAS WIFE AND FORMER BOARDER PUT IN JAIL.

Pittsburg, Dec. 17.—Alexander Bognar, alias S. Alexander, and Mrs. Christian Dupler were arrested Sunday night at their boarding-house, 704 Second avenue, on complaint of Ogan Dupler, who resides at Cranford, N. J., and who is the husband of the woman.

Dupler conducts a boarding-house in Cranford, and Bognar is said to have been a boarder there until about November 21, when he is alleged to have eloped with the mistress of the house, the two coming to this city. Some time ago Bognar wrote to a friend in Cranford, telling him of his whereabouts, and in turn the friend informed the husband, who immediately got into communication with the police bureau here, with the result that the two were arrested.

GAS KILLS RAHWAY WOMAN.

Mrs. Edward Urban Fatally Asphyxiated While Preparing Breakfast at Her Home.

Mrs. Edward Urban, of Rahway, was found dead on the kitchen floor of her home yesterday. The woman arose as usual and went into the kitchen to prepare breakfast on a gas stove.

She had evidently seated herself to drink a cup of coffee when the tube came off the gas jet in some manner, and the gas flowed into the room. Her body was found lifeless on the floor by her husband when he came downstairs half an hour later.

The funeral services will be held at the house tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, with interment in Rahway cemetery.

Mrs. Urban was sixty-four years old, and leaves a husband and three children, Mrs. Mary Miller, Mrs. Amelia Bauer and Mrs. Lizzie Fitzpatrick, all of Rahway. She had resided in Rahway in the house where she died during the past thirty-five years.

Again he crushed her to him.

"Darling," he breathed, "this kiss tells you all that I would say."

Pause. Then:

"Did you understand me, dear?" he whispered.

Blushing faintly, she replied:

"No. Repeat what you said, please."—Exchange.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

BASEBALL.

Fred Tenney is not a bit pleased with the idea of playing in New York. He has never been fond of McGraw, and the idea of being under him does not seem agreeable to the Boston veteran.

Ban Johnson is trying to call a halt on the way pitchers use up time by soiling new balls, and threatens to issue an order against it, placing a big fine for breach of the rule.

Outfielder Phil Poland, of Providence, has become a salesman in a Providence shoe store.

The Rochester Club is negotiating for the Hagerstown, Md., grounds for team practice for several weeks next April.

When Mike Donlin joins New York in the spring he will play right field. The position is not new to him, for he played there with Cincinnati and St. Louis. The "Angel" says next season will be the best of his career, as he means to keep in shape all winter.

Joe McGinnity says he will be tickled to go to St. Louis. The Iron Man is pretty sore yet over the way the New York crowds went back on him when he stopped winning games in the fashion of the World's Championship days.

Even if Ferguson had not been let go to Boston, McGraw would have released the clever player. The two are not on good terms.

Malachi Kittredge says he expects to land the Rochester management this season. He did not make good with the Dayton, O., team, of the Central League.

The Cleveland pitchers were the only ones Ty Cobb could not hit .300 against last season. His record against the various pitching corps was as follows: Washington, .413; Boston, .396; St. Louis, .367; Athletic, .352; New York, .318; Chicago, .314, and Cleveland, .283.

Clark Griffith will keep Catcher Rickey, who he believes will be of much service to the team, inasmuch as Rickey suffered from a lame arm all last season, but has since recovered.

E. H. Doyle, of Detroit, has just purchased box No. 1 at Bennett Field, Detroit, for the entire season of 1908. He paid $462 for it and is entitled to the box for the full seventy-seven games of the season.

Third Baseman Steve Griffin, who is wintering in Toledo, in the last season had a unique experience. After being restored to good standing by the National Commission Griffin joined the Charleston South Atlantic League Club. This club won the pennant. Steve at once joined the Norfolk Virginia League team, materially assisting in landing another flag. Griffin has been offered the management of the Charleston and Columbus clubs, and may accept the latter position.

GOLF.

If either Deal or Garden City are chosen for the next national amateur golf championship tournament, it is safe to say that the long players will not be displeased. The Deal score card calls for a playing distance of a trifle more than 6,300 yards, although it is generally admitted to be even longer. Garden City's course is 6,438 yards.

At the latter links undulating greens rise up like volcanoes to awe the faint hearted putter, but on the other hand it is possible to get great distances through the green, especially in the summer, when the turf is hard and baked out. Then again, the removal of some of the cross bunkers makes exceedingly long carries from the tees less necessary. Good direction is more important now than in the old days because of the side traps.

At Deal, where the grass is stiffer and the ground more yielding, long runs after the carry are seldom attained. The chief criticism with the New Jersey course is the present arrangement of the holes, which makes the out journey about five hundred yards longer than the in. This, however, could be easily remedied.

The Brae Burn course, which the Bostonians hope will be the selection, is undulating and interesting in parts, though in actual playing length somewhat less than six thousand yards. It is not regarded as nearly so good a course as Brookline.

The golfers over Boston way are figuring on the advisability of adopting a system of team matches, with a view to making a better showing in the next intercity contest for the Lesley cup. One plan suggested which may be brought forward at the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Golf Association, to be held on January 14, is to have interclub matches of, say, six a side, singles in the morning and foursomes in the afternoon, for a special cup.

Clubs with six good men could enter for the cup and the teams would be drawn for play, winners to meet winners. The idea is to have the matches played on Saturdays and over neutral links. Philadelphia gets good practice with its own interclub matches, while the New York amateurs derive sufficient match play preparation in frequent three-day, open tournaments. There is a feeling among Boston players that, lest metropolitan golfers should become too much in a class by themselves to make the interassociation contests interesting, it behooves the former to work harder than ever.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. William Springer, of Newark, has returned after a visit of several days here with relatives.

James Stewart, of Grant avenue, who has been detained at home by illness, is much improved.

Mrs. Frederick Phillips, of West Front street, continues to improve slowly from a severe illness.

Mrs. Valentine Uzinger, of Grandview avenue, who is ill at her home with a fever, is improving slowly.

Mrs. William Van Duyne, of this city, has returned from a visit with Mrs. J. T. Waible, of East Millstone.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Dunn, of West Front street, who have been ill with scarlet fever, are convalescing.

Mrs. P. Frank Stone, of West Front street, who has been ill for some time with rheumatism, is still detained at home. She improves slowly.

Holiday Rush at the Postoffice.

The local postoffice is a very busy place these days. The holiday rush has commenced and the clerks are obliged to hustle all the time to take care of the increased patronage. There appears to be an unusual amount of business in the money order department, hundreds of people sending away cash instead of various articles as heretofore. The carriers have not yet begun to feel the rush of incoming mail, although they are expecting it every day.

TALKS ABOUT THE FAIR

Miss Edith Little Discusses Her Experiences at the Jamestown Exposition.

During her stay at the Jamestown Exposition, where she acted as hostess at the New Jersey State Building, Miss Edith Little, of Standford avenue, collected valuable statistics not only at the exposition but in connection with many short trips taken by her in various parts of Virginia. As stated exclusively in The Daily Press of yesterday, Miss Little returned home Saturday.

When seen at her home Miss Little was full of praise about the exposition, the various historic spots in Virginia and Southern hospitality. During the progress of the exposition 5,744 New Jersey people visited the New Jersey building, representing 396 cities and towns in the State. Representatives from every State in the Union and sixteen foreign countries also visited the building, making a total of 2,508 who registered there. There were thousands who found it impossible to register. The largest attendance at the New Jersey building was on "Jamestown Day," when 520 people called there. When it is known that Miss Little personally spoke to everyone visiting the State building, as well as look after the finances and countless other duties connected with her official position, it can readily be seen that she was a very busy woman.

The fact that so many conventions of all kinds, including the one of the Episcopal church, celebrating the 300th anniversary of that denomination, had a tendency to bring a great many more people to the exposition. The rectors of various Episcopal churches who visited the exposition did not fail to inspect the New Jersey building, and among them was Rev. Floyd Appleton, formerly curate at Grace church.

"New Jersey Day" was perhaps the most important at the State building. On that day a party of 125 people from the State, including Governor Stokes, Senators, Assemblymen and others in official position, visited Jamestown. Those from Plainfield included County Chairman F. H. Smith, City Clerk J. T. MacMurray and George J. Tobin. They were given a cordial reception by Miss Little and all voted her the most popular hostess at the exposition.

This statement was expressed on the part of thousands of visitors, many of them saying that out of all the State buildings visited she alone was the only hostess that made it a point to extend a personal greeting. This compliment was expressed by both old and young.

During intervals Miss Little visited a number of historic spots, including Williamsburg, where the oldest Episcopal church in this country stands. Rev. Mr. Goodwin, the rector, and following each service, would give a brief history of the parish. The Colonial Inn, one of the oldest in that part of Virginia, was also an interesting point. Miss Little was a guest of the proprietor and his family. It was at this place that "The Voice of the People," and "To Have and to Hold," were written.

On one occasion Miss Little chaperoned a party of ten to Williamsburg showing them the interesting sites. Another historic point visited was Yorktown. It is said that not a single improvement has been made in this town in 300 years. Among the other points of interest visited were Newport News, the shipyards, Hampton Institute, Virginia Beach and Richmond.

At Richmond Miss Little called on Captain J. R. Rosser, who is sixty-nine years old and who for ten years has been custodian at the Confederate Soldiers' Home. There are now 280 Confederate soldiers there and during the past year forty-six deaths occurred. Among the most imposing things exhibited there is "Old Sorrell," the famous horse which carried Stonewall Jackson through many battles. It was while riding this animal that the famous general was shot.

Among the extensive notes gathered by Miss Little was gleaned interesting facts about Richmond. She visited the Monumental church, now standing on the site of the old Richmond theatre, burned December 26, 1811, at which time Governor G. W. Smith and seventy-two other people were burned to death. This church was erected in 1812. Then she called at the State capitol, Public library and at Hollywood cemetery, which is sixty-seven years old, she learned that there are 18,000 Confederate dead buried there; two Presidents, Monroe and Tyler, and two Union soldiers.

The site of the old Libby Prison was visited, as was also the National cemetery, where 6,522 Federal soldiers are buried; old St. John's church, erected in 1741, and where Patrick Henry made his famous speech. The baptismal font is said to be 300 years old and the oldest grave in the cemetery is 156 years old.

Miss Little considered it quite an honor that among the notable visitors at the State building was Governor-elect J. Franklin Fort. He called a week before Thanksgiving, spending a day at the exposition.

TWO CONVICTS ESCAPE FROM STATE PRISON

Thomas Buckley, of Morris county, a thirteen-year convict, and John Langerberg, of Passaic county, serving a five-year sentence, escaped from the State Prison at Trenton at dusk yesterday afternoon. Wearing the gray garb of the prison they passed through several streets and had a long start, as their absence was not discovered for almost an hour.

A rope, on the end of which was an improvised iron hook, dangling from the prison wall showed how the escape was accomplished. It is supposed that a duplicate key, either stolen or made by one of the men, enabled them to get out of the cell house. Both men were trusties and had more freedom about the prison than other prisoners.

Buckley handed the keeper in the new wing a note from a keeper in another part of the prison. The keeper, following the instruction contained in the note, went to the end of the wing on an errand. When he returned Buckley and Langenberg were gone. Buckley was committed to the prison on October 20, 1905, for robbery and breaking jail in Morris county. Langenberg began his sentence for larceny on December 13, 1906.

CHIEF CLERK STORRS GIVEN BIG SILVER LOVING CUP.

Henry Justus Storrs, of Kensington avenue, for fifty years chief clerk in the Department of Finance, New York city, was presented with a big silver loving cup by clerks and officers of the department at the banquet given in his honor at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel last night. All day yesterday congratulatory letters and telegrams, with scores of floral remembrances of the occasion were brought to Mr. Storrs at his desk in New York, and in the evening the mammoth banquet, attended by 200 of his fellow-workers and city officials, was the culmination of the anniversary.

Mr. Storrs was unable to give his address because of recent throat trouble, so the speech was read by Rev. M. A. Craft. In it were incidents of the Plainfielder's career, from the days when Azariah C. Flagg was comptroller. He has served under fourteen comptrollers and is now right hand man of Comptroller Metz, the present office holder.

Dr. Frank Ard has returned from a visit with his parents in Westfield, N. Y.

MINING IN CANADA

The CRAWFORD MINES---OUR OFFER

Canada has some wonderful Mines. Its great mineral resources are just beginning to be realized by the outside world. Its mineral area is extensive, and almost wholly undeveloped. It is the fifth country of the world in production of Gold. It has the greatest Silver Mines in the world. The greatest Nickel Mines of any country are in Canada. Copper, Iron, Lead,—in fact, all the precious metals and minerals are found in Canada.

Extending through Northern Ontario and eastward into Quebec is a great Mineralized Zone. Within this mineral belt rich discoveries of Gold, Silver, and Copper are being made. New Mining Districts and Mining Camps are attracting the attention of Investors and Mining Men from all parts of the world. The future development of Canada's Mineral resources will be most extensive and profitable.

One of the mining properties in this great mineral country is the now famous CRAWFORD MINES. These properties were discovered last Spring. Active development has been in progress since last June. Immense veins of ore containing Gold, Silver, Platinum, and Copper are being developed. It is expected that the Crawford Mines will be on a producing basis next Spring.

Several hundred tons of ore are now on the dump from Shafts Nos. 1 and 5 ready for shipment. A railroad runs through the properties, and within 200 feet of these shafts. A siding will soon be put in, then shipments of ore will commence.

IT IS IN THIS GREAT PROPERTY, THAT IS BEING SO RAPIDLY DEVELOPED TO A PRODUCING DIVIDEND STAGE, THAT WE MAKE OUR OFFER, AND IN WHICH WE URGE YOU TO INVEST.

In all the fields of mining we know of NO INVESTMENT—no mining property—that equals the prospects of the Crawford. Therefore, we can only say that investors are wise who take advantage of our offer. The Crawford Mines, it is believed, will develop into the richest and largest dividend paying mines in all of Canada. We believe Crawford shares will reach a high valuation.

OUR OFFER.

The Crawford Mining Company was recently incorporated under the Ontario Laws with a capital of only 600,000 shares of $1.00 each. Mr. M. Crawford, a very conservative, trustworthy mining man, with a lifetime experience in mining, is the President and Manager. One hundred and Fifty Thousand shares of the Crawford Company were quickly subscribed for in Canada through the well-known Financial Agents, D. H. Hulbert & Co., of Toronto, Ontario. Mr. Hulbert is Secretary of the Crawford Co. Hulbert & Co. have withdrawn their offer to give 100 shares of Crawford stock for $18. They will not sell any more of their allotment for less than $2.00 per share. They believe the development of the Crawford properties will soon establish this value for Crawford shares.

We secured a block of Crawford stock (25,000 shares). It is the only block that can be placed in the United States. Following our plan of forming Underwriting Syndicates to take up what we believe to be good things offered, AND AT A LOW PRICE, we are now taking subscriptions to a Syndicate consisting of only 100 MEMBERSHIPS. We will divide the 25,000 shares of Crawford stock with subscribers to this Syndicate.

Memberships will be 250 shares of Crawford stock. WE WILL SELL THE FIRST 50 MEMBERSHIPS FOR $50 EACH. Most anybody can subscribe for this for we will accept payments of $5 with application, and $5 monthly for nine months.

The next 25 Memberships of 250 shares will be sold for $60, payable $6 per month. The last 25 Memberships will be sold for $70, payable $7 per month.

The $50 price for memberships will remain open but a very limited time. In fact, there are only 50 at this price, and they will soon be subscribed for.

There is a wonderful opportunity for a big profit to all who subscribe to this Syndicate. We urge you not to delay. If each subscriber took only ONE Membership only 50 PEOPLE could get the FIRST PRICE of $50.

This is advice we believe investors will do well to accept. It is the only block of stock in the Crawford Company that can be bought at this price. We expect to see Crawford shares worth $10 EACH,—250 shares become worth $2,500. We expect to see 250 shares worth within 9 months, (by the time you have completed monthly payments) at least $250.

Should you desire any further information, write us at once. If possible, call at our office and see a large quantity of ore received from the Crawford Mines. DON'T FORGET THIS OFFER. Try and get in on the first 50 Memberships—250 shares for $50—payable $5 per month, or $47 all cash.

Mr. Martine Spoke at Woodbridge.

James E. Martine was one of the speakers at the celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the founding of the Barron Free Library at Woodbridge last night. In his address he summarized the history of the library and its progress during the past forty years, referring especially to the efficient work of Mrs. Gertrude Stewart, the librarian. Other speakers were the Rev. Drs. Jackson, Henry and Mark, of Woodbridge. The reception which was held in the library building, was well attended and at the conclusion of the evening's program, refreshments were served.

Hope Boys Win at Basketball.

The basketball five of the Boys' Club of Hope chapel had an easy time defeating a team of boys from the Stillman School at the Hope gymnasium yesterday afternoon, winning handily by a score of 19-1. Joe Muir and Clinton Firstbrook, of the Hope team, did the best work for their team. The schoolboys scored on a foul in the second half.

ELIZABETH FIVE SMOTHERED BY LOCAL Y.M.C.A. TEAM

Concluding the game with the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. five with a whirlwind rally in an effort to pass the century mark in the scoring before time was called, the local association team scored eighteen points in the last three minutes of play and won from their opponents 95-21. The Plainfield five showed the best team work of the season and had little or no opposition in working their passing. The nine baskets which concluded the scoring for the local team were made after some excellent passing coupled with accurate shooting in which Miner was especially prominent. The visitors couldn't seem to understand the trick that did the business in time to break up the passing.

For the local five, Rumsey did the best work shooting baskets, scoring twenty-seven points in the course of the game. Collier showed a big improvement over his form in the Rahway game, scoring ten baskets from the floor and making four goals from fouls. Miner, who took Loizeaux's place in the second half, scored eight baskets from the floor in the single period he was in the game.

The game was the first of the season for the Elizabeth five, and the players claimed that they had not practised together before last night. They were deficient in passing and team work, but there was some excellent individual play, Reisman and Manville excelling in the shooting and making some baskets from long shots. The summaries follow:

PLAINFIELD.		ELIZABETH.
Rumsey		Manville
	left forward.
Gilmore		Reisman
	right forward.
Collier		Losier
	centre.
Loizeaux, Miner		E. Losier
	right guard.

Baskets from the floor: Rumsey, 13; Collier, 10; Miner, 8; Gilmore, 5; Loizeaux, 5; Reisman, 5; Gavett, 4; Manville, 3; Losier. Goals from fouls: Collier, 4; Reisman, 3; Rumsey. Referee, Charles B. Morse. Twenty minute halves.

BAKER KILLED BY A TRAIN.

Asbury Park Man, Terribly Mangled, Supposed to Have Been Struck by a Freight.

Asbury Park, Dec. 17.—His skull crushed in and his face battered almost beyond recognition, the body of Hugh A. White, Sr., a baker, sixty-eight years old, was found yesterday beside the railroad tracks, forty yards north of the Springwood avenue crossing, by the crew of a paper train. White left the bakery of Robert Weir, on Springwood avenue, yesterday, and it is supposed that he was struck by a through northbound freight.

Coroner William E. MacDonald, who was summoned from Bradley Beach, took charge of the body. Besides the injuries of his head and face, both arms and both legs were broken and crushed, and the chest was crushed. White had lived in this country for seventeen years and was a native of Belfast, Ireland. He resided at 222 Main street, and leaves a widow and four sons.

One of the features in "His Honor the Mayor," which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night, is a clever satire on the famous waltz in "The Merry Widow." Harry Kelly and Madelyn Marshall sing a song entitled "I Wish I Could Find the Man Who Wrote The Merry Widow Waltz." The music is the same as that which has done more than anything else to make "The Merry Widow" the greatest musical comedy success of the past twenty years. The words are clever and the dance as executed by Mr. Kelly and Miss Marshall is very funny. The song takes eight and nine encores every night. It is not necessary that one should have seen "The Merry Widow" first by any means.

When a play has been presented for six entire seasons to large and delightful audiences, returning three and four times during that period to many of the cities visited, it is safe to assume that that particular play is what is called "a great big hit." This is the history of Lottie Blair Parker's play, "Under Southern Skies," which returns to this city on Christmas day, afternoon and night, at the New Plaineld theatre. This play has enjoyed phenomenal prosperity during the six years of its existence and now is in its seventh season of continued success. Of all southern plays of recent years "Under Southern Skies" has proven the most popular. The reason is not hard to find. The main story is one that appeals strongly to every heart. It holds the spectator tense and interested until the curtain falls. But it is the manner of telling this story which forms the great and unusual charm of "Under Southern Skies." The characteristic traits of the southern people are so vividly drawn, by the author, the air of southern beauty, chivalry, romance and gayety so permeate the entire play and production that it seems less a play than an actual presentment of a bit of real life.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The annual offering of Muhlenberg Hospital will be received at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Sunday.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will meet his class in the church parlors tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

All of the Sunday-schools connected with the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will unite in a Christmas service next Sunday afternoon at the home church.

"Feeding the Five Thousand," will be the subject of the prayer service at the First Baptist church tomorrow night. The pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, will lead.

The Boys' Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will meet in the large parlor of the church Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The subject will be "Christmas Eve at Bethlehem."

Appropriate to Christmas-tide, short addresses will be made by the ministers of the home church and chapels at the mid-week prayer service to be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow night.

On Christmas Day morning, December 25, the services at the Church of the Holy Cross will be as follows: Holy communion at 6 to 8 o'clock; morning prayer, sermon and holy communion at 10:30 o'clock. On Thursday night, December 26, the Sunday-school Christmas entertainment will be held at the parish house.

Rev. W. T. Elsing, for twenty-five years minister of the DeWitt Memorial Presbyterian church on the lower East Side of New York, will address the Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Friday night. Mr. Elsing is one of the authorities on the problems of the tenements and the foreigners.

Regular Nightmare.

"Well, Bobby," said young Lightwit, as the small brother of the only girl entered the grocery, "how are all the folks, and what can I do for you this morning?"

"Oh, the folks ain't got on kick comin' except Mame. I hear her tellin' maw she dreamed about you last night," answered Bobby.

"And what did your mother say?" queried Lightwit, bending over the counter eagerly.

"Maw said she'd have to cut out mince pie and pickle lunches 'fore goin' t' bed after this—and I want a nickel package of crackers and two cents' worth of milk," rejoined the youngster.—Chicago News.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Pictures, paintings and drawings always make a suitable Christmas gift and the Plainfield Art Store in the Y. M. C. A. building is offering an attractive line of each just now.

William H. Pope, the North avenue electrician, makes a specialty of wiring of all kinds. Ask him for estimates in helping you make an attractive holiday display with lights.

There is lots of hauling and express work to be done at Christmas time. H. J. Wierenga is ready with trucks and men to take care of any kind. His office is at Sattels, 108 North avenue.

An edison phonograph or Victor talking-machine would make an enjoyable Christmas gift. H. K. Lister, of North avenue, sells both; also records comprising the latest selections. Drop in and hear them.

Before completing your shopping for the holidays at A. M. Griffen' hardware store and see the suitable articles he is offering for gifts. The recipient would be pleased with one of the many things obtainable at this store.

The shoppers in search of any kind of Christmas gift should not fail to visit M. & A. Tepper's store. The big establishment is reple with goods of every description and courteous clerks lend every assistance in making selections. Purchases are delivered free.

If you haven't bought your winter clothes yet, you can do no better than make your selection of suit and overcoat from Harry Werner's on West Front street. You will find a big assortment of styles and clothes to choose from. Headquarters for hats, shirts, ties and gloves.

Combine usefulness and beauty in your gift giving this Christmas by selecting furniture from Powlison & Jones, East Front street, for the Christmas present. Excellent line of chairs, tables and bookcases, especially suitable for gifts. Visit the display rooms before you buy all your Christmas gifts.

A little more than a week remains for you to do your Christmas shopping. While making the rounds don't forget to patronize the Woodhull & Martin Company store. The stock and departments are so varied that you can get nearly everything you want there at low prices. Gifts for every member of the family and suitable ones, too, are to be found and you will save yourself money and trouble by making your purchases at this store.

It availed me little to have penetrated so far into the enemy's stronghold unless I could accomplish still more. At any moment Alphonse might give the alarm, and I wished to take Madame de Varnier by surprise.

I began to make a circuit of the triangular room. I paused at each door and knocked softly. At none of the rooms did I receive any response. I was at once perplexed and dismayed. There was no reason why either Captain Forbes or Madame de Varnier should keep silence.

And then a maddening thought struck me. Perhaps my crafty knave, Jacques, had been more cunning than I had given him the credit of being. What if he had cleverly whetted my curiosity, acting on instructions from Dr. Starva? What if Alphonse had deliberately lured me here? What if I were a prisoner myself?

Dismayed that I should have been so great a fool, I again made the round of each of the doors, not knocking this time, but shaking the handle of each. And as I seized the handle of the third door, it yielded to the touch and swung silently on its hinges.

I stood at the lintel, abashed at my angry intrusion.

It was the oratory of Madame de Varnier.

Little larger than a closet, and in shape a half crescent; the walls were hung with purple velvet. Facing me was an altar. Two tapers flickered on either side of the crucifix.

Before the altar, her eyes bent to the crucifix, knelt Madame de Varnier, the adventuress, absorbed in her devotions. Even my entrance was unnoticed.

But it was not piety of this extraordinary woman that held me petrified in astonishment and speechless.

Within arm's reach, as I stood there, was a bier. And on it, his hands crossed on his breast, his pallid face strangely calm, lay the mortal remains of him whom I knew at once to be Sir Mortimer Brett.

It was a terrifying apparition. Terrifying, because it might have been myself lying there, so strikingly similar at first sight was the likeness of myself to the dead minister. But as the candles, which had flickered in the draught made by the open door, burned more steadily and I looked at his face closely I saw that after all the resemblance was but superficial. I recovered my senses. Now at last I was to know the truth.

Twice I opened my lips to call to the woman who knelt there. But I could not bring myself to speak. The holy dead banished passion from this place. Here I could not reproach and threaten her. I stood silently at the threshold, pitying rather than condemning, waiting for her to discover my presence.

Minutes passed before she turned her head.

Our eyes met, myself sternly questioning with a look. Startled she was at my dramatic entrance, but she met my stern look in absolute calm. No terror or shadow of guilt distorted her tragic beauty. I had come to denounce, to demand justice. I found myself rather pitying.

"Madame de Varnier," I said gently, "the hour has come when you must tell me the truth."

I raised her to her feet and led her from the oratory, closing the door behind me.

She clung to me in the fervor of her appeal.

"Yes," she whispered, "it is the hour when you must know the truth."

CHAPTER XXIV.

In the Tower of the Three Rooms.

The great room of the central tower was almost bare of furniture, as I have said. In the center was a long table such as one sometimes sees in the refectory of a monastery. Half a dozen chairs stood against the walls. I placed two of these chairs near the table.

"Not here," she cried, glancing toward the little room we had left.

"And why not?" Here at least we shall be free from interruption."

She went to the door of the staircase.

"It is locked," she cried, startled.

"Yes, I have taken the precaution of seeing that we are not disturbed," I said calmly. "Now, madam, in which of those two rooms is Captain Forbes a prisoner?"

If my knowledge surprised her, she concealed her chagrin cleverly. She gesticulated to the room at the right of the oratory.

"And perhaps the key of the staircase unlocks that door as well?"

She shook her head, smiling at me defiantly.

"Has your servant the key?"

"No."

"Then, where is it?"

"Women are supposed not to have pockets. But I can hide a key about my person as well as you. How did you find your way here?"

"I surprised Alphonse opening the door of the staircase behind the tapestry."

"Ah, you are clever. I knew it," she cried approvingly.

"This is no time for compliments. Captain Forbes must be released."

"And if I refuse?"

"I shall insist."

"Very well, I refuse."

I looked my perplexity. Though we were so near the chamber of death, with the facile light-heartedness of the Latin race she banished its grim memory. This woman had nerves of steel. She moved in callous indifference from tragic scenes to those of flippant comedy. Or perhaps she saw the uselessness of enraging me.

"If I compel you forcibly—"

"Do American gentlemen assault their hostesses?"

She had me at a complete disadvantage. To carry out my threat was impossible.

"Come, madam, let us come to terms."

"Gladly, monsieur." She swept me a mock courtesy.

"And they are?"

"He shall walk out of the chateau when you have heard my story."

"Even if I refuse to help you?"

She hesitated a moment. "Yes," she promised with a sigh.

I put no great faith in that promise. Nothing was simpler than for her to promise. But if presently she still refused, I could resort to extreme measures then as readily as now. If Captain Forbes was indeed a prisoner of Madame de Varnier, and she actually did have in her possession the key that would open the door of his prison, I held Madame de Varnier equally at a disadvantage.

"He is unharmed, then?"

"A scratch or two, perhaps. But to a brave soldier it is nothing. He is a tactless visitor, your Captain Forbes. I confess that the methods of Dr. Starva are not too delicate in finesse. But since he has committed the blunder of detaining him, I prefer not to make it worse by releasing him—just yet."

I accepted her decision in silence.

"I could have wished you in a more favorable mood, monsieur," she said wistfully. "I am afraid you will listen to me as a judge rather than as a friend."

"Be sure of this: if I am to help you it will be only to save you perhaps from the consequences of your folly."

"Myself!" she protested passionately. "Merciful Heaven, I am not thinking of myself. Sometimes the individual must be sacrificed to save a race. Did Joan of Arc or Charlotte Corday think of themselves? Life, honor—everything—I sacrifice them a thousand times to save my country."

She was no longer the saint praying for the dead at the altar. A fierce energy possessed her. Her words filled me with something akin to horror. She extolled a murderess. Were her own hands red with murder?

"It is the price I must pay," she continued gloomily. "I pay it without murmuring. If I were a man I should be fighting for my poor people with the sword. I am a weak woman. I must fight with a woman's weapons. Sometimes those weapons have been spying, even what you might call treachery. Say that you despise me."

"The story," I cried. "Your prelude, madam, is not fortunate."

She shook her head wearily. Did she despair already of my aid?

"Nevertheless, I say these weapons are sometimes necessary in my unequal fight for an oppressed race. When I use them against enemies, far from feeling remorse or pity, I glory in causing pain. But sometimes there crosses my path one whom I respect, who is generous and strong. It is then that I shudder at the suffering I must cause. But I do not spare him, however brave and generous he may be."

"Such a one was Sir Mortimer Brett," I interrupted sternly.

"For my country I glory that Sir Mortimer has stooped to dishonor. For my country you must bear the burden of his dishonor."

She spoke rapidly, her voice rising from a whisper to a cry that was strident and harsh. She made strange gestures as though she were in physical pain, striking the table with her open palm as she spoke the last words.

"I must bear the burden of Sir Mortimer's dishonor!"

Now that the words were spoken I knew that I had expected them. For this I had come to the chateau. This was my task.

"You will do this—not for me; I am not so mad as to dream that now. I am your enemy in spite of myself. Presently you will despise me and hate me. But you cannot escape from the ordeal. But for that other woman—the woman you have sworn to help—for her you will make the sacrifice."

"You speak in riddles," I said coldly. "Enough of vague menace and warning."

"She will go down on her knees to you. She will offer you any reward, any happiness. In saving the honor of her name, you must stoop to dishonor."

"Never! Honor is not to be purchased in that coin."

"Or what the world calls dishonor," she added in eager haste. "It is the motive that exalts the deed. Is it not always noble to suffer for another?

And it is not merely the happiness of one woman I place in your hands. It is the chastity of a thousand women—the appeasing of the hunger of ten thousand children—the destiny of a race."

"You will find that I am not to be moved by these heroics. Tell me how I am to save the honor of Sir Mortimer Brett."

"What in the sight of God is a lie," she continued vehemently, heedless of my impatience, "if it will save the pure soul of a young girl, if it will give back children to their mothers? Say boldly that I am asking you to act a lie? Look, we will no longer fool ourselves. I ask you to do a little evil that much good may come. I ask you to submit to disgrace, not merely for this woman of your own society, but that you may be the savior of a nation. Monsieur, be merciful!"

"The facts!" I insisted.

"First of all, though it may weary you, I wish to tell you a little of myself. My parents were of that most unhappy race, the Macedonian Christians. My father was rich for that country; we were happy. But when I was a child I was awakened one night by the crash of musketry and the glare of flames. The Turkish butchers had attacked our vilayet. I saw my sister snatched from her mother's arms and stabbed before my eyes. A blow felled my mother. My father was thrown to earth, manacled and trodden upon. I was taken captive.

"My fate would have been even more horrible had I not been the captive of a Turkish officer who was kind to me and adopted me. But he was one of that hated race, and secretly I tolerated his kindness only to be revenged. In some way he offended the Sultan; my protector was banished. We lived in Paris.

"At last the hour of my vengeance came. He had an enemy, one of his own race. I betrayed him. He died a violent death, and that night, I think, I was happy.

"I found myself rich; he had left me everything. I was beautiful and well educated; a life of pleasure lay before me. Well, I have drunk deep of the cup of pleasure. But that I might be happy? No. If I have banqueted with princes, it was to learn their secrets. I have flattered and cajoled enemies that I might betray them. Sometimes I have betrayed my friends. In short, I am consecrated to my country. For her I have made myself an adventuress. If I could not directly further her cause, there were secrets to be bought and sold at a price. The money purchased bread and arms. I have schemed, intrigued, betrayed, tempted—always to bring Macedonia one step nearer her freedom."

"Madame de Varnier," I interrupted, with a brutal directness, "at any other time these personal reminiscences might be interesting enough, but now—"

"You are adamant," she cried despairingly. "It is impossible, it seems, to awaken your sympathy. Then I must appeal to your intelligence. You must understand something of the political situation."

"I know enough of that already. Once more I must beg you to come to the episode of Sir Mortimer Brett."

"How can you know anything of the complexities of the Balkan situation?" she demanded, at once startled and surprised.

"Suffice it that I know this: Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria will invade Turkish Macedonia, and free that territory from the Turkish yoke, if his army is financed by Kuhn, a banker of New York City but a Macedonian by birth. This banker makes one stipulation: Bulgaria must have England's promise of her moral support; England must promise Bulgaria a free field. Sir Mortimer Brett was to have gained that promise from England. You made Sir Mortimer the victim of your intrigues. How, and to what extent—that is what I wish to know."

"I was sent to Sofia to accomplish that. It seemed a hopeless task. For 15 years he had resisted every entreaty and bribe. He had the absolute confidence of the British Foreign Office. But it was necessary to win him over at any cost. We had secret information to the effect that if he advised England's interference she would interfere.

"You are impatient; I shall not weary you by telling of my efforts. Sir Mortimer was a cold man and extremely difficult of approach. For some time I despaired of influencing him. But I learned at last that beneath his calm exterior was actually a heart that throbbed—for the sufferings of Macedonia."

"How did you learn this?" I demanded, curiously, as she paused.

"You will despise me the more when I tell you," she replied hesitatingly, and her face was scarlet. "I stole his diary. It seems atrocious to you that I should so have repaid his kindness; but I have told you that to play the spy, to be the high priestess of cunning, has been my lot. This diary revealed to me Sir Mortimer's true character.

"I have said that he was extremely reserved, a virtue that all diplomatists must possess. He was never to be tricked or excited into a rash statement. Every word he spoke with the precision of an automaton, because every spoken word was weighed."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Getting Along.

"Wasn't that Tripp I saw going down the street just now?" asked the returned tourist.

"Yes," replied the stay-at-home, "he's still with us."

"I suppose he stammers as badly as ever?"

"No; he's becoming quite adept at it now."—Philadelphia Press.

HUDSON CITY FIVE WON FROM Y.M.C.A. SECONDS

The fast five from the Hudson City Y. M. C. A. had things all their own way with the second team of the local Y. M. C. A. at the local gymnasium last night and after keeping the lead through the whole game, won out handily 39-22. The visitors played first class basketball, marked by snappy passing, close guarding and accurate shooting during both halves, and were especially successful in getting the ball away from the local players, thus spoiling much good team work. They led in the scoring from the first, and shot five baskets in quick succession, before the local team began to score.

The close guarding of the visitors prevented much team work on the part of the second team, but Templin, who scored three baskets from the floor, broke away from his man for some sensational long shots, and Jacot got free to score twice. The two did especially well shooting fouls. The lineups and summaries follow:

PLAINFIELD 2D.		HUDSON CITY.
Templin	left forward.	Roth
Bentley	right forward.	Lach
Jacot	centre.	Stankowitz
Martin	right guard.	Coepling

Baskets from the floor: Stankowitz, 6; Lash, 4; Roth, 4; Templin, 3; Hager, 3; Jacot, 2; Hoagland, Martin, Coepling. Goals from fouls: Templin, 3; Jacot, 3; Roth, 3. Referee, Charles B. Morse. Twenty minute halves.

BOWLING.

Tourney games will be continued at Campbell's alleys tonight, the competing teams being the Brian Borus and the Napoleons. They will line up as follows: Brian Borus—Harry Radin, captain; Harry Ackor, Dr. F. C. Herbert, Harry Kuehn and Edward McMahon. Napoleons—Frank Willett, captain; John Conklin, William Mullen, George Vanderbilt and Edward Toense. The Brian Borus are among the leaders in the tourney while the Napoleons are near the bottom of the percentage column.

PARROT FAVORS ENGLISH

Elizabeth's Strongest Leader Counted Upon as his Supporter for Prosecutorship.

ROBERT EATON THE ASSISTANT.

It's Either Swift and Hetfield or English and Eaton, According to the Wise Ones.

According to the wise ones, "there's a wheel within a wheel" so far as the fight over the prosecutorship is concerned, for some of the big cogs are quietly working for the appointment of the present assistant, John K. English, despite the fact that the county organization's propeller, Chairman Frank H. Smith, is steadily at work in the interests of District Court Judge C. Addison Swift. In Plainfield, it is all one-sided, but in Elizabeth "things are different now" for English has mustered some strength, including Surrogate George T. Parrot. Mr. Parrot is counted upon to help elevate the assistant prosecutor, whose slate is said to include the selection of Robert Eaton, the present clerk to the grand jury, as his assistant. State Senator E. R. Ackerman has reiterated his statement that he is taking no part in the contest but will recommend to Governor-elect Fort the candidate whom he believes represents the will of the people.

County Chairman Smith made a Napoleonic move when he got a resolution through the county committee that in the future all candidates for appointment must receive the endorsement of that body. Smith, it is said, must have counted noses among its membership as to the prosecutorship fight before the resolution was introduced and the bit of strategy is taken as a severe blow to English's chances.

ITALIANS ON TRIAL CHARGED WITH MURDER.

J. V. F. Dilts, David C. Smalley and Philip Becker, of this city, are members of the jury in the trial of Francisca Forca and Joseph Legano, on an indictment charging them with the murder of Francisco Folgia, on the night of November 4 last. The trial began yesterday in the Court of Oyer and Terminer before Justice Francis J. Swayze in Elizabeth, and is still on today. Ira L. LaRue, of this city, was one of those called as a juryman, but was challenged and excused because he said that he did not believe in capital punishment.

Folgia was twice stabbed in the abdomen, after leaving Nicholas La Corte's saloon, in "Peterstown," near Elizabeth. He was removed to Alexian Brothers Hospital, where he died two days later. Just previous to his death he gave information which led to the arrest of Forca and Lagano, who, when taken before him, were identified by the dying man. The stabbing is believed to have been done with a pair of scissors.

Seniors Preparing Their Play.

Rehearsals are being held regularly by the members of the Senior class of the North Plainfield High School for the farce to be given in connection with the Christmas exercises of the upper classes of the school, which will be held in the Somerset school auditorium Thursday night. The final dress rehearsal, including the entire cast of seventeen seniors, will be held at the school tonight. The play to be presented is called "Ye Village Skule of Long Ago.'

Funeral of Adolph Thomas.

The funeral of Adolph Thomas, whose death occurred in Muhlenberg Hospital, was held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at his late home on Spooner avenue. It was conducted by Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. The floral tributes included a set piece from the employes of the Potter Press Works where he was in the machine shop for many years. Burial was at Hillside.

Pavement Work Finished for Year.

The brick pavement work, that is all that is to be done this year, was finished yesterday when the brick was laid between the trolley tracks on Watchung avenue, opposite the trolley stand. This had to be torn up to permit the laying of the double tracks on that thoroughfare. The expense had to be borne by the Public Service Corporation and it made arrangements with Contractor Meeker to have the work done by Sub-Contractor William Foley.

Brought Body Here for Burial.

The body of Orlando Chamberlain, the former well known Plainfielder who died at the home of his daughter in Chicago last month, was brought to this city for burial yesterday. The body was placed in a vault following the funeral service where it had since remained.

FREEDOM CASTLE EAGLES ELECT NEW OFFICERS

The annual election of officers was held at the meeting of Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, last night, when the following officers were elected: Noble chief, Clarence Van Dorn; vice chief, Arthur Caleen; sir herald, Clark Lowry; high priest, Frank Runyon; master of records, A. R. Vail; clerk of the exchequer, Richard Kinney; keeper of the exchquer, W. W. F. Randolph; venerable hermit, Walter Butz; representative to the Grand Lodge, Peter Bennett, who has been noble chief of the lodge during the past year. Harvey L. Schmeyer was elected trustee of the lodge to serve for eighteen months.

The officers elected last night will be regularly installed in their new offices Tuesday evening, January 6, at which time District Deputy Orville Moore and staff, of New Brunswick, will be present and the regular lodge ceremony will be carried through. It is expected that there will be other prominent Eagles from various State lodges present at the installation. After the election of officers at the meeting last night, the local degree team worked the third degree on two candidates.

MISS M'CUTCHEN READS PAPER ON "THE ENGLISH"

In the study of the American people by the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, the subject for consideration at the meeting yesterday afternoon in the lecture room was "The English." It was treated in an admirable historical paper by Miss Margaret W. McCutchen, showing that to the English more than to any other nation belonged the making of this country.

The founding of the colony in Virginia by men accustomed to leisure and the founding of colonies in New England by men and women who became exiles for conscience sake, were antipodal ideas, the speaker said, and between the two were many influences controlling the settlement of the thirteen States. Some of these were detailed by Miss McCutchen in a most interesting manner, concluding with the thought that the success of the English compared with other nations in the colonization of the country was due to the higher ideals of the English people. The Spanish, she said, colonized for spoils and the French for adventure, but the English colonized to establish homes and carry out their ideals of religion and good government.

The paper was preceded by a devotional service, led by Mrs. George Brown, and followed by an interesting talk on the Kiowa Indians by Mrs. Whitney Brown, who spent some months among them in company with a missionary and his wife.

THE MISSES ARNOLD'S FAIR FOR THE CHILDREN'S HOME.

The fair arranged by Miss Marguerite Arnold and Miss Edith Arnold, daughters of City Treasurer and Mrs. W. F. Arnold, of Third place, for the benefit of the Children's Home, was continued yesterday afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock, and proved a success. There was offered for sale fancy articles, candy and ice cream and everything was disposed of. The net proceeds for the Children's Home will be about $76.

The Misses Arnold were assisted in their laudable efforts by the Misses Edith Ogden, Margaret Russell, Esther Phillips and Gwendolyn Stanton in the making and sale of fancy articles; while Miss Caroline Slauson, Miss Pauline Gates and Robert Gavett assisted in the sale and serving of ice cream. The fair was largely attended by young folks and they were liberal in their patronage.

Twenty-fifth Concert a Success.

A large and appreciative audience was present at the twenty-fifth concert given by the . M. C. A. orchestra in the auditorium last night. Martin A. Korff, as leader of the orchestra, was in charge of the thirty-five musicians. Percy Mygrant, who was to have rendered several selections, was unable to be present ond account of illness, and DeWitt Frazee and David Lawson rendered a cornet and trombone solo in place of his number. Aside from the eight numbers by the full orchestra, Mrs. A. B. Price, of Westfield, rendered several soprano solos. She was accompanied at the piano by Miss Agnes E. Bailey. Walter M. Sampson and J. P. Faber won applause by their flute duett, accompanied by Edward Spier.

U. S. Senate Committees.

In the allotment of chairmanships in the United States Senate, John Kean has been placed at the head of the committee on contingent expenses and Frank O. Briggs on the committee on Treasury expenses.

SHOPLIFTER HELD IN BAIL

Mrs. Samuel Taynor is Held for the Grand Jury for Stealing in Newark.

FOR TAKING SOME SILVERWARE

Store Detective Gets Her After a Tussle—Prisoner Formerly Resided in North Plainfield.

Object lessons in shoplifting were given by Miss Louisa Eltoft, a private detective in the employ of L. S. Plaut & Co., in the First Precinct Police Court, at Newark, yesterday, when Mrs. Lillian Taynor, forty-four years old, formerly of this city, but now of Woodbridge, arrested Monday afternoon by Detective-Sergeant Fohs and Sergeant Connell, of police headquarters, on complaint of Miss Eltoft, was arraigned. The Traynor woman, who is said to have admitted the theft of $49 worth of silver novelties and jewelry, was held by Acting Judge Yuill in $300 for the grand jury.

Mrs. Taynor is the wife of Samuel Traynor, who resided on Lincoln place until a year ago, when they removed to Woodbridge. Mr. Taynor had a blacksmith shop on Washington avenue, near the city and borough dividing line.

In asking Miss Eltoft what directed her attention to the shoplifter, Rudolph A. Braun, representing the latter, was given a practical demonstration of the methods used by shoplifters generally and those employed by Mrs. Taynor in particular. Miss Eltoft explaining that it was the woman's stealthy manner of examining goods that first excited her suspicion.

The arrest of the Taynor woman was not accomplished without a tussel. The woman detective permitted the prisoner to reach the exit before asking her to step into the company's office. This, it is said, she consented to do, but instead of accompanying Miss Eltoft made an effort to gain the street. Something of a scuffle followed, but with the assistance of a floor walker Miss Eltoft succeeded in getting the woman under subjection. She was kept a prisoner in the store until the arrival of the headquarters men. On examination at police headquarters an unloaded .32 caliber revolver was found.

A man who claimed to be the woman's husband, visited police headquarters after her arrest. He was said to be intoxicated, and was finally ordered from the building.

BOROUGH TAXES COME IN FAST IN ANNUAL RUSH TO PAY.

Borough property owners, realizing that Friday is the last day to pay their taxes, are fairly pouring money in to Borough Tax Collector George F. Brown today. The annual rush of the last few days of tax paying has begun, and it is probable that most of the $30,000 outstanding will be paid in before Friday, after which time interest will be charged.

Marshal Charles Keller has been assigned to the tax collector's office for regular duty until after Friday, and was at the office all day today. Collector Brown reports that he is far ahead in his receipts from taxes to date in comparison with last year, and believes that there will be fewer delinquents than usual.

MAYOR BERRY'S PICTURE IS PLACED IN POSITION.

Pursuant to a policy recently adopted by the Elizabeth Council to deck the walls of its new assembly room with the portraits of all of the city's former mayors, a life-sized bust picture of former Mayor Samuel J. Berry, of that place, was hung last evening in the council chambers, and a committee will wait upon the present Mayor, P. J. Ryan, to obtain his portrait to add to those now on the walls.

In receiving the picture of former Mayor Berry, several Democratic councilmen, including President D. F. Collins, spoke appreciatively of his services to Elizabeth.

Women Hold Christmas Meeting.

Under the auspices of the Women's Association of the Congregational church a Christmas meeting was held in the parlors of the church, yesterday afternoon. Papers were presented by Mrs. Philip S. Suffern and Mrs. James McClymont, Jr., on the subjects of "Positions of Women Among the Hindus, Family Life and Conditions in India." During and after the meeting the women were favored with several vocal selections by Mrs. Theodore Mantz, soprano, and after the program tea was served by members of the association. The affair served a double purpose for in addition to learning about the Hindus, the women brought their Christmas work; also small gifts to be mailed to teachers in the mission schools.

HOT AFTER ASSESSORSHIP

John H. Doane and Arthur Murphy Enter Contest in Second Ward.

MR. HAND HAS STRENGTH.

Lively Time Expected At the Meeting of Republican City Committee When Choice Is Made.

Two new candidates have entered the lists in the contest over the assessorship in the Second ward and a merry time is expected when the Republican city committee meets tomorrow night to make its recommendation to the mayor who holds the power of appointment. Charles H. Hand, who has held the job for a number of years, is strongly backed by some of the organization men in other wards as well as by a few members of the city committee in his own district. If it came to a "show down," it is reported that Mr. Hand would win out but there is another question to be considered since the Republican county committee two nights ago passed a resolution favoring endorsements.

"It's a poor rule that won't work both ways" is the argument being advanced by the Colbyite members of the city committee. They reason that if in the future a candidate for a State appointment must get the endorsement of the county committee, a candidate for a city appointment should be compelled to obtain his ward endorsement. This, it is argued, would put Mr. Hand out of the race for the majority of the Second ward members on the city committee are New Idea men and consequently, it is alleged, opposed to the reappointment of the present incumbent.

The two new figures in the fight are John H. Doane, who like Mr. Hand is engaged in the real estate business and Arthur Murphy, a lawyer. Mr. Doane is a brother of Freeholder J. Hervey Doane.

G.O.P. HOUSE CAUCUS IS FIXED FOR MONDAY

With few legislators at Trenton yesterday, Assemblyman Theodore B. Gibbs, of Camden, by virtue of being the oldest assemblyman in point of service, called the Republican caucus for the House of Assembly for Monday at noon. When the call was issued there was some consternation, for the Camden men were against the slate framed several weeks ago. Some of those affiliated with Camden openly declared that there would be at least twenty-two votes against Martin for leader of the House majority, and that Mr. Jess, of Camden, would land the speakership.

But this is not the situation, for those close to things believe that Mr. Jess is wanted on the floor of the House in case of emergencies. As a matter of fact, none of the leaders care much about the speakership. Clerk in Chancery Lewis wants Mr. Prince, and he has had his own way so far. There was a long conversation between Lewis and State Assessor Baird yesterday morning, and immediately after that conversation the Camden men and those closely affiliated began to talk that Martin was beaten, and that Mr. Jess would land the speakership next Tuesday.

Asked to go into details, they said that Mercer would be with them against Martin and Prince, but this is an error, as the Mercer men so far have committed themselves, except Mr. Thompson, who is for Martin and Prince. They also said that the Morris men would be for whoever the Camden men wanted. This is also an error, for the Morris men have not committed themselves, and will not until after they see what becomes of Senator Hillery, of Morris, tomorrow evening, when the slate is to have him made the caucus nominee for President of the Senate. In fact, there are quite a few things dependent on that Senate caucus.

It is improbable that Camden will make much of a row, for they have to consider State Comptroller Morgan's reappointment, and, should they behave bad toward Martin, it is likely that Essex would put in an Essex man for state comptroller. With eleven votes to start with and the help of some of the north Jersey counties, especially Passaic and Morris, they might make it interesting for the return of Mr. Morgan. Unless there is a break, there will be no nominee for state comptroller against Mr. Morgan, and Camden will not force this issue.

M'CULLOUGH ON THE OHIO

Plainfield Boy an Ensign on Big Warship Among Fleet Bound for Pacific.

WAINWRIGHT ON LOUISIANA.

Pluckemin Man Captain of One of the Ships, John Wearren a Plumber on the Kansas and Others Ordinary Seamen.

Sailing with "Fighting Bob" Evans' Pacific squadron of sixteen battleships from Hampton Roads, Monday, were several local sailor boys, and parents and friends of the boys will watch with interest the doings of the big armada which is to sail to the Pacific, around Cape Horn. Ensign "Dick" McCullough, son of R. H. McCullough, of Steiner place, is aboard the Ohio, one of the newer first class sea fighters, of which Captain Charles W. Bartlett is the commander. He graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy two years ago. On the Kansas, which is commanded by Captain Charles E. Vreeland, is John Wearren, of the borough, enlisted as ship's plumber. Ordinary Seaman Edward Kennerd, of North avenue, and Howard Bennett, of East Third street, are also with the fleet. Frank Gaub, of the borough, is machinist on the Chicago, and Thomas Kane, of West Third street, is able bodied seaman on the same ship. The total number of men embarked is 12,400.

The first class battleship Louisiana is in command of Captain Richard Wainwright, of Pluckemin. The fleet is now proceeding in four column formation down the coast, having passed Cape Hatteras Monday night, and is making good time for Trinidad, where a landing will be made Saturday and an ovation given by the people of Port of Spain.

Here are some facts about the cruise:

FLEET—Consists of sixteen battleships, the Connecticut, Louisiana, Kansas, Vermont, Georgia, Virginia, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Minnesota, Ohio, Maine, Missouri, Alabama, Illinois, Kentucky and Kearsarge; four supply ships, the Yankton, Culgoa, Glacier and Panther; six torpedo boats and nine colliers.

CREW—Twelve thousand officers and men, with Admiral Robley D. Evans as commander-in-chief, Rear Admiral William H. Emery as commander of the second division, Rear Admiral Charles M. Thomas as commander of the third division, and Rear Admiral Charles S. Sperry as commander of the fourth division.

ROUTE—From Hampton Roads, via Trinidad, Rio de Janeiro, Punta Arenas, Callao, Magdalena Bay, to San Francisco, a total distance of 13,772 knots.

TIME—Sixty-three steaming days and 52 days in port coaling and at target practice.

COST—Food and other supplies, $6,000,000, and coal, estimated cost, $2,500,000.

ORDER GRANTED RECEIVERS.

They Are Allowed to Continue Operations at the Aluminum Press Works Plant.

Before Vice Chancellor Howell in the Chancery Court at Newark, yesterday, argument was heard in the application of the receivers of the Aluminum Press Company for an order permitting them to continue the operation of the concern's plant at West Dunellen. They asserted that it would be to the best interests of the stockholders to keep on with the work in progress when financial difficulties arose. The application was granted. D. M. Runyon, of this city, is one of the receivers.

The plant has been in operation recently under a temporary order secured.

CITY DEMOCRATS TO HOLD PRIMARY ON FRIDAY NIGHT.

The Democratic City Committee has issued a call for a primary to be held at the Hotel Kensington on Friday night. The object is to choose members for the Union County Committee of the party and the polls will be open from 8 to 9 o'clock for that purpose.

The call is issued by City Chairman Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., and Secretary George E. Firstbrook. No contests are expected, although there is a report that the friends of J. V. F. Dilts will make the primary an intersting one.

Dr. Adams Returns Home.

Dr. D. C. Adams, of Grove street, returned yesterday after a hunting trip of one month on his game preserve in Virginia. He brought with him numerous trophies that bore testimony to his prowess with the rifle.

Herman Alberts is ill with an attack of grip at his home on East Fourth street.

MONEY POURING INTO TAX COLLECTOR'S OFFICE

Despite the apparent stringency in the money market there are no evidences of it at the office of the tax collector. This is Mr. Townsend's busy week and judging by the present rate that taxes are being paid there is likely to be a small delinquent list after Friday, the day when all taxes are due without interest.

In addition to the large amounts being paid in cash, hundreds of checks are being received daily by mail from owners of local property residing out of the city. The rush really began on Monday, and yesterday it assumed large proportions. After the close of the office last night, Mr. Townsend in figuring up the day's business learned that he had received over $25,000. This morning the rush continued and up to noon it looked as though yesterday's figures would be exceeded by several hundred dollars.

One noticeable feature this year in the payment of taxes is the absence of strenuous "kicking." The majority of taxpayers, even though they think that they are high, have learned that the tax collector is not the man responsible for it and they have reserved their complaints for the assessors or county board of taxation. They seem to understand that it will do no good to complain to the collector for he is powerless to help them.

BOOMING GOV. STOKES FOR VICE PRESIDENCY

The North American of Philadelphia is booming Governor Edward C. Stokes for the Republican nomination for vice president as a running mate to Secretary Taft, whose nomination for president the paper evidently regards as a foregone conclusion.

New Jersey, says yesterday's North American, under a Trenton date line, is preparing to put forward her claims for the vice presidential nomination, if Ohio gets the Republican presidential nomination.

Taft and Stokes is the cry here, Ohio and New Jersey, the same as twelve years ago, when the Republican ticket was McKinley and Hobart.

That there is a boom at Trenton for Governor Stokes as the vice presidential nominee is a certainty. His followers point to his unprecedented majority for governor three years ago, and to his splendid record along the lines the people want—curbing the corporations.

CLASSICAL PROGRAM FOR CHAMBER MUSIC CONCERT.

The second on the McIntyre Chamber Music Concerts at the Casino tomorrow night will be a treat to music-lovers. Vladimir Dubinsky, 'cellist, will be one of the artists and a feature will be the appearance of Dr. Carl Dufft, baritone, who is a favorite here. The following classical program will be given:

Rubenstein Trio in B Flat, for piano, violin and 'cello: Moderato assai. Andante, Scherzo (allegretto), finale, (moderator). Song, "Vision Fugitine," from "Herodiade," Massenet; 'cello solo, "Autumn Flowers," and "Dance of the Gnomes," from suite "Im Walde," Popper; songs, "Love Me or Not," Sechi, and "A Maid Sings Light," MacDowell; trio in G, for piano, violin and 'cello, "Adagio Cantabile," and "Gypsy Rondo," Haydn.

MAY BE A MURDER.

Peddler of Fake Watches Found With Bullet Wound in Head.

A man believed to be J. Murphy, of Brooklyn, who had been selling cheap watches to foreigners at South River, was found dead near that village yesterday afternoon with a bullet wound in his head.

Coroner Beekman thinks it is suicide, but Mayor Mark has ordered an investigation of the theory that the man may have been murdered by one of the men victimized into buying a fake watch. He had a tag in his pocket reading: "No 363 Aid Society, 7 Day street, New York."

Will Hold Public Installation.

Court Watchung, No. 3871, Independent Order Foresters, met last night and after the business session the members enjoyed games of all sorts. It has been arranged to spend the last meeting night in the month with games and the members securing the highest averages at the end of a certain period will receive prizes. It was announced last night that a public installation of officers will be held the first Tuesday night in January to be followed by an entertainment and refreshments. One of the high court officers will install the officers.

W. J. BRYAN COMING HERE

"The Peerless One" to Be the Guest of "Farmer-Orator" in February.

MARTINE TO ENTERTAIN HIM.

Nebraskan Promises to Spend Three Days In New Jersey On One of Which He Will Visit Cedar Brook Farm.

There's joy at Cedarbrook farm today for, although it is a long way off, William Jennings Bryan will be entertained there by New Jersey's farmer-orator, James Edgar Martine, in February. It will not be the first occasion on which the Nebraskan has visited the home of his persevering friend who is considered to be closer in touch with him than probably any Democrat in the East, but Mr. Martine is already informally discussing plans for his reception.

When asked by a Daily Press reporter today how Mr. Bryan intended to put in his time this winter while the Republican aspirants are shaping up their booms, the farmer-orator said today: "Mr. Bryan doesn't need to take any junketing trips to the Far East, neither would he use a public office to further his candidacy; his friends will take care of his campaign and he has plenty of them that are just as enthusiastic as I am. I think Mr. Bryan will spend much of his time this winter in the West but he will be here for a short time. I got a letter from him yesterday in which he states that he will come on in February and he promises to spend a few days in New Jersey. I expect to entertain him at my home, and I think I'll have some of his many other admirers meet him there."

DIED WHILE VISITING.

Scotch Plains Township Man Dies at Sister's Home In Brooklyn.

John McGinley, for many years a resident of Fanwood township, owning and conducting a farm at the lower end, died yesterday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Susan Farrell, of Huntington street, New York. He went to Mrs. Farrell's two weeks ago for a visit and was taken ill shortly afterward. He was sixty-three years old and was very well known in this vicinity. Beside Mrs. Farrell he leaves another sister and a brother.

The funeral will be held in St. Mary's church, this city, tomorrow morning at 9:30 and burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Described Trip to Jamaica.

The regular meeting of the Plainfield Clinical Society was held last night at the home of Dr. M. B. Long on Park avenue, ten members being present. The paper was presented by Dr. Long. It treated of some facts learned on a trip to the Island of Jamaica, which the writer made a few weeks ago. It proved to be very interesting. After its presentation it was chiefly discussed by Dr. F. C. Ard and Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, the other members also taking part.

Missing Horse Located.

James Carter's horse, reported to the police yesterday as being either lost or stolen, was located by Detective-Sergeant Flynn last night. The animal had evidently wandered out of its stable and was picked up by a West End man and placed in his barn. The police are still looking for the man Carter befriended Saturday night and who repaid him by taking French leave with Carter's best clothes.

Jerusalem Lodge Elects.

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., elected the following officers last night: Worshipful master, Samuel W. Fish; senior warden, William Butcheroft; junior warden, George D. Herring; treasurer, Clarence Goss; secretary, Garret T. Dunham; trustees, L. B. Woolston, Robert A. Meeker and Charles A. Lee; representative to Masonic Hall Association, James F. Buckle. The appointive officers will be named at the first meeting in January.

Mrs. Lowe's Reception.

Invitations have been sent out by Mrs. William Ebberts Lowe and her daughter, Miss Lowe, of Park avenue, for a reception to be given Monday, December 30, from 4 until 7 o'clock at the St. Regis Hotel, New York. Mrs. Lowe and her daughter will be at home to her friends Thursdays in January at 67 East Sixty-sixth street, New York.

A Birthday Celebration.

In honor of her sixteenth birthday, Miss Margaret Walton, of West Front street, entertained a gathering of friends at her home last night. Games, dancing and music were the features of the affair and at midnight supper was served. The hostess received many appropriate gifts.

AS SUCCESSFUL EAST AS IN THE WEST

Cooper's Theories Are Being Rapidly Accepted by Eastern People.

L. T. Cooper, whose theory that the human stomach is the cause of most ill health and who created a furore in Chicago, St. Louis and other western cities, is meeting with the same remarkable success with his medicine throughout the east. Cooper has convinced an immense number of people that his theory is sound and his medicine will do what he claims.

Perhaps the most interesting features of the discussion this young man is causing, are the statements made by responsible people who have taken his medicines and have become enthusiastic converts to his beliefs.

Among statements of this character, the following, by Mr. August Wittmer, 1049 Rockwell Court, Chicago, is characteristic of the widespread faith in Cooper, which has grown up in a comparatively short time. Mr. Wittmer says: "I wouldn't take $1,000 and be in the condition I was three weeks ago. I was practically an invalid for fourteen years and think I had about all of the diseases known. My stomach was weak, and at times I would have an enormous appetite, and then again none at all. Pie and cake made me sick, and I almost always had a sickening feeling in my stomach. I was nervous, and for weeks at a time could not sleep, and then again could sleep eighteen hours at a stretch. Sleep, however, seemed to do me no good, and I would awake tired and more exhausted than when I went to bed.

"I was constipated, had pains in my back, and flutterings and pains in my heart. I was unable to work with any regularity, and took no interest in anything. I tried all kinds of medicines and doctors, but none benefited me. I had no energy and no ambition, and had about concluded to give up when the Cooper medicine was recommended. Thanks to it, my health seems completely restored and I feel like a new man."

Cooper medicines have created the greatest sensation of anything of the kind ever before introduced.

We sell them, and will be glad to explain the nature of them to our callers.
—T. S. Armstrong.

BOUND BROOK AND VICINITY.

Dr. and Mrs. C. P. R. Fisher, of Bound Brook, will give a dance in Voorhees' Hall Friday night, December 27, in honor of their son, William A. Fisher, of Ausable Forks, N. Y., and Miss Crofut, of Simsbury, Conn.

Over-Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Miller, in Cherry street, South Bound Brook, were Mrs. Miller's mother, Mrs. John Maurer, and Mrs. Herman Maurer and children, of Elizabeth.

Mrs. Keziah Corzatt, who had been spending several weeks with relatives in High Bridge, has returned to her home in Main street, South Bound Brook.

Mrs. Elmira Hoffman, of Main street, South Bound Brook, is visiting at the home of her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hoffman, of Kingston.

Harry Walters has been confined to his home in Franklin street, South Bound Brook, for several weeks by a severe attack of erysipelas.

Mrs. Mary Pilkington and son, Harold Pilkington, of South Bound Brook, are spending several days with relatives in Paterson.

Mrs. Robert M. Wilkinson, of Elizabeth street, South Bound Brook, spent yesterday with friends in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Winberg, of South Bound Brook, spent Sunday with relatives in New York.

Lutwig Knappe is seriously ill at his home in Franklin street, South Bound Brook.

NORTH BRANCH.

Rev. B. V. D. Wyckoff, pastor of the Reformed church at Readington, went to Somerville Monday and read a paper before the Raritan Ministerial Association on "The Expediency of Endowing the Country Church."

Misses Anna and Mary E. Van Derveer, of Somerville, visited over Sunday Mr. and Mrs. William H. Higgins, at North Branch Depot.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of this place will hold a meeting in the chapel of the Reformed church on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Arthur A. Bergen, of Bound Brook, has been spending a week in North Branch with her sister, Mrs. H. Bert Ten Eyck.

Mrs. William E. Wood, of North Branch, has returned home from a visit to her sister, Mrs. Jacob K. Brokaw, in Somerville.

George Barker, of Bloomsbury, is spending the winter at the home of his son, Harry Barker, at Neshanic.

Mrs. John L. Corle, of Neshanic, has been visiting at the home of her son, C. V. D. Corle, in New York.

Harry Hall, of South Branch, was a recent guest of J. W. Thatcher, in Neshanic.

WESTFIELD.

Funeral services of Andrew Miller, eighty-two years old, were held yesterday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. T. Newcomb, on Dudley avenue. Mr. Miller had been a resident of the town but a short time. Interment was at Woodlawn Cemetery, Brooklyn.

The second entertainment under the auspices of the Men's Club of the Westfield Congregational church was given last night. A musical program was given.

A two-man bowling tournament will be opened on the Clubhouse alleys next Wednesday night. It will be open to a limited number of contestants.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The prayer meeting last night was well attended. The pastor closed the series of addresses on "The Parables," which have proved a great interest to those who have listened to them.

The mother of Mrs. F. Ledden, who resides with her at her home on Brookside avenue, fell down the steps on the ice yesterday and sustained injuries to her head.

There was a full rehearsal in the public school yesterday of the various numbers which are to be rendered at the entertainment on December 19.

Mrs. Fred Melick and Miss Harriet Van Nest, of Alton, spent Tuesday with Mrs. Frank Kellogg.

Mrs. Sisty, of Netcong, is spending a few weeks with her mother, Mrs. Susan Manning.

Miss Belle Mullison is suffering from throat trouble.

PROFESSIONAL CLUBS NOW IN UNION LEAGUE

The Union League of Professional Baseball Clubs of America was formed at a meeting in Philadelphia yesterday of representatives from the Quaker City, Brooklyn, Newark, Paterson, Baltimore and Reading. As it is not likely that the new organization will have the protection of the National Commission, it means that the league will be an "outlaw," and recognized baseball will be given more trouble. The reserve clause will not be observed, the plan being to hold players for one year and then give them their freedom and permit them to sign with whatever club they desire.

Applications were received from Wilmington and Elizabeth for membership in the league and they were held under advisement. The new organization is the result of an effort to enlarge the old Atlantic League and make it stronger.

Representatives from the following cities were present and each was assessed $100 as a working basis: A. W. Hussey, Brooklyn; A. Philetus Konkle, Newark; Frederick Paige, Paterson; H. Walter Schlichter, Philadelphia; Dr. Francis E. King, Baltimore, and Edward J. Coyle and A. W. Lawson, Reading. Mr. Lawson was elected president and Dr. King vice president. The board of directors comprise Mr. Konkle, Mr. Paige and Mr. Hussey. Grounds in all the cities mentioned have been secured and the season will open May 1 and close October 1.

BASEBALL.

George Davis, the star shortstop of the White Sox, thinks that Billy Sullivan, the catcher of his team, is the best backstop in America. "Kling of the Cubs is a great catcher," said Davis yesterday, "but Sullivan has him beaten. When the Sox won the world's series from the Cubs a year ago Sullivan showed beyond a doubt that he was Kling's master in throwing, in backstopping, going after foul flies, hitting and everything else. I never saw a better man on foul flies than Sullivan. He's simply a wonder." Speaking of star players, Davis said that in all his experience he had never seen the equal of Hal Chase as a first baseman. "Chase makes plays that no other first baseman would think of attempting," declared the Chicago player. "He must have a thinking apparatus like chain lightning."

Over in Boston the ball fans are beginning to think that Joe Kelley, the new manager of the Nationals in that city, has gathered together what looks like a pretty fair ball team. With Bowerman behind the bat, McGann, Ritchey and Brain on the bases, Dahlen at short field and the outfield looked after by Kelley, Beaumont and George Browne, the Beaneaters, providing their pitchers can come up to the average standard, will probably put up a stiff fight from the start.

Meanwhile the report will not down that McGraw will soon made a deal with the Cincinnati club by which he will trade Tenney and Bresnahan for Schlei, Lobert and Artie Hofman, who may be turned over to the Reds in a few days by Owner Murphy of the Chicago Cubs. Hofman is a good firstbaseman, batsman and hustler, but can be easily spared by the world's champions. McGraw wants Schlei and Lobert, for whom he offered Bresnahan, McGann and Browne recently, but Herrmann wanted Tenney to manage the Reds, so the deal did not go through. Tenney says he does not care to play in New York but is anxious to go to Porkville, so now that McGraw has secured the Boston first baseman it is rumored that he has reopened negotiations with Herrmann.

GOLF.

The opinion recently advanced by Walter J. Travis with regard to the relative merits of the foursome and four-ball contest has occasioned considerable comment on the other side. Shortly after his return from Brookline Travis was quoted as saying: "The four-ball is better golf in every way. It is more sociable, less exacting and more enjoyable. Golf consists of playing your own ball from tee to hole, which is possible at the four-ball style. The other is a bybrid."

To this a foreign critic replies: "It would only be by italics, and they are inadequate, that one could express astonishment at the last two two sentences. The first two are a matter of opinion, but we need not go to America for a definition of the game of golf. Rule 1 of the Rules of Golf suffices for our simple wants: 'The game of golf is played by two sides, each playing its own ball. A side consists either of one or of two players. If one player plays against another it is called a single. If two play against two it is called a foursome. One player may play against two playing one ball between them, when the match is called a threesome. Matches constituted as above shall have precedence of and be entitled to pass any other kind of match.' Hybrid is a dangerous word for four-ballers to fling about; it seems to have a certain appropriateness to their own pursuits."

Although the course at Van Cortlandt Park is closed, the frequenters of the public links are not entirely debarred from indulgence in their favorite recreation, for a temporary nine-hole circuit has been laid out on the parade ground. The recent snowfalls have put a damper on the protest which was to have been made against the unusually early closing. It is now generally admitted that golf on frozen ground does little or no damage to the turf.

The executive committee of the Metropolitan Golf Association is expected shortly to announce its handicap and tournament committees for the enusing year. A choice of a course for the amateur championship of the association is also due in the near future. There is a rumor to the effect that Baltusrol will receive the next tournament. This is practically the only important championship that has not been decided over the course near Short Hills.

BOWLING.

The next match in the Central Journal Bowling League tournament to be rolled by the Park Club will be on the local alleys Thursday night, January 2, with Cranford.

WANTS MARRIAGE ANNULLED.

Charles Reibold, 18 years old, of 69 Newton street, Newark, dashed into the office of Justice of the Peace Bosset yesterday morning and demanded that the marriage of his sweetheart to his rival be annulled.

When he had calmed down, Reibold explained that Miss Ella Kleinert, of 88 Sixteenth avenue, had eloped Saturday night with Charles Segal, of 57 Bedford street. Both are 18 years old. Reibold was told that the court could do nothing for him and left very much depressed.

Segal's father had previously called on Justice Bosset, asking for an annulment, and soon after him Mrs. Kleinert appeared with a similar request. Each was told to apply to the Court of Chancery.

Last evening there was a disposition on the part of each family to recognize the wedding, the bride and bridegroom to live with their respective families until Segar could support himself and his wife.

Reibold is still determined to seek a Chancery annulment.

You may be looking for a home to lease or purchase and if so call on M. F. Gano. He always has a desirable list.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Direct from the Circle theatre, New York, Harry Kelly in the big musical laugh, "His Honor the Mayor," comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night. This last New York engagement was the fifth that this merry piece has played in the metropolis, each one having been a little more successful than the one preceding. By an odd coincidence the sons of three popular comedians of a decade ago, actors who were personal friends as well as fellow players, are members of the company; Harry Kelly, the star, who as Deacon Flood has developed an exceedingly funny eccentric character study, is the son of John T. Kelly, once of the famous comedy team of Kelly & Ryan, who was for many years the mainstay of Weber & Fields. Hugh Fay is the only son of Hugh Fay, and a brother of Elfie Fay; and Bobby Barry the youngest son of Bill Barry who, with the elder Fay, formed one of the widely known and popular variety team of Barry & Fay. All three young men make good use of the fine talents that they have inherited. Others in the company are Blanche Wayne, Madelyn Marshall, Hugh Fay, Arthur Ernest, Bobby Barry, William W. Black, George Fox, John H. Pratt, Nellie De Grasse, Dan Evans, Harry Evans, and Catherine Tanner.

Few plays of recent years have secured such a strong hold upon public favor as has "Under Southern Skies," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre Christmas day, afternoon and night, for the first time this season. Since it has been seen here "Under Southern Skies" has appeared in many cities and always to large and enthusiastic audiences. Its reputation is now so well established that it has become almost unnecessary to print any enconiums of the play and production, the mere announcement of the coming of the attraction being all that is necessary to draw crowded houses. This wonderful popularity is not hard to account for, for there is not a dull or uninteresting moment from the rise of the curtain until its fall. Almost the entire first and second acts are filled with life, gayety and fun. The birthday party in the first act and the Hallowe'en celebration which is the feature of the second act are replete with such natural, youthful fun and frolic that the audience seems to become a part of it and long to join in the merry making themselves. So deftly has the author woven her play that the audience is almost unaware of the fact that through all the fun making, the story is shaping itself until suddenly it leaps to the front, gripping the attention, the heart, the sympathies of the audience and holding them tense and fascinated with the denouement. The entire production this season will be quite up to, if indeed it does not surpass, the standard of excellence set last season.

CLOSED PORTALS.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will initiate two candidates tomorrow night and act upon several applications.

John Hand Camp, No. 28, Sons of Veterans, is planning to give an entertainment within a few weeks. It will be musical and literary.

The Women's Relief Corps will entertain Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and John Hand Camp, No. 28, Sons of Veterans, at an entertainment and social on Friday night, December 27, in G. A. R. headquarters on East Front street.

Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, Improved Order Red Men, is taking on new life and during the past few weeks several pale faces have been initiated into the mysteries of the order. Arrangements are now being made for an entertainment to be held soon.

IT WAS THE PAINT.

Chatamites Discover Why Water Has Had Bad Taste.

The mystery as to the peculiar taste of the water at Chatham has been solved. It was due to paint in the standpipe on Long Hill. The pipe was emptied last week while its top and exterior were receiving a coat of paint.

On account of the scarcity of labor a tramp painter was engaged to help out. He worked hard for nearly fifteen minutes and then retired, taking his paint pot with him to the inside of the pipe, to rest. At noon he went on his way. The water was turned on after the work had been completed, and the contents of the paint can mingled with the town's water supply. The quanity was too small to be poisonous, but it flavored the water disagreeably.

LONG TERM FOR "GRAFTING."

Philippine Town Treasurer Gets Sentence of Nearly 15 Years.

"Grafting" ought to be rather unpopular in the Philippines after the decision of the Supreme Court at Washington yesterday, affirming a sentence of fourteen years and eight months and a fine of $2,500 imposed upon Jose Paraiso, treasurer of the town of Lumbang, Province of Laguna, for "knocking down" $3 each on forty poll tax certificates he issued to would-be voters of the town.

The legal charge for the certificates was $2, but Paraiso raised to $6.

THE DAILY PRESS.

Plainfield, N. J., December 18, 1907.

MARTINE—BRYAN'S RUNNING MATE.

It is strange that no boom has been started by his friends to make that honest and indefatigable warhorse of Democracy, James Edgar Martine, the running mate of William Jennings Bryan. Who could imagine a better mated pair to make the race; alike in their views; alike in their natures, and alike in their other respect conceivable. Fast personal friends, the one has been teaching particularly in the West for two decades what the other has been advocating in the East for more than forty years, and both today represent the identical type of Democracy which absolutely controls the party at the present day.

Like his friend Bryan, Martine has been pretty much of a loser, but he has in a sense always been a victor for it should be borne in mind that the "Farmer-orator" has had to plough into a great Republican majority nearly every time he has been a candidate for office. Notwithstanding the overwhelming Republican majority, over 5,000, the eloquent Martine came within a few couple of hundred votes of defeating Charles N. Fowler for Congress but a year ago. More recently he came within six or seven votes of defeating F. O. Briggs for the United States Senatorship. His friends and neighbors in all stations in life, from the wealthy commuter banker to the man who works in the ditches, respect and admire him, though he may not agree with his political ideas. This fact is attested by his "home vote" in every campaign in which he has figured as a candidate.

The two great elements of strength needed by any candidate for National honors are the union labor vote and the farmer vote. Martine possesses both of these. He has always stood by the honest toiler who demands good wages and reasonable hours of employment and in turn he has always enjoyed the confidence and support of that worthy factor in this State. As for the farmers', it is almost unnecessary to explain how highly he is esteemed by them. At no gathering of the grangers in years has the program been considered complete without the name of the man from Cedarbrook farm. He enjoys their confidence as few men do.

The East must have a representative on the ticket if Bryan is to be nominated and no more suitable choice could be made than that of Martine. While we cannot agree with the political principles of either one, it is submitted that such a combination would make a strong ticket, one which might not threaten Republican success in the next Presidential campaign but one that would make the fight exciting and spectacular from start to finish.

The New York Times advises the Democratic party as to the calibre of men it should send to the Denver convention in order that its councils may be guided by wisdom and conservatism. Among the suggested delegates are Grover Cleveland, Alton B. Parker, Richard Olney, George Gray, Clark Howell, Henry Watterson and Judson Harmon. It is all very nice but who could imagine the Democratic party in its present stage of decline honoring itself by honoring such distinguished men who led its battles before the days of radical hysteria set in? In the condition of darkness which now pervades the party, it is extremely probably that such a list would be supplanted by another containing the names of such men as Benjamin Tillman, Robert Davis, Patrick McCarren and Charles Donnelly.

As he has sacrificed his chances for the sake of consistency, has not President Roosevelt reiterated the declaration of Henry Clay who said, "I would rather be right than be President?"

The Senator from Arkansas hastens to deny that his Christian name is Jeffries, although he is somewhat of a fighter himself.

Here's hoping that the next American Armada that goes to the Pacific may steam through the Panama canal!

Funeral of Thomas A. Gere.

The funeral of Thomas A. Gere, the veteran newspaper man who died Saturday, was held at his late home on Westfield avenue, Scotch Plains, last night. It was conducted by Rev. Mr. Mulford and was attended by a large gathering, including many New York newspapermen and writers. The burial was in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn, this morning.

CHARLES A. RANSOM BECOMES A BENEDICT

Charles Archibald Ransom, of Newark, and Miss Ann Baldwin Passano, daughter of Joseph Ferdinand Passano, of No. 231 West Lafayette street, Baltimore, were married in the Memorial Episcopal church at noon yesterday by the Rev. Dr. William P. Dame, rector of the church and chaplain of the Fifth United States infantry. Miss Louise Passona, a sister-in-law of the bride, was the matron of honor. The bride, who was given away by her father, was dressed in a princess gown of Irish lace trimmed with panels of hand embroidered duchesse satin. She carried a white prayer brook and her veil was caught up with orange blossoms. Mrs. Passano's dress was a princess gown of yellow satin trimmed with duchesse and point lace. She wore a picture hat and carried yellow roses.

James B. F. Ransom, of Jersey City, a brother of the bridegroom, was his attendant. Those who served as ushers were Senator Everett Colby, of Llewellyn Park, West Orange; Louis Passano, a brother of the bride, of Baltimore; Maynard Huppman, of Baltimore; F. Socket Kent, of Jersey City; Robert V. Hoffman, of Westfield, and Alfred L. Ransom, of Jersey City.

A breakfast for the bridal party followed at the Passano home. After a trip Mr. and Mrs. Ransom will live at No. 10 South Arlington avenue, East Orange. The bridegroom is one of the best known newspaper men in New Jersey.

CAN SKATE IN ARMORIES SO THE BOARD DECIDES

Roller skating under regimental auspices may be continued in New Jersey armories, according to a decision of the special committee of the State Military Board, appointed to pass on the question. The committee was composed of Quartermaster-General Murray, Col. John A. Mather, of the Third Regiment, and Col. Nelson Y. Dungan, of the Second Regiment.

This committee was appointed to investigate the charges that the Second Regiment was conducting roller skating in the Trenton armory and dividing the profits with an amusement company. Colonel Dungan has been ill for some time and the arrangements had been made by Lieutenant-Colonel Forman. The contract was cancelled last Saturday and Colonel Dungan is about to resume command. The decision of the committee was that skating may be conducted as a strictly regimental matter, but the profits cannot be divided with any one, although it is permissible that a salaried manager be hired.

REV. EDAWRD J. KNIGHT'S CONSECRATION TOMORROW.

The consecration of the Rev. Edward J. Knight, of Christ Episcopal Church of Trenton, to the bishopric of Western Colorado, will take place tomorrow morning in that church, where he has served the most of his parochial life. The Rt. Rev. Bishop Spalding, of Salt Lake City, with whom he will be associated, will preach, and the assistant consecrators will be Dr. Knight's father-in-law, Bishop John S. Scarborough, and Bishop Lines, of the diocese of New Jersey and Newark, respectively.

The appointment was made at the triennial convention in Virginia last fall. Dr. Knight was educated in the General Theological Seminary in New York, made deacon and priest by Bishop Scarborough and has been rector of the church in Trenton since his ordination, where his labors have taken in a strong missionary character. His wife, Katherine, is the second daughter of Bishop Scarborough, and a member of the Alumni of St. Mary's Hall, Burlington. The new bishop has established many reforms in missionary work and is especially interested in young men. His long connection with the parish church has endeared him to the large congregation. The church at Trenton at attended by the bishop and his family.

The service at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow will be attended by a large gathering of the diocesan clergy and prominent laymen from this and other places. Tickets of admission have been issued, though the church is capable of holding a large number.

Lord Kelvin Dead.

Glasgow, Dec. 18.—Lord Kelvin, one of the greatest scientists and one of the ablest men of the age, died here at 10:15 last night. He suffered from a chill a fortnight ago. On Wednesday last serious complications developed, with but an occasional rally. He lost consciousness yesterday afternoon and passed away peacefully.

Frederick Phillips, of West Front street, is in the West on a business trip.

Miss Grace Phillips, of Brooklyn, has been visiting relatives in town for a few days.

Dr. H. V. Hubbard, of Central avenue, has returned from Rochester, Vermont, where he was called by the death of his father, I. T. Hubbard, one of the oldest residents in Rochester. His death was due to pneumonia, following a week's illness.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Charged by the State Board of Health with selling tincture of iodine which contains no potassium iodine, Postmaster P. W. Brakeley, the druggist, will appear before Vice Chancellor Howell at the district court in New Brunswick tomorrow. The local druggist was first brought up on the charge December 5, and a fine of $50 imposed by the court. He claimed that he was compounding the drug according to the most recent formula received by him from the United States Pharmacepoeia and had no notice of the change in the compounding of the drug. He has retained counsel and will fight the charge in court tomorrow. The law by which he is being prosecuted went into effect March 29, 1904.

Local churches will celebrate the annual Sunday-school Christmas festival Thursday evening, December 26. At the Presbyterian church a program of cantata and choral will be rendered and there will be the usual presentation of gifts. A feature of the Christmas festival will be the donations by the children of the Sunday-school to local charity and to Miss Sara Curry's Fresh Air Home, on St. Mark's place, New York, which has a summer camp at Netherwood. At the Methodist church there will be an elaborate program for the Sunday-school entertainment, and the usual presentation of gifts. The two churches, with St. John's church, have already begun to practice the carols.

The borough ordinance providing for the cleaning of sidewalks by the property owners within a few hours after the end of a snow storm became a law Monday. Since then there has been no snow, but it is stated by the borough officials that the law will be rigorously enforced when the next snow comes. Any property owner whose sidewalk is not cleaned within the required time, will have it cleaned by action of the borough officials and the cost will be added to his tax bill.

By a vote of the members, it has been decided to hold no meetings of the Embroidery Club, of New Market, until after the holidays. The members are at present busy on gift needlework.

STATE SENATE CAUCUS FOR TOMORROW NIGHT

Senator Thomas J. Hillery, of Morris county, leader of the Republican majority in the upper branch of the Legislature this year, yesterday issued a call for the first caucus of the men who will form the G. O. P. majority in the Senate of 1908, to be held at the Republican Club, Trenton, tomorrow night. Mr. Hillery will be selected as the majority candidate for President of the body, and Senator Samuel K. Robbins, of Burlington county, will be chosen as floor leader and chairman of the caucus. Howard Tyler, of Cumberland, will probably be secretary of the Senate again, and although there is some opposition, Captain "Jack" Lovett, of Mercer county, will probably be appointed sergeant-at-arms for a term.

Essex will send a large aggregation to the State Capitol today for Governor's Day. It is understood that there will be something definite in the way of making a slate for the organization of the next House of Assembly. Strong pressure will be brought to bear to have the date for the caucus of the Republican majority of the House fixed and the call issued.

As told in these columns yesterday, there is opposition to the slate that has been uppermost in Trenton discussion since election: John D. Prince, of Passaic, for Speaker, and William P. Martin, of Essex, for leader.

Martin is opposed by South Jerseymen, who have come out for one of their own members of the Assembly, Frank P. Jess, of Camden county. The opposition is based on geographical grounds ostensibly, but in reality is against Martin, New Idea Republican and supporter of the doctrines of Senator Everett Colby.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The next communion service at the Congregational church will be held the first Sunday in the New Year.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church will not meet again until after the holidays.

"The Magnificat: A Christmas Song," will be the topic of the Christian Endeavor Society meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church Friday night. Mrs. Charles F. Dayton will lead.

A service especially appropriate to Christmas-tide will be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tonight. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, as well as the pastors of Hope, Warren and Bethel chapels, will speak.

Christmas services will be held at the Park Avenue Baptist church on Sunday. In the morning there will be an appropriate sermon by the pastor, Rev. A. E. Finn, and special music by the choir. In the afternoon the Sunday-school will give a cantata entitled, "The King of Kings."

Christmas services will be held at the First Baptist church on Sunday. In the morning there will be special music by the choir with an appropriate sermon by the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, and the celebration for the Sunday-school will be held in the afternoon. There will be no evening service, as in former years.

"Working Among the Negroes," was the subject of two interesting papers presented by Mrs. C. W. Tennant and Mrs. Abram Van Cleef at the meeting of the Women's Home Mission Circle, of the Park Avenue Baptist church held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Tennant on Kensington avenue. Mrs. W. S. Lowry conducted the devotional exercises.

Miss Elmira Runyon, superintendent of the primary department of the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school, will meet the members of the beginners', primary and junior departments at the church Sunday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock for the final rehearsal for the Christmas entertainment to be given Tuesday afternoon, December 31. The children will also complete their Christmas work at that time.

WHAT IS A UNION POTATO?

Vital Question Before the Chicago Federation of Labor.

What is a union potato and what constitutes "unionism in a beet"—an ordinary garden beet—is the question which confronted delegates to the Chicago Federation of Labor yesterday.

Secretary Nockels read a communication that a union market here had been established to supply organized labor with all sorts of food.

"How are we to know that we are getting a union potato or ham?" asked one delegate.

"Will the potato bear the union label or will it carry a union working card? Of course, we want to unionize the earth, but if the potato is made under union conditions we have got to get an organizer equipped with wings to unionize heaven and whoever turns on the water."

President Fitzpatrick ended the discussion by declaring that he did not know what a union potato might be or what virtues it might possess superior to a "scab" potato."

Accidents Follow His Car, but He Escapes Injury.

Trenton, Dec. 18.—Accidents followed in rapid succession to the trolley car operated by William Galbraith yesterday. Early yesterday morning a live wire fell in on him, but was caught by his rubber boot. Galbraith kicked it off without being harmed.

An hour later his car was run into by a team, and the tongue of the wagon came through the side of the car between two women passengers, while the horses' noses came through the window and scattered the glass in all directions. No one was seriously hurt. Three weeks ago, while assisting a woman from a car, Galbraith sprained an ankle. He is guessing as to what is coming next.

SONS OF NEW JERSEY TO LAUNCH SOCIETY

Sons of New Jersey, who have strayed from their native State or who are prominently identified with Philadelphia affairs, at a banquet at the Union League in Philadelphia tonight, will launch their new State organization the New Jersey Society of Pennsylvania. This banquet, the first of the maiden society, will be attended by many of the most prominent men in public life in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

The New Jersey Society was incorporated last spring, and its membership limit of 150 already has been almost reached. It is composed of Philadelphians born in New Jersey or Jerseymen carrying on their business or profession in Philadelphia or vicinity.

Its first annual banquet will assemble many political lights of first magnitude in both States. Governor Stuart, of Pennsylvania; Governor Stokes, of New Jersey; Governor-elect J. Franklin Fort, of New Jersey; Senator Philander C. Knox, Senator Boies Penrose, Mayer Reyburn, Dimner Beeber and Judge Bregy have signified their intention to be present. Toasts will be responded to by Senator Penrose, Governor Stokes, Governor-elect Fort, Congressman O. R. Moon and Francis B. Lee, of Trenton.

The banquet is in charge of this committee: Richard Campion, J. G. Moore, C. Stanley French, T. Monroe Dobbins, Harold P. Moon, chairman.

In the language of the constitution of the new organization, the object of the society is much like that of other State clubs. It is "to promote social intercourse among the sons of New Jersey, by birth or ancestry, residing and located in Philadelphia and adjacent territory; to tender hospitality to and manifest friendship for natives of New Jersey when they may be temporarily sojourneying in the city of Philadelphia, and to foster a spirit of general interest and friendly intercourse among those of New Jersey ancestry.

"To develop and perpetuate that spirit of patriotic pride in their native State which the prominence of New Jersey in the history of our nation and her conspicuous position as one of the thirteen original colonies should always inspire."

These objects will be attained by the annual banquets of the society, by the entertainment of Jerseymen visiting the city and by the publication of essays and researches upon historical topics connected with New Jersey.

JERSEY BILL TO STOP SUICIDE WITH AN ACID

Trenton, Dec. 18.—Because half of New Jersey suicides have used carbolic acid, the State Legislature at its session next month will probably pass a bill to check the sale of acid.

A measure will be introduced forbidding druggists to sell carbolic acid to any one without a prescription from a reputable physician. Unless the physician orders the acid of full strength, the patient will get only a 5 per cent. solution, which is not deadly.

There may be a compromise on the bill allowing druggists to sell the 5 per cent. solution without a prescription.

STOKES WORKING ON MESSAGE.

Looking Forward Gladly to His Retirement from Office.

Governor Stokes is working on his last annual message, in which he will review the three years of his administration. Most of the State reports have been forwarded to him earlier than usual, and he has been examining them for the last two weeks.

He will retire from his office somewhat gratefully, for his health is not good, and the strain has been severe. He is president of a bank at Trenton, and will have plenty to do. He is not rich, but has a moderate competence now, and is increasing it.

That he will long remain out of politics few believe. He loves the excitement, and has been bred to it all his life.

$1,000,000 FOR POSTOFFICE.

Congressman Leake's Bill Calls for Fine Building in Jersey City.

The citizens of Jersey City were greatly pleased yesterday when they heard that the first bill that Congressman Eugene Leake had introduced in the national legislature provided for a new postoffice for that city, to cost $1,000,000.

The present building is an antiquated structure and entirely inadequate to the needs of the city, which has been growing rapidly. At the last session of Congress Representative Van Winkle obtained the appropriation of $400,000 for the purchase of a site for a new postoffice.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

"Good cigars," made from good tobacco by good workmen. That's what you get at M. C. Dobbins' North avenue tobacco store.

Titus H. Laury, the contractor, is always ready to furnish estimates for all kinds of construction work. Let him figure on your work.

George Stagaard, the shoemaker on Church street, will either make you a pair of shoes to order or repair your old ones. Prices reasonable for high-class work.

Musical instruments of all kinds are to be had at S. Frucht's West Front street store. Drop in at any time and look around if you want suggestions for Christmas gifts.

A diner on meat or fowls from Van Sickle's North avenue market is always satisfied with the meal. Place your order for your Christmas dinner early and get the choicest birds.

If you are not satisfied with the coal you are using, try ordering your next lot from John Johnson's yard on South avenue. The coal from there is the best for heat-giving, free from slate.

The place to get the Christmas turkey, the roast of beef or the capons, is at Smalley Brothers' North avenue market. The firm prides itself on always giving the best service and quick deliveries.

W. W. Dunn, the Park avenue grocer, is ready for the Christmas trade with a fine line of staple and fancy groceries, assorted nuts and selected fruits. All orders are delivered to any part of the city or borough.

Have you got the grip? If so, you can't cure it quicker than by taking Bell's Syrup of Codeine. Not a "patent medicine," but one put up to cure the grip in short order. Get it at Hodge's pharmacy, Y. M. C. A. building.

Waterproof shoes for wet weather can be found in great assortment of styles at Van Arsdale's, on East Front street. Also shoes for dress, and a complete line of dancing pump and slippers for the holiday festivities.

L. W. Randolph, the West Front street druggist, has received a large supply of his famous cold and grip tablets. They will knock a cold in twenty-four hours. Place your orders now for Huyler's confection for the holidays.

Housefurnishings of every description are to be had at Shirley & Johnson's store in the Babcock building. Tthey have furniture, carpets, rugs, mattings, curtains and many other things needed to beautify the home. They are offering holiday rates on all goods and it is a splendid opportunity to get Christmas gifts.

Fond of game? You can't do better than to go to Fred Endress, the West Front street butcher, to make your selection of turkey, geese, guinea fowl and rabbits for the holiday table. See the assortment before your order your Sunday dinner elsewhere. You can get choicest cuts of meat there, too. Order by 'phone, the delivery system is complete in city and borough.

CURE YOUR KIDNEYS.

Do Not Endanger Life When a Plainfield Citizen Shows You the Cure.

Why will people continue to suffer the agonies of kidney complaint, backache, lameness, headaches, languor, why allow themselves to become chronic invalids, when a certain cure is offered them?

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use, because it gives to the kidneys the help they need to perform their work.

If you have any, even one, of the symptoms of kidney diseases, cure yourself now, before diabetes, dropsy or Bright's disease sets in. Read this Plainfield testimony:

S. C. Conklin, of 134 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I was suffering from aches and pains in my side, back and hips. My kidneys did not work as they should, and as far as I could learn from physicians I was in very bad shape with my kidneys and bladder. I was casting about for a cure but nothing I did helped me until I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at L. W. Randolph's pharmacy. I took three boxes and they cured me. I gave a statement at that time telling what this remedy did for me and I am glad to repeat the praise I gave Doan's Kidney Pills at that time."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

"And he found relief by giving expression to his emotions in his diary?"

"Yes; what he had hidden from the world there he revealed; and in the pages of this diary I learned two facts that were of vital importance to me."

"I think I can guess them," I said coldly. "First, that Sir Mortimer loved you; secondly, that he was tempted to put an end to the atrocities in Macedonia by advocating England's support of Bulgaria."

"Since you have taken the first fact for granted, I shall not contradict you. But I told you that Sir Mortimer found relief in his diary for the emotions which he sternly repressed before the world. As to your second guess, it is only partially correct. I learned much more than that. I learned that he was in correspondence with the banker, Otto Kuhn. He had given to this banker a half-promise that he would do his utmost to influence England, provided that Kuhn financed the invasion in a sufficiently liberal manner to insure its success."

"And with the information obtained so treacherously your task was easy."

"At least it was easier. I persevered when I was about to despair. I was successful to this extent: Sir Mortimer agreed to have a secret meeting with the banker at this chateau—to-day."

"To-day!" I stammered. "And Sir Mortimer is dead!"

"I learned of his death when you were in the kursaal with me."

"You need say no more. I understand why you have brought me to the chateau only too well. A just fate snatched from your lips the cup of success. But fate dashed one cup from your hand only to tempt you with another. I have seen for myself that I bear a sufficiently marked resemblance to deceive one who has known Sir Mortimer but slightly. Perhaps Kuhn has never actually met Sir Mortimer—"

"Never!" interrupted Madame de Varnier, her voice trembling.

"And you wish me to do—what?"

"An interview of half an hour and the destinies of a nation will be changed. Oh, I know that the move is a desperate one. Its audacity is the best augury of success. Look, I give you power such as few men have held. Sir Mortimer lies in that room dead. But there are four people only who know of his death: Dr. Starva, Alphonse, myself, and yourself. One hour after this interview, it will be given out that he has died suddenly from heart failure. But in the meanwhile the interview between yourself and the banker will have taken place."

"Woman, you are mad," I cried scornfully. "Let us suppose for the moment that this interview has taken place between myself and the banker. Let us say that the deception has proved to be completely successful. The loan is promised to Ferdinand, but how is that promise to be made good? There are papers to be signed and attested—there are checks to be drawn and receipts to be given. Who is to sign these documents—who is to sign the receipts? I, the false Sir Mortimer? Egregious folly! Your fanaticism has run away with your common sense. There is no pressure on earth that could make me consent to your scheme. Your banker would not be so great a fool as to be deceived, I say again, even if I consented. Did you think he would hand out a package to you containing millions as a grocer passes a packet of soap across the counter to a customer?"

That I should even discuss the matter with her at all seemed to her a hopeful sign. She drew her chair closer to me. I regarded her disdainfully. For a clever woman, her scheme seemed to me preposterous on the face of it.

"Do you think, my dear monsieur, that the perplexities you mention have not occurred to me?" She was violently scornful in her turn. "Yes; and there are a hundred others. But I have thought of them all. Money? I have not mentioned money or checks or receipts. I am not quite an imbecile. I have arranged all that. You have simply to see this Kuhn. There will be no discussion. You will lay before him an ultimatum. If he agrees, a document will be given to him promising on the part of England her moral support. This document will have been officially sealed by the minister of the British Foreign Office. It will already have the signature of Sir Mortimer Brett."

She leaned close to me. Her breath [illegible] her eyes were liquid fire. Because I was silent for the moment she imagined me tempted. But if I were silent it was because my scorn was too great for utterance.

"A forgery!" I said at last.

"Listen. The document itself is official. It awaited merely the signature of Sir Mortimer Brett."

"How was that obtained, since Sir Mortimer is dead?"

"Dr. Starva is a clever penman. That is why he is useful."

I sprang to my feet, pushing back my chair so abruptly as to overturn it. Dr. Starva's name was a red flag to goad me to enraged impatience.

"[illegible] that is to save a nation!" I cried in fierce contempt. "I say again and again, you are a fool—a fool to think that your scheme can be successful—"

"Will England repudiate an act of her minister because he dies shortly after attesting it? I tell you, monsieur, I have counted the chances. I shall succeed—"

"And the loyalty of Dr. Starva? You may count on that? I am willing to believe that your mad project has been planned with the hope that it may benefit your oppressed race. I will give to you the doubtful virtue of fanaticism. But that arch-fiend Starva—it is impossible that he be influenced by an unselfish motive. That death-mask, did you know its significance till last night? Madame de Varnier, be advised by me before it is too late. You have said I am your enemy. It is true. If I have come to this chateau as your guest, it was to spy on you—to learn what I have just learned, to learn what I shall learn."

"Do you think I have been blind to that?" she interrupted, smiling disdainfully.

"Had the treachery been absent—had the foul play of thugs and murderers not been resorted to—I should still have refused to aid you. But when I find myself secretly watched while I am your guest—when I am perfidiously offered a drug, which, by the way, I did not take—when I see an English gentleman treated with the violence of the Middle Ages—lastly, when the woman whom I have sworn to help is shot at by a lurking villain—I have a right to my revenge. I shall have it. Be sure of that."

"You say that Starva attempted to murder Helena Brett?"

"Scarcely two hours since," I returned, trembling with rage. "Now, Madame de Varnier, I have listened to you patiently. Listen to me. I shall have justice. You have chosen to ally yourself with a forger, a thief, and a would-be murderer. You will be dragged down with him unless you throw yourself on my mercy. Great God, your madness reaches its apotheosis in this: you resort to every crime that you may bring freedom a little nearer to your precious Macedonians; and I know, as absolutely as if he had confessed to me, that Dr. Starva is one of the band of assassins who has doomed to a violent death the very messiah you look to for succor."

She stared at me a full half minute, this adventuress with nerves of steel. But it was the woman, the lover, who looked up at me. She loved Ferdinand; I read it in her anguished face. I made my last appeal.

"Cast off that scoundrel before it is too late—before he betrays you. Help me to bring him to justice before he dooms to death the prince you worship. Make to me a full confession—help me to rescue the great name of Sir Mortimer Brett from the dishonor that you aver (but have in no way proved) besmirches it—and I swear to you that you shall be spared."

She laughed at my appeal. If the laughter was hysterical, it was also defiant and fearless.

"My dear Monsieur Haddon, you are too delicious. Do you think I have played my last card? Do you think I am so easily frightened by your scowls and loud voice? The dishonor of Sir Mortimer Brett not yet proved? It is proved only too surely, and you are to see those proofs presently. You have called me a fool more than once; permit me to return the compliment in all sincerity. I have told you much—enough to send Dr. Starva and myself to jail for many tedious years. But I can trust you with my secrets because I know only too surely that you dare not betray them. You will realize that presently; have no fears. You see I can threaten as well as yourself, and behind my threats is something more formidable than a scowling face."

"Very well," I cried, not without satisfaction (for I had offered to spare her because I pitied, rather than because I thought it wise). "We understand each other thoroughly. In 24 hours I shall have done my best to put you and your dear comrade behind the bars. And you—"

"I shall drag you with us if you by any chance are successful. You say you did not take the drug—that you were acting that you might keep watch on our movements. Who will believe you? Captain Forbes? I think not. You will find it difficult, my dear monsieur, to extricate yourself from my net."

"Say that I grant that," I said contemptuously, "you have still the possible treachery of Dr. Starva to deal with."

This time she controlled her agitation, though in her eyes lurked terror and fear.

"For the present Dr. Starva is powerless. Had I remained in ignorance of the meaning of that horrible stamp I might have listened to your warnings with some misgivings. But since you have deepened my suspicions concerning him, I have been able to rearrange my plans. Dr. Starva is no longer necessary to me. Even if he is a member of the Committee of Freedom, he is no more dangerous than any other member, and with them he will be punished presently. In the meanwhile their intended victim is warned. No, Monsieur Haddon, your threats do not frighten me. On the contrary, it is time for me to threaten."

"I have waited patiently enough, I hope, madam."

I flung myself into my chair again with a careless assurance I did not feel. I remembered Locke's warning: look out for the Countess Sarahoff. She was about to scratch, and I was to feel her claws. For this woman, exquisite in feature, was at heart barbaric; the fierce cunning and treachery of the tigress were hers when aroused.

CHAPTER XXV.

Countess Sarahoff Tempts Me.

"Before we settle our affairs I must speak to Alphonse."

"To what purpose?" I demanded suspiciously.

"You shall hear for yourself. Have no fear that I am to play you a trick. I shall give him my message before you."

"Pardon me if I refuse. I am unarmed, and Alphonse would have me at his mercy."

"Bah, I begin to think I should call you by your true name. If you forbid me to speak to Alphonse, I shall be dumb. Now what have you to say?"

She lighted a cigarette, smiled defiantly and regarded me between half-closed eyes.

"It looks like a deadlock," I said cheerfully. "If you are obstinate I can be obstinate as well. At any rate I shall not open that door until I have seen the proofs of Sir Mortimer Brett's dishonor. If time is valuable to me, allow me to suggest that it is even more so to you. You tell me that the interview between Sir Mortimer and the banker was to have taken place to-day."

I had spoken with downright assurance. But I had my misgivings as I noted the sullen defiance of the woman. Five minutes passed; she smoked furiously. I began to pace the room. I listened at the door of the little chamber in which she had said Captain Forbes was imprisoned. I did not again knock at this door. I thought it impossible that my voice could be heard. Presently I opened the door of the oratory and looked down in deep thought at the calm face of Sir Mortimer, my back to the woman.

Was he indeed guilty as she had said? It seemed incredible that the heart of this noble gentleman had been black with guile. The face, pallid in death, had the majesty of death. It had, too, that same noble serenity that had so impressed me when I first saw Helena Brett.

"A Copy Is as Useful as an Original," She Said, Coolly.

My reflections were rudely disturbed. A sudden blow struck on the door of the staircase shocked me into tardy heed of Madame de Varnier.

She was giving her message to Alphonse after all. She had taken my hint of making herself heard through the closed door. It was a short message. I had not understood one word of it. Though she had raised her voice almost to a shout, she had doubtless spoken in her native tongue. She reseated herself complaisantly, offering me her cigarette case.

"Now I am ready, monsieur, for our little affair."

"The sooner it is over the better," I said, irritated that she had stolen a march on me.

"Are you familiar with the handwriting of Sir Mortimer Brett?"

She had opened a drawer of the table at which we sat. I caught the sheen of a japanned box.

"No," I said, pretending that I had not seen the box. If the proofs of Sir Mortimer's dishonor were in that dispatch box it would not be many minutes before I had destroyed them.

"If that is the case, a copy is as useful as an original," she said coolly, and, placing the box on the table, she unlocked it with a little key that hung at her chatelaine. She took out of the dispatch box two envelopes. Their shape and bulk suggested vividly the packets that she and Dr. Starva had been examining in the hotel at Vitznau.

"Evidently you think me a very trusting person," I sneered. "No, madame, I am not quite so callow as that. A copy may be forged. Perhaps you are as clever with the pen as Dr. Starva. Show me the originals or nothing."

"You wrong me," she protested mockingly. "And you wrong yourself. I am not so stupid as to expect you to take these typewritten copies for granted. Nor am I so stupid as to trust the originals in your hands. You might destroy them, for instance."

NAPOLEONS SWAMP RADIN'S BRIAN BORUS

One of the biggest surprises of the many that have occurred since the bowling tourney started at Campbell's alleys was sprung last night when Frank Willett's Napoleons swamped Harry Radin's Brian Borus by taking three straight games. The best the wise ones would admit previous to the match was that the Napoleons might land one tally and the big gallery of rooters was totally unprepared for the clean sweep. The triple defeat hauled the Brian Borus out of the tie for first place and relegated them to third position where three teams are bunched.

The pinning on either side was not of the exceptional sort but the Napoleons were on deck with steady nerve and every member of the team covered his man. John Conklin returned to something like his form of last year and smashed the timber for three good scores, one of them a double century. His average was 184.2, the best for the night. "Willie" Mullen was cast for the anchor on his team and held it nicely, chalking up 161, 139 and 208, the last total the best for the match. Ed Toense's whirlwind ball failed to land in the pocket enough times to give him any respectable figures and Captain Willett and Vanderbilt had an eye for splits that played havoc with their scores.

Captain Radin led the shooting for the Brian Borus but even at that his percentage suffered through a 135 tally, making his average 170. Ed McMahon and Dr. Herbert were the hard-luck artists and were thankful to pull away with averages of 148 and 128.1, though "Doc" would just as leave that nobody remind him of the figures later on. His first score was 120 and he followed it up with a scandalous 110 that made him afraid to look a pin in the face. Harry Ackor held his own with three fair chalk-ups and Harry Kuehn went on the boards for 144 to the bunch.

N. P. H. S. FIVE WINS FROM P. H. S., 23-16

Fast playing, close guarding and brilliant shooting won for the North Plainfield High School basketball five in the second half of the game with the Plainfield High School team at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon by a score of 23-16. The game was the first of the season for the city school boys in the local interscholastic league. The North Plainfielders redeemed themselves for their one point defeat by Leal's last week and now have a record of one game lost and one won. Leal's have won their only game, and the city high school five have lost theirs.

At the end of the first half the score was 9-8 in favor of the boroughites. The North Plainfielders always kept the lead, but had to play fast ball to prevent their opponents from passing them. A feature of the play was the goal by "Bully" McClintock, centre for the boroughites, who shot a pretty basket on a blind try over his head. "Rus" Conroy, captain of the North Plainfield team, made eleven points for his team, scoring five baskets and making the other point from the foul line. The boroughites showed superiority in all branches of the game in the second half, and rolled up a lead of seven points before the whistle sounded. The players broke away from their opponents time after time and shot baskets. For the Plainfielder team, Mortimer, a new player in the school line-up, did the best work, scoring three baskets; Snyder broke away from his man for two baskets.

The game was attended by a good sized crowd of boy and girl pupils from both schools, and the teams were cheered by more than a score of supporters from each school. The line-up and summaries:

N. P. H. S.		P. H. S.
Conroy (capt.)	right forward.	Mortimer
B. McClintock	centre.	Morris
F. McClintock	left guard.	Doane
Steiner	right guard.	Snyder

Baskets from the floor: Conroy, 5; B. McClintock, 3; Mortimer, 3; Smith, 2; Snyder, 2; F. McClintock, Caldwell, Morris. Goals from fouls: Doane, 2. N. P. H. S. awarded a point for being interfered with in shooting a basket.

LEADERS WIN FROM FIRST BAPTIST FIVE BY ONE POINT

The new handicap of fifteen points given to the First Baptist church five for the first time last night by the Leaders in the local basketball league play at the Y. M. C. A. made the game the most exciting one of the evening, the score see-sawing from one team to another through both halves until the whistle finally blew with the score 27-26 in favor of the Leaders. The handicap given by the Leaders was increased to eleven points to make the teams more evenly matched. Before the game it was decided that this handicap of fifteen points should be given to the Business Men, the Rangers and the First Baptists, while the Seniors will receive a five point handicap from the Leaders.

The fifteen points scored up for them before the game began last night looked big to the Baptist church five, and they fought hard for the game, which showed fast playing and some brilliant shooting by both teams. L. Manning and Guion Fountain were the only members of the church team who succeeded in scoring, but they each shot two baskets. Their opponents divided the honors more evenly, each player getting at least one basket from the floor, and Captain Thompson and Line caging the ball three times apiece. The lineups and summaries follow:

Leaders: Thompson (captain), and Line, forwards; Collins, centre; Vail and Hoagland, guards. First Baptists: L. Manning and G. Fountain, forwards; Jerry Manning (captain), centre; Banks and Denlen, guards.

Baskets from the floor: Thompson, 3; Line, 3; Collins, 2; Vail, 2; L. Manning, 2; G. Fountain, 2; Hoagland. Goals from fouls: Hoagland, 4; G. Fountain, 2; Collins, L. Manning.

SENIORS TAKE LEAD IN LOCAL BASKETBALL LEAGUE

Notwithstanding the fact that the Y. M. C. A. Seniors gave their opponents, the "Rangers," of the Congregational church, ten points handicap in the basketball game in the local league played at the association gymnasium last night, they were victorious by a score of 34-26 and gained first place in the league. They are now tied with the business men's five, each team having played two games and won both. Last night's defeat sent the Rangers to the bottom of the league, for despite the fact that the team has changed its name, they have lost all three games played.

After making up their handicap, which was easily accomplished in the first half by the Seniors, the game was one sided, and loosely played by both teams. The passing was careless and many easy shots for goals were missed by members of both teams. Bentley, captain of the Rangers, caged the ball seven times from the floor, and Martin Stutsman got the only other basket for the Congregational team. Of the Seniors, Miller did the best work in shooting, making five baskets. The line-ups and summaries follow:

Seniors—Listman and Templin, forwards; Shepherd, centre; Miller and Robbie, guards.

Rangers—Bentley captain) and Stutsman, forwards; Adams, centre; Burgess and Rockwell, guards.

Baskets from the floor: Bentley, 7; Miller, 5; Shepherd, 4; Listman, 2; Templin, 2; Robbie, 2; Stutsman. Goals from fouls: Shepherd, 3; Templin.

Local League Standing.

	Won.	Lost.
Business Men	2	0
Leaders	2	1
First Baptists	0	2
Rangers	0	3

The next game in the league will be between the two teams tied for lead, and will be played at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Monday night.

BASKETBALL NOTES.

The North Plainfield High School five have been unable to arrange the game with the Westfield High School team to have been played at Debele Hall tonight.

The Senior five are playing the Freshmen team in the interclass basketball league at the Plainfield High School gymnasium.

A picked five from the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. will play the five from the Stillman school at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow night.

Leal's School five will play a practise game with the Business Men's team at the Y. M. C. A. Friday afternoon.

The Second team of the Y. M. C. A. will play the five from the Madison association at Madison Saturday night. The game is in the league for the minor team championship of Northern New Jersey.

The North Plainfield High School second team will play the Holy Cross Club team at Holy Cross parish house tonight.

OBITUARY.

CLEVELAND FOR DENVER IS BOB DAVIS'S WISH

Robert Davis, the Democratic leader of Jersey City, announced yesterday that he was in favor of naming former President Grover Cleveland as one of the State delegates from New Jersey to the National convention at Denver, July 7.

"He is a man," said Mr. Davis, "who has twice been honored by the American people with the greatest office in their gift. With a good candidate and platform the Democrats can win next year. There is no man whose wisdom and experience would count for more in the naming of a ticket and the framing of a platform than Mr. Cleveland."

Mr. Davis said he had not lost his admiration for Mr. Bryan, but declined to express any opinion as to Mr. Bryan's candidacy.

Sons of Veterans Inspected.

The first annual inspection of John Hand Camp, No. 28, Sons of Veterans, was held last night, and considering the short time the camp has been in existence since re-organization, it made an excellent showing. New members are received at nearly every meeting and judging by the present growth the camp will soon be among the leaders in the State. Reports of the recent fair were presented and it was stated that a substantial profit was made.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Frost, who were recently married in New York, and who have been spending their honeymoon in Bermuda, are expected home soon. They will reside in this city.

TO REAPPOINT MR. MARSH

Mayor Fisk Will Nominate Corporation Counsel for New Term Jan. 1.

LONG IN THE PRESENT OFFICE.

Has Occupied the Position For Twenty-five Years Under All Sorts of Administrations.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh's present term expires on January 1 and at noon on that day he will be reappointed for a new term of three years. Mr. Marsh has been discharging the duties of the office most efficiently for the last twenty-five years and the present administration is anxious that he continue his valuable services to the municipality. The salary attached to the office is $2,000.

Mr. Marsh is president of the Union County Bar Association and is one of the foremost legal lights in New Jersey. His practise is an extensive one but he has always given up valuable time in the interests of the city. Every ordinance enacted in the last quarter of a century has been his handiwork and many thousands of dollars have been saved the taxpayers by his timely and reliable advice to the city fathers and the heads of the various departments of government.

Mr. Marsh succeeded Corporation Counsel Kimball and has held that office continuously up to the present time under all sorts of administrations, including Republican, Democratic, Prohibition and Citizens Movements. He has never sought reappointment but has been re-named as a matter of course and has never declined to accept the onerous duties, which are involved in the office.

Mayor Fisk, it is said, is particularly anxious to have Mr. Marsh accept a reappointment and it is generally believed that he will consent to do so.

GETS $10 FOR 10 CTS; GOLD WATCH FOR 13 CTS

An investment of ten cents within the last day or two has earned for one Plainfield woman ten dollars, while an investment of a few pennies more has proven still more profitable to another woman in North Plainfield. A gold watch is the prize she obtained by having confidence in the results of rightly directed publicity. These are but two of the rewards earned so far this week, and they are no exception to the rule all the year round.

Mrs. A. M. Benedict, of Summit avenue, one of the lucky ones, lost a handsome gold watch yesterday. Her common sense prompted her to ring up "No. 61, Plainfield"—that's The Daily Press 'phone—and as a result a little "lost adv." was placed in its penny a word want columns. Before nightfall, there was another violent ring of the 'phone about the same matter. A bright young son of Mrs. S. C. Seale, of East Fifth street, said he had found the missing timepiece. He brought it to this office this morning and it is again in the owner's possession.

The other woman was Mrs. William Tier, of Bank place. She dropped a crisp ten dollar bill from her purse at the North Avenue railroad station, and lost no time in notifying The Daily Press. A little "want adv." brought back her bill, it having been left at this office yesterday morning by the man who found it. He refused to accept any reward and would not let his name be known.

HERE'S AN OPPORTUNITY TO PERFORM A GOOD DEED.

Captain Hopkins and his workers are busily engaged in the preparations necessary to provide the dinner baskets this year. The need is much greater this year than last, and the list of names is consequently longer. They are hopeful however that enough friends will be interested in the cause, and assistance will be forthcoming to enable them to provide baskets for the one hundred and fifty families on their list.

Donations are urgently needed, either of cash, poultry, vegetables, groceries, fruit, nuts or candies, which will be gratefully received by the captain at the Army headquarters on East Second street, near Watchung avenue. The distribution of baskets will take place at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening, Christmas eve. The captain will be pleased to call for gifts or donations at any address upon receipt of a postal.

DRUGGIST PAYS HIS FINE

Dr. Peter W. Brakeley Decides Not to Fight Penalty Imposed.

THE CASE IS NOW SETTLED.

Dunellenite Fined $50 For Selling a Tincture of Iodine Contrary to State Law.

Appearing before Judge Edward W. Hicks, of the New Brunswick District Court at the session today, Postmaster Peter W. Brakeley, of Dunellen, announced his decision not to enter into continued litigation about the charge of selling an illegal compound of tincture of iodine brought against him by the State. He brought with him a check for $50, the amount of the fine imposed by Lawyer Stryker, who represents Attorney-General McCarter in the prosecution.

At the time the fine was imposed two weeks ago, the Dunellen postmaster, who has been in the drug business for the past thirty-eight years, made a statement in which he claimed that the drug because of which charges were brought against him by the State, was compounded according to law by the latest formula forwarded to him by the United States Pharmacepoeia. He stated in court that he would retain counsel to contest the case. The claim made by the State was that the tincture of iodine he had been selling contained no potassium iodine, as the law now requires.

Robert Eastburn, a New Brunswick druggist, was represented in court by Lawyer Allen B. Strong, and considerable time was taken at the morning session in the contest of the matter of the $50 fine imposed by the State. Judgment was rendered finally for the State in the matter, but Druggist Eastburn declares he will appeal the case to a higher court to further contest the fine. Henry Silk, a South River druggist, failed to put in an appearance, though he stated two weeks ago that he proposed to contest the fine imposed. The State was awarded judgment in the matter because of his default.

P.S.C. MAKES CHANGES IN LIGHTING DEPARTMENT

For the purpose of relieving the commercial department of some of its many duties, the Public Service Corporation has transferred the work of reading the electric light meters throughout the city and borough to the operating department on West Second street. In the future the commercial department on East Front street will take care of only the gas meters, three men being employed to read them.

A corps of four men is now engaged in reading the electric light meters, the present force of seven men doing the work formerly performed by four and five when it was in charge of the commercial department.

This change has been under consideration for sometime, it being the desire of the operating department to take charge of the electric meters. It is believed that less trouble will follow in the way of complaints and that greater care can be taken in the reading of meters. The old arrangement of having the men read both meters at once was quite apt to be confusing and now that the departments are separate there should be no excuse for mistakes.

JOHN M'GINLEY'S FUNERAL.

Solemn Requiem Mass Said in St. Mary's Church This Morning.

The funeral of John McGinley, the well known Fanwood Township man who died while visiting his sister in Brooklyn, was held in St. Mary's church this morning. A solemn requiem mass was said by Father Bogan, assisted by Father Brennan and Father Schiola. Burial was afterward made in St. Mary's cemetery, the pall-bearers being Arthur McGinley, Michael DeCourcey, Edward Meissner and J. W. Townsend.

Just previous to his going to Brooklyn two weeks ago, Mr. McGinley ordered a monument valued at $1,000 to be placed in his plot at the cemetery. The stone was finished off and was in position awaiting his inspection when word of his death was telephoned. He was not feeling well when he left Plainfield, but his death was entirely unexpected.

Borough Taxes Coming In.

Borough Tax Collector George F. Brown has been busy all day receiving taxes from the North Plainfield property owners. Tomorrow is the last day for payment of assessments before interest is charged.

WONT RIDE ON SUNDAYS

Westfield Minister Walked to Plainfield Rather than Depart from Religious Belief.

HE ADVOCATES PEDESTRIANISM

Frequently Makes Long Journeys on Foot and Is an Admirer of Edward P. Weston.

Zealously upholding the principle that it is not in accordance with Scriptural teachings for a person professing Christianity to travel in public conveyances on Sunday, Rev. Frank Ham, pastor of the Methodist church at Westfield, walked all the way to this city last Sunday morning in order to preach in Grace M. E. church in the borough. The pedestrian trip was accomplished despite the fact that the weather was decidedly unpropitious and the roads were for the most part heavy with mud. The clergyman timed himself so that he would reach the church but little before the hour of service and delivered a sermon without any rest. At the close of the service, he started back home, making the distance covered a total of nearly fifteen miles. By taking a trolley car Mr. Ham could have completed the trip in about half an hour each way and would have had to walk in all only about four blocks.

Mr. Ham is an enthusiastic disciple of Edward Payson Weston, the long distance walker, and in recent years has undertaken numerous pedestrian trips, several of which have astounded his friends because of the many miles of ground gone over. While believing that exercise in this form has many advantages, the clergyman has inured himself to this method of travel in order to help him in adhering to his religious scruples. He has steadfastly refused to ride in any sort of conveyance on Sunday and in exchanging pulpits with brother ministers, his belief has often been put to severe tests. Where the distance is too great to be "footed" on the seventh day, he rides to the city or town on Saturday, spends the night there and remains over Sunday, returning home on Monday. The walk he made from Westfield to Plainfield and back was considered by him but a trifle in comparison with others that he has done.

Mr. Ham is now in middle life but his steps has the spring and elasticity of youth while his eye has the sparkle that is only acquired by plenty of exercise in the open air. He is always quick to advocate walking as a preventative of many of the ills that flesh is heir to and in his sermon at Grace church Sunday, he made mention of some of his ideas on the subject. While he has had many embryonic followers in pedestrianism, his views on Sunday traveling have not been of the contagious sort.

WIFE PROTECTS HUBBY BY FIGHTING LICENSE

Reports from Lincoln say that when the application of William Rapp for a renewal of his license at that place comes up before Judge Booraem at New Brunswick tomorrow that Mrs. Abram Gulick, of Lincoln, will have a lawyer present to oppose the granting of the license.

She claims that her husband is a good customer at Rapp's place, and that although she has pleaded with the hotel man to turn her husband away and send him to his home, the hotel people always welcomed him, much to her distress of mind. Failing to succeed with moral suasion, she decided to fight Rapp's application for a license.

The outcome of the fight is being awaited with much interest in Lincoln.

Another application that is to come up on Friday is that of Lawrence Kerwin, whose application was turned down a year or so ago because it was charged that he had sold on Sunday.

Will Attend to Outlying Districts.

Now that the brick pavement work has been halted for the winter, City Engineer Gavett will have a little more time to devote to some of the streets in the outlying districts needing attention. Judging by reports there are streets in the East End through which sanitary sewer pipes have been laid recently that in places are almost impassable.

Broken Wire Delays Trolley Cars.

A broken trolley wire at Roselle during the early part of last night delayed the westbound trolley cars on the main line about a half hour. Between 9:15 and 9:45 there was not a westbound trolley through the city. There was no delay in the eastbound cars.

SECOND WARD CAUCUS ON THE ASSESSORSHIP

Second ward members of the Republican city committee held an informal conference last night on the assessorship appointment preparatory to the meeting of that body tonight when a selection will be made. No one was agreed upon, it being decided to hold a caucus tonight before the meeting at the Casino. During the last few days several members, including Howard Tracy and R. H. Depew have been going over the assessor's book to investigate the merits of some complaints made against the present incumbent, Charles H. Hand, who is a candidate for reappointment.

The candidates in the field in addition to Mr. Hand are John H. Doane and Arthur Murphy. L. Austin Johnson, an expert real estate man, has also been mentioned for the honor. Many of the regular organization members, including Andrew McCardell, will not be present at the meeting tonight.

CHRISTMAS MUSICAL PROGRAM AT CRESCENT AVE. CHURCH.

William D. Dunn, organist at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, has prepared appropriate programs for the Christmas services to be held at the church Sunday morning and night. The quartet choir will render special selections. The morning program will be as follows:

Prelude, Pastorale Symphony, "The Messiah," Handel; anthem, "Sing, O Daughter of Zion," Gadsby; "Te Deum Laudamus," Buck; response, "O Most Merciful;" offertory, "O Thou That Tellest Good Tidings," "The Messiah," Handel; postlude, "Hallelujah Chorus," Handel.

The evening program will be as follows:

Prelude, offertory of two Christmas hymns, Guilmany; anthem, "The Grace of God," Andrews; response, "Father of Heaven;" solo, "Holy Night," Wood; offertory, "Hymn of the Angels," West; postlude, "Lift Up Your Heads," "The Messiah," Handel.

Lawyer Asks for Non-Suit.

In the case of George Kuldoshes, a Dunellen plumber, against Thomas F. Hyland, of West Seventh street, at the District Court today, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., counsel for Kuldoshes, petitioned for voluntary nonsuit. This was done because in the lawyer's examination of Kuldoshes, it was learned that the final test on the plumbing work at Hyland's West Seventh street house was made after the suit had been begun, and that the contract work had not been completed before suit was started. The action was for the recovery of $278 due to Kuldoshes, and new papers have been drawn in the case, returnable in the District Court next Thursday.

Miss Emma Dunn.

Miss Emma Dunn, daughter of James M. Dunn, who conducted a grocery on Park avenue for many years, died this morning at her father's home on East Fifth street. She had been ailing for quite some time. Miss Dunn had been a resident of Plainfield all her life and was quite well known. Beside her father, she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Alfreda Suydam, widow of Judge Suydam, and Mrs. Barkalew, both of this city.

Commemorate Whittier's Birthday.

Services in commemoration of the birthday anniversary of John Greenleaf Whittier will be held at the Friends Meeting-house on Watchung avenue, Sunday afternoon. A program of unusual interest has been arranged. Henry Wilber, of Swarthmore College, will speak on the life of Whittier, and Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor of the Unitarian church, will also present an original paper.

Christmas Sunday at Trinity.

Christmas services will be held at Trinity Reformed church on Sunday. In the morning Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson will preach a special Christmas sermon and the quartet choir will render special music. In the evening the exercises will be in charge of the Sunday-school, as usual, and music by the choir and an orchestra and singing and recitations by the members of the school will be features.

A. M. E. Conference.

Rev. J. T. Hammond, presiding elder of the Newark district, will hold the third quarterly conference at the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, West Fourth street, Friday night, followed by a quarterly meeting on Sunday. He will preach morning and afternoon and the pastor, Rev. J. T. Diggs, will preach at night. John Jones will conduct the 7:30 o'clock praise service Sunday night.

Mr. McCardell's Brother Dead.

Andrew McCardell, of West Front street, left this morning for Providence, R. I., where he was called by the death of his brother, Robert McCardell.

HONOR "FIRST FORT MAN"

County Clerk James C. Calvert Guest of Union County Politicians.

HE RECEIVES HANDSOME GIFT.

County Chairman Frank H. Smith Makes the Presentation Speech—Menu Card An Unique One.

One of the largest social gatherings of politicians in the history of Union county took place last night at Bender's Lorraine Hotel, when prominent Democratic and Republican leaders, all members of the Hail Fellow Well Met Club, gave a testimonial dinner in honor of County Clerk James C. Calvert, who launched the boom for Justice J. Franklin Fort for the Governorship. The occasion was a complete surprise to Mr. Calvert, who was under the impression that the dinner was to be given in honor of Frank H. Smith, chairman of the Republican County Committee.

A gold watch charm, unique in design and emblematic of the B. P. O. Elks and the Independent Order of Foresters, was presented to Mr. Calvert, for whom it had been specially designed. The presentation speech was made by County Chairman Smith. There was an elaborate banquet, served in the reception room of the hotel. Captain Robert Kirkland presided as toastmaster. There were speeches of five minutes' duration made by fourteen of those present.

On the menu card to each of the speakers was given the title of president of a club, the name of which was supposed to be characteristic of the speaker. These presidents were Frank H. Smith, president of the Get Together Club; James C. Calvert, president of The First Man Club; Judge C. Addison Swift, president of The Knockers' Club; Edward Leroy Mack, president of the I Promise You Club; Assemblyman Peter Tillman, president of The Honest Man Club; General D. F. Collins, president of The Beefsteak and Club; Harry Rath, president of the Down and Out Club; Abe J. David, president of the Why Are We Happy Club; Charles Moore, president of The Hot Air Club; Samuel Schleimer, president of the I Don't Remember Club. Postmasater Palmer H. Charlock, John J. McGowan and Charles A. Trimble were also among the speakers.

Plainfield was well represented, those attending being Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., Francis J. Blatz, Judge William Newcorn, Councilman Herbert Buxton and former Mayor James F. Buckle. Those who arranged the dinner as a committee from the Hail Fellow Well Met Club, comprised George Stewart, Edward Bauer, Robert Kirtland and Halsey Brandt.

FINE SILVER LOVING CUP FOR VICE MAYOR GALVIN

Following a resolution adopted at a recent meeting, Plainfield Lodge of Elks today expressed a handsome silver loving cup to Vice-Mayor John Galvin, of Cincinnati, O., as an expression of appreciation for his speaking at the memorial exercises on December 1. The gift was selected by a committee appointed for the purpose and was shown at the regular meeting of the lodge last night. It is suitably engraved and mounted on a base bearing emblems of the order.

Mr. Galvin is a past grand exalted ruler of the Elks and came to Plainfield to speak in preference to calls from many other cities. His address at the lodge of sorrow made a deep impression upon the large audience and substantiated the reports of his ability as an orator. He made the trip from Cincinnati especially for the purpose and refused compensation, whereat the Elks decided to return thanks in concrete form.

David Ryno Fractures His Leg.

David Ryno, of East Second street, one of the best known carpenters in the city, is confined to his home with a fractured leg, the result of an accident on Sunday morning. He was descending the cellar steps when his ankle turned, throwing him almost the entire distance into the cellar. He lay helpless for several minutes, until members of the family assisted him upstairs. Dr. D. C. Adams, the family physician, was called and discovered a clean break of the bone in the leg.

Institution Remembers Patrons.

The First National Bank has remembered its many patrons with a suitable Christmas gift in the shape of a handsome blotter with a celluloid cover, appropriately designed.

TYLER FOR PRESIDENCY

Third Ward Member Favorite for Head of the Common Council.

NO OTHER CANDIDATES FOR IT.

Regulars, It Is Reported, Will Vote to Make Reformer Successor to Leslie M. Daniel.

The members of the incoming Common Council will hold a caucus tonight, for the purpose of agreeing upon officers and committees for the ensuing year. Several names have been mentioned in connection with the Presidency, but none has been decided upon. In the air, there is talk of making William S. Tyler, of the Third ward, the successor to President Leslie M. Daniel, whose term expires this year. They hail from the same district.

It is generally understood that Councilman Ralph I. Tolles, who preceded Mr. Daniel in that office, will not consent to succeed him as President despite the urgent request of many of the members. Mr. Tolles is expected, however, to continue as chairman of the finance committee. There will be a scramble for the other chairmanships, particularly those of the more important committees. If Mr. Tyler is made President, it will be up to him to appoint all committees.

None of the regular organization men is willing to become Mr. Daniel's successor but there seems to be a willingness on their part to thus honor Mr. Tyler, who is one of the older members in point of service. It is not known whether he would accept the honor.

The new members of the Council for 1908 are F. E. Mygatt, H. B. Suydam and Robert E. Hall. The outgoing members are Leslie M. Daniel, George P. Mellick and Daniel S. Ginna.

MARSH BUILDING FOR POLICE HEADQUARTERS

The Councilmanic police board being compelled to move police headquarters on or before May 1, 1908, from the present location in East Front street, efforts are being made to obtain temporary quarters until such time as a permanent one can be had. It is reported in this connection that the board has been considering the advisability of leasing a portion of the second and third floors of the Marsh building, at Park avenue and Second street, for temporary purposes.

There are several vacant rooms that are considered in many ways suitable for police purposes. The large hall on the second floor, it is said, would make an excellent place to hold court, while the other rooms could be arranged easily to accommodate the policemen who are obliged to sleep at headquarters. The third floor hall, which is practically the same as the one on the second floor could be used for the cells in which to detain prisoners and they would be removed from the crowds that frequently gather to hear court cases. Members of the board, it is said, are inclined to favor this scheme until permanent quarters can be decided upon.

There are members of the Common Council who still believe that it would be a wise move for the city to purchase the Woolston & Buckle building on North avenue, where all of the city offices and departments could be established, and it has been the hope that definite action might be taken on this proposition soon.

A member of the Councilmanic finance committee in speaking of the matter said today that he did not believe that the city would be ready for sometime to expend $25,000 or even more to erect a building exclusively for police headquarters, and even if the city could afford such an improvement he did not believe that a sufficient number of votes could be secured in the Council to take such action, while the other proposition of purchasing the Woolston & Buckle building would mean a saving to the city.

"By purchasing this building all of the city offices and departments would be together," said the councilman," and if at any time in the future it was thought best to sell the property the city would be able to do so at a good price. It is not a property that will depreciate in value in the years to come and I believe that it is an opportunity that the city should take advantage of without delay."

Leap Year Dance at the Casino.

A leap year dance will be given at the Casino, Wednesday night, January 15, by the Young Ladies' Social Circle of Plainfield.

CONFERENCE ON TROLLEY

Mayor Fisk and Col. Hine to Discuss Better Service on Local Lines.

TO DECIDE ON NEW CARS.

Improved Schedule to Be Arranged Will Take Effect After the Christmas Holidays.

The Public Service Corporation has shown a willingness to make further concessions to Plainfield and to that end Colonel Hine, who manages its trolley system, will hold a conference with Mayor Charles J. Fisk at the mayor's office in the Smalley building at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. New cars and an improved schedule on the four local lines are what is desired and Plainfield is to get both according to reliable sources.

Colonel Hine in company with Mayor Fisk will make a tour of inspection of the Netherwood, Arlington avenue, Somerset street, West Fourth street and main line. They will also inspect the rolling stock and will agree upon what cars should be replaced by new ones and what improvements can be made along the various lines. In addition they will work out an entire new schedule; one that will give better service especially at the crush hours, morning and night.

Acting on his own responsibility as mayor, Mr. Fisk communicated with Col. Hine a few days ago and suggested that certain changes be made. In reply, the P. S. C. man expressed his willingness to meet the mayor and obtain his co-operation for whatever he considered of public benefit.

When the double track permit was given the P. S. C. some time ago, Col. Hine agreed to have new cars put on the local lines wherever necessary as soon as possible. The conference will be in line with that promise.

It is planned to have the new schedule take effect immediately after the holidays.

CAB COMPANY GET $300 VERDICT FROM P.S.C.

Judgment for $300, the highest amount that can be awarded in the district court for damages, was granted the Plainfield Cab Company today in the case of suit against the Public Service Corporation, for injury to a horse and damage to a rig in a collision with an Arlington avenue sprinkling car at Seventh street on May 31. Judge Newcorn presided and the jury was out twenty minutes.

The suit was for $300 and W. A. Coddington represented the Cab Company, but the P. S. C. put in no defense. The accident, which happened about noon, shattered the rig and severely injured the horse, so that it was alleged in court that the animal was unable to work for seven weeks, and afterwards was so fractious when near trolleys that the cabmen had to dispose of it. In his charge to the jury before they retired, Judge Newcorn urged them not to be effected in their decision by the absence of counsel for the corporation. The case first came up for trial in the district court a week ago and at this time counsel for the P. S. C. requested an adjournment for one week.

ELKS CHRISTMAS TREE.

Annual Affair for Children Will Be Held at Bijou Theatre Instead of Reform Hall.

At a meeting of the local Elks Christmas tree committee last night, it was decided to change the holding of the affair from Reform Hall to the Bijou theatre on East Front street. By doing this it will be much easier to handle the children who are guests of the lodge on that day and the entertainment can be made much better and longer. Moving pictures, songs and vaudeville numbers will make up the program and at the close each boy and girl will receive a box of candy and an orange. In addition, they will receive a ticket redeemable at a local store for a pair of stockings, a pair of mittens and a cap.

The affair has been set for next Tuesday afternoon from 1 until 5 and the Christmas tree committee will be assisted by a delegation of Elks in seeing that the children are well taken care of.

WESTFIELD.

A petition to vacate Addison avenue, Westfield, between Mountain avenue and Dudley avenue, has been presented to Westfield Council by George Perry and U. S. Hoffman, who own the entire frontage on that part of the avenue.

George Peek, of Westfield, who had for several years been in charge of the electric light service in Westfield, has resigned from the service of the Public Service Corporation.

Electric light linemen have been busy for the past three days repairing the damage to wires in Westfield, caused by the storm of Saturday.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The funeral of Randolph Morris took place at the Baptist church yesterday and was very largely attended by the many friends of the family. Rev. C. W. F. Attlee officiated and burial was in Hillside cemetery. Mr. Morris was the third member of his family to pass away within a few weeks.

The weekly prayer meeting was held last night and the pastor was glad to see some new faces but was sorry to miss some familiar ones. The prayer meeting will be omitted next week on account of so many of the people doing their Christmas shopping on Christmas eve.

Mrs. Adam Deter, who removed from here a short time ago, and is now living in Jersey City, is passing a few days with friends in town.

Mrs. Mary Thicksten and her sister-in-law, Mrs. S. Schoquist, of Clinton avenue, spent Tuesday with Mrs. Theodore Laing.

Mrs. William Norman visited in New York yesterday.

NORTH BRANCH.

A wedding was celebrated at the residence of Jacob G. Hagaman, at Neshanic, recently, when his daughter, Miss Anna Belle Hagaman, and Nathan Allen, son of Abraham Allen, of East Amwell, Hunterdon county, were married. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Hart, pastor of the Reformed church at Neshanic.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Harry Kelly in the musical play, "His Honor, the Mayor," which will be at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night, will come here with the record of a continuous run of five months in New York and six months in Chicago, which stamps it as one of the most conspicuous successes in recent theatrical history. The music of "His Honor, the Mayor," was written by Julian Edwards and Alfred E. Aarons, both of whom have won recognition among American composers. Mr. Edwards has written such light operas as "Princess Chic," "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," "Brian Boru," "Dolly Varden," and "Love's Lottery," while Mr. Aarons has written "The Knickerbocker Girl," "My Antoinette" and "The China Doll." The book is from the pens of Charles J. Campbell and R. H. Skinner, librettists of wide renown. The company remains the same as during the all summer run in New York including some of the best known players on the lyric stage.

The most interesting and impressive play of life in the Southland, extant today, is undoubtedly Lottie Blair Parker's play "Under Southern Skies." This play has been firmly established in popular favor during the six years that it has toured the country, and the popularity of its first visit seems to increase, as the years pass by. Mrs. Parker has wisely refrained from any reference to the Civil War, although the period in which the play is laid closely followed the days of reconstruction. Furthermore, there is not a northerner, moonshiner, or in fact any of the claptrap characters that are generally introduced into southern plays as a bid for applause. Mrs. Parker tells a story of southern home life, showing various characters that are familiar to Louisiana, the locality of the scenes of the play, and who, therefor fit naturally into the grooves assigned them. Mrs. Parker achieved much fame as a playwright with "Way Down East," but in "Under Southern Skies" she has surpassed her former effort. For ingenuity, strength and brilliancy, "Under Southern Skies" is a marvel of stage craft done by a master hand in stage adroitness. The characters are finely drawn, the dialogue is crisp and understandable, the human interest is absorbing, the comedy charming, and the pathos is sincere. "Under Southern Skies" will be shown at the New Plainfield theatre on Christmas Day, afternoon and night.

Percy Helton, who plays the part of "Reddie," the fresh New York kid in "The Ninety and Nine," booked for the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday night, is one of the cleverest youngsters on the stage. He is only sixteen years old, yet he has been on the stage since he was three. His diminunitive size (he is only four feet and a half tall) render him especially suited for the playing of small boys. Last season he played the part of Buster Brown in the musical extravaganza of that name and scored a tremendous hit all over the country. He talks most interestingly concerning his stage experiences and has very decided opinions about things theatrical for a boy of his years.

PERSONAL.

Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Roberson, of Monroe avenue, who have been enjoying a short vacation in Hunterdon county, have returned home.

Mrs. W. W. St. John, formerly of Plainfield, who has been spending a few days with friends here, returned yesterday to her home at Bath, N. Y.

Clifford A. Braider, of East Front street, who has been kept at home with a severe attack of neuralgia of the head, has recovered and returned to his position in New York.

Robert Gow, of West Fifth street, who was called to Portsmouth, Va., on account of the death of his brother, John Gow, expects to return to Plainfield next week. The funeral was held the first part of the week and the burial followed at Roanoke, Va., the former home of Mrs. Gow.

Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, will address the Junior Epworth League in Vincent chapel tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

The Boys' Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will hold a Christmas service this afternoon. The subject will be "Christmas Eve at Bethlehem."

Rev. W. T. Elsing, for a quarter of a century pastor of the DeWitt Memorial Presbyterian church on the lower East Side, New York, will speak before the Young People's Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow night, telling of his work among the poor.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS.

Herman Boyer, of Passaic, aged twelve, will lose the thumb and third finger of his right hand as the result of an explosion of a cartridge.

So great is the need of tending boys in the Millville glass factories that the manufacturers will give any man work who will place one boy in their employ.

His rolling gait, the result of a life on shipboard, resulted in Henry Pinto, eighteen years old, a deserter from Uncle Sam's navy, being arrested in Camden yesterday by Policeman Knauff.

While in the act of passing a pint bottle of whiskey to a friend in the Camden city jail yesterday afternoon, Harry Hamilton was placed under arrest and held for a hearing in the police court yesterday.

Joseph Paule, of Clayton, has received from Adjutant-General Breintnall one of the State's bronze medals to be issued January 1 to the New Jersey survivors of the Civil War, and for which $10,000 was appropriated.

The family of Christian A. Madden, of Woodbury, who were poisoned a few nights ago, are all recovering. Dr. Brewer found symptoms of ptomine poisoning, which he attributed to pork, which formed part of the meal.

D. Kelsey Whitaker, formerly an Assemblyman; Comptroller Charles E. Annett and Joseph W. Moore, president of the Civic Club, have been appointed members of the Charter Commission of Bayonne by Mayor Pierre Garven.

Miss Edith Coate Robbins, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Samuel K. Robbins, of Moorestown, will be presented to society on the evening of Friday, December 20, at which time they will give a dance at the Roosevelt, in Philadelphia.

Eighty-two years of age and blind for three years, George Wainwright, of Trenton, has regained the sight of one eye, through an operation for the removal of a cataract, and has hopes that the light of the other optic may be restored.

James Kelly, of Van Housten street, Paterson, called at the General Hospital, that city, yesterday afternoon with a lacerated wound on the right side of his head. Kelly claimed he received the wound in a quarrel with a companion.

Taken suddenly ill in bed early yesterday morning, Annie, the two-month-old daughter of Howard Morley, of 938 Newton avenue, Camden, strangled to death before a physician could be summoned. Coroner Wingender gave a certificate.

Seizing a runaway horse as it was about to dash into a crowd of women and children at Atlantic and Virginia avenues, Atlantic City, A. A. Finsterbush changed the runaway's course, but was dragged and trampled for 300 feet before his weight brought the frightened animal to a standstill.

In a special meeting Saturday night the Paulsboro Council decided to at once erect the gas plant, which has been delivered by the contractors, in order to give idle men employment. The old basket factory of John Parker, in the residential section of the town, has been purchased for the purpose.

Sharks are fond of haddock, says Captain H. Parker, of Atlantic City, and they have been doing havoc on the fishing grounds. The haddock are caught on the trawls, and the sharks make a feast of them at the expense of the fishermen, who also charge the sharks on the fishing grounds with eating up the cod.

The Trenton police are after two men who have been terrorizing women in the back part of that city for the past week. Their operations have been unique, in that they scale fences at a bound, both being athletes, and, getting inside a house, demand things for pawning and to eat. They never avail themselves of the Trenton pawnshops.

All the divisions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of Paterson and Passaic, together with the ladies' auxiliary, of Paterson, attended solemn vesper service in St. Joseph's R. C. Church, Paterson, last night, and listened to a stirring sermon on "Friendship, Unity and Christian Charity," the motto of the order. Rev. Father Corcoran, assistant to the rector of the church, delivered the sermon.

BEATEN IN SEWAGE FIGHT.

Contract Signed, Mayor Ignoring Protests of Residents.

Mayor Bennell, of Morristown, yesterday signed a contract with J. B. Salmon for the erection of the sewage disposal plant. The Mayor had been instructed to sign the document several months ago by the local Sewerage Board, but had refrained because of the determined opposition of a number of well-known residents, who objected to its location.

They told the local board that placing the plant on the Whitnall tract, the site selected by the engineers in charge, would be a serious detriment to the growth of the town because of its close proxmity, and that it was a menace to the health of the neighborhood. An appeal was made to the State Board, and that body held a public meeting, but did not interfere with the plans of the local board.

The action of the Mayor in finally signing the contract is expected to definitely settle the matter.

"Why, Santa Claus, You Dear Old Soul!"

"How Good of You to Bring Me a Piano!"

"And It's a Hardman!"

She had wished for, she had hoped for, she had wondered if she would get a piano, and lo! on Christmas morning there it was—a beautiful object to look upon, still more beautiful when played upon, giving her joy not only on Christmas Day but for many days and many years thereafter.

Santa Claus had answered her prayers. No wonder she says "Santa, you dear old soul!"

There should be full realization of every piano dream on Christmas Day. There need be no disappointment—the pianos are here, any number of splendid makes. They are fairly priced and they can be bought on such easy terms that the watch-word "economy" cannot preclude a purchase, and stringency of cash will not avail as an argument if you want one of the finest instruments made at moderate cost.

Select a Hardman, Kranich & Bach, a Gabler, or a Hazleton—every one of them pianos of the highest grade, built by conscientious folks who have laid much stress on reputation and who have, thru more than fifty years, built up a name and sustained it by producing instruments that were at once artistic and truly musical.

Or choose a Hahne Piano if you want a first-class instrument at still lower cost than the better known makes—an exceptional instrument with sweet tonal qualities, easy touch and of extraordinary durability. The Hahne Piano is built in one of the best factories in the country and we sell it with the fullest guarantee and our most lavish promises of satisfaction.

Ruckstuhl Pianos will appeal to many who have in mind a piano for a Christmas gift, because it is a splendid instrument, honestly built, and possesses qualities few pianos have, and is sold at most moderate prices.

If the desire is for a piano in the lower-priced class choose a Hansel or a Spencer—both excellent instruments, built for service as well as good musical qualities, and particularly good for those in the experimental stage.

Or if you would choose an instrument pleasing alike to those skilled in playing by hand and those who have not the advantage of a musical education, here are the Hardman and Harrington Autotones—the unequaled self-playing pianos with all the fine qualities of the regular Hardman and Harrington pianos, combined with the self-playing feature.

Hardman	$390 to $1,000	Hazelton			$450 to $800
Kranich & Bach	$425 to $1,000	Hahne & Co.			$275 to $400
Gabler	$375 to $1,000	Hensel	$250	Spencer	$185
Hardman and Harrington Autotones					$550 to $800

Any of the pianos we sell may be bought on the CLUB PLAN, making the payments easy for you.

A PIANO FOR CHRISTMAS.

What more beautiful gift could you give than a Piano. Could you receive a more beautiful gift than a Player-Piano.

The Christmas season is fast approaching and possibly you are turning over in your mind the large number of things you could give to make someone happy.

Perhaps for a long time past you have been thinking of getting for your home a Piano or Player-Piano, but for one reason or another have put off purchasing.

Do not let the glorious season of Christmas tide pass without adding a Piano to the furnishing and happiness of your home. Our wareroom contains a large variety of instruments of our own make, the Mathushek & Son, and other makes very worthy of your serious consideration, and at prices ranging from $250 upwards. Every instrument fully warranted and guaranteed.

TERMS OF PAYMENT

From our large and various stock the man of the modest and the man of the larger purse will find instruments to satisfy every taste and desire. Terms of payment can be arranged. A payment of $10 will secure the instrument; the balance can be paid in small monthly payments.

A small deposit paid now will reserve it for you until the day before Christmas.

YOU WILL PROFIT BY AN EARLY SELECTION.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

When you have any carting to be done give the order to John Winzenreid, of Lee place. All orders promptly attended to.

When your furnace or stove needs repairs or you want sanitary plumbing work done, give A. H. Enander, of Watchung avenue, the job. It will be done right.

You may have had trouble with the milk, cream, butter and eggs you have been using. If so try those to be had at Brokaw's creamery on East Front street. Prices low.

John Wirth, the West Front street baker and confectioner, is "on the job" with special pastry for Christmas. His mince pies, alone, have established his reputation for toothsome articles.

L. Moraller & Son, the Park avenue jewelers, are displaying an attractive line of gold and silver novelties suitable for holiday gifts. They make a specialty of engraving work and quote low prices.

The Hotel Waldorf is listed among fastidious diners as having one of the finest auxiliary restaurants in the State. The service is excellent and the noon day lunches have become extremely popular.

This is the time of year when you need the best coal and if you place your order with Boice, Runyon & Co., of Park avenue, you will get that kind. Large stock of lumber and masons' materials on hand.

Speaking of Christmas, it's a nice thing to have a bank account to fall back on for the making of presents If you haven't one, better start an account at once with the City National Bank. The years roll by very quickly and another Christmas will be here in twelve months.

Only five days left in which to do your Christmas shopping and "The White Store" is the place to get anything that you may need at less cost than in New York. The list includes everything from confection to art goods, as well as ribbons, neckwear, handkerchiefs, ladies' gloves and men's furnishings. Stop at the store and inspect the goods before buying elsewhere. You will also find many things for the children that will make them happy.

Negro Cook Dies on Train.

Harriett Amanda Welch, 45 years old, a negress, died on a New Jersey Central train from heart disease between Long Branch and Elizabeth Tuesday afternoon. She had been a cook in Price's Hotel, Long Branch, and was on her way home to East Orange. The body was taken from the train at Elizabethport station and removed to the morgue.

TITLE OF OFFICERS OF GUARD TRIMMED

Assignments of officers in the New Jersey National Guard, as they will be published officially this week, show that much reduction in rank has taken place, besides many changes in the personnel of the officer roster.

The officers of the Second Brigade have been announced, and the officers of the division and of the First Brigade will be as follows:

Division—Thomas S. Chambers, Trenton, lieutenant-colonel and chief of staff; Leon W. Manton, Jersey City, adjutant-general, with rank of lieutenant-colonel; Daniel B. Murphy, Atlantic City, inspector-general, with rank of lieutenant-colonel; Geo. W. Terriberry, surgeon-general, with rank of lieutenant-colonel; Walter E. Edge, Atlantic City, ordnance officer, lieutenant-colonel; James W. Howard, Newark, department quartermaster, with rank of lieutenant-colonel; George E. P. Howard, East Orange, judge-advocate, with rank of lieutenant-colonel; Walter E. Whitemore, engineer, with rank of lieutenant-colonel; Forrest F. Dryden, Newark, department commissary-general, with rank of lieutenant.

First Brigade Staff—Alexander P. Gray, Jr., Paterson, adjutant-general, with rank of major; William J. Parker, Jersey City, surgeon, with rank of major; Hobart Tuttle, Paterson, quartermaster, with rank of major; Allan B. Wallace, Newark, paymaster, with rank of major; Robert I. Hopper, Paterson, judge-advocate, with rank of major; S. Wood McClave, Cliffside, engineer, with rank of major; Charles E. Burgess, Summit, commissary, with rank of major; William B. Miles, Summit, engineer, with rank of first lieutenant.

BISHOP COLEMAN'S FUNERAL.

Three Bishops Conduct the Impressive Services.

After lying in state in the Episcopal residence from Monday until noon Tuesday, the body of Bishop Coleman, of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Delaware, who died last Saturday, was taken to St. John's church, and after appropriate services it was escorted to the DePont burial plot and laid in the grave beside the body of his wife.

At the church the Rev. Dr. T. Gardiner Littell, formerly a rector of St. John's church, recited the office of the dead. The lesson was read by Bishop Satterlee of Washington, and the creed and prayers were read by Bishop Scarborough, of New Jersey. An address was delivered by Bishop Whitehead, of Pittsburg, who was among those who officiated at Bishop Coleman's consecration. The benediction was pronounced by Bishop Scarborough, who also read the committal service at the interment.

FAMOUS STABLES BURNED.

Loss of $10,000 at Fashion Stud Farm Near Trenton.

The splendid stables on the Fashion Stud Farm, near Trenton, formerly owned by the late Henry N. Smith, partner of Jay Gould, were destroyed by fire late Tuesday afternoon, entailing a loss of $10,000. The stables have been unused for years, and the private racetrack adjoining, on which Mr. Smith trained the famous horses Goldsmith Maid and Dexter, has been cut up into building lots. It is supposed that the fire was started by tramps. The stables were almost palatial in their fittings, but had deteriorated much from disuse.

Among the destroyed buildings was a handsome wagon house, the upper floors of which were formerly fitted up as sumptuous quarters in which Mr. Smith, in former days, entertained many prominent horsemen and bankers.

BOTH DR. C. M. FREEMAN AND HIS WIFE ARE ILL.

Reports came to Metuchen last night that Mrs. Mary E. Wilkins Freeman, a well known novelist, is ill in Randolph, Mass., and that her husband, Dr. Charles M. Freeman, is critically ill with pneumonia in a hospital in Boston.

It was added that Dr. Freeman had been called to the bedside of his wife, but was too ill to be able to respond.

From Randolph late last night a message said Mrs. Freeman was ill at the home of a friend and would be unable to leave the house for several weeks.

MILK TRUST GIVES IN.

Put to rout by the small dealers in Trenton, the larger milk selling concerns of Trenton have been compelled to reduce the retail price from nine to eight cents per quart. Farmers and other producers recently increased the wholesale price to five cents per quart, and the retailers made an increase on the consumers, but the small dealers could not be held in line and the big concerns were obliged to surrender in order to retain their trade. Now the consumers are laughing.

CHRISTMAS AT SCHOOLS

Special Exercises by Local Pupils Before Schools Close for the Holidays.

BOROUGH SENIORS IN A PLAY.

Daily Press Medal to Be Presented to Chauncey Murphey at City School Exercises—Senior-Junior "Roasts."

Local schools will close for the two weeks' Christmas vacation tomorrow, when special exercises will mark the Christmas season in the public schools of city and borough. At the high schools in the city and borough, the annual custom of "roasts" by the senior class to members of the junior class, will be continued. The exercises at the Plainfield High School will be put in charge of a committee from the senior class at 12 o'clock. The North Plainfield High School seniors will have their inter-class fun tonight, when a playlet entitled "Ye Village Skule of Long Ago" will be given by the seniors in the school assembly room, and the "roasts" on the juniors will be made at that time. In the cast of the play are seventeen members of the class of 1908, and the final dress rehearsal was held at the school last night.

Plainfield High School.

Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, will be the speaker at the exercises in the city high school, which will be held at 7:30 in the morning. The program of exercises includes the presentation of the gold medal, offered by The Daily Press to the champion athlete of the school. It will be awarded to Chauncey Murphey, 1908, who scored half a point more than Charles Loizeaux, 1909, did in the school track meet held this fall. The award for class championship in track is a silver cup, offered by another paper, and this title has been won by 1908. The first prizes for the various events of the meet are bronze medals, attached to red and blue ribbon for watch fobs. These medals will be given the pupils through the generosity of the following local merchants: Mulford Estil, Phillip Swain, People's Credit Clothing Company, Greer & Greenwood, Leslie M. Cobb, Schwed Brothers, J. W. Gavett, American Steam Laundry and M. C. Van Arsdale.

Another feature of the exercises will be the presentation of a series of large photographs depicting the scenes in the life of Joan d' Arc. The originals are mural paintings in the Pantheon in Paris. The photographs will be presented by Miss Pound, for the pupils, and Charles Loizeaux will make a short speech of acceptance in behalf of the school. Music will be a feature of the exercises, and will include Christmas hymns, anthems, selections by the school orchestra, and a processional duet,—a march from the Leonore symphony by Raff, played by Miss Mable Maxson, the school pianiste, and R. H. Hubbard, of the school faculty.

Borough Schools.

At the North Plainfield High School exercises, to be held late in the morning, the address will be made by Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church. A feature of the program will be the rendition of caraols, hymns and cantatas by the school, under the direction of Mr. Lloyd, the school instructor in music. At the Somerset school, the kindergarten class, Miss Adele Milne, teacher, will have its exercises when school opens. The exercises of the primary department will be held in the assembly hall at noon, and the programs in each case will consist of recitattions and songs by the children. There will be no addresses.

Franklin School.

The exercises at the Franklin School will be held at 1:30 o'clock, and the complete program follows:

Carol: "Silent Night," by the school; hymn: "Come All Ye Faithful," by the school; carol: "All Hail the Christmas!" by the school; hymn, "Hark! The Herald Angels Sing," by the school; carol: "The Angels' Song," by the school; carol: "Nazareth," ten boys' voices; hymn, "O Little Town of Bethlehem," by four girls and four boys; carol: "Glory," by girls' glee club, with chorus by the school; carol: "The Glorious Bethlehem Star," by the school; soprano solo: "The Beautiful Story," by Miss Ruth Weinberger, with chorus by the school; carol: "The Christmas Bells," by the school; carol: "Night of Glory," solo by Miss Ruth Weinberger, with chorus by grade Fifth B; reading: "The Christmas Story," by Miss Noel J. Bullock, principal; anthem: "Christ Is Born," by the girls' glee club; carol: "Hail the Gift of Love," by the school.

Irving School.

The program of exercises to be held at the Irving School at 1:30 o'clock, will be as follows:

Song: "Adeste Fidles," school; recitation: "Dear December," Carl Taylor; recitation: "The Search for the King," Edith Jeffries; song: "All Hail the Christmas," school; selection, "The Sistine Madonna," Miriam Emery; song: "Angels' Song," school; recitation: "Christmas Story," Russell Scribner; song: "The Christmas Bells," school; recitation: "Christmas Eve," Bonsall Stover; song: "Long Years Ago," Susie Stewart; dialogue: "Why We Make Christmas Gifts," given by Joel Pennington, Marion Volmers, Lottie Handelman and Herman Overland; song: "The Glorious Bethlehem Star," school; recitation: "The Day Before Christmas," Harold Spicer; song: "Silent Night" (Haydn), pupils of Fifth C grade; selection: "Christmas Goose at the Cratchets," Gladys Waring; song with recitation: "Santa Claus Is Near," given by Helen McAfee, Katharine Stevens, Helen Roseberry, Margaret Cran, Marjorie Kelly and Miriam Smith; son: "If you're Good," Irene Weber, Hazel Stewart, John Bolsterle and Robert Lee; recitation: "Christmas Gifts," Margaret Thorn, Mary Taynor, Elsie Cullinan and Marjorie Storr; song: "Glory," school; recitation: "The Telephone Message," Willard Bird and Arthur Thorn; recitation, "Helping Santa Claus," Rachael Smith, Ruth Lynn and Edith Marsh; recitation, "Christmas Cheer," Lilian Vardon; song: "Beautiful Story," solo by Ella Cook, chorus by school; recitation, Ella Kline; song by school, "Merry Christmas."

Christmas Decorations Catch Fire.

A still alarm was received at fire headquarters shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon for a blaze in the store of E. W. Davis at 937 West Fourth street. Christmas paper decorations adorining the ceiling had caught fire through a lighted match head flying into them. Hose companies Nos. 1 and 3 and the ladder truck were sent out but the blaze had practically been extinguished when they arrived. The damage is placed at $40.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Tax Collector John Z. Hatfield will be at Excelsior Hall again tomorrow from 9:30 a. m. until 2:30 p. m. to receive taxes. The two days' receipts have been up to the usual collection of former years and from indications the report will show but few delinquents this year.

Miss Rita De Mott, the assistant postmistress, has returned from a week's stay at her home at Gladstone, where she was called by the sudden death of her father.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., nominate officers at its meeting tonight in the library rooms. Two candidates will be initiated. A full attendance of members is requested.

The Christmas committee of the Methodist Sunday-school meet in the church tomorrow night for the purpose of decorating the church for Christmas.

The recently elected township officers will be sworn in at the first meeting of the Township Committee, held in January.

Miss Flora Garlinghouse has been detained at home for several days with a severe attack of the grip.

The Bible Study Class met last night.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Property owners on Dunellen avenue, between Washington and Lincoln avenues, have framed a petition to be presented at the next Council meeting asking that this stretch of the street be macadamized. The property abutting on the street has been greatly improved recently, and the frontage has been curbed and in many cases concrete sidewalks have been laid. The street, however, is in a bad condition for travelling, parts of it being badly rutted where the pavement has entirely softened. It is understood that the Council looks favorably upon the petition for macadamizing.

Today is the last day of work for many of the local shopmen, for those employed at Pond Machine Tool Works, Plainfield, will be laid off after tomorrow in accordance with an order made public at the shop two weeks ago. It is not definitely known how long the shut-down will last, but at any rate the shop will not start up again until after the first of the year. About a score of Dunellenites are thus thrown out of employment for the holidays.

The local schools will close for the Christmas vacation of two weeks tomorrow, and many of the teachers are planning to leave town to spend the vacation at their homes. Exercises appropriate to Christmas will mark the closing day in the schools, and a program of carols, cantatas and recitations will be rendered by the pupils at the schools of the borough and New Market.

Yesterday's snowfall was not heavy enough to make any trouble for the property owners in observing the snow and ice ordinance, for the snow melted as fast as it fell on the sidewalks. The cold night, however, brought several of the more conscientious property owners out early this morning with sand, ashes and saw dust to strew over their walks.

Robert Maltby left today for Florida, where he will spend the winter. He will visit a relative who has a big truck farm in the South and during his vacation in the South will help with the work on the place.

KEAN AND TILLMAN CLASH

New Jersey Senator Attacks Fiery Southerner's Local Option Measure.

CONCERNING POLICE POWER.

Carolinian Wanted to Know What Right States Have to Stop Traffic in Intoxicating Liquors.

Senator Tillman yesterday clashed with Senator Kean, of New Jersey, in the United States Senate at Washington, when he introduced the following resolution and asked its immediate consideration:

"That the committee on interstate commerce be instructed to consider and report by bill or otherwise what legislation is desirable or necessary to enable the States in the exercise of their police powers to control the commerce of liquors and all alcoholic beverages within their borders so as to aid the cause of temperance and to prevent the encouragement by the United States Government of illicit dealing in the same."

Explaining his purpose Mr. Tillman said it was to prevent, if possible, the circumvention of the laws in the interest of prohibition which are being generally enacted in the Southern States.

"Congress attempted to enact the Wilson law to protect the people in the enforcement of their State laws, but the courts have shaded down the protection until there is practically nothing left of it, and I want the committee to ascertain whether it is not practicable to give relief.

"The decisions of the courts have been on the ground that the law interferes with State commerce and it is on this account that I have asked to have the investigation made by the interstate commerce committee."

Mr. Tillman holds the express companies responsible for the evasion of the State laws. He says they are flooding the local option part of South Carolina and other local option Southern States with whiskey which is sent from other States "C. O. D." The Supreme Court of the United States has held that such traffic cannot be interfered with because of its interstate character.

When Mr. Tillman attempted to secure the adoption of the resolution he aroused a long discussion.

Mr. Aldrich suggested that the measure should go to the committee on judiciary. Mr. Tillman consented to the change, but insisted that any committee taking charge of it should first be instructed to take the question up.

"Does the Senator from South Carolina," asked Mr. Kean, "want to instruct States what laws they should pass to protect themselves from the liquor traffic?"

Mr. Tillman explained that his resolution simply sought to define the point at which the police power of the State begins. As Governor of South Carolina he had dealt with this question. He wanted some committee to determine how far Congress can go in limiting as a police power the control over interstate traffic in intoxicating beverages.

ATLANTIC ESPLANADE CONTRACT IS AWARDED

Members of the Boardwalk Board, of Atlantic City Council, refused to start another beach-front war, and voted down a proposition made to move the Boardwalk seaward from Connecticut avenue to Virginia avenue. The proposal was made at the meeting, during which the board formally awarded the contract for the new steel and concrete stretch of Esplanade from the Inlet to Connecticut avenue to Raymond Concrete Piling Company, of Brooklyn, for $54,000.

The new section of walk will be the first of the reinforced concrete promenade intended to stretch along the entire five miles of beach front. Plans drawn by Philadelphia architects for the "City Beautiful" will be used as pattern for the new walk.

By the changing of the line the walk goes seaward for nearly a thousand feet in places. Land brought inside the walk by the change will become the property of the riparian owners, under the agreement made by the city when the Boardwalk was first built, and splendid hotel and cottage sites will be thrown on the market by the moving of the line of promenade.

Owners of land farther down the walk say they can secure consent necessary to have their section moved seaward, but the councilmanic board refused to consider the plans because of the danger of legal squabbles that might hold up the entire project for years.

THE FORUM.

OPPOSES MR. HAND.

Editor, The Daily Press:

In regard to Charles Hand's letter appealing for reappointment as assessor would state there are two reasons against this. One is that he holds title of several properties in the Second ward and it does not seem right that a man speculating in real estate should assess his own property. The second reason is that under the new tax property in the Second ward has been assessed out of all proportion to what they have been in other parts of the county, which shows that Mr. Hand has not been looking after the interests of the people of the Second ward, but has gone in the principle of taxing the people to the limit, thereby benefiting the people elsewhere at our expense.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 22, 1907.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—The Magnificat; a Christmas song.—Luke i, 46-55.

"The Magnificat" is the general liturgical title of the hymn of Mary composed in her joy at the thought of becoming the mother of the Messiah of Israel and the Saviour of the world. This name was given to the song because it is the first word in the Latin rendering "Magnificat amina mia Dominum" (my soul doth magnify the Lord.) The Magnificat was composed in very early times. It was introduced into the western churches by Caesarius of Arles, and at the time of Gregory the Great it was sung every day in Rome at vespers. It has been translated into many languages and has been retained by Protestant churches. It is one of many sublime Christmas songs and breathes a Christmas spirit that may well be an inspiration to all Christians at this season of the year. Song has ever been associated with the birth of Christ. When He was born in Bethlehem of Judaea a heavenly host sang, "Glory to God In the Highest," and with every recurrence of the anniversary of His birth earthly hosts, and perhaps also heavenly ones—who knows?—celebrate the event in song.

But the Magnificat as spoken by Mary was not simply a song, but an expression of her feelings in contemplation of the birth of Christ. And, while she was distinguished above all others in connection with His birth and her emotions correspondingly strong, yet from her expression of those emotions we may learn some of the characteristics of the true Christmas spirit.

1. In the song of Mary we have the Lord exalted. "My soul doth magnify the Lord." In the highest part of her being, the soul, she magnified and exalted her God at the thought of Christ's birth. She called upon her soul and all that was within her to praise and magnify her God. The exaltation of God in our souls should be a never failing part of the celebration of the birth of Christ. It was the first actual step in the gift of God's Son to the world, the one act for which, above all others, our souls should praise and magnify the Lord, and the emphasis should be placed upon souls. It should be spiritual praise and glorification and not simply the expression of good will to our friends and loved ones or mere words of praise to God.

2. In Mary's song joy is manifested at the thought of Christ's birth. Moreover, it was spiritual joy. "My spirit hath rejoiced in God, my Saviour." Joy is an essential element in the thought of Christ's birth. He came to bring joy out of sorrow and joy to the whole world. "Joy to the world, the Lord is come." But here, too, the spiritual side should be emphasized. Christmas brings much joy. The hearts of the poor are made glad. The sick and the afflicted in their homes, in hospitals and Christian institutions are most kindly remembered. The givers have greater joy than the receivers, and consequently joy abounds. But, while these features of the Christmas season should not be abandoned, yet we should earnestly seek the highest joy at the Christmas season—the joy of our souls in His coming and His abundant provision through His life and death for all our spiritual wants in the life that now is and that which is to come.

3. In Mary's song we see self humiliation. Mary magnifies the Lord, but acknowledges her own humility. The strain of personal humiliation runs all through Mary's song. And is there not a suggestion here for us? As we contemplate all God's blessings, and especially His greatest one—the gift of His Son—and at the same time remember our own unworthiness, should not our hearts be filled with humility, and such a humility as will enable us the more sincerely to ascribe all the praise and glory and honor to our God?

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. iii, 15; Isa. ix, 6, 7; xi, 1-9; Matt. ii, 1-12; Luke ii, 8-20; xv, 1-24; John iii, 16; I Cor. vi, 19, 20; xiii, 12; Heb. x, 23.

Essentially Practical.

The Christian Endeavor society is essentially practical. It puts theories to the actual test. That is one of the things I like about it. It is a powerful, aggressive agency for good in every avenue of our social life. It is a vast army making for better citizenship. Its influence is always to be found upon the side of those forces which have been and which are purifying our civic affairs. It is especially forceful in cultivating a spirit of good will among nations. Such an institution is a blessing to every country in which it is to be found. All honor and success to this great society in the United States. Yes, all honor and success to it throughout the world.—Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks at Seattle Convention.

A Good Prayer Meeting.

What is a good prayer meeting? It is an hour spent in the worship of God, voicing this worship in prayer and praise and testimony in which all Christians feel that they may have part and in which many, if not all, actually do have part. The old name "prayer and conference meeting" is a good one. People confer when they are together at home or in an office. To preach, to teach another, is not to confer. Only a prig and a conceited one makes a speech to those with whom he is conferring. To confer is to listen as well as to speak, and any one in the conference has a right to be heard. The genuine prayer and conference meeting will always be a good one.—Francis E. Clark, D. D.

Dec. 22: "Christmas." "The birth of the King." "Where is He that is born King of the Jews, for we saw His star in the east and are come to worship Him?"—Matt. ii, 2-6.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

Passages for reference—Isa. ix. 6, 7; John xviii, 36, 37; Phil. ii, 9-11.

This is the most joyous festival of the whole Christian year. Beyond all doubt it is the most widely celebrated of any religious festival on earth. In the course of time it has developed the custom of presenting gifts to friends until in a vast number of cases it is probable that the leading thought suggested by the term Christmas is that of a time for receiving presents. This idea rules in many homes which could not be termed Christian and influences trade in every corner of the world.

In the Sunday schools of the Christian church more of emphasis will be put on the religious aspects of the day, with special stress on the theme of the birth of Christ. The story of Bethlehem will be rehearsed and the children made familiar with all the details of the history which have come down to us hallowed by association with Him "whom having not seen we love; in whom, though now we see Him, not yet believing we rejoice with joy unspeakable and full of glory."

But there is another line of thought to which our minds are directed by the Scripture selections made for league study. It is the kingship of Jesus Christ. This theme should have development in several different ways.

It is desirable to give emphasis to the need of recognizing Jesus as the ruler in our individual, personal lives. His authority should be acknowledged and His will executed by every one of us, each one working out what He works within us, "both to will and to do of His own good pleasure." Make Jesus king of your heart and of your conduct. This is the first and most important lesson of this Christmas season to every leaguer and of every young Christian throughout the whole wide world.

But there is truth beyond this which needs to be mastered. Jesus is to be King of mankind. Our well being is bound up within His success in this realm. We cannot develop our personality all alone by ourselves. We grow beside others and with them. We cannot in large measure grow faster or larger than our surroundings. Much depends on the atmosphere by which we are surrounded. Our world must rise if we are to be lifted. We go with it. We must help lift it also. We must work with heart and brain, with might and main, to make this world the kingdom of God. That means that all business you touch must be Christianized. All civil matters, all politics, must be Christianized—Christ-ized, made truly moral. The eternal principles of righteousness must be seized, and all human life must be belted on to them until the motive power in human society is the divine will.

This is the vision of Isaiah. This is the meaning of the visit of the magi. This is the mission of Jesus Christ. This is our life task. Will you make this indeed Christmas for yourself and for your world? Let us worship the King.

When Silence Is Not Golden.

It is the sins of omission which are likely to do the greatest harm in family life; the gentle words which lie on our tongue, but which we do not speak; the kindly acts which we feel the impulse to perform, but which we do not perform; the thoughtful things we might have done to give cheer and comfort, but which we do not do. We say silence is golden, and sometimes it is. It is golden when the word we might have spoken would have been a hasty word, sharp, cutting, bitter. But silence is not golden when the word that is in our heart is loving, cheering, comforting, inspiring. We sorely wrong our dear ones when we do not speak out such a word.—Rev. J. R. Miller, D. D.

The Secret of Joy.

Do you hunger for true happiness? Take Christ at His own words, "Lo, I am with you always." Then you can rejoice in Him always. Such joy is not only a privilege, but a duty, for a Christian to be spiritually wretched is a sin. Remember that it is not where you are, but what you are, that determines your happiness. Spiritual joy is a sign of heart health. Spiritual depression and complaining are signs of disease. When a baby frets and moans the mother says: "Something is wrong. This child is sick." A sulky, selfish, complaining temper shows that we are not abiding in this love of Jesus.—Theodore L. Cuyler.

Time's Pulse.

"Deeds are the pulse of time." With some Christians the pulse of good deeds is so slow that there is a risk of dying of heart failure. One good deed a day is the least pulse that will keep heart in a Christian, and a place for that deed can usually be found each morning at home without stepping outside the door.—Forward.

Little Tasks.

You cannot enter the presence of any other human being without finding there more to do than you or I or any soul will ever learn to do perfectly before we die. Let us be content to do little if God sets us at little tasks.—Charles Kingsley.

Be Firm

Be firm whatever tempts thy soul,
To loiter ere it reach its goal.
Whatever siren voice would draw
Thy heart from duty and its law,
Oh, that distrust, go bravely on
And till the victor's crown be won,
Be firm
—Iowa Epworthian.

"Again it looks like a deadlock. The burden of proof lies with yourself. As you say, I am not familiar with the handwriting of Sir Mortimer. Who is to vouch for its genuineness?"

"One whose word you will scarcely doubt—the sister of Sir Mortimer."

I raised my clenched hand. Her cruel smile made me for the moment forget her sex. If she had been a man I think I could have killed her then.

"Then, that was your message. You have sent for her?"

"She will be waiting in the music room below. It is for you to say if she is to be spared the ordeal. You will cause her the suffering, not I."

I lowered my hands slowly. "I have laughed at the old doctrine of the personality of the devil. I believe it now. Show me the papers."

"Let us understand each other first. In this envelope are copies of certain dispatches and notes made by Sir Mortimer. The originals are in a safe that is in the third room yonder. You will examine these copies. It will be for you to determine whether Miss Brett is to be the final arbiter of Sir Mortimer's guilt or innocence."

"And if I refuse to call on Miss Brett?"

"Sooner or later she shall see these papers."

"What advantage will that be to you when I have failed to be a partner to your nefarious intrigues.

"I shall be revenged on you, monsieur." Her eyes glittered. "And my revenge will be profitable. The Russian or Austrian governments would pay a long price for the papers in the safe, M. Coward."

"I will give you your own price for them," I said hoarsely.

"And be robbed of my revenge? They are beyond price. Come, you weary me with questions. Are you ready for the proofs?"

"One moment. These dispatches were stolen from Sir Mortimer's apartments that night at Vitznau. You gained access to that apartment by passing me off as Sir Mortimer. Where did you find them? How did you know they were there?"

"Sir Mortimer had hidden them between the folds of a Venetian blind. That they were concealed in his rooms at Vitznau was told Dr. Starva by Sir Mortimer himself. When he had left Sofia for Lucerne he was very ill. He was accompanied only by his physician, his nurse, and his valet. I need hardly say that Dr. Starva was the physician; myself, the nurse; and Alphonse, the valet. But Lucerne savored too much of publicity for our plans. Even Vitznau was not desirable, especially in view of the alarming state of Sir Mortimer's health. This chateau was our rendezvous. But on the way here Sir Mortimer suffered a collapse.

"Dr. Starva remained with his patient; I returned to Lucerne to throw off suspicion as to our movements. In an obscure village in the mountains Sir Mortimer died. Or, rather, it was not Sir Mortimer Brett, Minister of His Britannic Majesty at Sofia, but a Mr. Stanley Walters, an obscure English tourist.

"I regret to say that before he died Sir Mortimer felt some misgivings for his conduct. He realized that the end was near, and that sooner or later the proofs of his dishonor would be discovered. In his delirium he raved continually of certain incriminating documents hidden in his room at Vitznau. His unexpected death filled Dr. Starva with consternation. He joined me in Lucerne, thinking that our schemes had utterly failed."

"In the meanwhile you had met one who might yet rescue your plans from failure. The rest I can guess. Secretly you had the body of Sir Mortimer conveyed to this chateau. Provided your tool could be coaxed or browbeaten into submission— Enough of this horrible story. Show me the papers."

CHAPTER XXVI.

Incriminating Dispatches.

She had been arranging the papers deftly in some sort of order.

"You read French, I think? The letter of Ferdinand is in that language; Sir Mortimer's notes and answers are, of course, in English."

I drew toward me the first of the papers she indicated.

"You are nothing if not modern in your methods," I scoffed, glancing down the page. "Your safes and typewriters bring back to me the associations of my banking business. And a banker, let me warn you, scans the signature of a draft carefully before he cashes it."

"The typewriter is an amusing little instrument," she yawned, "and I am proud of my success in mastering it. As for the safe, if you have been a banker, you know that the combination is carefully guarded, M. Coward."

It gave her the cruelest delight to taunt me with the shameful word. During the next half hour she insulted me so at least half a dozen times. I bent my attention on the paper before me. I translate roughly Ferdinand's letter:

"(Strictly confidential.)

"Hotel du Rhin,
"Place Vendome, Paris,
"May 23.

"My Dear Sir Mortimer:

"I expect to start for Sofia via Vienna and Budapest in about a week; I trust I shall see you at the Palace shortly after my arrival. Meanwhile let me urge on you once more that you exert without further delay your great influence with your Foreign Office, that your ministers may be convinced that the crisis has come—the opportunity we have so long awaited. Now or never I must lead my army to the succor of the distressed people of Macedonia. I think that the profound knowledge you have always shown of affairs in the Balkan Peninsula must make you realize the truth of this statement. It is useless for me to repeat my arguments. For what you have done I thank you. But it is not to the diplomatist I am now speaking but to the man. I have written this letter with my own hand, for reasons that you will understand.

"Believe me, my dear Sir Mortimer,
"Faithfully yours,
"Ferdinand."

"I see nothing incriminating in this letter," I said, "nor anything out of the usual run of letters.

"You will notice on the back of the letter this brief statement: 'Answered, June 3d, M. B.' As to the answer of the letter it is equally innocent. It is simply the guarded reply of a diplomatist dealing with a delicate topic. In these typewritten copies this letter and its answer are meaningless. The originals are simply useful to prove the authenticity of Sir Mortimer's handwriting."

I scanned the answer. It was not an exact copy, but the substance of Sir Mortimer's letter jotted down to refresh his memory:

"I replied in substance as follows: It was useless to bring up the matter again; my personal wishes would not be sufficient to change the programme of the Foreign Office; at present I did not see my way clear to advocate as a diplomatist England's espousal of this cause; I would continue to lay the matter before the Foreign Office; more than that, when events justified the act, I would see that such influence as I possessed was exerted in the manner Prince Ferdinani wished; but at present I could offer no encouragement."

"This reply will put an end, I think, to further correspondence in that quarter. Certainly, the hopes of the nation seem so radically devirgent from those of the ruler that I can favor one only at the expense of the other. Naturally, I prefer to favor the party that promises the most for my own interests"

"I told you that the originals are particularly useful to identify the handwriting and signature of Sir Mortimer. But observe, monsieur, the expression: 'Naturally, I prefer to favor the party that promises the most for my own interests.' That sentence is to be remembered when you read the other letters. It has its significance."

Again she stretched out her hand to receive the papers I had read. I did not relinquish them, however. I laid them carelessly on my knee as if to refer to them later.

"That remains to be proved," I said grimly. "The expression seems simple enough to me; on the face of it it would mean simply that Sir Mortimer's interests were identical with the interests of England."

"We shall see," she returned with confidence. "The papers of the second envelope, which I have called Documents B, are all in English. The writer was evidently an educated Bulgar of the official class; many of this class are trained at Roberts College, and speak and write English fluently."

"Sofia, Headquarters of the Society of Freedom.

"To His Excellency, Sir Mortimer Brett, Minister plenipotentiary and Consul General to His Britannic Majesty at the Court of Sofia:

"Sir: We of the Society of Freedom wait patiently and anxiously for your Excellency's answer to our humble petition. We trust your Excellency does not ignore this petition because the signatures of the petitioners are not added thereto. Surely your Excellency understands that the dictates of prudence make it inevitable that it is sent to you anonymously.

"Your Excellency must be familiar with our greivances. Our present ruler cannot and will not be longer tolerated by his subjects. We fear the British Foreign Office, however, does not realize the extent of Prince Ferdinand's unpopularity. Even if your ministers care nothing for that, do they feel no concern that he is the tool of Russia?

"He has asked Russia repeatedly that he be recognized a King, and that he receive that title. His vanity is such that he would sacrifice the freedom of his people to be on equal terms with the sovereigns of Servia and Roumania.

"Once more, perhaps for the last time, we petition your Excellency to exert the extraordinary influence your Excellency possesses, that the English Minister be advised in time. The government of Prince Ferdinand must fall. We do not desire bloodshed. There shall be none, we swear it, if England will support the insurgent party. But in any case Bulgaria must be free.

"We do not ask for the active aid of England. We beg that England shall not interfere with the ambitions of the people.

"Your Excellency shall have no reason to regret being our friend. And there are other means of rewarding friendship besides empty words of gratitude. Let your Excellency once assure us of you intention to support our cause, and we shall make this more clear.

"Your Excellency knows the manner in which your answer may be conveyed to this society.

"With profound expressions of respect, we submit ourselves,
"The Committee of the Society of Freedom."

I placed this letter on my knee with the others I had read.

"This Society of Freedom, is it concerned with the trick of the death-mask stamp?"

"I fear so," she answered in a low voice.

"Then has the fact no significance for you that Dr. Starva received a letter with one of these stamps on the envelope last night? These stamps are proscribed. They could be sent through the mail only because certain of the postal authorities were in sympathy with the revolutionaries. Letters with these stamps, it is safe to infer, would be sent only to those who are equally in sympathy. Dr. Starva must be favorable to this party, if he is not actually one of the committee. I warned you last night that there was treachery in the camp."

"If Dr. Starva has proved to be a traitor to the cause he will receive his punishment. The memorandum of Sir Mortimer's reply to the letter you have just read is pinned on the back of the sheet. Read it," she commanded harshly.

"It is a perplexing dilemma that has confronted me. To keep my honor as a minister intact, and yet not to sacrifice my own personal hopes. I think this is the first temptation of my diplomatic career. I have fulfilled my diplomatic duties hitherto as a machine, that neither thinks nor feels. Now I find that I am human; that I am a man, with a man's weaknesses. I say I am tempted. I believe that lofty principles actuate Bulgaria. That, I say to myself, is my excuse. But lofty principles are not sufficient. I disguised my true feeling in answering this letter by vague objections. I confessed my self in sympathy with Bulgaria's cause; but I protested that more potent arguments must be used to convince me. The interests of England are my own; but if it could be done without too great a risk, I believe, God help me, I would further my own ambitions at her expense. I say I am tempted."

"I say I am tempted;" "If it could be done without too great risk, I believe, God help me, I would further my own ambitions at her expense"—such expressions were hideously significant. But I met calmly the malevolent triumph of Madame de Varnier.

"When you read the next letter," she said, watching me closely, "you will understand the meaning of the expression, 'There are other means of rewarding friendship besides empty words of gratitude.' Even so stanch an advocate of Sir Mortimer's honor as yourself must realize that in the words you have just read, he was endeavoring to discover just what that vague promise meant."

I received the next letter in silence. "To His Excellency, etc.:

"Our answer to your Excellency's kind letter wishes to make this fact clear: The people of Bulgaria pledge their word, through this committee, that if England gives to the insurgent party is support in overthrowing the rule of Ferdinand, the relation of England to Bulgaria shall be similar to that which exists between Egypt and England.

"The Society of Freedom is fully aware that your Excellency's inconvenience and labor must be recompensed. The sum of £20,000 is already placed in the Ottoman bank, payable to your Excellency on demand."

(Note by Sir Mortimer pinned to the above letter.)

"To this I replied that the sum mentioned was too ludicrously small to be considered. Only the most substantial guarantee could justify me in taking the risks involved."

HOLY CROSS CLUB OUTPLAY N.P.H.S. SECOND TEAM

The Holy Cross Club had things all their own way with the second team of the North Plainfield High School in a fast game played at the Holy Cross Parish house last night. The final score was 25-15, and though the school boys used two members of their regular team, their opponents kept the lead all the way through the game.

The church five started things with a rush and began their scoring soon after the whistle blew. The fast play took the school team completely by surprise and the game was clearly too fast for them. The Holy Cross team excelled in passing, and were consistently successful in working their signals. There were several brilliant shots for goals by both fives. For the church team Bert Miller, Overton and Coyle excelled in passing and shooting, and Fred McClintock and Herman, members of the first team at the borough high school, did best work for their team. The line-ups follow:

Holy Cross Club—Overton and Bristol, forwards; Bert Miller, centre; Coyle, Nash and Webster, guards. North Plainfield High School Seconds—Becker, Herman and F. McClintock, forwards; Day and Becker, centre; Smith and Lee, guards. Twenty minute halves.

WEDDED AT HOME CEREMONY.

Miss Anna Mulford Becomes Wife of Wm. Anderson, of Bloomsbury.

With only relatives and a few intimate friends in attendance, the ghter of Miss Anna Mulford, MC marriage of Miss Anna Mulford, daughter of Mrs. Louis Mulford, of West Fourth street, and William Anderson, of this city, formerly of Bloomsbury, took place at the home of the bride's mother yesterday afternoon. Rev. E. E. Roberson, pastor of the Monroe Avenue church, was the officiating clergyman. Miss Mulford was attended by her sister, Miss Matilda Mulford, while George Anderson, a brother of the groom, was best man.

Following a brief wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will make their home in this city. The groom is a bookkeeper and has made numerous friends since coming to Plainfield.

Police Find Stolen Rig.

While Edward McDonough, brother of J. J. McDonough, the milkman, was calling on Willow avenue last night, his horse and rig were stolen from outside the door. When McDonough came out, the outfit was missing, and the horse had evidently been untied and driven away. He gave a description of the animal and rig to the police of city and borough last night and this morning the missing turnout was found wandering along at West Front street and Washington avenue by a Plainfield policeman today and restored to its owner.

AMBOY'S WELCOME FOR NEW FERRYBOAT

Every craft in the harbor at Perth Amboy let out a noise of some kind when the new ferryboat "Perth Amboy," of the Staten Island Rapid Transit Railroad steamed into port decorated with flags and all ready to begin plying between that city and Tottenville, S. I.

The boat came from New York. She was built this year at a cost of $90,000, and will replace the old boat "Warren" which was the first modern ferryboat to connect that city and Staten Island. Owing to the increase of automobile traffic the Warren has proven insufficient for the task. The "Perth Amboy" will carry about twenty autos per trip.

Yesterday afternoon the Perth Amboy city officials and officers of the railroad company made a trial trip in the "Perth Amboy" and all pronounced her the finest ever. The new ferryboat will probably begin making trips next Friday. The "Warren" will be laid up then, but may be put on as an extra boat during the busy summer season.

POSTOFFICE ROBBED.

Has Been Annual Event in Lawrenceville for Five Years.

Expert cracksmen, using nitroglycerine, blew two safes in the store and postoffice of N. H. Furman & Son, at Lawrenceville, early yesterday morning, and carried away money and valuable papers totaling nearly $800. The place has been robbed annually for the past five years.

It is thought that the cracksmen did their job about 3 a. m. They gained an entrance by prying an iron bar from the window. Both safes were blown at the same time, and the interior of the store was wrecked. Some of the papers, which could not be converted into cash, were found in the barn of William Hendrickson, about a mile from the place. The police of surrounding towns have been notified, although the burglars did not leave the slightest clue.

Watchung School.

At the Watchung school, Christmas will be celebrated in the morning by the pupils in their various classrooms. There is no assembly hall at the school, so each of the teachers has arranged a program of songs and recitations to be given by the children in the class room.

Taxes Pouring In.

ANNIVERSARY OF LODGE

Iona Council, Daughters of Pocohontas, Observe Its Fifteenth Birthday.

MANY VISITORS WERE PRESENT

Entertainment Is Provided—Mrs. Pitts Elected Prophetess and Miss Hallard Pocohontas.

Iona Council, No. 14, Degree of Pocohontas, auxiliary to the Improved Order Red Men, celebrated its fifteenth anniversary in its rooms on Park avenue, last night. There were about 150 members and friends of the council present from Elizabeth, Somerville, Westfield, Carteret, High Bridge, Bound Brook and this city, and the occasion was made an enjoyable one. An informal program of vocal and instrumental music and recitations by members of the council was in charge of a committee of which Mrs. Sadie Bowman was the chairman. Following the entertainment dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. Supper was served at midnight.

During a short business session these officers were chosen for the coming year: Prophetess, Mrs. William Pitts; Pocohontas, Miss Violet Hallard; Powhatan, John Ludgate; keeper of records, Mrs. Charles Holstein; collector of wampum, Mrs. Ruey Mattis; keeper of wampum, Mrs. Sadie Bowman. The other officers are appointive and they will be announced on the night of January 8, at which time the newly-elected officers will be installed.

Iona Council is the only order of its kind in the city and since its institution fifteen years ago, has continued to grow steadily. Organized with a comparatively small number of members, today it numbers seventy-two and new members are received at almost every meeting. Mrs. William Pitts, the retiring Pocohontas, has been very successful in her office and under her direction the interest and attendance at the meetings have increased. Iona Council has the encouragement and support of local Red Men and under the rules they are permitted to attend the women's meetings. They were largely represend at last night's celebration.

—Aside from the religious instruction to be gained at the illustrated lecture to be given by Charles W. McCutchen at the Y. M. C. A., tomorrow night, for the benefit of Faith chapel, there will be a great deal of interest in facts to be presented about the River Nile. Mr. McCutchen took this trip and will describe it in a realistic manner. Tickets for the lecture can be had at L. W. Randolph's drug store. Early application is desirable as there has been a large sale.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The regular meeting of the Plainfield Rescue Mission will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the W. C. T. U. rooms on Madison avenue.

The Christmas entertainment under the auspices of Faith chapel Sunday-school will be held at the chapel Friday night, December 27.

The Christmas entertainment for the First-day school will be held at the Friends Meeting-house on Watchung avenue, Thursday night, December 26.

There will be a study of the seventh chapter of Daniel at the service of the Seventh-Day Adventist church in the W. C. T. U. rooms tomorrow night. The public is invited.

Gospel services will be held in the Salvation Army Hall on East Second street at 8 o'clock tonight. Captain A. Hopkins will be in charge. There will be good music and singing.

Funeral of Mrs. Laing.

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah Anna Laing, mother of Eugene M. Laing, was held yesterday in the Friends meeting house on Watchung avenue. The speaker was Mrs. Serina Minard, of Brooklyn, while prayer was offered by Mrs. Eliza Stover, of Brooklyn, and Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church. Burial was made in Hillside cemetery, the pall-bearers being Joseph Sandford, Adelbert Vail, William Shotwell and Charles E. Vail.

Christmas at the Groszmann School.

Christmas exercises will be held at the Groszman School Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. Owing to the limited capacity of the hall admission will be by card only. They will be forwarded on application.

Chris Sorensen, Jr., business manager for Bandmaster Arthur Pryor, reached the city today after a trip through the New England States. He will spend a short time with relatives previous to beginning the regular winter tour of the musical organization.

JERSEY MAY BOOM DR. WOODROW WILSON

President Woodrow Wilson, of Princeton University, may be the candidate of New Jersey's delegates at the National Democratic convention next summer for nomination for President of the United States. He has loomed large whenever there has been a high office to be filled of late years, and might have been the candidate of the strong Democratic minority for United States Senator in the joint session of the Legislature last winter had he consented to the use of his name.

In a statement made last night, former Sheriff William C. Nicoll came out boldly for the Princeton man as "embodying those qualities most to be desired in the man who is to be made the party's standard-bearer in the Presidential campaign of next year." Mr. Nicoll is not what is known as a strong organization Democrat but as president of the Jeffersonian Club of Essex county, and a man with the distinction of being one of the few of his political faith who has been elected to office in this Republican county in the last ten years, his advocacy of the Wilson boom—if it may be called a boom at this stage—is taken as significant of the strength of the head of Old Nassau.

Dr. Wilson has a wide reputation as a writer and a platform speaker. He is a contributor to the great publications of the day, and has been called of late to deliver addresses at great national functions. A Virginian by birth, he would, according to former Sheriff Nicoll, have the strong backing of the South in convention and after election. Mr. Nicoll says that of late years the South has shown a leaning toward some of the leaders of the Republican party, and must be considered as something less than a sure thing in the campaign of next year.

In the course of his statement the former Sheriff said:

"If a man of Southern birth, a Democrat by inheritance as well as conviction, a man whose opinions have been moulded through touching shoulders with the men of the best thought in the four corners of the earth, and one whose record is as clear and admirable as that of Woodrow Wilson can be secured as the nominee of the Democratic party, he will be elected. Mr. Wilson would have the backing, I believe, of the great majority of the people in the Eastern States and would be strong in the West, while the South would stand a unit behind him.

"The country demands a man for President of the Wilson type. We need a man who cannot be called a politician in the common acceptance of that classification. He must be of clear mind, possessed of judicial temperment, able to bring to his aid in dealing with every national problem the result of a minute study of the political history, ancient and modern, of the countries of the earth."

President Wilson is a close personal friend of former President of the United States Grover Cleveland, who lives in Princeton.

CHRISTMAS EXERCISES IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Clergymen Deliver Addresses to the Pupils in City and Borough High Schools.

RECITATIONS AND MUSIC ALSO.

In Plainfield and North Plainfield Children Take Part in the Closing Exercises at the Schools.

Christmas exercises were held in the public schools in Plainfield and North Plainfield this morning, the programs in the high schools being particularly elaborate. The schools are now closed until Monday morning, January 6. Following are some of the programs this morning:

City High School.

Presentation of prizes for individual and class achievements, a musical program, together with a brief address by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church; followed by the usual festivities among the different classes marked the Christmas observance at the Plainfield High School this morning.

The program was opened with a processional duet, "The March from the Lenore Symphony," by Miss Mabel Maxson and R. V. Hubbard. Principal Ira W. Travell then presented the P. H. S. insignia to those entitled to receive them for various achievements. The first prize for the various events are bronze medals attached to red and blue ribbons for watch fobs. The medals were given to the pupils through the generosity of these merchants: Mulford Estil, Philip Swain, People's Credit Clothing Company, Greer & Greenwood, Harry Dreier, Leslie M. Cobb, Schwed Brothers, J. W. Gavett, American Steam Laundry and M. C. Van Arsdale.

The Daily Press prize, a gold medal for individual championship, was presented to Chauncey Murphey by Principal Travell. The class championship prize, a silver cup, presented by the Courier-News, was also presented by Mr. Travell and received by William Lambert, the class president.

The pictures of "Joan of Arc," presented to the school by Miss Elizabeth Pound, on behalf of the school body was received by Charles Loizeaux. After the singing of "Nazareth," by the school, with orchestral accompaniment, an address was made by Rev. Mr. Stevenson. He congratulated the pupils for their good work and the elaborate manner in which they had arranged the celebration.

Mr. Stevenson also spoke words of encouragement to the pupils and in referring to heroism as necessary element of character, he cited the heroism shown by the Cornell students at the time of the disastrous fire at Ithaca.

The exercises in the auditorium closed with the singing of "Sing, O Heavens."

Following the exercises a dinner was given in the gymnasium by the juniors to the seniors. Charles Loizeaux as president of the junior class, presided and was toastmaster. Speeches were made by Superintendent H. M. Maxson, Principal Travell and William Lambert, president of the senior class. The occasion was one for the exchange of good natured "roasts."

While the dinner was in progress the freshmen and sophomores were enjoying their festivities in the auditorium, a feature of which was a dance.

The school was most elaborately decorated for the occasion. In the main hall on the first floor, the lifesize statue of St. George was decorated in red and white to represent Santa Claus. This was the work of George H. Fisher, Jr., of the senior class. Other members of the decorating committee were as follows: Junior class, Allen Fulmer; sophomore, Douglass Davis; freshmen, Miss Thyra Stiles.

Bryant School.

The exercises at the Bryant School were held at 10 o'clock this morning and were as follows:

Carols, "All Hail the Christmas," "The Sangel's Song," "O Little Town of Bethlehem;" "Christmas Lullaby," kindergarten; recitation, "A Talk With Santa Claus," Edmund Kiely; "The Teddy Bear's First Christmas," kindergarten; recitation, "Made to Order," Nicholas Cody; carol, "The Christmas Bell;" recitation, "Kitty's Christmas Tree," Genevieve Letson; exercise, "The Christmas Bell," First Grade A; carol, "The Beautiful Stor," solo part, Leonard Lewis; recitation, "The Lookout,"

CONCERT AT THE CASINO

Second McIntyre Chamber Concert Proves as Delightful as the First.

PRESENTS SUPERIOR ARTISTS.

Vladimir Dubinsky, Dr. Carl Dufft and Maurice Kaufman Please a Large Audience.

Joseph McIntyre gave the second of his chamber music concerts at the Casino, last night, before a large and appreciative audience. The violinist, Maurice Kaufman, and the 'cellist, Vladimir Dubinsky, are already well-known here and deservedly welcome, while the basso, Dr. Carl Dufft, has many friends here. The program was such as to give both instruments and voice ample opportunity to betray excellence and the opportunities were seized by all.

Rubenstein's trio in B flat for strings and piano led the program with a difficult movement in which Mr. McIntyre at the piano displayed technique of a high order. The Andante which followed was particularly noteworthy for the solemnly beautiful chorale, like a large and beautiful jewel in a piece of precious metal. The strings, to complete the figure, provided lustre and sparkle both in this setting and in the still more brilliant finale, so characteristic of Rubenstein.

Dr. Dufft's first song was the "Vision Fugitine," from Massenet's "Herodiade," quite perfect in its way, as a song has need to be, to match this singer's art, and yet one could have wished for something profounder in sentiment. Such is the immediate rapport between Dr. Dufft and his hearers that his encore selections quickly granted this wish with Tennyson's exquisite lyric, "Now Sleeps the Crimson Petal." Surely there are two Dr. Carl Dufft's; one sings the holy music of the Christ in Bach's Passion, the other can tell of his music of flowers and winds and maiden's charms. Last night the audience knew the latter singer and none of the delicacy and perfection of his art were missing.

Mr. Dubinsky made a popular choice of selections in Popper's "Autumn Flowers," and "Dance of the Gnomes." The latter capricious fancy, just suited to the character of the 'cello's picked strings, made a particularly happy impression. An encore of an entirely different nature proved what Mr. Dubinsky has well proven heretofore, that the player and his instrument are well acquainted and always greatly enjoyed.

Dr. Dufft sang again before the final trio; this time Heinrich's "Who Knows," and Camp's "Evening." This last beautiful poem of Sidney Lanier's is better known and perhaps more perfectly fitted to the music of Dudley Buck. One wonders why this setting was not preferred. That the listeners liked the Camp music, however, as well as the singer, was amply demonstrated by such quantities of applause that Dr. Dufft had to vouchsafe two encores, the "Shepherd's Resolution," and the quaint "Pretty, Pretty Creature." It still seemed much too soon to stop; everyone wanted the "Lass With the Delicate Air," and the "Little Old Lowback Car." But, of course, there has to be an end, even of favorites.

Haydn's well-known trio in G finished the program with one favorite more. The "Gypsy Rondo," which Mr. McIntyre set all the keys a dancing to send the audience home all happy and humming, protesting that these concerts, like old wine, friends and books, grow better with the days and with the seasons.

Refreshments at Mission.

The Plainfield Rescue Mission, which meets in the W. C. T. U. rooms, will, commencing Monday night, be under new management, and inaugurate a new order of things. Under the direction of John Le Matty, manager and superintendent in charge, hot soup, coffee and sandwishes will be served at the mission every night. The menu will be varied, so upbeing served one night and coffee and sandwiches on other nights. The members of the mission believe that this will fill a long-felt need among the poor of the city. Of course, the preaching of the Gospel will continue to be a feature, and after the services the inner-man will be provided for with refreshments.

Miss Dunn's Funeral.

The funeral of Miss Emma Dunn, whose death occurred yesterday morning, will be held at the home of her father, James M. Dunn, of East Fifth street, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Burial will be at the convenience of the family.

MET DEATH ON TRACKS

Charles Leonard, Aged Twenty-nine, Struck by Flyer—Horribly Mangled.

WAS A BLACKSMITH'S HELPER.

Supposed That Victim Became Confused When He Saw Engine Bearing Down On Him.

In attempting to cross the New Jersey Central tracks between Liberty and New streets, last night, Charles J. Leonard, employed as a helper by George Zepp, the West Second street blacksmith, was struck and instantly killed by the eastbound flyer due in this city at 7:32. The body was thrown before the engine and was then passed over by the entire train, mangling it almost beyond recognition.

The accident was witnessed by George Bowers, of West Second street, and he immediately notified the victim's uncle, James Kennedy, who lives almost directly opposite the scene. The police were called and the remains were picked up under the direction of Patrolman Saunders. They were afterward removed to Cole's undertaking rooms.

Leonard was twenty-nine years old and came to Plainfield from Somerville. He was employed for several years by the Public Service Corporation and by Contractor Thomas Burke, of West Third street, and more recently by Blacksmith Zepp. He lived with his uncle and was in the habit of crossing the tracks near Liberty street, but the point where he was killed is directly back of the blacksmith shop and fully 300 feet away from his regular path. His presence there cannot be accounted for except that he had planned to walk along the tracks to town. He was noticed by Bowers just before the express approached and evidently became confused as it rushed upon him. He made a frantic attempt to get out of the way but was caught by the pilot of the locomotive.

The young man is survived by his mother, Mrs. L. C. Milburn, of Bergenline avenue, Union Hill; also his grandmother, Mrs. Susan Teats, of Pluckemin. Both were notified of the fatality this morning and came to Plainfield at noon.

ELECTION OFFICERS' PAY THIRTY DOLLARS

Judge Charles Carrick, in the First District Court, at Jersey City, decided that an election officer is entitled to $30 for his services, holding that "primary" day is an "election" day, and that the compensation therefor is $10, and not $5, as on registry days.

County Counsel John Griffin advised the Hudson Board of Freeholders that $25 was the legal compensation, and this view has also been taken by county counsel in other parts of the State. The test case was brought against Jersey City by Fred Crawford, who refused to accept a warrant for $25. The election officers in Union county have accepted their pay on the basis of $25 in such places as Elizabeth and Plainfield. No test case has been made here.

POND EMPLOYES BEGIN TWO WEEKS' LAY-OFF TODAY.

The Pond Machine Tool Company's plant will shut down this afternoon for one of the longest periods in many years. The employes of every department will cease work until January 6, at which time it is hoped that business will be in a much better conditionh and that the men can begin a busy season. While the shop is closed the usual overhauling will take place and everything will be placed in first class condition.

The other local factories are still running on short time and with reduced forces but with one or two exceptions all will keep going through the holiday season. The officials of the plants are authority for the statement that indications point to a betterment of conditions early in January.

The big Singer plant at Elizabeth closes down tonight for the annual Christmas vacation but it will be for two weeks insted of the customary one.

Scott—Burriell.

Miss Channa Scott, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Scott, of West Second street, and F. D. Burriell, of Westfield, were married Wednesday night by Rev. P. W. Ross, of Westfield. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's mother. The coupe will reside here.

HILLERY SENATE'S HEAD

Morris County Man Chosen at Caucus, Colby Voting for Avis, of Gloucester.

ROBBINS MAJORITY LEADER.

Editor J. W. Clift Made Journal Clerk and Editor Bateman Assistant C. H. Journal Clerk.

Senator Thomas J. Hillery, of Morris county, was chosen to be president of the Senate at the Republican Senate caucus held in Trenton last night. His selection was unanimous, except for Senator Everett Colby, who voted for Senator John Boyd Avis, of Gloucester. Senator Colby and Senator Hillery have been at swords' points politically for some years, and the action of the Essex reform leader was no surprise.

Senator Samuel K. Robbins, of Burlington, was chosen as majority leader unanimously. Other officers agreed upon follow:

President's secretary, William C. Murphy, Camden; secretary of the Senate, Howard L. Tyler, Cumberland; assistant, William H. Allbright, Gloucester; journal clerk, John W. Clift, Jr., Union; assistant, Charles H. Bateman, Somerville; supervisor of bills, Charles L. Grubb, Morris; assistant, Edward A. Sexsmith, Monmouth; bill clerk, William Bailey, Essex.

The naming of the sergeant at arms was left to Mercer and the minor officers were apportioned by a steering committee.

Editor Clift, of Summit, was given the $1,000 journal clerkship. Ulysses S. Grant, of Ocean, was not reappointed assistant journal clerk. His county elected a Democratic Senator this year and so lost its patronage. The $500 post he holds will go to Editor Charles H. Bateman, of Somerville, an appointment of Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen. Senator E. R. Ackerman obtained Clift's appointment.

All the remaining officers were referred to the sterring committee named by Leader Robbins.

Those placed on that important committee include Messrs. Minch, Colby, Frelinghuysen, Ackerman and Avis. A number of the places to be filled have been assigned to or claimed by counties represented in the Republican wing and so there will not be a great deal of work for the steering committee.

Union has the selection of a doorkeeper and committee while Somerset has the appointment of a committee clerk and doorkeeper.

FAREWELL RECEPTION FOR REV. G. B. SHAW

The members of the Seventh-Day Baptist church and congregation united in a farewell reception to Rev. and Mrs. George B. Shaw at the church, last night, prior to their departure for North Loup, Neb., where Mr. Shaw will become pastor of the denominational church. The affair was planned for last Saturday night but on account of the illness of Mr. Shaw it was postponed until last night.

The church parlors were attractively arranged and presented a home-like appearance. The pastor and his wife were assisted in receiving by the deacons of the church and their wives. A feature of the evening was an address by Dr. H. M. Maxson in which he took occasion to refer to the help and usefulness of the pastor and his wife during their stay here and the inspiration they were to all with whom they came in contact. He then on behalf of the members presented the couple with a purse of $100 as an evidence of appreciation. The gift was gratefully received and a happy response was made by Mr. Shaw, who thanked one and all for their united support and help.

During the evening there was an informal program of vocal and instrumental music, which included vocal solos by Charles Titsworth, a vocal duet by Mrs. John Cottrell and Mrs. William C. Hubbard and an instrumental trio by Mrs. W. C. Hubbard, Mrs. F. J. Hubbard and Miss Ethel Titsworth. After the entertainment refreshments were served under the direction of the Women's Society for Christian Work. The entertainment was arranged by a committee of which Miss Ernestine C. Smith was chairman.

TOLLES NEW PRESIDENT

First Ward Member to Succeed Daniel as President of Common Council.

THE MAJORITY SELECTS HIM.

Mr. Tyler Absent and Move to Make Him Head of Body Did Not Materialize—As to Committees.

Councilman Ralph I. Tolles is the choice of nine members of the Common Council for the presidency of that body for 1908 to succeed Leslie M. Daniel, who will retire January 1. This was decided upon at a caucus of the Common Council, last night. All the members were present except Councilmen W. S. Tyler and H. B. Suydam, the latter one of the new representatives from the Fourth ward. There was no contest and perfect harmony prevailed. No other name but that of Mr. Tolles was presented and no one else was considered for the position.

There was a report yesterday that Mr. Tyler was slated for the position, it being understood that in exchange for the honor the Third ward member was to allow the Common Council to select the chairmen for the various committees. The absence of Mr. Tyler from the meeting and the fact that no one was there to press his claims for the presidency, put him out of the running and his name was not mentioned.

The duties of president of the Common Council will not be new to Mr. Tolles as he has filled that position before. He is now the oldest member of that body in point of service and is thoroughly acquainted with every phase of the city government, having been a member of all the committees and kept in touch with all the city departments. Following his election at the first meeting of the new Council on Wednesday night, January 1, he will announce his committees for the coming year. There was no discussion last night as to the probable makeup of the committees, it being understood that Mr. Tolles is to have a free rein in his selections.

COL. HINE PROMISES SOME IMPROVEMENTS

As exclusively told in The Daily Press yesterday, Mayor C. J. Fisk in company with Col. Hine, of the P. S. C., made an auto tour of inspection of all local trolley lines this morning. Every foot of the trackage was examined as was all the rolling stock in use at present. As a result several improvements will be made.

When Col. Hine looked over the trolley cars at the Watchung avenue stand he sighted car No. 21, a dilapidated vehicle used on the Netherwood line. Col. Hine said he would give orders for its immediate retirement. There will be some other cars to go to, according to this official who expresses the company's willingness to give the best possible service in this city.

As for the trackage some suggested improvements were made. The switch on Putnam avenue near Woodland avenue will be put in good condition as will also the switch at Monroe avenue and Fourth street. Another scheme is to fix up the tracks along Woodland avenue, where they are in bad shape at present.

In a short time all single truck cars will be relegated to the dump heap and will be supplanted by double truck vehicles. The cars on the West Fourth street line were found to be in good condition. Larger cars will be placed on the Arlington avenue lines when necessary.

Will Close the Clubhouse.

The Plainfield Country Club at a meeting held at the Casino, last night, it was decided to close the restaurant at once and to close the clubhouse on January 1. However, the locker-room will be kept open throughout the winter for the convenience of the members who may wish to play on the course. The annual meeting of the club for the election of governors and officers will be held at the Casino the first Tuesday night in February.

In the Borough Court.

Angelo Mussino, an Italian, was arrested on Somerset street for drunkenness by Marshap Pope, last night. He was cutting up quite a muss and was in a fair way to start regular trouble when the bluecoat gathered him in. This morning Recorder Dolliver fined him $3.

COLLINS OPPOSES BRYAN

Union County Democratic Chairman Prefers Either Olney, Gray or Daniels.

IDOLIZED BY JAS. E. MARTINE.

There Will Be No Scrap, However, As the Matter Will Be Decided In National Convention.

Considerable significance is attached to the announcement that William Jennings Bryan will spend several days in the early part of February in this State. By politicians and others it is taken to mean that Mr. Bryan is coming here to mend his fences if they need mending, and it is accepted as conclusive that the peerless and perpetual one means to secure the Democratic nomination if it's up to him.

The announcement has occasioned some talk in the Democratic ranks hereabouts, and the sentiment here may be said to reflect that of the State. It may be said without fear of successful contradiction that William Jennings Bryan is not the choice of Union county Democrats for the Presidential nomination of 1908. In fact, about the only prominent Democrat in these parts who is really set on the renomination of the twice-defeated candidate is James E. Martine. To the "Farmer Orator" there is no greater man than Mr. Bryan. Whether it's because, like himself, Bryan is famous by reason of his defeats, thus establishing a peculiar bond of sympathy between the two, or for some other reason, there isn't any disputing the fact that W. J. Bryan is the idol of Martine.

On the other hand there is the attitude of General Dennis F. Collins, chairman of the Democratic committee and hailed as the most successful leader of that faith Union has had in a long time. General Collins said yesterday afternoon:

"I, personally, am certainly not in favor of Mr. Bryan for the Democratic nomination. I prefer a man like Judge Gray, of Delaware; or Richard Olney, of Massachusetts, of Senator Daniels, of Virginia. There are a number of strong men, in fact, who would make splendid candidates whom I prefer to Mr. Bryan."

This may be said to be an accurate reflection of the attitude of the great majority of Union county Democrats. But while nobody seems to want him, the peculiar facts remains that everybody admits, in a puzzled, hopeless sort of way, that Bryan's going to get the nomination. General Collins admitted that this is about the situation. Everybody admits it, and nobody can explain it. It's simply taken for granted that Bryan's going to get it—that is just at this stage of the game—but a change is by no means improbable before the convention comes along, and there isn't any doubt on which side Union county Democrats will stand is some able Democrat is put up in opposition to the man from Nebraska.

The opposition of the Union county chairman, and the ardent espousal of his cause by James E. Martine, lends a bit of interest to the situation. The little county of Union, comparatively speaking, doesn't cut much figure in a National convention and a difference of opinion among the Democrats here as to who ought to be the nominee, of course, is of little importance. Nobody expects Martine and Collins to have any disagreement about it, because the question will be decided outside of this county, probably outside of this State.

As first told in The Daily Press, Mr. Bryan has promised to be Martine's guest at the latter's home in Cedarbrook the first day he comes to the State. A reception will probably be arranged and it may be there that any plans Mr. Bryan may have in mind for winning over the Jersey Democracy will be discussed. Mr. Bryan's visits to New Jersey are not very frequent, and even if they're not greatly enthusiastic over his possible candidacy, and would do all they could to land the honor for someone else, Union county Democrats in common with others throughout the State, will await his visit with a good deal of interest. To the party at large it's something like official notification that Mr. Bryan is really in the race, and doesn't intend to merely wait until asked if he won't carry the Donkey's burden once again. The announcement is therefore of more than passing interest.

Burial of Mrs. Lucie.

Following a funeral service in the Church of the Ascension, New York, yesterday, the body of Mrs. Edward J. Lucie, formerly a resident of this city, was brought to Plainfield and buried in St. Mary's cemetery. The pall bearers were Peter Flynn, Jr., James Whelan, Edward Harding, John Traynor, Patrick Muldoon and John J. Flynn, all of this city.

ASSESSOR'S CONTEST HOT

City Committee Gives 5 Votes for Doane; 4 for Timpson and 2 for Hand.

MAYOR FISK IS NOTIFIED.

Resolution Passed That Result Be Announced to Mayor Without Any Recommendation.

With a full representation from the Second ward but only a scattered attendance from the other parts of the city, the Republican City Committee held a meeting at the Casino, last night, to discuss the Second ward assessorship fight.

Previous to the session, the Second ward delegates held a conference but found it impossible to agree upon a candidate for recommendation to succeed Joseph A. Hubbard and accordingly four names were presented when the full committee assembled. R. H. McCready was chosen secretary in the absence of William R. Townsend.

Francis Hanaford presented the name of Charles H. Hand; R. H. Depew presented Lewis Timpson and Frank Holt presented John H. Doane and Arthur Murphy. On motion of Frank H. Smith it was decided to take an informal ballot with the agreement that the lowest man should be dropped. This resulted in Mr. Murphy's name being withdrawn, one vote alone being cast for him.

After a lengthy discussion, the formal ballot was taken and the secretary was instructed to send the result to Mayor Fisk without any recommendtaion. The vote was as follows: Doane, 5; Timpson, 4; Hand, 2.

The balloting concluded the business of the evening and the meeting was adjourned directly afterward.

STATE HOUSE READY FOR SEASON'S OPENING.

With the removal of the fish and game commission from the Senate committee rooms to the quarters on the second floor, formerly occupied by the State road department, all the house and Senate committee rooms in the State House at Trenton have been vacated and are in readiness for the opening of the Legislature.

These committee rooms were in use during the time the new wing was being constructed. On the house side of the State boards of assessors and tax equalization were located until the opening of the Legislature of 1907, and they were then moved over to the Senate committee rooms. When the new railroad commission was created, its offices were in the committee room at the west end of the Senate corridor. With the completion of the new wing these officials were all transformed into the quarters assigned them. Just at that time the fish and game commission offices were moved here from Long Branch to the rooms vacated by the transferred departments.

From now on until the opening of the Legislature Custodian Weseman and his force of men will be busy getting matters in shape for the coming of the Senators. They are kept on the hustle now with the bringing in of new furniture and the many movings that have taken place in the past few weeks.

The document room in the basement of the new wing is also to be gotten in readiness as soon as possible.

Christmas at the Monroe M. E.

Next Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock the Monroe Avenue M. E. church will hold its annual Christmas service. The Sunday-school will unite with the congregation in this service. Christmas carols will be sung by the school assisted by a full choir. The Rev. E. E. Roberson, who has returned from a three weeks' vacation, will deliver a special Christmas sermon on the subject, "The Rejected King." At night the service be unusually attractive and interesting. A cordial invitation is extended to everybody.

Youth Floored By Whiskey.

Willard Morrison, an eighteen-year-old plumber's helper, took his first drink of whiskey last night and followed it up with several more until he became so drunk the police had to take care of him. When he was arraigned in the city court this morning he got the benefit of a lecture that Judge Runyon has had in subjection for a week. Morrison promised with tears in his eyes that he would never touch another drop of liquor as long as he lived and sentence was suspended.

There will be a basketball game at the Plainfield High School tomorrow afternoon, between the school team and Stuyvesant High School five of New York. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock.

COFFIN KNOCKED OVER IN A PANIC

CHURCH BUILDING SETTLES

Report That Structure Is About to Collapse Causes Mad Rush for Doors—Parents Unable to Protect Bodies.

York, Pa.—While several thousand persons were assembled in and about the old Quickel church, near Zion's View, the other day, to listen to the funeral services over the bodies of William and Curvin Hoover, the boys who were murdered in Pleasureville, the settling of the building caused a panic.

Men, women and children were trampled upon, and about 40 persons were injured, several seriously.

The panic started during the service. A report was circulated that the building was giving way under the weight of the crowd within. Shortly afterward the beams began to crack and two stoves collapsed. Instantly women began to shriek and there was a mad rush for the doors.

Rev. Adam Stump and Rev. George Enders of this city retained their posts in the pulpit and tried to quiet the crowd. Their efforts were futile. At least a score of persons were hurt by jumping from windows.

The two caskets were overturned, the bodies rolling out on the floor and being trampled on.

The doors of the little church were small and the windows were soon clogged by screaming men and women. The men outside tried to drive back the throngs by shouting that the church was safe and that everybody could get out unhurt.

As soon as those outside realized what had happened the work of rescue began. Women who had sustained injuries and others who had fainted were carried to the lawn outside. Many women in their frenzy threw their children through the windows. Others who had got separated from the little ones tried to fight their way back into the church.

At the rear door a band of men succeeded in checking the stampede. Physicians were called from near by towns to attend to the injured.

During the panic the grief of the parents of the murdered boys was overwhelming. As soon as the rush started they threw themselves in front of the caskets and tried to frighten the frenzied crowd off. They were unsuccessful in their efforts to protect the bodies.

As soon as peace was restored Rev. Dr. Stump preached a sermon from the doorstep of the old church to those who remained. The bodies of the boys were then buried in the adjoining churchyard.

SACRIFICES LIFE; SAVES TOWN.

Brave Engineer Runs Flaming Powder Train Through Settlement.

Douglas, Ariz.—John Garcia, a locomotive engineer, saved Nacozari, Ariz., from destruction by runnning a burning powder train through the town at top speed, but lost his own life. John Chisholm, a boy, and a dozen or more Mexican section hands were killed by the explosion of two cars of powder, just as the flaming train was passing a section house.

According to details received here, a powder train on the narrow gauge railroad of the Pilares mine caught fire near Nacozari. In the train were two open cars heavily loaded with explosives.

Realizing that the concentrator and a good part of the town of Cacozari would be destroyed if the powder exploded there, Engineer Garcia called to the rest of the crew to jump and started to run his train away from the town. He had taken it about half a mile when the explosion occurred, blowing the house, the train, the Mexicans and the engineer to atoms.

Young Chisholm was stealing a ride.

ARREST MURDER SUSPECTS.

Colored Pair Taken Into Custody in Orange.

Following the arrest of George Wilson, alias Williams, in Philadelphia, on the charge of slaying Frederick R. Romer at the Park Hotel, Orange, on the morning of Friday, December 13, Leona Earle, a negress, was taken into custody last night and locked up at police headquarters, Orange.

The Earle woman is held on a technical charge of being "a material witness." In reality she is believed to have supplied him with clothing and money after the crime. She is employed as a chambermaid at the Park Hotel and says she is married.

Elks Ask Tax Exemption.

Orange Lodge, No. 135, B. P. O. Elks, has asked the Essex County Board of Taxation to be relieved of a $17,000 assessment on its clubhouse in Orange, claiming that the lodge is incorporated as a charitable society. Inasmuch as the Elks' lodge in Newark pays assessments in its buildings the tax officials hesitate to allow the exemption, and have referred the matter to Elvin W. Crane, the county counsel, for his opinion.

Speer for Judge.

Governor Stokes said last night that he and Governor-elect Fort had agreed on the appointment of Prosecutor William H. Speer, of Hudson county, to succeed Charles W. GOLF.

Many golf club members in New Jersey, more especially those located within the confines of Essex county, are becoming concerned over the Sunday excise law. It will be remembered that immediately after the recent election several of the prominent organizations, including the Montclair Golf Club and the Baltusrol Golf Club, refused to allow any more liquor to be sold in the club houses on Sunday. Since then these clubs, more particularly Montclair, so it is said, have suffered through loss of patronage. It seems to be generally admitted that the "nineteenth hole" sessions are not what they used to be and that members are staying away in consequence.

In discussing the matter, H. H. Spies, president of the Montclair Golf Club, said that his organization was simply complying with the law, which has been enforced in Essex county. He is of the opinion, however, that a club has a perfect right to furnish liquor to its members without violating the bishops' law, but added that no club cared for the notoriety of making a test case by fighting it in the courts.

As for the statement that the club was suffering in consequence, Mr. Spies said he had not noticed any appreciable falling off from that of previous winter seasons. He also called attention to the fact that the club limits its resident membership to 250, which has nearly been reached. He predicts that after Governor-elect J. Franklin Fort takes office the present Sunday law will be rigidly enforced throughout the entire State of New Jersey.

Word has been received that the date of the women's championship tournament of Great Britain, to be played next year at St. Andrews, has been fixed for the week beginning May 18. This date was selected at the committee meetifig of the Ladies' Golf Union, held at Liverpool. From the same foreign source also comes word that a large contingent of American women are going to take part. While any positive statement as to the probable movements of the American players next year seems a trifle premature at this time, there is little doubt that the tournament at St. Andrews next May will be favored with entrants from this country. American women have competed in the last three championships in Great Britain. In two of these Miss Margaret Curtis, of Boston, and her sister, Harriet, were included among the contestants. The former is the present champion of the United States. As the national women's tournament here is not held until the fall, there would be plenty of time for an American team to make the trip. Miss May Hezlet is the present champion of Great Britain, having won the title for the third time.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

In order to avoid further criticism regarding the eligibility rules at the Carlisle Indian School the athletic association has decided not to allow any students to represent Carlisle in football more than four years, and players must be regularly enrolled students and not employes of the school. The recent criticism that the team was made up of professionals has caused the athletic association to issue a circular letter, which it has sent to the various universities and colleges to which they hold athletic connections, in the hope that it may in a measure put Carlisle right where any misapprehension may exist.

The registration committee of the Metropolitan Association of the Amateur Athletic Union has disqualified the Princeton University basketball team and declared Meese, Watkins, Thompson, Warner and Clough ineligible to play with registered teams. Tonight the Princeton team is scheduled to play Columbia in the intercollegiate series in New York, and the Columbia team will be rendered ineligible if the game is played, as will all the college teams which are members of the intercollegiate association. These teams in turn play a number of amateur teams outside the college ranks, so that the whole fabric of basketball is liable to be affected by the action.

Dusty Rhoades, in the summer time the Beau Brummel of the Cleveland Baseball Club's twirlers, is earning his wherewithal as a city employe, it developed yesterday. Dusty is on the pay roll of Mayor Johnson, doing clerical work and also some outside inspecting. The figure opposite his name is big enough to do quite a little in the way of stowing away gala attire for next summer's trip, too, the auditor admits, but won't permit a peep at the books. "I like my new manager all right," said Dusty yesterday, "although I've only been playing for him two days now."

There will be legislation by both of the big leagues before next season which will prohibit owners of clubs which take part in the world's series from donating their share of the receipts to the players. The owners of the Detroit club, for instance, after going over their end of the coin resulting from the series to Jennings' men found that they were actually $700 out of pocket owing to about $2,000 spent by them in fitting up their ball park for the big games. The players receive plenty of money from the series without such extreme liberality on the part of their employers, some of the ball magnates say. But unless there is legislation against the practice it is set forth that owners who do not give up readily will be called hogs by both players and fans.

President O'Brien of the American Association of Baseball Clubs denies that any American Association franchise had been transferred to Chicago. This followed a report from Chicago that the St. Paul Club would be moved to that city. August Herrmann, of the National Baseball Commission, says that an American Association team cannot enter Chicago without the consent of the National and American leagues.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

V. W. Nash, Sr., the coal dealer, has a large supply of the best coal, well screened. His prices are low and full weight is always given.

E. B. Maynard's barber shop on North avenue is the place to get a first-class hair-cut, shave or shampoo. The electric massage is very popular.

The anthracite coal sold by Boice, Runyon & Co., of Park avenue, is considered the best in the market. Place your order with this firm when you want another supply.

George F. Brown, of Somerset street, would like to have you look over his list of desirable properties, for sale or lease. He would also like to talk insurance with you.

Though it is winter time and vegetation is anything but at its best, it would not be inappropriate to think about shrubbery for the coming spring. W. H. Forrestel, the Belleview avenue nurseryman, would be pleased to furnish information and quote prices upon application.

There is one store in Plainfield where quality of goods is always considered above everything else and that is at Neuman Brothers, the Watchung avenue grocers. Their goods are always carefully selected and nothing of an inferior grade is ever allowed to be delivered to customers. As a result, they enjoy the confidence and patronage of people in every part of the city. For the holidays they have an unusually nice line of goods and offer prepared mince meats, fancy table raisins and figs, assorted nuts, Indian River oranges and grape fruit, Malaga grapes, and many other things.

Miss Grace Wilson, of Hunterdon county, who has been spending a few days with friends in town, has returned home.

Mrs. Valentine Utzinger, of Grandview avenue, who has been detained at home during the past two weeks by illness, is much improved.

AMUSEMENTS.

Roistering, care-free,. lovable "Tom Jones" and his bevy of beauties who have done marvels in whiling away the hours at the Astor theatre is going to other fields. His stay at the Astor is limited to but three weeks, with special matinees on Christmas and New Year's day and it is safe to assume that even though the crowds are all thinking of holiday joys and pleasures aside from theatre-going, "Tom Jones" will be given a most rousing send-off. With the departure of this most fascinating of comic operas the highly wonderfully successful musical season at the Astor is brought, temporarily, to an end on Monday night, January 6. Wagenhals and Kemper, managers of the Astor, will offer the first of their own productions, "Paid in Full," by Eugene Walter. This is a new play of contemporary life in America and the story told in the four acts is to be one of unusual originality and strength. In the brilliant cast will be found Lillian Albertson, Frank Sheridan, Hattie Russell Ben Johnson, Edith Burden, Tully Marshall. Mail orders will be received now and filled in the order filed. The sale of seats is announced for Thursday, January 2.

"The Man of the Hour" has passed its 500th performance at the Savoy, with no abatement of success. This tremendously forceful and interesting play has become an established theatrical institution. While it has prospered month after month many new attractions have been attempted and have crumbled into failure. In "The Man of the Hour" are combined all the essentials of success—a timely theme that concerns the very life of municipal government; deft construction, appealing love story, abundant humor and fine artistic treatment. There is not a better acted play upon the New York stage. While "The Man of the Hour" is gripping local interest, with a demand for seats beyond the holidays, it is having sensational success in other sections. From coast to coast—it has no geographical limitations—the anti-graft play has packed the theatres. In many of them—notably the Euclid Avenue Opera House, in Cleveland, it has broken the box office records for single performances and weekly receipts. The splendid moral and charming humor of the play make it an ideal entertainment for the young. Seats for the boys and girls during the school vacation should be included in the list of Christmas gifts.

George M. Cohan's new musical comedy drama, "The Talk of New York," with Victor Moore in the role of "Kid" Burns, has scored the greatest success ever made by a Cohan piece in the metropolis. When an author and composer can start every man and woman in an audience whistling, humming or tapping his or her feet in time to the music, it is safe to declare that the musical piece they are witnessing is a hit. This happens at every performance at the Knickerbocker and it is a foregone conclusion that "The Talk of New York" will make a run on Broadway that will extend far into summer weather. Victor Moore, who plays the role of "Kid" Burns, has broadened and perfected a most interesting type of character first presented in "45 Minutes from Broadway." Mr. Moore's admirable performance of "Kid" at the New Amsterdam theatre stamped him as an actor of extraordinary capability and his success in "The Talk of New York" is well merited. Cohan & Harris, the producers of the new play, have not only provided Mr. Moore with a most effective production, but have also surrounded him with a company of well known and remarkably talented people, including Nella Bergen, Lorena Atwood, Emma Littlefield, Sayde Harris, Jack Gardiner, Stanley H. Forde, Joe Smith Marba, John Conroy and William Thompson.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

In many of the local churches on Sunday offerings will be received for Muhlenberg Hospital, according to the annual custom.

Commencing Sunday night the monthly Young People's meetings will be held in the hall at 110 Liberty street, near Front. The public is invited.

The Men's Club of the First Baptist church will hold its next meeting the second Monday night in January. Plans are being considered for an attractive program.

At the meeting of the W. C. T. U. yesterday afternoon a large number of donations of clothing and other useful articles were received to be sent to the Mission Yacht, New York, of which Captain Benn is in charge.

Under the direction of Clifford A. Braider, organist, the quartet choir of the First Presbyterian church will render special musical programs Sunday morning and night, appropriate to Christmas. In the afternoon the Sunday-school will enjoy its service.

The one hundredth anniversary of the birth of John Greenleaf Whittier will be appropriately observed at the Friends Meeting-house on Watchung avenue, Sunday afternoon. Henry Wilber, of Swarthmore College, and Rev. A. C. Nickerson, of All Souls' church, will present original papers on the life of Whittier.

Mrs. Harry Smith, of Jersey City, has returned home after a visit with friends here.

THE CORPORATION COUNSEL.

To serve as corporation counsel for more than a quarter of a century is no mean distinction for one man to enjoy in a community in which there never has been any dearth of lawyers capable of filling the position. And to have that honor thrust upon him term in and term out under all sorts and conditions of administrations is something that is even more passing strange, when "to the victor belongs the spoils" is an accepted custom no less here than elsewhere.

Craig A. Marsh, who enjoys this rare honor, is about to be reappointed for another term of three years. In deciding to renominate him the mayor has shown the same good sense that has been displayed in his every act since he took up his manifold duties as the city's executive. It is a fortunate thing that the municipality does not have to pay this learned member of the bar the actual value of his services for in such event his services would be beyond its reach. The $2,000 a year attached to the office is a rich investment in this case for it has been known to have saved the taxpayers many times the amount in more than one instance.

FOWLER STILL HEAD OF BANKING COMMITTEE

Pratt—Industrial arts and expositions; patents.

Leake — Patents; private land claims.

Hamill—Elections; manufactures.

Parker—Military affairs; judiciary.

Gardner — Labor (chairman); postoffices.

Howell—Immigration and naturalization (chairman); public buildings and grounds.

Wood—Coinage, weights and measures; immigration.

Borough Seniors' Play.

The senior class of North Plainfield High School gave its play entitled "Ye Olde Fashioned Skule" in a creditable fashion last night at the Somerset street school auditorium Clarence Steiner took the part of the "skule" master, and Miss Agnes Cooley impersonated Mrs. Charity, while Edna Doughty played the role of her daughter. Eldon Miller as the deacon caused much merriment when he questioned the arithmetic class. Benjamin Phelps, principal of the High School, presented a piece of statuary to Superintendent H. C. Krebs in the name of the teachers.

GRIP IS EPIDEMIC HERE

If You Have a Headack and Feel Out of Sorts You're Due for It.

QUININE THE BEST REMEDY.

Stay Abed If Necessary But Don't Expose Yourself or You'll Get Pneumonia.

Do you feel weak, headachey and shaken up generally? If so look out. You are in for a siege of grip. Get busy with quinine and stuff, or hasten at once to your family doctor, for the disease is very prevalent and the physicians who aren't sick themselves are very busy. It is the same everywhere.

The world is apparently in the embrace of another pandemic of the grip. That, it is learned, is what has been ailing the kaiser. We shall yet have to take note of the grip as one of the major enemies of mankind. When the world was but imperfectly provided with means of communication the visitations were intermittent, with at least a seven-year interval of immunity and with an average interval closely corresponding to that of the seventeen-year locust.

Now it comes almost every year and fairly shoulders itself into our notice; it is only about nine months since it was epidemic here before. Ever since 1889 the constitutions of Americans may be said to have been under a state of siege from this persistent and insidious enemy.

When the malady seizes upon an individual, the thing to do—as any doctor will tell you—is to go into retirement for a few days, and to bed if need be.

Grip is temporarily highly weakening. To expose one's self to winter weather while grip-sick is to encounter the danger of pneumonia.

To undertake the usual amount of work is to lay the conditions for neurasthenia. Quinine is the best remedy and also the best preventive. A very little quinine taken daily when grippy conditions are abroad will pervent the germs of influenza from finding a lodgment in the system.

Meanwhile it is incumbent on science which has reduced many an ancient pest into present insignificance, to take measures to abate this modern one.

It came to us eighteen years ago from central Asia, and is the "yellow peril" that most directly affects the average American.

MASONIC LODGE LOSES ITS CHARTER IN NEWARK.

Masonic circles in Newark have been greatly interested in efforts which have been made by the grand master to prevent the publication in the newspapers of news relating to the subordinate lodges. Somebody has discovered an old edict passed by the Grand Lodge more than a decade ago deprecating publicity, but never enforced, and it is now being applied to the annoyance and chagrin of the brethren who are affected.

On December 12 a meeting of Triluminar Lodge, Newark, was held at which an animated debate occurred over the suppression of matters not connected with the secret work of the order, and of which some account found its way in to The Newark Morning Star. The information was not furnished to the Newark Star by any member of the lodge, but since the meeting some of them have been accused of supplying the data. Yesterday rumors were afloat that Grand Master McGregor had decided to suspend the entire lodge in an effort to ascertain who wrote the story, although he has made no application to the Newark Star to obtain the information.

The rumor was fully verified by later developments, for the grand master appeared at Wednesday night's meeting and took away the charter of the lodge, thereby depriving the 380 members of their right to do business. As it was election night the action was of more than ordinary effect, and caused a sensation the like of which has not been experienced in Masonic circles in many years.

ADDITIONAL PROFESSORS AT PRINCETON COLLEGE.

The board of directors of Princeton Theological Seminary has inducted into office as assistant professors two members of its teaching staff, who have served as instructors.

The Rev. James O. Boyd, Ph. D., was installed as Elliott F. Shedherd assistant professor of oriental and Old Testament literature. The Rev. E. D. Warfield, D. D., president of the board of directors, presided and administered the pledge; the Rev. James S. Dickson, D. D., of New York, gave the charge, and Dr. Boyd delivered his inaugural upon "Ezekiel and the Modern Dating of the Pentateuch."

The Rev. Casper W. Hodge, Ph. D., was installed as assistant professor of didactic and polemic theology, the Rev. E. D. Warfield again presiding. The Rev. William Irvin, D. D., of Oyster Bay, N. Y., gave the charge to the new professor and the inaugural address upon "The Idea of Dogmatic Theology" was delivered by Dr. Hodge.

RETURNS TO NEW JERSEY AFTER 38 YEARS ABSENCE.

Mrs. Sarah C. Rood, of Santiago, Cal., and Mrs. Anna E. Dufford, of Attan, Iowa, who have been visiting Mrs. J. A. Haynes, of North avenue, will return home tomorrow. Mrs. Rood left New Jersey thirty-eight years ago, going to Iowa, where she resided for fourteen years, then moving to Santiago, where she has resided since.

She was stopping at a hotel in San Francisco with her husband, who was an invalid, at the time of the earthquake, but managed to get out of the house without injury. The house was wrecked. They went to a friend's home two miles away and within twenty-four hours ere again driven out by fire and then had to go outside the city and camp in tents made of bed clothing.

Mr. Rood lived but a few months after this experience and his wife was very ill for a long time. Upon her recovery upon the advice of her physician she took an ocean voyage. She spent five months abroad. Upon her arrival in New York she was met by her sister, Mrs. Haynes. Mrs. Dufford and her other sister, Mrs. Charles Skillman, of Whitehouse, Hunterdon county, met Mrs. Rood at the home of Mrs. Haynes, but neither of them could recognize each other, as they had changed greatly.

The sisters are the daughters of the late Abram L. Voorhees, who for twenty-five years was the agent of the New Jersey Central at Whitehouse Station, and sisters of the late Peter Voorhees, who for a number of years was county clerk of Hunterdon county. Mrs. Rood is anxious to get back to her home as she thinks the winters in the North too severe. Before she left New Jersey and up to the time of her marriage she conducted a private school at Annandale and during her stay here she visited Mrs. Haynes' father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Cramer, of Annandale, and while there sent out invitations to all of her old pupils to visit her on a certain day. There were twenty-one of them and of that number there was but one she could recognize or who would have known her. They had not seen each other in over forty years. She considered it the event of her life to meet the people who were then children and have since grown up and have families. Mrs. Haynes was one of her pupils.

It is very interesting to hear Mrs. Rood tell her experiences during the earthquake. This would tend to prove that old Hunterdon county produces a number of long-lived people, as some of those mentioned are over eighty years of age.

EXERCISES IN SCHOOLS

Walter Bach; song, "If You Are Good," Second Grade A; exercise, "Christmas Wishes," First Grade A; song, "Christmas Eve," kindergarten; carol, "Christmas Lullaby," Third and Fourth Grade; carol, "The Glorious Bethlehem Star," school; carol, "Glory," school; "Christmas in Wonderful," Fourth and Fifth Grades; song, "O Come Ye All Ye Faithful," school.

Washington School.

An interesting program was presented at the Washington School at 2 o'clock this afternoon as follows: Song, "Come All Ye Faithful," school; recitation, "First Christmas," Ralph Green; carol, school; Christmastide," Fifth Year Grade; solo, "Christmas Lullaby," Elnore Green; recitation, "Somebody Is Coming," Alice Culhane; selection, "Christmas Wishes," ten girls from Second A and B classes; song, "All Hail the Christmas," school; recitation, "Old Santa Claus in His Den," John Eskenson; vocal duet, "If You Are Good," Carrie Hafner and Louise Reed; recitation, "If Santa Claus was Pa," Ray Stevens; song, "The Angel's Song," school; recitation, "Poor Old Santa Claus," Elnore Green; song, "Christmas Bells," school; solo and chorus, "Beautiful Story," Agnes Alexander; recitation, "To Santa Claus," Josephine Stewart; carol, school.

Lincoln School.

Owing to the fact that there is no auditorium at the Lincoln School it is impossible for the pupils to come together in the presentation of a program. Instead the teachers arrange with their pupils to hold class exercises of a varied nature. The programs comprise vocal and instrumental music and recitations, while in one of the class a gramaphone entertained the children.

Borough High School.

Exercises appropriate to Christmas were held this morning in the North Plainfield High School, and the lower grades, as well as at the Watchung school. In fact the greater part of the day was devoted to programs in celebration of Christmastide.

The exercises at the high school were held at 11 o'clock. These Christmas selections were rendered by the pupils: Hymn, "Silent Night;" carol, "Christmas Fanfare;" hymns, "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," and "Merry, Merry Christmas Bells."

The principal feature of the program was an address by Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, who spoke in the "Elements of Success." He grouped under this topic, "Industry," "Intelligence" and "Independence," as elements treating with self for which everyone should earnestly strive and then coupled those elements with "Patriotism," "Philanthrophy," and "Religion," as representing love of country, love of man and love of God, indicating the direction one should apply himself to. He also spoke of "Education," as an element of giving a fellow a start and it is then largely if not almost entirely up to him to make the most of his opportunities. In connection with his talk Mr. McCrea made use of a number of apt illustrations which impressed the pupils greatly with the importance of using their time to the very best advantage.

Borough Primary.

The primary department exercises were held at 11:45, when the following program was presented:

Piano solo, Lillie MacDonald; recitation, "Santa's Coming," Cora Hale; song, "Dear December," Fourth A Grade; recitations, "Christmas Candles," girls Third A Grade; "A Christmas Lunch," Elevlyn Bacon; "The Kind Mouse," Harold Wahlig; song, "Christmas Time is Drawing Near;" recitations, "A Christmas Pantomime," Norman McGee; "A Christmas Doubt," John Ball; "The Bird's Christmas," pupils Third A Grade; "Santa's Ride," Lizzie Leach; "Jes' Fore Christmas," Alfred Willett; song, "Tripping, Tripping;" recitations, "Santa's Substitute," Lena Bender; "The Day Before," William Baglin; "Wants of the Mother Goose Children," Everett Case; "Christmas with Mother Goose," pupils Second A and Second B Grade; "If You're Good," Walter Debele; "How Santa Comes," Marjorie Burtis; "A Christmas Worry," Bertha Duerschner; song, "Wonderful Star."

This program was given by the kindergarten department:

Songs, "Merry Christmas," and "See Our Merry Christmas Tree," school; dialogue, "Star," six girls; game, "Shall I Show You How to Dance;" songs, "Humpty Dumpty," "Little Miss Muffet," and "Little Kitty;" recitation, "Letter to Santa," Edward Boyle; solo, Sadie Weintraub; song, "Christmas Hymn," song, "Old Santa Puts on His Cap," school; game, "Skipping;" recitation, "Suppose," Irwin Taylor; game, 'Guessing;" snow-man; recitation, eight children; song, "O Clap, Clap the Hands;" folk dance, eight children; Popcorn dance," Marie Van Winkle and Thomas Cummings; Good-bye Song.

Watchung School.

This program was enjoyed at the Watchung school under the auspices of the kindergarten:

Songs, Merry Christmas to All;" and "Thumbs and Fingers Say Good Morning;" "Good Morning to the Canary;" song, "Father We Thank Thee;" mother songs and games by the class; song, "Humpty Dumpty," James Conroy and Martha Emmons; dances, "Rig-a-Gig," and "Little Playmate;" song, "Shine Out O Blessed Star;" recitations, Mabel Bodine, LeRoy Johns, Virginia Marshall, Dorothy Jacot and Alfred Thorne; song, "Once a Little Baby," James Conroy; game, "Snow-man;" recitations, Rosanna McDonough, Ralph Nerrie, Adolph Bohren, Marguerite Case and George Chandler; song, "Old Santa Claus;" dance, bowing game; song, "O Clap, Clap the Hands;" song, "This Is the Dolly I Love Best," Virginia Marshall; song, "Jack Frost;" recitations, Edgar Gaddis, Dorothy Sklarew, William Herier and Herbert Huff; cradle song, "Jolly Old St. Nicholas;" Christmas tree and "Good-bye Song."

South Plainfield.

The Christmas exercises of the South Plainfield public schools were held in the Baptist church at that place, yesterday afternoon, and were largely attended by parents and friends of the pupils. The program, an excellent one, was as follows:

"Song of the Angels," school; recitations, "Santa's Helpers," primary boys; "My Mamma's Darling," Elizabeth Horan; "Christmas Alphabet," primary department; recitation, "No Room," Nora McDonough; solo, "Star of Bethlehem," Lizzie Geary; recitation, "Harry's Flea," Lester Soper; "The Night Before Christmas," Marion Geary; solo and song, "Santa Claus," primary department; recitation, "My Tree," Frederick Attlee; recitation, "Long Fore I Knew Who Santa Claus Wuz," Andrew McDonough; song, "See the Christ Child," grammar girls; recitation, "I Am a Little Thing," Ruth Boss; song, "O, Clap, Clap the Hands," First Year pupils; recitation, "Just Before Christmas," John Ball; "Christmas," First Year pupils; motion song, "Winter," primary department; recitation, "I Am Very Young," William Reilly; dialogue, "Columbia and Evangeline," Grammar girls; "Christmas Wishes," primary department; song, "While I Lay Asleeping," First Year; recitations, "If I Could Knit," Arthur Attlee; "Our Christmas Ship," primary girls; "I Am Not So Very Old," Hans Handson; solo, "Star of Hope," Grace Norman; recitation, "O Merry, Merry Christmas," First Year pppils; recitation, "He Got the Best of Old Santa," Marjorie Soper; recitation, "Jack Frost," First Year pupils; song, "Sing Glory, All Glory," school; dialogue, "The Birth Night of Jesus," Grammar girls.

E. J. KNIGHT CONSECRATED AS BISHOP YESTERDAY.

For the first time in more than 100 years Trenton yesterday witnessed the consecration of a Protestant Episcopal bishop, in the personage of the Rev. Edward Jennings Knight, rector of Christ Episcopal church for the past fifteen years as bishop of Western Colorado. The last consecration here was that of Bishop Moore, in 1801, when the general convention of the church had only thirty members.

The ceremony took place in Christ church. There were present prominent Episcopal clergymen from all parts of the country. Bishop John Scarborough, of Trenton, father-in-law of the new bishop, presided with Bishop Lines, of the Newark diocese, and Bishop Talbot, of Central Pennsylvania as consecrators. The sermon was preached by Bishop Spaulding, of Utah. Others who took part in the ceremonies were: Bishop Greer, coadjutor of New York; Bishop Mackay Smith, coadjutor of Pennsylvania, and Bishop Darlington, of Harrisburg. The Rev. W. Storther Jones and the Rev. Hamilton Schuyler, of Trenton, and William Dollier, of Burlington, assisted.

Celebrates 104th Birthday.

Mrs. Mary E. Farrell, of Clinton, Caldwell Township, celebrated her one hundred and fourth birthday yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Sharpe, of that place. Mrs. Farrell is a remarkable woman. She is bright and apparently enjoys good health, although her eyesight and hearing are poor.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

While Samuel Manning and Mrs. Scott, of this place, were driving home from Plainfield along Plainfield avenue, last night, the horse became frightened at something and began to b alk. Mr. Manning lost control of the animal for a few minutes, the carriage was wrecked and the occupants thrown out. Charles Maltby, of Plainfield avenue, happened along in his automobile and with his assistance Mr. Manning was able to pacify the horse. Another carriage was secured at Mr. Maltby's home and the journey was continued. Neither Mr. Manning or Mrs. Scott was injured.

Mrs. William Riley, of Lehigh avenue, who for some time has had symptoms of blood poisoning as the result of stepping on a rusty nail, was able to be out yesterday for the first.

The roads in this vicinity are now in better condition than ever. Many tons of crushed stone and a great deal of labor have been used to put them in shape for the winter.

Fist Fight in House.

Representative J. S. Williams, of Mississippi, and Representative David De Armond, of Missouri, the intellectual heavyweights, but the physical bantamweights on the Democratic side of the House of Representatives at Washington, engaged in a fist fight in the floor of the chamber this afternoon, directly after the house had adjourned for the day. The contest was with bare knuckles, and was not according to Marquis of Queensbury rules, or any other rule.

English High Steppers in "His Honor the Mayor," at the New Plainfield Theatre, Saturday, Matinee and Night.

"His Honor, the Mayor," which appears at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night, contains an excellent cast and is headed by Harry Kelly, the star. He is an absolutely unique comedian, who knows the value of repose as well as the necessity of action. His quiet, quaint, self-control, while everybody else is laughing at him, even his fellow-actors on the boards, is simply wonderful. He is one of the few comedians so gifted that he need speak a word nor move a muscle to arouse laughter and applause.

Just as the Magnolia blooms, and orange grove, that grows in the Southern gardens make it the fairest landscape under the dome of heaven's blue, just so there is a sweet and low cadence associated with a play of the southland that makes the slumbering emotions bring memories of fair maids and brave men in its wake. Such a production is "Under Southern Skies" which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Christmas Day, afternoon and night. The Hallowe'en party is a ritotously funny scene in which the entire dramatic personal make merry, the scene calling up memories of youthful days and reviving a troop of sentimental frolics. The scene is made very picturesque by genuine Jack O'Lanterns of boy and girlhood days.

Actresses all have fads, according to their press agents, and Miss Bayonne Whipple, who is this year repeating her success of former years as Ruth in Ramsay Morris' "The Ninety and Nine," which will be presented here next Thursday night, is no exception to the rule. Her fad is a singularly peculiar one and her press agent offers to submit affidavits, properly attested and subscribed to, bearing out in detail the truth of his assertions. Miss Whipple's peculiar fad is the collection of hats. She confesses herself that it has almost become a mania with her. Last season she left New York with eighteen hats ranging all the way from "perfectly cute" little toques to splendid Gainsboroughs with nodding black plumes. She carried a special trunk in which these hats were packed. One would think that an even dozen and a half of creations would be quite sufficient for any young woman, but Miss Whipple had not been on the road two days when she began purchasing others. There was hardly a town that she visited in which she did not pick up at least one new hat. Even in little hamlets where the company would be obliged to wait a half an hour or more for train connections she would sail out with her maid and rummage through the stock of the leading "emporium" of the place in search for novelties in the millinery line. When Butte, Montana, was reached the original eighteen hats had run up to sixty-five and Miss Whipple was still purchasing. It became necessary for her to ship home two trunks full from that far-away western city.

What the Poet Says.

After their honeyhoon to Nigara Falls they came back and settled on the old farm.

"Gracious, Sile!" said Cynthia. "Why are you in such a bad humor?"

"Making butter is blamed hard work," grumbled Silas, removing the beads from his brow.

"Oh, cheer up, Sile! Don't the poet say that it is 'love that makes the world go round?'"

"Yes; but, by gosh, it don't make the churn go round."—Chicago News.

Christmas Day Hunt.

On the morning of Christmas Day, the Watchung Hunt Club will meet at New Market at 10:30 o'clock for a chase over new territory which will include Stelton, Metuchen and other nearby places. The club expects a large number of out of town guests to join in the chase and plans are being perfected to make it one of the best of the season.

Miss Grace Phillips, of Brooklyn, who has been visiting relatives in town, has returned home.

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

OFFICIAL.

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J., held on Thursday, Dec. 5th, 1907, at 2:30 p. m. Roll call showed all members present except Freeholder Donahue. Ten minutes of the previous meeting were, on motion of Freeholder Cady, adopted as per printed copies of the members' desks.

Communications, Etc.

From J. Madison Drake as follows, viz:

Elizabeth, N. J., Nov. 20, 1907.

Major Benjamin King, director Board of Chosen Freeholders, Union county:

Dear Sir: Having been informed that your honorable body has taken a step leading to the establishment of a county library, and that books have already been contributed thereto. I have pleasure in presenting the county with a copy of my history of the Ninth New Jersey Volunteers, in which, I trust, future generations may find much of interest relating to the civil war.

I am, very respectfully your obedient servant,

J. MADISON DRAKE.

On motion of Freeholder Cady, it was ordered that the gift be accepted and referred to the committee on public grounds and buildings; further that the clerk convey to Gen. Drake the thanks of this Board for the gift of this historical and interesting book of the Ninth N. J. Vol. Regiment.

From E. C. Hutchinson, State commissioner of public roads, as follows:

Mr. Benjamin King, etc: Confirming our verbal acceptance of St. George avenue and Leesville avenue, Rahway, on Friday, Oct. 25th, 1907, I hereby notify you, and through you, the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union county, that the said avenue has been completed to my entire satisfaction, and, therefore accepted upon the part of the State.

Yours very truly,

E. C. Hutchinson, State Commissioner of Public Roads.

On motion of Freeholder Cladek, received and placed on file.

From E. C. Deal, Supt., Etc.:

Elizabeth, N. J., Dec. 3, 1907.

Gentlemen: We desire to erect a pole on the south side of the street at each end of bridge on Elizabeth avenue, where it crosses Rahway river in Rahway. Pole to be erected at curb line within a fe wfeet of the east end of the bridge and to carry electric light wires. Hoping to receive an early and favorable reply, I wish to remain,

Yours very truly,

Public Service Corporation of N. J.,

E. C. Deal, Superintendent.

Freeholder Cladek moved that the communication be received and referred to a special committee of three, which was so ordered without dissent.

The director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders Cladek, Gruener and Fay.

From Richard J. Higgins as follows:

Elizabeth, Dec. 3, 1907.

Petition of James J. Higgins, John F. Higgins, Richard J. Higgins, Chas. A. Higgins, John A. Smith and others:

Gentlemen: The above named petitioners appeal to your honorable board, to consider the placing of pipe capable of carrying away water at the intersection of Neck Lane and Morris avenue. The present pipe, about 12 inches in diameter, is not large enough, thereby causing petitioners' grounds and cellars to flood, making them unhealthy and also injuring same. Respectfully submitted by the above, Richard J. Higgins.

On motion of Freeholder Fay, received and referred to Freeholder Woodruff, of Union township.

From Edwin W. Hine, assistant to the President, etc.:

"On the subject of the proposed improvement to Elizabeth avenue (North Broad street) in the township of Union, which I understand contemplates the widening of at least a portion of the roadway and the taking over of the highway as a county road by the county Board of Freeholders I desire to say that the Public Service Corporation will, when this improvement is authorized, relocate their street railway tracks in the center of the street as widened, and substantially replace the space occupied by our tracks with Belgian block paving, using such of the present material as may be serviceable.

"We cannot agree at this time to make this improvement as far as our railroad tracks are concerned of permanent or standard construction, for the reason that within the next two years—three years at the most—the tracks will have to be reconstructed throughout with new rails, and when this is done our intention is to put in the standard concrete foundation, the present financial condition of the country making this proposition absolutely prohibitive at this time."

Very truly yours,

Edwin W. Hine, assistant to the President, etc.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse, received and referred to the committee having said improvement in charge.

New Business.

Feeding Zoo Animals.

Not only is much care exercised in the choice of horseflesh, but when a carcass is cut up it is divided in such a way as to insure that in each piece given to the animals there is a bone. Otherwise the lions, tigers and other big carnivora would swallow the piece whole, which would be bad even for their iron digestions. The presence of the bone compels them to take bites at the flesh, which they pick from the bone with their claws and teeth, licking the bone afterward with their sandpapery tongues until the surface shines. For the smaller carnivors, such as polecats and weasels, and for the captorial birds, horseflesh is somewhat too coarse and pungent, so they are fed for the most part on the heads and necks of chickens. These parts are selected also because of the bone in them.—London Graphic.

Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., will hold a regular meeting tonight.

Despite repeated efforts it has thus far been impossible to secure a quorum for a meeting of the Past Councilors' Association, Jr. O. U. A. M. It is now the opinion that little will be done until after the first of the year.

QUIET EVENING AT HOME.

Man Relates Some Surprises His Family Prepared for Him.

"You don't know what trouble is when you're just merely married," snapped the head of an East End family, as he sat in his office looking over a bunch of newly arrived bills.

"No sir," he declared with the air of a man who knows just a thing or two of what he's talking about, "a married man isn't really in trouble until he has a big family partly grown.

"Here's a bunch of little forget-me-nots about the folks at home the mail carrier just handed to me. And when I get home I'll probably run into something else to make me sweat.

"Night before last when I got home I found my two oldest girls were putting over some sort of a social affair, and it didn't look like any cheap skate sort of an affair, either. Before I got to our bedroom two of the younger girls called me in to see the presents they had bought that afternoon to take to some birthday party they were invited to the next afternoon. A minute later my wife called me in to see a new dress that our oldest daughter had bought that day. It wasn't much of a garment, either. Just a little measly $64 outfit at that. While we were looking at that my youngest girl—she's just turned eight years—came buzzing in and wanted some money to run up to the corner after some ice cream. She wasn't in on the party down below and wanted some entertainment.

"'Well,' my wife remarked about that time, 'you'd better hurry and get into your dress suit. You know we are going out this evening.'

"'No,' I says, 'I guess I'd better sneak back to the office and get to work again.'

"Nice, jolly evening of it, wasn't it?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

TWO STRANGE TREES.

The Majava Yucca a Vegetable Freak—The Creeping Oak of Monterey.

California has one tree which is the personification of mystery. Found nowhere else in the world, it had a mysterious origin and thrives in a region of mystery.

The Mojava yucca is a vegetable freak which has developed into a species. It has the characteristics of several plants, to which no relationship can be traced.

It is an endogen, yet its bark shows concentric rings such as characterize the exogenous stems. It lives and thrives in great numbers in a region early devoid of vegetation, in a land of heat and thirst and barrenness.

Another tree in California which has a peculiar personality is the creeping oak of Monterey.

Nowhere in the vegetable kingdom can be found so true a representative of monopoly. The tree is of gnarly growth, its limbs, like those of the sycamore, bending and twisting in all directions.

Wherever a branch touches the earth it takes root and becomes, as it were, another trunk, though still a branch of the main stem, drawing nourishment both from the parent stem and from the new source. In this manner the tree is spread till it has taken possession of five acres of ground, and it is still advancing.—P. E. Magazine.

She Meant a Mantle.

Thomas A. Edison was discussing at Atlantic City the various devices for increasing the brilliance and diminishing the cost of a gas jet.

"Many of these devices have for base a mantle," he said. "You know what a mantle looks like? Then you'll appreciate a remark I overheard in a hardware dealer's.

"A young woman entered the shop and said:

"'Have you got those things for improving a gas light?'

"'Yes, madam,' said the dealer. 'Here is a complete set, fittings, chimney and mantle, all for——'

"'Oh, I don't want the set,' said the young woman. 'I've got the metal part and the chimney, but the little white shirt is busted. It's only one of them I want.'"

Smoking Soldiers.

The experience of Lord Wolseley of the British army has been such that he has always made it a rule to allow, whenever possible, the soldiers under his command one pound of tobacco a month, which he considers a fair allowance, and with the use of which he finds the soldier does his best work. In Italy the military authorities recognize tobacco as one of the comforts essential to troops and cigars are served out to them with their daily rations.—Washington Herald.

Tool of Many Uses.

During the present army maneuvers the French troops are using for the first time an instrument which for variety of adaptation probably approaches to a record. It is a kind of concave lance shaft, or gouge, about 8 inches broad at the base and with a handle about 12 inches long.

This implement is a shovel, a pointed bar, a trenching pick, a wire cutter, a wood chopper and can be used for bread and meat.—London Globe.

She Smacked of Books.

"They tell me you kissed Miss Sonnet, the poetess, on yesterday's automobile excursion."

"Yes; that is true."

"Indeed! And how did you—ah—find her?"

"Miss Sonnet has a marked literary taste."

REAL CAUSE OF THE SMASHUP.

Railroad Sign to Blame for Accident It Was Intended to Avert.

The old darky was suing the railroad company for damages. The man contended that, not being warned by whistle or engine bell, he had started to drive his rig across the company's track when a shunted box car of said company crashed into his outfit, causing the death of the horse, loss of the wagon and minor injuries to himself. After the prosecution had closed its side of the case, the company's lawyer called the old darky to the stand and went at him. "Mr. Lamson," he began, "your rig was struck by the box car in full daylight, was it not?" "I fink dar was some clouds ovahead, suh," answered the cavilling witness. "Never mind the clouds! And only a few days before this accident the railroad company had put a new sign at that crossing?" "Dar was a sign dar, ya-as, suh!" "And didn't that sign say 'Stop! Look! Listen?'" "Now, dar am de whol' accusation ub de trouble!" declared the darky, with animation. "If dat stop sign hadn't caught dis chil'e eye jes' 's Ah war squar' on dat track, dar wouldn't 'a' been no smashup!"—Bohemian.

POWER OF THE ROTHSCHILDS.

Accumulated Wealth Soon to Make Influence of House Enormous.

It has been calculated that at the present rate of accumulation the Rothschilds will own by the middle of the present century some £2,000,000,000 sterling, or nearly enough to pay off the national debt three times over, says a writer in the Grand Magazine, of London, England. The imagination is staggered and fails to realize the power which is represented by such figures. It could finance, or it could stop, a war; it could delay the industrial development of a country for a generation; or it could, on the other hand, enable a country which it favored to beat all its industrial rivals. A power like this must have its fingers on all the arteries through which flows the life-blood of commerce, the ebb and flow of which it can regulate uncontrolled.

For Happiness in Marriage.

I have spoken of the only true and right motive for marriage, and venture my opinion that marriage should not be too eagerly sought by either sex, but rather waited for until the certainty has come that one loves worthily and well. I mean, that for a man to say to himself, in cold blood, that it is time he should marry, and, for that reason, to look about for a wife—instead of being aware that he loves and therefore desires to marry the one beloved woman—is, to my thinking, as unwise and in almost as poor taste as for a girl to discover that it is time she were settled in life and, in consequence, set about trying to attract a husband. In neither case is happiness in marriage likely to be the result of such a quest.—Louise Chandler Moulton.

Out of the Schoolroom.

A schoolboy was asked to give some information in regard to the Cary sisters, the once famous New England poets, and he said of them: "The Cary sisters were two poets who lived in Massachusetts most of the time. They went to New York where they made many fast friends. Their fastest friend was John G. Whittier." At the time of the Longfellow centennial, when the school children were writing so much about him, one boy wrote: "Longfellow's poems were mostly of his own composure, but he wrote 'Tails of a Wayside Inn' where others did the talking. He was the poet lorryett of our talking. He was the poet lirryett of our country and was a crackerjack when it came to real poetry."—Lippincott's.

Spectacles for Cows.

A Russian firm which manufactures optical goods has just completed an order for 40,000 pairs of glasses to be worn by cows. These spectacles are necessary because the steppes, the great Russian prairies, are covered with snow for six months in the year, but during part of the time delicate fresh grass tips protrude from the white and dazzling mantle. The cows then are turned out to feed on the new grass, but if their eyes are unprotected from the dazzle of sunshine on the snow it gives them snow blindness. Hundreds have died from this cause; but a rude, cheap kind of spectacles, made of leather and smoked glass, was invented, and since has been used with great success.

What's Geography Good For?

This is from the philosophy of Mrs. Louisa Schmitt, who berated a teacher for not promoting her daughter because the latter was deficient in geography. "Teacher, you don't know it all, I guess," said the irate Mrs. Schmitt. "I wish it that my daughter gets through school so she gets a man. Never mind about the geography; just promote her without it. Why, my other daughter, she didn't know geography and she got a man. And you know all about geography and you ain't got any man at all. What is this geography good for? See that my daughter gets through school."

Serious, Indeed.

"Lady," said the tattered tramp at the gate, "can't yer spare me a dime on a very urgent collection?" "What do you call an urgent collection?" asked the busy housewife. "Why, yer see, I have just been fined $29,240,000 for ridin' on an oil car an' I've only got two days to get it together."

GRANTS TIGHTEN GRIP ON TOURNEY'S FIRST PLACE

Taking three straight games from Skelly's Napoleons, Chief Kiely's Grant team of bowlers got a firm grip on first place in the tourney last night and now stands with a tally of eight wins and only one drop. The chief's followers didn't show any phenomenal form but Skelly's men had bad cases of pin fever and failed to come up to scratch at critical periods. They went into the last try with a desperate effort to get at least one tally and the game ended in a tie, each side chalking up 848 pins. An extra frame was rolled to decide the winner and luck went to the Grants, the aggregate standing 111 to 86.

Chief Kiely was again the bright particular star of the competing men and smashed the timber for an average of 187, his scores being 201, 190 and 198. He was pitted against "Pung Tang" Kelly but a bad start of 127 knocked a bad gap in the latter's aggregate figures, suceeding tallies of 226 and 198 bringing him up to 183.2. Ed Laing also made two good scores with a bad one in the middle and Will Kiely held down his end with an average of 167. Tom McInerney couldn't find the head pin and the absence of Mr. Giddes caused a trio of 151's to go opposite his name.

Edwards Skelly's lieutenant, rolled indifferently while Fred Hillman pinned in a most erratic way. He started off with 156, dropped to 101 and then developed a crazy streak that gave him a double century. "Tune" Hewitt was off his game and John Wirth's figures were held down by splits of the rarebit fiend variety.

CHRISTMAS EXERCISES AT HARTRIDGE SCHOOL

The pupils of the Academic and elementary grades of the Hartridge School held their customary Christmas exercises in the elementary department this morning. Though they were of an informal nature they were witnessed by a large gathering of parents and friends. The program was made up of two parts, secular and sacred, and comprised bible readings, carols, songs and recitations. There was also an exchange of gifts among the pupils accompanied by good natured jests.

It has been the custom of the members of the school to collect toys each year to be given the Relief Association and this season each girl in the academic grades dressed a doll. They were placed on a Christmas tree and aggregated a large number. Every one will eventually delight the heart of some poor child.

The kindergarten department of the school held the Christmas exercises yesterday morning.

BIG POULTRY SHOW NOW IN FULL SWING

With the biggest entry list in its history the annual exhibition of the New York Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Association had an auspicious opening in Madison Square Garden Tuesday. Keeping pace with the increased number of entries the attendance also started off larger than in previous years. The famous amphitheatre which has become famous in sport history, presents a unique appearance with the hundreds of exhibits of chickens, pigeons, turkeys, canaries, song birds and numerous other varieties of the feathered tribe.

Chicken fanciers from the agricultural districts of New Jersey occupy an important position in the exhibition, as from the rural sections of that State come some valuable as well as rare specimens of the feathered tribe. Probably among the foremost of Jersey exhibitors is Richard Delafield, of South Plainfield. Delafield has entered from his farm a cock valued at $2,000, and three English specimens listed at $1,000 each.

H. W. Lance, of Peapack, has four handsome buff laced Polish fowl benched. These are the only specimens of their kind in this country and the birds are attracting much attention from the visitors. D. G. Hetfield, of Rahway, who is seventy-five years of age, and known as the veteran exhibitor of game cocks in past years, has an array of noble looking birds on hand this year which appeal greatly to the sporting element who are interested in this class of birds.

A. C. Beckstein, of Plainfield, has on exhibition in a big array of fancy fowls a Silkie hen and her brood of chicks. This breed appears to be greatly in favor with the fashionable attendants at the show.

Mayor H. V. Crawford, of Montclair, is one of the leading lights at the exhibition, being supervisor over the entries. Mr. Crawford declared that the show is growing more popular every year. In speaking of the exhibits he said that at the first show there were 100 exhibitors, while this year there are 1,200 exhibitors in poultry and pigeons alone. There are, he said, 3,096 entries of poultry, not counting displays, and 2,002 entries of pigeons.

An added attraction yesterday was the opening of the sixth annual show of the Atlantic Cat Club. This exhibition is conducted in the Garden concert hall.

OBITUARY.

Miss Margaret Brown.

Miss Margaret Brown, 63 years old, died Wednesday at the home of her brother, James Brown, Jr., in Somerville. She was taken ill in Newark, where she conducted a large boarding house, a few days before, and was brought to Somerville in an automobile. Two brothers, James Brown, Jr., of Somerville, and Stewart Brown, of Pluckemin, and two sisters, Mrs. Chambers, of Stamford, Conn., and Miss Ann Brown, of Somerville, survive her. The funeral will be held tomorrow at the house.

Senior Class Festivities.

The senior class of the Plainfield High School will give a dance and reception at Truell Hall on Tuesday night, December 30, followed by a supper. The class will also give a dance at the Casino on Tuesday night, December 24.

Philip Swain, the West Front street art dealer, is confined to his home with an illness which threatens typhoid fever.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Frost, of Watchung avenue, have engaged apartments for the winter at Hotel Marie Antoinette, Sixty-sixth street and Broadway, New York.

Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., will nominate officers at the regular meeting tonight. The members will afterward enjoy an informal social session and smoker.

Journeymen Barbers Elect.

Local Journeymen Barbers' Union, No. 315, elected the following officers at the annual meeting last night: President, Joseph Santuccy; vice president, John P. Powers, corresponding and financial secretary, Charles Pagliuca; recording secretary, Frank Caruso; treasurer, Ralph D'Armiento; sergeant at arms, Walter R. Welsh; trustees, Albert Braun, Karl Barduan and William C. Burns. The Union card was removed from the shop of a West End barber.

There will be no meeting of the Sunday-school Teachers Union Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. building.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

The nominating committee of the United States Golf Association, consisting of James L. Taylor, chairman, Hugo R. Johnstone and A. R. Gates, has announced its findings, and, in accordance with the usual custom, the ticket has been given out thirty days prior to the annual meeting. The ticket is as follows:

President, Daniel Chauncey, Garden City Golf Club; vice presidents, Silas H. Strawn, Midlothian Country Club, Chicago, and Alexander Britton, Chevy Chase Club, Washington; secretary, William Fellowes Morgan, Baltusrol Golf Club; treasurer, Samuel Y. Heebner, Philadelphia Cricket Club; executive committee, Leighton Calkins, Plainfield Country Club; J. D. Cady, Rock Island Arsenal Golf Club; Herbert Jaques, the Country Club, Brookline; C. F. Thompson, Homewood Country Club, Chicago.

The only change in the list of officers is the substitution of Silas H. Strawn for Fred S. James as one of the vice-presidents. Mr. Strawn is at present a member of the executive committee, and his place is to be filled by C. F. Thompson, of Chicago. J. D. Cady has been chosen to succeed Warren Dickinson, of Des Moines. This will be Mr. Chauncey's second term as president. Mr. Morgan was elected secretary in 1904, while Mr. Heebner has filled the office of treasurer for seven years.

The annual meeting of the United States Golf Association will be held on Friday, January 17, at 8 p. m., at Delmonico's, and, in addition to the election of officers, other important business will have to be transacted. Each associate club has the right to be represented by one voting delegate, duly authorized, and his appointment must be certified by his club secretary. Each allied club has the right to be represented by one delegate, and it is also the privilege of members other than delegates of clubs in the association to be present.

There has been some attempt in the West of late to stir up opposition to that part of the constitution which gives the right of suffrage to only associate club delegates. In the past it has always been deemed advisable to limit the voting power to the representative clubs.

The proposed revision of the rules is also certain to come up for discussion. In fact, the committee at present wrestling with the subject will undoubtedly have a report to make. It is also likely that the course for the 1908 championship tournaments will be selected, as was the case at the annual meeting held a year ago, in Chicago. The championship applicants to date are the same as previously published, as follows:

Amateur—Garden City Golf Club, Deal Golf and Country Club, Brae Burn Country Club, Boston, and Onwentsia Club, Chicago.

Women's — Philadelphia Country Club and Chevy Chase Club, Washington.

Open—Englewood Golf Club.

This early announcement of championship applicants is the result of a motion by Leighton Calkins at the Chicago meeting to the effect that clubs wishing to hold championships should file their applications with the secretary not later than December 1 and that a list of such bids should be sent out by the secretary with the call for the annual meeting.

BASEBALL.

Clark Griffith has notified the New York American League Club that he will come back from his Montana ranch right after the holidays and will then get busy signing his players preparatory to the spring training session at Atlanta, Ga. Griffith will have more than thirty men from whom to make final selections for the regular team. He has fifteen pitchers, outside of himself and Doc Hildebrand, the former Princeton player, who is now the legal property of the New York team.

In addition to Orth, Chesbro, Doyle, Hogg and Newton, seasoned veterans who did the bulk of the box work last year, Griff has Fred Glade, recently secured from St. Louis; Roy Castleton, Hughes, Joe Lake, Rube Zeller, King Brockett, Manning, Neuer, Keefe and Tift, the former college twirler. Several other pitchers were drafted last fall but they have since been turned loose. Griffith has four catchers in Kleinow, Richey, Blair and Sweeney, a youngster who did fine work with the Atlanta team last season. The infielders are Chase, Niles, Elberfeld, Moriarty, Ball, Conroy and Louden, while the outfielders are Bell, Stahl, Hemphill and Keeler.

It is said that Griffith has made up his mind to play Moriarty permanently at third base, but that he will try out both Niles and Conroy at second base, whichever does not get the place to go into the outfield. If Conroy should prove a headier infielder than Niles the team will benefit by the latter's fast play in left field, so that with Stahl a fixture in centre field, Keeler and Hemphill would have to fight it out for the right field position. Griffith will keep about eight pitchers. He is banking a great deal on Orth, Chesbro, Doyle, Glade and Newton, also Hogg, if the latter comes here in the spring physically fit. But he also expects big doings from Joe Lake, the former Jersey City pitcher, whose services were wanted by several major league managers before Griffith jumped in and got him.

Neuer, the left hander, who did splendid work in New York just before last season ended, is another comer, in the manager's estimation, while Hughes, who developed rapidly last summer in the Southern league, will also receive a thorough tryout. Altogether the pitching material in hand would seem to indicate that if Griffith makes the proper selections, the past weakness of the team in the box will soon disappear. The surplus players will be turned over to the Montreal club or its substitutes in the Eastern League, so that when Griffith starts the championship season he will carry about twenty men. The salary list then will be close to $60,000.

TEL. 293-W 186 E. FRONT STREET

CLAIMED SHE WAS SWINDLED.

Woman Causes Arrest of Trio Who, She Says, Secured Her Real Estate.

On a charge of securing by false pretenses six lots, worth $5,000, in Cranford, belonging to Mrs. Margaretta T. Gillette, of 62 West 107th street, New York, Frank Benjamin Spalding, a book-keeper, residing at 315 West Fifty-eighth street; Henry L. Prentice, of 180 Claremont avenue, and George C. Norris, a lawyer, of 620 West 116th street, were locked up at police headquarters, New York, yesterday. They were in business until recently selling stocks.

Mrs. Gillette, who is an invalid, said that two years ago she first met Prentice, who introduced the woman to Spalding and Norris. The result was that Norris took the property at Cranford at a valuation of $5,000 and gave Mrs. Gillette 6,000 shares of stock in the Commonwealth Reduction Company, which he said were worth $5,000. This company claimed to have a chemical process for extracting copper from ore. Its president was Millford Steele.

The Commonwealth Reduction Company dissolved, and Mrs. Gillette demanded stock that was worth something. She got 20,000 shares of the Universal Tire Company, which owned patents for tires. It also faded away, and Mrs. Gillette told her story to the police. She said that Norris admitted selling the laid for $3,000 and giving part of the money to Prentice.

Norris, who has a real estate office at 2875 Broadway, says he has been city attorney of Denver for two terms and was at one time president of the Bar Association there. His former partners called him "Judge." Prentice came to New York about eight years ago from Denver with a choice lot of speculative stocks, and has been in the business ever since.

TAKES BACK ELOPING WIFE.

Ernest Kohler, of Cranford, Returns with Helpmeet, Who Ran Off With a Boarder.

It was Ernest Kohler, of Cranford, and not "Ogan Dupler, of Garwood," as a telegraph dispatch first twisted it, who on Sunday night caused the arrest at Pittsburg, Pa., of his wife and Alexander Bernar, with whom she had eloped. Kohler and his wife returned to their home at 31 Burnside avenue, Cranford, yesterday. Bernar is serving a ten days' sentence in a Pittsburg jail.

Kohler is employed as a machinist in the Anchor Post Iron Works in Garwood, and Bernar, who was his helper in the works, boarded with the Kohlers.

When Bernar eloped with Mrs. Kohler they went to Cleveland, O., and thence to Pittsburg. From the latter place Bernar wrote of his escapade to an acquaintance in New York and this acquaintance communicated the facts to Kohler.

The arrests of the couple followed. Kohler told the authorities in Pittsburg that Mrs. Kohler, just before running away, took $200 in cash from a bureau drawer and that she admitted that it was all spent.

JILTED MAN SOUGHT REVENGE.

Declined to Buy New Wedding Clothes and Prospective Bride Refused to Marry.

The little settlement known as Keasbey, in Woodbridge Township, was the scene recently of considerable excitement. Albert Hoffman became engaged last summer to Miss Frances Smith, of Keasbey. The wedding day was fixed, and the marriage was to have taken place in Bayonne, but the groom-elect refusing to buy a new suit of clothes for the occasion, the prospective bride declined to marry him. Hoffman left town and was not heard from until a few days ago, when he returned and vowed vengeance.

Armed with a loaded revolver, he went to the home of Miss Smith, but was intercepted by Policeman Cosgrove. Hoffman fired the revolver at Cosgrove's foot, inflicting a severe wound. He was arrested and taken before Justice Dunn, in Woodbridge, and held for the grand jury.

WORLD'S BIGGEST CATASTROPHE

It Is the Plague Epidemic Now on in India.

The greatest catastrophe the world has ever known is in progress at this present moment, and the world recks little or nothing of it.

This is the plague epidemic in India, which has now been raging for more than 11 years, and which, so far from showing any tendency to die out, keeps steadily increasing in intensity. Thus, during the six weeks ending May 11 last, 481,892 persons perished from it, or at the rate of over 80,000 deaths a week.

Nothing approaching the appalling horror represented by these figures has ever been recorded before. The nearest to it was in 1905, when, during the last week in March, the epidemic was responsible for 57,702 deaths.

No pestilence of ancient or modern times of which we have any knowledge has slain so many millions of people as has this one, and the end of which, mind, is not yet.

The "Great Plague" of London, for example, about which everybody has heard, killed at the outside some 80,000 people in seven months, or about as many as are dying weekly in India from a disease which is identical with it in every respect.

The "Black Death" is said to have slain one-third of the then population of England—say 1,500,000 persons; but this is doubtful. Even admitting the correctness of the estimate, however, the mortality of the present epidemic in India has already more than doubled this huge total.

What will be the end no man can foresee or venture to forecast. It may be that all that has gone before, and all that is happening now, inexpressibly awful though it is, is but the prelude of worse to follow.—Pearson's Weekly.

THE CAT CAME BACK.

But It Was Not at Home in the Country for Awhile.

The kitten that the little city girl had brought back from the country with her last fall had grown to be a big, beautiful cat when the time came to go to the mountains again, so he was placed in a basket and carried to the train, the first time since his babyhood that he had been below the third floor of the apartment house. There was little surprise and a good deal of amusement, therefore, at the cat's ideas of nature, gained, as they had been, by close inspection of fire escapes and adjacent brick walls, with an occasional glimpse of an asphalt pavement. For the first three or four days it was impossible to keep pussy on the ground floor. It would run to the top of the big farmhouse and peer out of the window whenever it was released on the veranda. Gradually, however, it became accustomed to life on the ground level, and in a week or so timidly ventured outdoors by itself. Then it was quickly found that its natural instincts had not been affected by city life, for it soon became a terror to song birds, much to the disgust of its little mistress, who is constantly torn with grief between her love for the cat and for the birdies that fell victims of its cunning. Now that pussy has taken to sleeping out of doors it is a serious problem whether to bring it back to the city again or not.—New York Globe.

Scientist Makes Kisses Safe.

Berlin.—If you wish to be healthy wear the new toothbrush mustache. It may be uncomfortable as the complement to a kiss, but it is absolutely safe.

This is the dictum of Professor Wallnitz, who has been active in the controversy raging fiercely among eminent bacteriologists. The "toothbrush" is the invention of clever Americans and is urged against the popular mustaches a la kaiser. The latter necessitates a mustache binder, and Wallnitz, after submitting several binders to microscopic examination, has discovered fragments of diseased hair and skin and an incredible number of horrible bacilli.

Some innocent guinea pigs inoculated with the cultures suffered tortures. The short, bristling decoration of the upper lip is all, he declares, that will save a sweetheart or wife from infection.

Street-Car Amenities.

Old Gentleman—I've had to wait twenty minutes for this car. The service is confoundedly unreliable, sir.

Conductor—Well, there ain't no law to make you ride. You can walk, you know."

Old Gentleman—"Oh, I'm not in such a hurry as that.—Kansas City Times.

His Job.

"Do you really mean to say, colonel, that you ran for congress before you were of age?"

"Certainly, before I was 16; in fact, I was a page in the house."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Pull.

"Father," said little Rollo, "what is meant by 'pull'?"

"Pull, my son," answered the man of experience, "is personal friendship skillfully managed so that it will pay dividends."—Washington Star.

Ornithological.

Pearl—I wonder why that Mrs. Flasher is going around telling every one she got married just as a lark?"

Ruby—Perhaps because she married a jay.—Chicago Daily News.

WENT IN WRONG DIRECTION.

Young Man's Meddling With Auto Might Have Proved Disastrous.

A young man in Springfield, Mass., recently learned a lesson on the wisdom of leaving an automobile alone when knowing nothing about it, and by good luck an accident was averted which might have been checked up to the dangers of motoring. An automobile with two occupants stopped at a market at the brow of a hill, and while one of the young men entered the store, the other, who was plainly a novice in handling a machine, began to work at the various levers to see if he could start it. He succeeded, but instead of going forward the car proceeded to go backward, and before the meddling one realized it the car had gathered considerable momentum down hill. Not knowing how to work the brakes, and afraid to try any of the other levers, he cried for help. Three or four men in the road saw his plight, and by their efforts managed to stop the car just as the driver emerged from the store. When he discovered the missing car he delivered a sharp lecture to his companion who tried to learn what made the wheels go round and, jumping in, drove rapidly away.

SENT IT TO THE BAR.

Orchestra Leader Misread Request for Schubert's Serenade.

While dining at one of the hotels recently a Washington girl said to her escort, "I wish that orchestra would play Schubert's 'Serenade.'" "All we've got to do is to have the waiter tell the orchestra leader," said the man. "But you'd better write it. The waiter will be sure to get the message wrong if you don't." So on the back of an envelope the young woman wrote, in a beautiful angular hand her request for Schubert's "Serenade," and told the waiter to take it to the leader. The waiter was gone a long time, but at last he appeared with a foaming beaker. "It took some time," he said apologetically. "I understood you to tell me the message was for the orchestra leader, so I took it to him. He read what you wrote and then laughed and told me to carry the order to the bar, for that was the place to get a seltzer lemonade." And angular writing had scored another triumph.

A Lover of Mankind.

A good man is friendly to his fellow creatures and a lover of mankind; and so will, upon every occasion, and often without any, say all the good he can of everybody; but, so far as he is a good man, will never be disposed to speak evil of any, unless there be some other reason for it besides barely that it is true. If he be charged with having given an ill character he will scarce think it a sufficient justification of himself to say that it was a true one, unless he can also give some further account how he came to do so; a just indignation against particular instances of villainy, where they are great and scandalous; or to prevent an innocent man from being deceived and betrayed, when he has great trust and confidence in one who does not deserve it.—Joseph Butler.

Book Mites.

If books or papers are kept too long in a closed, dark bookcase, they will have book mites in them. When this is noticed the books should be taken out, laid in the sun and cleaned. Wash the shelves and saturate every corner with oil of cedar, which will drive them away. It is necessary to get rid of these mites, for often they get into furniture and have destroyed many valuable pictures. Put a teaspoonful of the oil in a basin of water, wring a cloth out of it and wipe the backs and edges of the books. Be careful to look through the binding at the back of the books, for this is where they are mostly found.

Cocoanut Milk for Burns.

"The milk of a fresh cocoanut is the finest remedy on earth for burns," said Antonio Gilardi of New Orleans. "Several years ago I happened to be in Central America shipping fruit to the United States. While there I first learned that the cocoanut milk was the very best medicine in case of bad burns. In a severe case where the flesh is so badly burned that it sloughs away from the bone the cocoanut milk will relieve the pain and stops the inflammation. I knew many people in Central America who had used the milk for burns and pronounced it excellent."

Shape of the Earth.

Children used to be taught to say: "The earth is round, like a ball." This is altogether too inexact to suit modern science. Prof. A. E. H. Love of the Royal society proposes the following definition, which he regards as "approximately" correct. Primary teachers please copy: "The lithosphere is an ellipsoid with three unequal axes, having its surface deformed according to the formula for a certain degree, and displaced as a whole relatively to the geoid, in the direction toward southeastern Europe."

Well Qualified.

"So you want the position of advance agent for our circus?" interrogated the manager. "Well, we need a man who can stir up some life everywhere he goes." "That's me, boss," hastened the applicant. "Had any experience in stirring up life?" "You bet! I used to drive a street sweeper and stirred up millions of germs every day."

BY ARTHUR HENRY VESEY

(COPYRIGHT, 1906, by D. APPLETON & COMPANY)

(Third letter to Sir Mortimer from the society.)

"To His Excellency, Etc.:

"The sum of £50,000 has been placed in the Ottoman bank to your Excellency's account. The society trusts that this sum will be sufficient to justify the risks. Will your Excellency give his answer without delay?"

(Note by Sir Mortimer pinned to the above letter.)

"I have taken the step. It is too late to ask myself now whether I have been indiscreet. If I have consulted my own wishes, if I have furthered my own plans, I feel that I am justified morally. I am helping an oppressed people gain their liberty. My own recompense is meager enough. If the Foreign Office should probe the matter, and discover the extent of my indiscretion, my diplomatic career will be ended. But I am content to do a little evil that good may come."

I crushed the paper in my hand, sick at heart. I shuddered at the hypocritical comfort this guilty man had hugged to his breast. I had hoped against hope. But if they were true copies, I could no longer doubt that Sir Mortimer had stooped to the taking of bribes.

"And these documents are word for word copies of those in the safe?" I demanded gloomily.

"I swear it by every oath I hold sacred!" she replied without hesitation, and kissed the jeweled cross that hung about her neck.

She stretched out her hand for the papers. I tore them to atoms before her eyes.

For a moment she struggled to rescue them from my grasp. When she saw that it was too late, she laughed boisterously—a laughter that showed at once contempt, defiance and triumph.

"Bravo!" She clapped her hands dersively. "You take your precautions. You are desperate. Protest as you will, you are convinced of Sir Mortimer's guilt."

"You are mistaken," I replied coolly. "But even if these papers are true copies of genuine documents, it is as well that even the copies be destroyed. If they are forgeries, and you have yet to prove to me they are not, they are dangerous toys, and so better destroyed."

"Another copy is easily made, so long as I have the combination of my safe, M. Coward."

"You are never weary of insulting me," I said indifferently. "But be sure of this, you will find I am not coward enough to yield weakly to your scheme of blackmail."

"No; you are so brave that you leave a helpless girl to bear the disgrace of her dead brother, when by a word you might save her the suffering. Your pretended honor is so precious to you that you scorn to aid the woman whom you love."

"Silence, woman!" I cried passionately. "Do you think I am convinced of Sir Mortimer's guilt because of these flimsy typewritten copies? You must let me see the papers in the safe."

"If you are desperate enough to destroy a copy, I should scarcely trust you with the original. For the last time, must the woman you love know of her brother's disgrace? I am in your power; perhaps you hope that I shall be coaxed into opening the safe. Or are you about to compel me?"

"I should have resorted to that measure long ago had I thought it would prove effectual. It seems that there is again a deadlock between us. I refuse absolutely, not only to help you, but to believe that Sir Mortimer is guilty."

"If I show the papers in the safe to Helena Brett, even she must believe the evidence of her eyes. Shall I call her and ask her if she recognizes her brother's handwriting? If you believe so strongly as you profess that Sir Mortimer was innocent of wrong-doing, you will not refuse that."

"I would spare her even the thought of its possibility," I said sternly.

"That is impossible. She shall see those papers—if not to-day, to-morrow, the next day; it makes little difference to me."

"'Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof,'" I quoted flippantly; but I began to think it inevitable that Helena Brett be summoned.

"Again we must compromise it appears. I will call Sir Mortimer's sister here. She shall see the papers—decide for herself and for you whether they are genuine. You see, I am strong enough to prevent a woman from destroying the originals as you have destroyed the copies."

"And when she has seen those papers?" I asked thoughtfully. "Say even that she herself believes them genuine? What then?"

"It will be for her to decide. Perhaps she will refuse to ask you to do what I wish. Perhaps she will offer to you happiness if you consent. She shall be the one to decide. You profess to believe that Sir Mortimer is innocent. More than that, you think her soul so white that she will refuse, even if she believes her brother guilty, to rescue his memory from dishonor with dishonor."

She had put into words my own thought.

"We will let her decide," I said quietly.

CHAPTER XXVII.

The Two Women.

"And am I again to shout my commands to my servant through the closed door?" asked Madame de Varnier ironically.

I unlocked the door of the staircase in silence, taking the precaution, however, of not admitting Alphonse.

"Has Miss Brett come to the chateau as I wished?" Madame de Varnier spoke naturally through the half-opened door, not betraying my presence behind it.

"She is waiting in the music room, madam."

"Bring her here."

"I shall do as madam wishes. But this American, this man we called his Excellency—he surprised me just now—has he intruded on madam or—"

"He came here to keep an appointment with me." Madame de Varnier replied composedly, cutting short his agitated whisper.

"Ah, that is well."

Alphonse sighed his relief, and departed on his errand.

"What inducement can you have offered that she should come boldly to this Castle of Despair?"

"Is not the inducement great that she is to see a loved brother?"

Madame de Varnier seated herself in the shadow, so that she would not at once confront Helena as she entered. Her jeweled fingers touched her hair lightly; her pose suggested the languid indifference of a woman of the world who awaits the entrance of a caller. Mercy and tenderness and womanly pity were denied this beautiful animal at her birth. Or these divine qualities had been fiercely crushed by fanatic zeal.

I paced to and fro in an agony of rage and pity; and this Medusa followed my every movement with her cruel, mocking smile.

The woman whom I had hoped to save from suffering, yes, the woman I loved, was coming to this chamber of horror. She was coming, radiant with hope. Happiness awaited her, she thought—the caresses of a loved brother, repentant of his momentary folly. And, perhaps, her heart was beating high with gratitude to me—to the man who she thought had made this much wished-for reconciliation possible.

Black despair awaited her in the little oratory yonder. She was to be tortured with a dilemma as cruel as ever racked the heart of woman.

But her decision I could not doubt. I had a proud faith in this lady who had sent me into the lists to fight for her. When first I had seen her on the terrace of the hotel at Lucerne—it seemed ages ago, instead of days—I remembered how her clear gaze had thrilled me. The calm, unwavering look of her gray eyes was truth itself, I had thought. A lie was not possible for her—not even a lie to be spoken by another for her sake.

But with what abhorrence would she regard me! Had I not been drawn in the subtle web of this Circe's net, the dilemma at least would not exist for her. But if the dilemma did not exist, Sir Mortimer's dishonor would still be a terrible reality. After all, the curtain had not fallen yet. Helena and I were both puppets in the hands of capricious Fortune. It was she who held the balances; or, rather a just God whose wheels may turn slowly, but sooner or later He sees that justice is done.

I had left the door slightly ajar. It was pushed open with a brusque suddenness that startled. The servant must have known the tragedy that awaited the woman he was conducting here. With a Frenchman's love of the dramatic, he ushered her in with pompous ceremony, and stood waiting expectantly. As I closed the door roughly on him, Helena saw me. Madame de Varnier, seated in the shadow, she had not yet seen.

I scanned her face closely. I saw that not hope nor the expectancy of a happy meeting with her brother was her dominant emotion. Eager she was, but it was the eagerness of anxiety, and not of hope. Her quiet assurance came from courage and self-control. Her brother had disappeared mysteriously; Captain Forbes had been the victim of a trick; she had put her faith in one who was almost a stranger to her; and now she had ventured to the chateau alone. Even a man might have hesitated.

But when I stood before her, I was touched to see how she leaned on me, who had twice failed her.

"My brother?" she whispered.

Once before she had wrung from me the bitter truth. Now, as then, a certain courage came from her presence. Her own scorn of weakness and subterfuge supported me. I answered her simply, as I knew she would have me answer—the direct, stern truth:

"Your brother is dead, Miss Brett."

There followed a silence so intense that I could hear quite distinctly the river Aare beating against the chateau walls. With the curious irrelevance that comes so often in moments of tense anxiety I thought it strange that Captain Forbes had not given some sign of his presence in his prison during the past half hour. Helena leaned toward me, frowning slightly as if in perplexity.

"Dead, did you say? Not dead!"

I repeated the words; unconsciously I spoke a little louder. The scene seemed unreal, theatric. Again the irrelevant thought intruded, how, when a boy, I used to wonder if all the things that had hitherto happened in my life—all my existence—were not one long dream; a dream from which I should awake presently, to find myself living a life utterly different.

"It seems, sir," she faltered, "that your mission is always to bring bad tidings. It was only the other day you told me that the man who loved me had died. Now it is to tell me that the brother I loved so much is dead."

She smiled pitifully, a curiously twisted smile that expressed her suffering more than any tears. No reproaches could have troubled me as did that pathetic smile. I turned abruptly to Madame de Varnier, whom she had not yet seen. My rage and pity overcome my reason. I might have appealed to a heathen idol sitting in grotesque majesty in its temple of gloom with as little effect.

"You are a woman. You must have a woman's heart; you must feel some tenderness for others in their grief. You have told me that your life has been one of suffering; then have mercy for this girl who is suffering. You will not torture her further. You will leave to her the only comfort that remains for her, the proud memory of a brother who served his country with honor."

"It is for you to do that, monsieur." She spoke with assumed indifference, fingering the cross that hung from her neck.

"Mr. Haddon," said Helena proudly, "you will make no appeal to Madame de Varnier to spare me from suffering. Where is my brother? I suppose that there is no one here who will deny me my right to see him?"

The two women faced each other.

"Death is sometimes not the worst calamity that may befall one, madam."

At these ominous words Helena turned to me with a gesture of pain. Her courage faltered, though she fought for her control before the woman whom she hated so bitterly.

"Death is not the worst calamity?" She repeated the words slowly, as if seeking their hidden meaning. "Ah, this infamous woman, who dragged down my brother to disgrace when he lived, will not spare even his memory. She threatens to make his shame even more public than it is."

"Your champion has it in his power to prevent that," suggested Madame de Varnier softly.

Helena turned on her with horror.

"It is incredible that you should make traffic of a man's love."

"To me the love of a man like Sir Mortimer Brett would have been a glory, not a disgrace," returned the adventuress calmly. "But there was no love between Sir Mortimer Brett and myself in the sense you mean. Whatever feeling your brother had for me was controlled. Yes, and I tempted him. In that regard his honor is stainless."

Motionless, each looked into the other's eyes.

"And yet you said there is a calamity worse than death?" Helena questioned, torn between hope and fear.

"And I say it again. Dishonor is worse than death."

Helena turned to me, dazed and appealing, a trembling hand drawn slowly across her forehead.

"You are silent. What do those extraordinary words mean?"

I hesitated.

"It is said—this woman says—but it is false. Do not believe her," I cried desperately at length.

"He has not the courage to tell the truth," cried Madame de Varnier, walking slowly toward Helena, who shrank back. "Your brother is known to be guilty of taking bribes."

"You are right not to believe that, Mr. Haddon," she said scornfully, and sighed her relief.

"There are proofs to convince the most skeptical, even you," insisted her tormentor with savage emphasis.

"What you say is impossible. Where is my brother, Mr. Haddon?"

I pointed silently to the oratory. Helena turned to go thither, but Madame de Varnier barred her entrance.

"Ah, you are afraid!" she cried, standing at the door of the oratory with extended arms. "You dare not face the truth. Listen, madam; the proofs of your brother's guilt are not imaginary. They exist in his own writing. Not one signature which may be forged; there are whole pages. You listen now; you will tremble before I have finished. At present there is no one who has seen these proofs except myself. But dare to doubt me, to ignore these proofs, and they shall be for the whole world to read. Do you hear? I say for the whole world; and Russia would give me any sum I chose to ask for those papers. Do you hate me so much, and scorn me so bitterly, that you prefer to see your brother's name held up as a byword for Europe's contempt? You disdain to think it possible that my charge be true. Then what have you to fear? There is no one who can more surely identify your brother's writing than yourself. Which will you choose? It is for you to say. Will you consent to see these papers now, or am I to sell them to the embassies of Russia or Austria?"

The two women measured each other in a long silence. I watched the duel from the open window where I stood. Madame de Varnier's threat was a terrible one. It was the fierce pleading of a desperate and unscrupulous adventuress striving frantically to move the lofty trust of a sister in a brother's rectitude and honor. I had faith in the courage and nobility of soul of Helena. I believed that she would face shame and unhappiness with calm resolution. But I could not wonder that Madame de Varnier's menace made her hesitate.

The slow seconds passed, and still they faced each other in silence. That long silence seemed to me ominous. I suffered with Helena in the anguish of her decision.

To yield would be to doubt. But if she refused to yield, to doubt. And if this woman spoke the truth, and made good her threat— For herself she would endure everything rather than compromise with this betrayer of men's honor. But there was the mother to be thought of.

She had decided. She raised her hands slowly in a gesture that pathetically showed her submission. Madame de Varnier had conquered—so far.

"Do not think I doubt because I consent." She turned to where I stood. "But if this woman is sincere, and believes that these proofs exist, others will believe it too. There is no forgery so clever that I should not detect it. My brother's handwriting was peculiar. His honor must not be questioned because of a clever trick. Come, I will see those papers."

Madame de Varnier glided across the bare room and struck the heavy door of the little chamber she had already pointed out to me as containing the safe. To my surprise the door had not been locked. It opened ponderously, and I saw the gleam of the safe. She stood at the doorway and beckoned to Helena.

"Come, madam, or are you afraid to trust yourself in the room alone with me?"

"Has Mr. Haddon already seen these papers that he is not to come?"

"Mr. Haddon has seen copies of the original papers in the safe," returned Madame de Varnier in triumph. "He was so convinced of your brother's guilt that he destroyed these copies. You will not be surprised then if I refuse to trust him with the precious originals."

I attempted no expostulation. I knew the uselessness of that, and we had agreed that Helena was to decide for herself. I had faith enough in her not to doubt her ultimate decision.

"I will see these papers with you alone," said Helena quietly.

"And you will give me your word of honor that you will not follow the example of Mr. Haddon in attempting to destroy them?"

"My word of honor!" cried Helena with bitterness. "Would you believe that if you think my brother guilty of dishonor?"

"I should believe it," answered Madame de Varnier.

"Then I give it to you."

She walked to the room with a firm step, passing me where I stood.

"Be brave," I whispered. "Be on your guard. Refuse to believe that your brother is guilty, no matter what specious proofs this woman may show you. It is simply impossible that he be guilty."

"Why do you say that?" Her eyes were very wistful.

"Because," I looked at her steadily, "I know how impossible it would be for the sister."

"Your faith strengthens mine." She entered the room, passing by Madame de Varnier at the threshold.

"Au revoir, M. Coward!" the woman cried tauntingly, and the key turned in the door.

Story Book and in Real Life.

In a magazine:

"I don't like you any more."

Harold Hoplite looked up at the quaint figure—a boy of six, with a mouth smeared with huckleberry pie.

Harold was glum.

"I don't like you any more."

"Why?"

"'Cause you made sister cry."

"Ethel cry! I didn't—I couldn't—make her cry."

"Well, she's crying now when you said nothing when you walked away. Why didn't you say by-by and kiss her when you're going away? I always do."

"I will! Right now!"

And Harold hastened back to make up the lovers' quarrel.

In real life:

"Say, sister gave me a piece of pie to come down and see if you'd gone and if you hadn't to try and get you back past where she was sitting on the porch getting ready to be crying."

NEW JERSEY HOME OF IMPORTANT INDUSTRIES

The annual report of the State Riparian Commissioners, submitted to Governor Stokes, shows receipts for the fiscal year ending October 31 of $333,825.32, the largest in the history of the commission. This amount was received from the following sources: Grants, $140,690.98; leases, $134,897; licenses, $1,750; conversions, $21,417.30; rentals on leases, $35,070.04.

The commissioners account for the increased business by the fact that small tracts of the desirable water front of the State, where it is valuable, have been selected by men interested in commercial development, which, it is argued, still points favorably to New Jersey as the home of important industries. This commission declares that it has maintained the advanced prices determined upon some time ago, and while considerable opposition and criticism have been manifested by applicants, it has been successful in securing these favorable prices without discouraging away bona fide investors.

No litigation was necessary during the past year to maintain the title of the State to lands under water and the questions seems so well understood and settled that no attempt is now made, through unfamiliarity with the question to evade recognition of the State's paramount title. The only question of this kind which was in dispute a year ago has been settled amicably and with a complete recognition of the position taken by the commission as to the rights of the State.

In speaking of the subject of arrearages of rentals on riparian leases, the report says: "The question of the collection of rentals on riparian leases made by the commission was one that occupied the attention of the committee investigating the subject of riparian rights last year, and the fact was developed that there were large arrearages of rentals extending back some 30 years, and there seems to be some uestion as to whose duty it was to collect these rentals as they came due. To set the matter at rest it may be well to state the practice of the commission under the law. The lease is delivered by the riparian commission to the lessee upon receipt of the first six months' rental prescribed in the lease. This amount is transmitted to the State treasurer, with a duplicate of the lease and the address of the lessee, and thereafter the riparian commission has no knowledge or reason for knowing whether the rentals are paid or not. It is a matter in the hands of the State treasurer and always has been.

"Under authority of an act of 1906 the commission has been engaged, during the past year, in enforcing the collection of back rentals. A list of the leases reported to the commission by the State treasurer as subjects, under the act, for action by the commission, was prepared, and notices were sent to all the parties. As a result $6,000 was paid into the State treasury through the commission, and in the rest of the cases the commission proceeded to visit the lands in uestion and take possession of the same in the name of the State. Upon this being accomplished a report was made to the State treasurer and the leases were canceled August 29, 1907, and the lands again made subject to the disposal of the State."

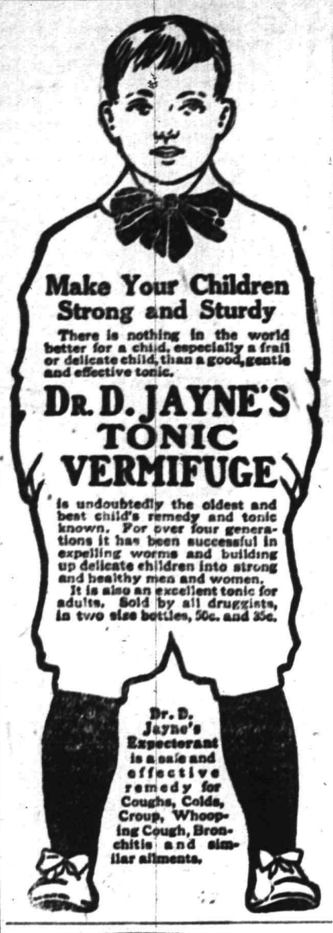
The report says that much attention has been given to the granting of riparian lands by the State and that three or four out of 55 newspapers have taken exception to the policy pursued by the commission. mission quotes extensively from the In justification of its course the comreport of the investigation committee, from the testimony taken before it, and from a paper read before the committee by William Cloke, the vice chairman of the commission.

Speaking of the oyster question, which has also been a subject of discussion in connection with the affairs of the commission, the report says: "Some criticism was directed against the riparian commission by persons interested in using the natural oyster lands of the State. The complaint was made that the riparian commission was making grants of natural seed ground. As a matter of fact, the commission has made no grants for a number of years for the purpose of cultivating oysters, and nad used a form of grant that it was advised was a proper one in carrying out its duties under the statutes.

"The suggestion in the report of the investigating committee that the oyster commission in the county in which the lands applied for lie be notified of such application has been complied with, but no new light has been shed on the subject by this plan, as neither the oyster commission nor the riparian commission has the authority to change existing laws. The riparian commissioners, after one of these desultory conferences, submitted the question to the attorney-general of the specific form of grant to be used where the oyster question is involved, and he approves of the identical form the commission has been using for years to comply with the constitution and the law under which the commission is appointed."

Some of the more important grants made during the year are: City of Atlantic City, grant on Atlantic ocean and Absecon inlet, $24,794; Cape May Real Estate Company, Atlantic ocean and thoroughfares, $10,000; city of Atlantic City, Atlantic ocean and Absecon inlet, $21,962; United New Jersey Railroad and Canal Company, Hackensack river, $7,320; J. Edward Ogden, Kill von Kull, $30,000; Calvin Tampkin, Passaic river, $10,933; borough of Edgewater, Hudson river, $7,500; United Lead Company, Arthur Kill, $6,250; James Brady's Sons' Company, Kill von Kull, $4,475.

The most important lease was made in April last to the Bulls' Ferry Chemical Company, for riparian riphts on the Hudson river, in the principal sum of $49,410.



Boynton Square Pot Furnaces

The latest and most important improvement in furnace construction is the patent Square Pot used exclusively in Boynton Furnaces and making them the most easily operated, the most economical, the most efficient heaters in the world.

The Square Pot, unlike the old-fashioned round pot, has a grate area equal to that of the ashes, cleaning as well at the sides as in the middle.

The walls are perpendicular, hence no clogging, resulting in quicker and more sensitive combustion, less waste of fuel, and a constantly active radiation.

Grate bars of equal length and motion; the ash pit is square and deep—everything is designed to reduce your work to a minimum.

Settle the heating question at once by letting your plumber, steam-fitter or tinsmith show what the square pot means to you. Found only in Boyntons.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for steam or hot water. Also ranges.

HOW HE HAS MADE A SUCCESS

L. T. Cooper Tells Chicago Reporter Why He Accomplishes So Much.

No man in recent years has been more successful in restoring human health than L. T. Cooper. During his stay in Chicago, and while he was meeting thousands of people daily, he gave the following reason for the remarkable demand for his medicine to a reporter:

Mr. Cooper said: "My New Discovery is successful because it corrects the stomach. My theory is that few can be sick if the digestive apparatus is working properly. It naturally follows that few can be well with a poor digestion.

"I know from experience that most of the tired, half-sick people that are so common now-a-days have half-sick stomachs. Put the stomach in shape, and nature does the rest. The result is general good health. My medicine does this. That is why fifty thousand people here in Chicago are using it who never heard of me until a month ago."

Among the fifty thousand mentioned by Mr. Cooper who used his medicine in Chicago [illegible]rs. Hilda Pflueger, living at 120[illegible] Avenue. This is the statement she makes concerning her experience with the medicine:

"I have been sick for six years with stomach trouble. I was always hungry, but did not dare to eat much, as I had severe pains in my stomach, and also through my body. I could not sleep at night and was very restless. I was also very nervous, and would have severe headaches. I was constipated, and always felt bloated after eating.

"I had tried many remedies, but could secure no relief, until one day I noticed in the newspapers what wonderful results Cooper's medicines were accomplishing in Chicago. I decided to try them, and shortly after commencing the treatment I began to feel better. I did not have those severe pains in my stomach, and I could sleep at night; my appetite improved, and I can now eat well. I am feeling like a new woman.

"I am very thankful to Mr. Cooper for what his remedies have done for me. They have restored me to good health, and I would advise any one who suffers as I did to try them."

We sell the Cooper medicines. They are easily the most celebrated preparations ever introduced in this country, growing in popularity daily.—T. S. Armstrong.

FACTS ABOUT THE SUN.

How It Compares With the Earth in Size and Density.

Children, when you feel the warmth and see the light of the mysterious body we call sun do you know that its density does not compare with that of our own world? The sun in size equals 1,300,000 of our planet, while in weight it would take about 332,000 earths to weigh it down to an even balance. Thus you will readily see that our earth is of much heavier substance than is the sun. In fact, the latter body is not much denser than water.

Some conception of the immensity of the sun's distance from us may first be gained from Professor Mendenhall's whimsical illustration. Sensation, according to Helmholtz's experiments, travels at the rate of about 100 feet per second. If, then, an infant were born with an arm long enough to reach to the sun and on the day of his birth he were to exercise this amazing limb by putting his finger upon the solar surface he would die in blissful ignorance of the fact that he had been burned, for the sensation of burning would take 150 years to travel along that stupendous arm.

In diameter the sun is about 866,000 mil es,and were it hollowed out till its crust remained but a shell our own earth could be placed in its centre, allowing room for our moon to travel in its regular orbit, which is distant from the earth 244,000 miles, and outside of which another satellite could have an orbit at a distance of 190,000 miles from the moon.—Washington Post.

REWARD FOR FUGITIVES.

Osborne Offers $100 Each for Capture of Escaped Convicts.

John Lanenberg and Thomas Buckley, the convicts who escaped from the State prison at Trenton early Monday night, are still at large, and no trace has yet been found of them. Principal Keeper George O. Osborne last night announced that he would give a reward of $100 for the capture of each prisoner. Mr. Osborne has also sent out circulars to all parts of the country containing a description of the two men and the amount of the reward offered.

No one has reported having seen either man. After they escaped it is believed that they followed the canal towpath towards Bordentown, and are now hiding in some suburb. The prison garb they wore is of light weight, and the prisoners will suffer from the cold unless they succeed in securing heavier clothing.

Couldn't Discharge Him.

When the jury had filed in for at least the fourth time, with no sign of coming to an agreement in the bribery case, the disgusted judge rose up and said, "I discharge the jury!"

At this one sensitive talesman, stung to the quick by this abrupt and ill sounding decision, obstinately faced the judge.

"You can't discharge me, judge," he retorted.

"Why not?" asked the astonished judge.

"Because," announced the talesman, pointing to the defendant's lawyer, "I'm being paid by that man there."—Lippincott's.

Women Want Anti-Cigarette Law.

Women who are members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, Mother's Club and like organizations, are obtaining signatures in all parts of the State to petitions which will be presented to the Legislature next month, asking the enactment of a law to prohibit the sale of cigarettes to boys. They declare that the cigarette habit is becoming alarmingly prevalent in public schools and that much harm is being done to children, morally and physically.

XMAS SUNDAY PROGRAMS

Elaborate Music and Special Sermons in Protestant Churches Tomorrow.

SUNDAY - SCHOOL EXERCISES.

Roman Catholics and Protestant Episcopal Churches Observe the Feast On Christmas Day.

In most all the Protestant churches tomorrow, Christmas will be observed, special programs of music having been arranged for the services at morning and night. In many of the Sunday-schools, there will also be appropriate exercises. At the two Catholic and Episcopal edifices the feast will be observed on the regular day, Wednesday.

Following are some of the programs:

First Presbyterian Church.

Special musical services will be held both morning and night at the First Presbyterian church, under the direction of Clifford A. Braider, organist. There will be solos by members of the quartet choir, Miss Anna Lucretia Case, soprano; Miss Pessamine Burd, contralto; E. Maxwell Honeyman, tenor, and Ferdinand C. Iglehart, Jr., bass. The musical numbers for the morning service will be as follows:

"And He Shall Reign," Simper; "Star of the Orient," Shelley, "Arise, Shine for Thy Light," Stephenson. In the evening these numbers will be given: "O Little Town of Bethlehem," Nevin; "O Babe Divine," Dressler; "Angels from the Realms of Glory," Schnecker; "Arise, Shine for Thy Light," Reed.

The pastor, Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, will preach appropriate sermons at both services and in the afternoon the Sunday-school will take part in an appropriate program of recitations and singing.

First Baptist Church.

The quartet and chorus choir of the First Baptist church under the direction of Howard M. Case, organist, will render a special program of Christmas music at the morning service, assisted by Miss Florence Wohlfert, violinist. The numbers will be as follows:

Prelude, "Andante," for violin and organ; Vieuxtemps; anthem, Sing, O Heavens," Maunder; carol, "Bethlehem Land," Fitzhugh; anthem, "Nazareth," Gounod; anthem, "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," Bartlett; anthem, "A Legend," Tschaikowsky; offertory, "Joyously Peal," Coombs; postlude, "Minuet," Boellman. At this service the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, will preach an appropriate sermon.

The Sunday-school service will be held in the afternoon, when an attractive program will be given by the school and the choir. Miss Florence Wohlfert and William Dorr will assist with violins, Mr. Case will be at the organ and Miss Jessie Utter at the piano. The program follows:

Prelude, "Serenad," violins and piano, Gounod; carol, 'God Rest You, Merry Gentlemen," school; invocation, "Lord's Prayer;" welcome address, Lawrence French; "The Christmas Story," Junior Department; anthem, "Joyously Peal, Ye Bells," Coombs, school; address, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss; "Heralds of the Christ," Junior girls; song, "The Christ Child," primary department; "The Adoration of the Wise Men," Eleanor Browning; carol, "Angels We Have Heard on High," school; recitation, "What Does Christmas Mean to You," Elmer French; offertory, "Romance," Rubenstein, violins and piano; Christmas offering for The Day Nursery; song, "Four Girls," Junior department; song, "Three Girls," Junior department; carol, "Tell It Once Again," school; benediction, postlude. According to the usual custom there will be no evening service at the church.

Grace M. E. Church.

Rev. H. A. Starts, of Montclair, will occupy the pulpit at Grace M. E. church, tomorrow morning and evening and the c horus choir will render Christmas anthems at both services. At 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon the Sunday-school will present a special program of recitations, carols, with an address by Mr. Starts. This program is in charge of Miss Edith Major and Miss Florence Smalley.

Warren Chapel.

The chorus choir at Warren chapel will render Christmas anthems and solos at both the morning and evening services and the pastor, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, will preach Christmas sermons. In the afternoon the Sunday-school will join with the school of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church in a union Christmas service.

Monroe Avenue M. E. Church.

The Sunday-school of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church will unite with the church in a special Christmas

NEW YEAR'S DANCE PLANS

Electrical Effects to Be a Feature at Society Gathering at the Casino.

ON TUESDAY NIGHT, DEC. 31.

Mrs. Charles A. Reed, Lewis G. Timpson and Henry L. Hall General Committee.

Plans are now complete for the "New Year's Eve Dance and Jollification," to be given by society of Plainfield and North Plainfield at the Casino on Tuesday night, December 31. The committee of arrangements comprise Mrs. Charles Arthur Reed, Lewis G. Timpson and Henry L. Hall and others assisting include Mayor Charles J. Fisk, W. L. Lockwood, E. E. Iremonger, Joseph M. Shellabarger, Wallace W. Coriell, Lewis E. Waring and J. Hartley Mellick.

It will be a subscription dance and the committee has planned to introduce several novel features. The electrical and decorative effects will be unusual, especially to be used in ushering in the New Year. Austin's orchestra will furnish the music for dancing and Brown's Metropolitan Quartet, favorably known here, will give specialities between the dance numbers. Demolli, of this city, will cater.

A large number of invitations have been issued and it is expected that the affair will be attended by many out-o-town guests as well as the society people of the city and the borough.

For those who do not care to dance a portion of the Casino will be reserved for those who desire to play bridge whist.

INDUSTRIAL HOME'S APPEAL TO CITIZENS

The Industrial Home, a branch of the Salvation Army, makes an appeal through its superintendent, Captain W. S. Greenaway, for such articles and waste material which can be used in its work of helping the poorer class. Paper sorting is one of the chief sources of industry at the Home, and according to Captain Greenaway a man doesn't need to be a skilled workman for that work. It gives temporary employment to many a man, regardless of creed.

Captain Greenaway in speaking of this work says:

"And what about the waste human material? O, yes, it is, alas for the wasted lives—wasted hopes, and ambitions and opportunities. They drift in, men who once filled high positions; doctors, lawyers, physicians, engineers, every class and profession, as well as the workingman, and habitual tramp and 'won t works,' but our motto is if a man will not work, neither shall be eat."

Attached to the Home is a cheap clothing store, where the poor may get clothing at a nominal sum. By paying something for the clothing it pleases the men and helps them to maintain their self-respect. There are at present ten men in the Home in this city and should any friend be disposed to send a donation along Captain Greenaway will appreciate it and he says that it will go a long way in making some of the poor people believe that the world is not so cold towards fallen humanity after all. The Home is located at 409 East Third street. Telephone number 663-R.

Weather Conditions Poor for Chase.

The recent bad weather together with the poor condition of the ground has put a damper on the members of the Watchung Hunt Club. Last Saturday owing to the storm no chase was held and unless the weather is favorable the riders will not go out today. The club is particularly anxious to refrain from injuring in any way the property of farmers through which it hunts and for that reason will take no chances.

Will Dance Old Year Out.

Society people of the city and borough will hold a dance New Year's Eve at the Casino, and those in charge are planning to make it one of the social functions of the season. The guests will dance the old year out and New Year in and it is expected that several novel features will be introduced.

Daniel T. Beddoe to Sing Here.

Daniel T. Beddoe, tenor, will be the assisting artist at Joseph McIntyre's third Chamber Music Concert to be given at the Casino on January 9. He is well known in musical circles in New York and vicinity and will add interest and pleasure to these popular concerts.

Miss Anna Case, of East Front street, has returned from a visit with Somerville friends.

ELECTION'S PAY IS $30

Decision in Hudson County Will not Effect Officers in Union.

SO SAYS THE COUNTY CLERK.

Unless Supreme Court Confirms Jersey City Judge's Ruling, No Action Will Be Taken Here.

All election officers in the county will be interested in the decision given by Judge Carrick in the First District Court of Jersey City, as told in The Daily Press yesterday, that they are entitled to $30 for their services on primary, registry and election days, but it won't be of any benefit to the Union county officers, this year at least, unless the case is appealed and the decision upheld by the Supreme Court. The decision of a district court judge is not considered of sufficient weight to warrant giving the election officers $5 additional.

An election officer in Jersey City, dissatisfied with the edict of the Hudson county counsel to the effect that the officers were entitled to but $25—the same decision arrived at in every county where the question has been taken up—brought the matter before the District Court there through Tumulty and Cutley, in a suit for $30. Assemblyman Joseph Tumulty argued that primary was an election day, and that as the law said the compensation for election day should be $10, the officers were entitled to $30. Judge Carrick took the same view and rendered judgment in favor of the complainant.

County Collector Leavitt said yesterday that he wasn't inclined to agree with the District Court judge's verdict, but said that if it should be upheld by the Supreme Court the Union county officials would certainly be paid an additional $5 each. He declared, however, that the Board of Freeholders would hardly feel justified in making the increase if there was no decision by a higher tribunal than the District Court.

Under the opinion given by the County Attorney and accepted by the County Board of Freeholders, primary day was regarded as a registry day and not an election day. The law passed on April 15, 1903, practically repealing the law passed the day previous, and under which payments have erroneously been made in the last four years, says the officers shall be paid $5 for each registration day and $10 for each election day. In the opinion of every county counsel in the State who has passed on the question, primary day was only a registration day. This is the only point for dispute.

County Collector Leavitt explained that the law making the compensation $30, passed on April 14, 1903, had been framed in conjunction with the establishment of primary day to avoid any confusion and eliminate the possibility of double payments by city and county, and that there had been no intention apparently to raise the compensation to $30. This appeared obvious, he said, in the passage the very next day of a law making the compensation the $25 it had always been. The whole confusion was caused by the printing of the repealed, instead of the new law in the pamphlets distributed to the election officers throughout the State.

DEMOCRATS SELECT COUNTY COMMITTEEMEN

Democrats from all wards of the city assembled in the parlors of the Kensington Hotel, last night, for the purpose of holding primaries and electing members of the county committee from the local districts. The gathering was called to order by Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., chairman of the city committee and although the attendance was quite large there was no opposition to any of the names proposed.

The following were elected: First ward, First district, John A. Staats; Second district, Richard Curran; Second ward, first district, C. A. Sturtevant; Second district, J. V. F. Dilts; Third ward, First district, Thomas Newman; Second district, Frank J. Shattle; Fourth ward, First district, Daniel Galbraith; Second district, Patrick J. Reville; Third district, Adam Newman.

In all the other election districts in the county, similar primaries were held last night and at some of them the contests were quite lively.

Organ Recital Numbers.

These numbers will be rendered at the organ recital at Grace church at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon by W. E. MacClymont, organist: "Holy Night," Buck; "Variations on an Ancient Christmas Carol," Dethier; carol, "Good King," Wenceslass.

DELIVERY WAGON STRIKES RUNABOUT; ONE MAN HURT

A big delivery wagon belonging to a New York firm ran into a runabout owned and driven by Leslie M. Cobbs, the East Fifth street tailor, on South avenue, opposite the Keely Coal Company's yard at 7:30 last night. Cobbs was sharing his seat with Douglas Hall, steward of the Westfifield Golf Club, and the collision hurled both men to the roadway. Hall was rendered unconscious by the fall and by the time Cobbs recovered sufficiently the delivery wagon had disappeared in the direction of Westfield.

A witness of the accident telephoned the police and the ambulance was sent out. It conveyed Hall to Muhlenberg Hospital, but after he had been attended to he refused to remain and was taken to his place of employment. He sustained a couple of ugly cuts on the head and a severe shaking up.

As soon as Chief Kiely was informed of the accident he sent Patrolman McCarthy on a hunt after the New York vehicle and the chase led him to Westfield. There he located a wagon answering Cobb's description that had patches of paint and lettering scraped off the side. He secured the help of the Westfield police in placing the man under arrest and he was subsequently released until today. Cobb's rig was badly wrecked and his horse needed a veterinary's attention.

CITY FATHERS MAY SELECT ASSESSOR

Mayor Charles J. Fisk will give no intimation of whom he will appoint on Jennary 1 as assessor in the Second ward and it is the belief that he has not yet made up his mind in the matter. In response to his request for the Republican City Committee's recommendation, that body took a plant and has forwarded him the result without any comment. John H. Doane received five votes; Lewis G. Timpson, four, and Charles H. Hand, the present incumbent, two. This ballot by no means can be taken to infer, it is said, that Doane will be the successful candidates.

All three candidates' claims are being weighed by the mayor and when the choice is thrown into the Common Council, as it probably will be, it is expected that there will be some lively debating. Hand's friends say that if the result is left to the city fathers, there is no question about his winning out. The same claim is made by Timpson's friends.

Among the Second ward members of the City Committee, Timpson is the favorite. His name was presented by R. Henry Depew, president of the People's Lobby of New Jersey and president of the Plainfield Portective Association. It received the support of Howard Tracy, chairman of the New Idea Central Committee, and all other Colbyite members from the ward. Contrary to general report, Mr. Timpson is not a Democrat. His friends say that he has been voting the Republican ticket for several years and that his claims in that respect are equally as good as his competitors.

MR. M'CUTCHEN TALKS ON "THE RIVER NILE"

Before a large and appreciative audience, Charles W. McCutchen gave his illustrated lecture, "Personal Sights on the River Nile," at the Y. M. C. A., last night, for the benefit of Faith chapel building fund. More than one hundred fine views were displayed by Mr. McCutchen and his lecture proved to be exceedingly interesting and instructive. Mr. McCutchen and his family traveled over a thousand miles along the River Nile and his description of that famous waterway was delightful.

Seventeen servants were employed by Mr. McCutchen for the trip and he related many amusing incidents about the natives and their characteristics. The speaker also gave many interesting statistics about the country through which he traveled and because of his own personal knowledge on the subject proved valuable to students of history. The lantern was operated by Aaron M. Higgins in a satisfactory manner and altogether the affair was one of much enjoyment. The profits for the Faith chapel building fund will be about $50. The original indebtedness of $2,000 has now been reduced to about $200.

ANGLEMAN WOULD ACCEPT

Republican City Chairman Says He Would not Make Contest for Prosecutorship.

IN HANDS OF HIS FRIENDS.

Fight Becoming More Interesting but It Is Quite Certain That Swift and Hetfield, Jr., Will Win.

In the event of a dead-lock over the Union county prosecutorship, Republican City Chairman Winfield S. Angleman will become a candidate for the position according to statements made by his friends today. The contest is becoming warmer every day, although it is taken as a pretty sure thing that District Court Judge C. Addison Swift is "high man" for the place. Friends of Assistant Prosecutor John K. English, however, are making big claims and appear to feel sanguine that he will land the prize which is to be handed out by Governor-elect J. Franklin Fort sometime in March.

Mr. Angleman, himsel, denies that he is a candidate for the position, but he admits that he would accept the honor were the Governor to confer it upon him. He has the reputation of being one of the most skillful cross-examiners in this section of the State and is blessed with a ripe experience at the bar. No one will gainsay the fact that he is eminently qualified for the place, his friends argue, and the powers that be could go further and do worse when deciding upon an efficient candidate.

Mr. Swift will probably be appointed and if he is, it is not denied that he will make a capable prosecutor. If his selection comes about, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., another worthy man, will be the assistant. The nomniation of Mr. Angleman for first place would mean on the other hand that an Elizabethan would probably get second place.

When asked this morning whether he was a candidate, Mr. Angleman said: "I am not seeking the office, but should the honor come my way, I would accept the position. I am in the hands of my friends. If I am wanted all right, but if not I do not intend to make an effort to land the job."

Former Governor Foster Voorhees yesterday denied that he was a candidate for the place.

PROSECUTOR ASKED TO FIGHT RAPP LICENSE

Prosecutor Berdine yesterday appeared before Judge Booraem at New Brunswick and said that he had been asked by a member of the grand jury to oppose the granting of a renewal of the license of William Rapp, of Lincoln. Mr. Berdine said he appeared entirely in his capacity of a public official.

"The statement is made," Mr. Berdine said, "that there are chicken fights and sparring matches at the place. I would like to have the matter laid over until I can get further information."

"I do not object to a delay," said Peter F. Daly, who represented the application. "But I think the objections should be put in some kind of form so that we will know what we have to meet. There is a remonstrance here, but I see no one here representing the remonsrtators."

Judge Booraem read the remonstrance, which asserts that liquor is sold to drunken men at the Rapp place, that there is fighting and disorderly conduct there, and that liquor is sold on Sunday. The judge said the court could not but take cognizance of any statements made by the prosecutor, but that if anything came up that was not anticipated by the applicant, ample time would be given him to prepare his defense. The matter was laid over until January 3.

Mrs. Abram Gulick, whom it was stated would oppose the application on the ground that Rapp sold her husband liquor, was not represented in court this morning.

Heptasophs Elect Officers.

Protective Conclave, Improved Order Heptasophs, elected the following officers for the ensuing year, Thursday night: Archon, H. G. Uhler; provost, A. H. Vanderhoef; prelate, John Green; secretary, V. W. Nash, treasurer, E. M. Laing; financier, M Armstrong; inspector, E. L. VanCampen; warder, J. P. Laire; sentinel, R. H. Barnard; trustees, R. H. Barnard, H. G. Uhler and E. L. VanCampen. A smoker was held after the meeting.

"LANKY BOB" MUCH MIXED

Fitzsimmons Appeals to Chief Kiely to Protect His Property at Dunellen.

OUT OF CHIEF'S JURISDICTION.

Pugilist Seeks Plainfield's Police Aid to Drive Amateur Hunters from His Estate in Another County.

Just previous to starting for Hamilton, Ont., where he and Mrs. Fitzsimmons begin a two weeks vaudeville engagement next Monday, Pugilist "Bob" Fitzsimmons appeared at police headquarters this morning and appealed to Chief Kiely to protect his Dunellen farm while he was away. The lanky fellow made it plain that he wasn't afraid that burglars would busy themselves in the house or that someone would carry off the place in the night, but that amateur hunters was what he stood in fear of.

"I say, chief, it's awful the way those fellows have run over my place," was the way the former world's champion expressed himself. "They've shot nearly all my chickens and guinea hens and I came down here to see you before they riddled the children and a couple of ponies that run about the farm. It's as much as your life is worth to look outside the house when these would-be hunters are around and I was afraid if I didn't do something I wouldn't have any place left when I came back."

Dunellen is out of Chief Kiely's jurisdiction but he promised "Bob" that he would inform the proper authorities to stop the trespassing on his farm. The good-natured fighter has never fully acquainted himself with the boundary line between Plainfield and its suburb and when at any time he needs assistance of an official sort he comes direct to this city.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS FIRST ANNUAL RECEPTION

One of the most successful and enjoyable social events of the season was the first reception and dance given at the Casino last night under the auspices of Plainfield Council, No. 402, United Commercial Travelers. The affair was largely attended by the members, their wives and friends. Features of the program were the vocal selections by John U. Salkeld, of New York, a brother of Mrs. Frank W. Weed, of the borough, and the dramatic recitations by William J. Anderson, also of New York. These numbers were given between the dances and the artists were well received.

The program for the dances was pronounced one of the best, and the music by Charles M. Suhr's Imperial Orchestra of ten pieces, was delightful. A majority of the numbers were encored and the orchestra generously responded. The committee in charge of the affair comprised Frank W. Weed, chairman; J. A. G. Pike, H. J. Percy, J. M. Lewin, C. A. Sturtevant and James C. Field. The first reception was so successful that it has been decided to give similar ones during the winter.

Acquires More Business Property.

David T. Kenney, of Rockview avenue, the borough, has purchased the Woolston & Buckle building on North avenue, formerly owned by Woolston & Buckle, and which is now occupied by a number of the city offices. The property adjoins other properties purchased by Mr. Kenney some time ago, and it extends back to Second street. It is expected that as soon as the present leases expire on the several one-story buildings owned by Mr. Kenney, he will improve the same and follow out his original plan of building an arcade from North avenue to Second street. The sale of the Woolston & Buckle building to Mr. Kenney was arranged by Charles L. Lyman, the real estate broker.

Younger Set to Dance.

The younger society set of the city will hold a dance at the Casino on Friday night, December 27. A number of out-of-town guests have been invited and it will also afford an opportunity for many who are home from college for the holidays to enjoy the affair.

"Twin Club" Entertained.

Mrs. Walter Apgar, of West Fourth street, entertained the "Twin Club" at her home last night. Mrs. W. Walker and Mrs. W. Lewis received the prizes in the games which were placed.

Mid-night Mass.

It is announced that the customary midnight mass will be held at St. Joseph's church, Christmas Eeve and Father Miller will be in charge.

YEAR'S BUSINESS CLOSED

Borough Council Balances Accounts and Receives Reports from Officials.

PRES. VANARSDALE PRESIDES.

Present Body Ceases to Exist On New Year's Day When Reorganization Takes Place.

A special meeting of the Borough Council was convened last night for the purpose of closing up all business for the past year, previous to the organization for 1908. In the absence of Mayor Newton B. Smalley, President Van Arsdale was in the chair.

The payment of claims and the reading of reports from the various officials occupied the greater part of the time. The principal one was submitted by Clerk Frank Rowley and gave the following figures: Total receipts for the year, $70,048; expenditures, general expenses, $9,830; police, $3,283; fire department, $3,368; water, $1,275; street department, $9,270; lighting, $5,111; poor, $1,200; Board of Education balance, $13,285; bills payable, $17,500; total expenditures for the year, $64,125; cash balance, $6,022.

The report of Recorder Charles Dolliver showed that during the year the police made 224 arrests and that the following disposition was made of the cases: Committed to county jail, 10; to the borough jail, 16; sentence suspended, 55; dismissed, 23; fined, 120. The total amount of fines collected was $437.50.

Chief Howard Woolston reported 19 fires during the year from these causes: Chimneys, 8; grass, 3; bonfires, 2; overturned stoves, 2; unknown, 1. In detailing his work of the year, Overseer-of-the-Poor Fred Becker stated that of his $1,200 appropriation he had spent $583 for rents and $214 for groceries. The report of the collector could not be prepared for presentation and it was voted that it should be embodied in the yearly borough booklet of which 500 copies were ordered printed for distribution. One hundred dollars was appropriated to bear the expense of auditing the borough accounts.

The councilmen who attended for the last time and who will cease to be members of the body were John H. Van Winkle, Jr., and Frank Krewson. The new members coming in are L. B. Woolston and Charles L. Nichols. The council will meet at noon on New Year's Day to reorganize.

Preached His Farewell Sermon.

Rev. George B. Shaw preached his last sermon as pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, this morning, before a large congregation. His discourse was appropriate not only to Christmastide, but also to the fact that he is to leave Plainfield and go to North Loup, Neb., next week. The service was a particularly impressive one, as the congregation regret Mr. Shaw's departure from the city. The choir of the church, under the direction of Miss Jessie Utter, organist, sang selections appropriate to Christmas time. This afternoon the Sabbath-school also enjoyed a Christmas service at which time Dr. Shaw made a short address.

Petition Filed for Divorce.

J. H. Crane, counsel for the petitioner, Mrs. May Grobes Henry, has filed a bill in the Court of Chancery in a suit for divorce from the petitioner's husband, Charles T. Henry, formerly of this city, but now of South Bound Brook. The parties are colored. The petition cites that the couple was married on March 23, 1896, but the wife states that she has not lived with her husband since August 15, 1907. According to the new law the final decree cannot be announced until six months after the report of the master in chancery.

Funeral of Railroad Victim.

The funeral of Charles Leonard, who was killed on the New Jersey Central tracks near Liberty street, Thursday night, was held at the home of his uncle, James Kennedy, of Liberty street, this afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. Phil. A. Parsons, of the Christian church, and was attended by a gathering of relatives and friends. Burial was made in Hillside cemetery, the pall bearers being James White, James Kennedy, George Zepp and Edward Laskell.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS.

Assemblyman Frank B. Potter, of Vineland, is wearing courtplaster on his face and nose and one arm in a sling, because of a fall in Philadelphia while hurrying to catch a train.

On a charge of malicious mischief preferred by Alfred Johnson, Christian Knoedler, of Broadway and Morris streets, Gloucester, was held in $300 bail by Justice of the Peace Rouh, in Camden, yesterday.

An indictment found yesterday by the Camden County Grand Jury was against Harry Charman, former collector of the Township of Centre, who is accused of embezzling $6,000 of the township's funds. Charman had held that place for many years.

The annual meeting of the Ancient Order Knights of Mystic Chain was held Wednesday night at Millville and the following officers were elected: Past Commander, Wm. Young; commander, William Angelo; vice-commander, Monroe Hand; marshal, Edward Sherry; chaplain, George Johnson; inside guard, Thomas Wood; outside guard, Harry Blanford; trustee, Matthias Christy.

Bitten in the face while caressing a pet bulldog, Mrs. Mary V. Price yesterday in the District Court at Atlantic City demanded of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garner $300 damages. Mr. and Mrs. Garner denied the ownership of the animal and further declared that the dog was nine months old, a general pet, and never had shown a vicious temper. The jury rendered a verdict for the plaintiff for $150.

Mayor Pierre Garven, of Bayonne, yesterday announced the appointment as members of the Board of Education of Charles E. Pickett, William H. Vreeland and Edwin S. Denise, all Republicans. The board will have a Republican majority on January 1 for the first time in many years. Mr. Vreeland is a present member, and Mr. Pickett was the Republican candidate for Congress in 1906.

Caught in the act of breaking into the Camden jail, Frank Miles, forty years old, was arrested by Policeman McClough and arraigned in the Camden Police Court yesterday. "I just wanted a night's lodging," pleaded Miles, "but don't want to be in jail over Christmas." After consulting the calendar Recorder Stackhouse sentenced the man to five days, warning him never again to make an attempt at breaking and entering, particularly at the county jail.

The Atlantic City police who received a tip on an expected feud battle in the Italian colony, arrested Pasqueloa Sangueance, who was prepared for the fray with two revolvers. Fellow countrymen, who saw the capture of their comrade, took to alleys and back fences and the fight was declared off. Sangueance, arraigned before Recorder Hayes, received ninety days in the county jail and a warning from the bench promised dire results should others be arrested in the present crusade of the police against carrying of deadly weapons.

Miss Lucy McAdorey, of Central avenue, has left for Pittsburg, where she will spend the Christmas holidays.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The Joseph M. Gaites Company will present Barry Kelly in the musical success, "His Honor the Mayor" at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight. The piece comes direct from its fifth New York engagement, where it has just closed a brief but very successful season at the New Circle theatre. The scenery, costumes and cast are identically the same as when seen on Broadway and includes Vivian Montgomery, Madelyn Marshall, Hugh Fay, Arthur Ernest, Bobby Barry, William W. Black, Louis Tabor, Florence Sinnott, Geo. Fox, John H. Pratt, Nellie De Grasse, Dan Evans, Harry Evans and Catherine Tanner.

One of the events of the season will be the return to our city of "Under Southern Skies," at the New Plainfield theatre Christmas day and night. This favorite attraction is always sure of a big house when visiting our city as its merits are well and favorably known and appreciated here. That our judgment is endorsed by the theatregoers of other cities is proved by the fact that "Under Southern Skies" is now in its seventh year upon the road and reports give the play the credit of playing to even larger houses this year than ever before in its history. The drama seems to possess a fascination that draws people to witness it again and again, hence the reason of its unbounded popularity, for it retains its old admirers from season to season and is constantly making new ones. The management has made strenuous efforts to keep up the standard of excellence set by the production in previous seasons. Every year something new has been offered in the Hallowe'en celebration to give novelty from season to season, and this year still carries out that policy. The arrangement of dances and the songs will be entirely different from those of last season. Also every bit of scenery used in the play is entirely new and new costumes have been provided.

The story of the "Ninety and Nine," which will play at the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday afternoon and night, while not a new one to stagedom, has been treated so cleverly by the author, Ramsay Morris, that it has developed into a stage offering of more than usual merit. Tom Singleton, a falsely accused man, in the moment of his inability to establish his innocence, turns to drink and sinking lower and lower in the moral scale, he is arrested in his downward flight by the hand of a woman, a woman touched by the most beautiful of all human motives, —love—and answers the call nobly at the crucial moment, when the villain of the play, though his private car and engine stand ready to move, refuses to allow his driver to run to the succor of a village of a few hundred souls, who are caught by a raging prairie fire and cut off from all hope of rescue, thrusting aside the owner and his tools, the hero leaps upon the engine and throwing wide open the throttle, commences his mad dash through a sea of fire. The fire demon leaping up the sides of the huge engine, in the endeavor to lick the grimed faced man at the lever, whose eyes are fixed on the smoke enveloped tracks ahead while his faithful fireman stands dashing water over him to prevent him fainting at his self-imposed task, makes a thrilling picture and is one of the most realistic of stage productions.

RIPARIAN GRANTS TO AWAIT INAUGURATION.

Judge J. Franklin Fort, Governor-elect of New Jersey, paid a visit to the State House yesterday at Trenton, and while there met with the Board of Riparian Commissioners. Incidentally, he let it be known that he intends to be Governor in fact, as well as in name. And the riparian commissioners took action which shows that they and other State departments will not offer any resistance to the plans of the new executive. This was shown by the fact that the board decided to lay over, until he is inaugurated, all applications for grants and leases, as he recently advised.

Further than that, Judge Fort gave proof to his recent declaration that he would not talk politics, nor discuss his appointments, until he had taken up the reins of government and fully decided on the course he would pursue.

Judge Fort was accompanied to the meeting of the riparian commissioners by Governor Stokes and by Henry T. Gaullett, of Trenton, the new member of the board. The board received a number of applications for grants, including one from John Zurburgg, president of the Keystone Watch Case Company, for 4,000 feet along the Delaware river, at Riverside, but all were laid over. The board decided to ask the attorney general for an opinion relative to its relation to the oyster commissions in charge of south Jersey waters.

—Prentice Minton, of Red Bank, has been engaged by L. W. Randolph, the West Front street druggist, as a clerk to take the place of Robert Schreiner, who, on January 1, will form a partnership with his brother, Berthold Schreiner, in the drug business at Park avenue and Second street. Mr. Minton is an experienced pharmacist and comes to Plainfield with the highest recommendations.

ONE WEAK SPOT.

Most Plainfield People Have a Weak Part And Too Often It's the Back.

Everyone has a weak spot.
Too often it's a bad back.
Twinges follow every sudden twist.
Dull aching keeps up, day and night.
Tells you the k idneys need help—
For backache is really kidney-ache.
A kidney cure is what you need.
Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys.
Plainfield people recommend the remedy.

Mrs. J. C. Manchester, of 120 Lafayette place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I was a sufferer from kidney and bladder troubles for a long time, and doctored with physicians for same, each time without being cured. In July, 1905, I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and made up my mind to get a box at Randolph's drug store and give them a trial. I did so, and with good results, as they regulated the kidneys and got the bladder into a proper condition. If this cure proves to be a permanent one, as I have every reason to believe it will, I will always recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

MOTHER-IN-LAW BLAMED BY A YOUNG SUICIDE.

Earl B. Heintzelman, 23 years old, committed suicide yesterday at Jersey City because, as he said, his mother-in-law had separated him from his wife and child. After writing the following note to his wife, he swallowed carbolic acid:

"Dear Lizzie—As your mother drove me away from you and our child I do not care to live any longer. I tried to go away, but could not bear it, so I will end it all. Your loving husband.

"EARL B. HEINTZELMAN."

"P. S.—Please notify my father at Beaver, Beaver county, Pa."

Heintzelman drank the poison in the presence of fifty persons waiting for trains in the Claremont avenue station of the Newark and New York Railroad in Newark.

The dead man had been separated from his wife and young daughter for several months. They lived with Mrs. Heintzelman's mother and father at 272 Grant avenue, and he boarded at a house in lower Grand street. When the body was removed to Highes' morgue the letter was found in one of his pockets.

Mrs. Heintzelman viewed the body soon after it was received at the morgue, and swooned. She refused to discuss her domestic troubles and left the morgue after making arrangements to have the body removed to the home of the dead man's father in Pennsylvania.

It is said that Heintzleman went to visit his wife and child Wednesday evening and was denied the privilege of seeing them by the irate mother-in-law.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

BASEBALL.

It is now practically certain that the Bronx will be represented with a team in the newly organized Union Baseball League. Persons locally interested in the new outlaw organization yesterday obtained a lease on Bronx Oval, which grounds were formerly occupied by the semi-professional Cedar A. C. team. Prominent politicians are said to be interested financially in the new club. By securing these grounds it is thought that the outlaws will not be interfered with in playing Sunday ball, as no antagonism was displayed by the authorities against the Cedars.

Fred Paige, one of the organizers of the new Union Baseball League, was in Washington yesterday looking for grounds. Available sites for such purposes are extremely few there, but Paige has in view one or two on which he could get a lease for a short term of years. President Noyes, of the Washington American League team, professed to take no interest in the movement of Paige or his league. Semi-professional and amateur baseball has made astonishing strides in Washington in the past few years, largely because of the constant weakness of its professional team. And there are many competent critics there who think the Union League scheme might be made to pay in Washington with a winner.

Tim Flood, who was exiled from the Eastern League last season for his assault on Umpire Conway in Toronto, is talked of as the possible manager for St. Paul next season.

Pitcher Lew Wiltse left Plainfield yesterday for Palm Beach, Fla., where he will play in the Hotel League during the winter months. Jimmy Murray, of Buffalo, will also play on a team in the same league.

"Home Run" Buck Freeman kept up his reputation as a slugger in Minneapolis last season. His record in long-distance hitting was eighteen home runs, ten three-baggers and thirty-eight two-baggers.

Jack Phelan, outfielder of Providence, has been engaged as coach for the University of Maine basketball team.

Manager Duffy, of Providence, has purchased Hugh Bradley, first baseman, and Eddie Russell, left fielder, of last year's Worcester team. Both players are good stickers. Bradley hit at a .284 clip last season and Russell .314.

The Toronto club has sold Roy Toren, pitcher, to the Little Rock Club.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Athletic relations between Dartmouth and Williams, which have been suspended for about a year, were resumed this week. A letter received from the secretary of the Dartmouth Athletic Council at Williams proposing the resumption of the former relations was answered in the same spirit by the Williams Athletic Council, and as a result the two colleges will probably meet next fall in football.

Relations were severed a year ago by order of the Dartmouth Athletic Council, after a basketball game which was held in the Williams gymnasium. Differences arose at that time between players on the floor in which blows were said to have been exchanged, and after an investigation Dartmouth declined to continue athletic contests with Williams. In the letter from the secretary of the Dartmouth council regret is expressed that owing to a misunderstanding the Dartmouth council acted in this matter alone, rather than in conjunction with the Williams council.

As the baseball and basketball schedules of both colleges are already filled, it is not likely that there will be any games between them in these branches of sport during the present college year.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church held a Christmas service last night. Mrs. Charles F. Dayton was the leader.

Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, addressed the Junior Epworth League in Vincent chapel, yesterday afternoon, on a Christmas topic.

A Christmas cantata, "The King of Kings," will be given at the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow afternoon by the Sunday-school. The Sunday-school orchestra will assist.

Special Christmas services will be held at the First M. E. church tomorrow morning and night with anthems by the vested choir. In the morning the pastor, Rev. A. C. McCrea, will preach on the topic, "The Story of the Star," and the subject of the evening discourse will be "The Message of the Manger."

The primary department of the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school will hold a Christmas party in the Sunday-school room Tuesday afternoon, December 31, to which all the parents and friends will be invited. Miss Elmira Runyon will have charge. The children held a rehearsal for the affair this afternoon.

Plainfield, N. J., December 21, 1907.

Now it is up to the space fillers to find suitable employment for Mr. Roosevelt on his retirement from the Presidency.

The next President of the State Senate will be no figurehead. "Tom" Hillery will be on the job every minute and woe unto the lawmaker who imagines to the contrary.

One can not help admiring the courage of the Newark Star when it declares that Taft is the choice of New Jersey. It is "convinced," so who will deny it the happy dream.

It is pleasant to note the frequency of other municipalities emulating the example set by Plainfield some few years ago in raising the liquor license fee. Even the Bishops' law, itself, is largely patterned after our own ordinance, which antedated it considerably.

In view of the efficient manner in which he discharged the duties on a previous occasion, it is hardily necessary to say that Ralph I. Tolles will make an excellent record as president of the Common Council. His reputation for being "on the square" insures that fact.

The Christmas number of the West field Standard is a credit to that progressive town as well as a sample of what a bright and hustling young editor can do. Robert V. Hoffman, who began his newspaper career as a member of The Daily Press reportorial staff, is to be congratulated on the success he has attained for his paper during the brief period in which he has been in charge.

PERSONAL.

Miss Dora Leis, of Raritan, who has been visiting relatives here during the past week, has returned home.

Mrs. H. D. Dilts and Miss Ruth Elliott, of Raritan, have been spending several days with friends in Plainfield.

Ernest Higgins, of Liberty street, has returned from a visit with his grandfather, C. B. Stout, at Centerville, Hunterdon county.

Lester Matthews, of Somerset street, who has been detained home since October with blood poisoning, was able to be out yesterday for the first.

H. W. Marshall, president of the Board of Trade, who has been detained at his home during the past week with the grip, hopes to be out today. His daughter, Miss Reba Marshall, who has been ill for nearly two weeks with tonsilitis, is much improved.

MONO FIELD CLUB NOW A SOCIAL ORGANIZATION.

The Mono Field Club, which made a name for itself by conducting a winning baseball team during the summer, has decided to continue permanently as a social organization with athletics as a feature. The former Trades Union Hall on West Front street has been secured as a home and the rooms have been handsomely fitted up. The membership numbers thirty-five and new names are being added at every meeting. Early in January the club will conduct a social and dance, being the first of a series to take place during the winter months.

At a meeting of the club this week the following officers were elected: President, James Conway; vice president, Hugh Ricketts; recording secretary, Burlin Banks; financial secretary, Herbert Conover; treasurer, Hanford Moffett; sergeant-at-arms, Frank Emmons.

—Alex. Lusardi, 211 West Front street, has a large display of oranges, figs, dates, apples, Malaga grapes, mixed nuts and candy. Call and see him before you make your purchase. **

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Manager George Frentz will attend the meeting of the Inter-city Baseball League to be held in the Y. M. C. A. tonight. Scotch Plains expects to enter the race next season with an even stronger team than last season.

The Christmas exercises of the Methodist Sunday-school will be held in the church tomorrow night. Monday afternoon the younger members will enjoy refreshments and the Christmas tree.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be held at the usual hours: Sunday-school, 9:30 a. m.; morning preaching, 10:45; B. Y. P. U., 7:15; evening sermon at 8 o'clock.

Rev. William R. Mulford, rector of All Saints' church, has returned from a visit with friends in Connecticut.

The Township Committee met last night in the town rooms. Only the regular routine work was transacted.

The Baptist Sunday-school Christmas exercises will be held Monday night in the church.

"His Honor the Mayor" is the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tonight.

Briant Johnston is convalescent from a severe attack of the grip.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The officers of the South Plainfield Baptist Sunday-school have arranged to give an old fashioned children's party for the pupils and their friends on Friday night, Dec. 27, in Washington Hall at that place. The idea originated in the common difficulty of finding a program which would interest all while giving but little work to any particular one. The entertainment will consist of games, contests, Christmas tree, the visit of Santa Claus, and the events will be varied by songs and instrumental music.

The subject for tomorrow morning at the Baptist church will be, "My Soul Doth Magnify the Lord." In the evening the subject will be, "A Withered Hand." The pastor will preach. The topic of the Christian Endeavor meeting, to be led by Miss Emma Faulks, will be "The Magnificat."

Christmastide will be celebrated in the Baptist church at South Plainfield by a sacred musicale which will be rendered by a largely augmented choir on Sunday, Dec. 29. There will be no sermon nor address but music will occupy the entire evening.

Invitations have been issued for the Good Government Club dance to be given in Washington Hall New Year's Eve.

Mrs. Alfred Springer, of Lakeside avenue, is again threatened with typhoid fever from which she suffered a year ago.

Robert Horn, of Lehigh avenue, has been superintendenting improvements to his property in Metuchen.

Mrs. Sturges and her niece, May Pyatt, of Clinton avenue, spent yesterday with friends in Newark.

A Windy Pair.

What a shouting ticket that would be if the suggestion of the Plainfield Press should be accepted that James E. Martine be nominated at Denver on the ticket with William J. Bryan. The "Boy Orator" and the "Farmer Orator" would certainly create a breeze that would stir up the atmosphere both East and West, even if it didn't turn into a cyclone and sweep the country.—Newark Evening News.

Grangers Elect.

The Union County Board of Agriculture has chosen these officers: President, Edwin R. Collins; vice-president, Emerson P. Beebe; secretary, Charles H. Brewer; treasurer, Ogden Woodruff; directors, Gideon E. Ludlow, David T. Magie and Frank E. Woodruff.

service in the morning, at which time members of the school will take part in recitations and the singing of anthems and carols. The choir will also render special music and the pastor, Rev. E. E. Roberson, will preach a Christmas sermon. In the evening Mr. Roberson will preach an appropriate sermon and the choir will sing anothems.

Congregational Church.

The choir of the Congregational church will present a special program tomorrow morning, assisted by W. Paulding DeNike, 'cellist. Mrs. B. T. Barnes, organist, will be in charge. The numbers will be as follows:

'Cello solo, "Evening Serenade," Hartel, W. Paulding DeNike; anthem, "There Were Shepherds," W. R. Spencer; 'cello solo, "Le Cygne," Saint-Saens; anthems, "Arise, Shine," Arthur Foote; alto solo, "O Little Town of Bethlehem;" 'cello solos, "Air," Bach; "Abendlied," Schumann. The subject of the morning discourse by the pastor, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, will be "With Micah As Guide."

At 12 o'clock noon the Sunday-school will enjoy its special program. There will be primary class exercises, a piano duet by Miss Martine Weeks and Miss Elizabeth Martin, together with instrumenttal numbers, organ, piano, 'cello and violin and the singing of carols.

Trinity Reformed Church.

On account of the illness of Miss Winifred Carroll, contralto, the regular Christmas musical service as planned for Trinity Reformed church tomorrow morning, has been postponed for one week. Mrs. Elias H. Bird has consented to take Miss Carroll's place and selections from the regular program as planned will include a "Te Deum," by Alzomora, and an soprano solo, "The Birthday of a King," Neidlinger, by Miss Etta Raybert. Other members of the quartet besides Mrs. Bird and Miss Raybert will be F. S. Cutter, basso, and E. D. Young, tenor. Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, acting pastor, will preach an appropriate sermon.

The Christmas exercises by the Sunday-school will be held in the evening as planned, comprising recitations, the singing of carols and an address by Dr. Johnson. There will be an orchestral accompaniment for the musical numbers. The special musical service, which was to have been given in the morning, will now be given on Sunday morning, December 29.

Presbyterian Sunday Schools.

According to the custom observed every year, the Sunday-schools of Hope, Warren and Bethel chapels will unite with the Crescent Avenue school for the Christmas exercises tomorrow. The pastors and school superintendents of each chapel will take part in the program and the address will be delivered by Dr. Zelie. The choir of the Crescent Avenue church will assist in the musical numbers.

Crescent Avenue Church.

The following musical programs have been arranged for the services in the Crescent Avenue church tomorrow:

Prelude, Pastoral Symphony, "The Messiah," Handel; anthem, "Sing, O Daughter of Zion," Gadsby; Te Deum Laudamus," Buck; response, "O Most Merciful;" offertory, "O Thou That Tellest Good Tidings," "The Messiah," Handel; postlude, "Hallelujah Chorus," Handel. Evening—Prelude, offertory of two Christmas hymns, Guilmant; anthem, "The Grace of God," Andrews; response, "Father of Heaven;" solo, "Holy Night," Wood; offertory, "Hymn of the Angels," West; Postlude, "Lift Up Your Heads," Handel. Dr. Zelie will occupy the pulpit morning and evening and will preach appropriate sermons.

First M. E. Church.

The vested choir of the First M. E. church, under the direction of J. Edmund Skiff, organist and choirmaster, will render special music morning and evening, and at both services the pastor, Rev. A. C. McCrea, will preach Christmas sermons. The musical service for the morning, comprising anthems and solos, will be as follows:

"The Heavens Are Telling," (creation,) Haydn; "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains," Spinney; offertory solo, "The Virgin's Slumber Song," Brewer, Miss Zimmerman. In the evening these number will be given:

"O Zion that Tellest," Buck; "The Birthday of a King," Neidlinger; solo, "The Christ Child," Coombs, Miss Bertha vanNuis Willis.

The Sunday-school will hold its Christmas exercises in the afternoon in Vincent chapel at the usual hour. The primary department, in charge of Mrs. Thomas MacDonald, will present this program:

Recitations, Gladys Sherwood; Harold Seal; vocal solo, Frank Rowley, Jr.; recitations, Cora Bender, Norman McGee; song, class; recitation, Violet Sutton; "Story of the Nativity," Edward Crone and Elton Greenleaf.

Under the direction of Mrs. Arthur E. Crone, superintendent, the recitations will be given by the following members of the Little Beginners' department:

Charlotte Skiff, Russell Lynn, Gertrude Joy, Roswell Ewart, Richard Snowden, Leonard Dennick, Lois Beekman, Harold Morcom, Alice Beekman, Helen Western, Janet Marchant, Elli Vail, Kenneth Devine, Margaret Dunavan, Margaret Evans and Bertha Starbuck.

Faith Chapel.

Christmas services will be held at Faith chapel morning and night, with sermons by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Musson. In the afternoon the Sunday-school will have a special program, comprising recitations, dialogues and the singing of carols.

Park Avenue Baptist Church.

In addition to the Christmas services at the Park Avenue Baptist church, morning and night, the Sunday-school will engage in an elaborate program in the afternoon, when a cantata entitled, "The King of Kings," will be given. About twenty-five members of the school will take part in the cantata, and they will be assisted by the church choir and orchestra. The pastor, Rev. A. E. Finn, will preach a Christmas sermon morning and evening. Miss Florence G. Hawkins is chairman of the committee in charge of the Sunday-school service.

SOCIAL CONDITIONS ON NEW YORK'S EAST SIDE

Under the auspices of the Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Rev. W. T. Elsing, of New York, gave an intensely interesting talk last night on "Social Conditions on the East Side of New York City." Mr. Elsing for a quarter of a century has been pastor of the DeWitt Memorial Presbyterian church on Rivington street, New York, in the heart of the lower East Side, and he has much valuable knowledge concerning social conditions there.

In addition Mr. Elsing is at the head of the city mission work in that part of New York and his talk last night was filled with pathetic and amusing incidents that have come to his notice during his long service. He presented a very cheerful view of social conditions in the lower East Side, stating that they are greatly improved over that of a few years ago. The speaker also referred to the improved condition of the tenement districts as well as the foreigners who are constantly locating there.

There was a peculiar interest in Mr. Elsing's visit because of the long friendship existing between him and Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the church. Dr. Zelie's first sermon was delivered in the presence of Mr. Elsing. The latter is a graduate of Princeton, Class '76. His work in New York has attracted wide attentoon in the part of all demoninations.

DON'T BE A CHINAMAN

That's What You are When You Patronize the Mail Order Houses.

NEIGHBORS TRADE AT HOME.

Some Remarks on "Industrial Neighborliness" Suggested by an Utterance of William Allen White.

One of the best known writers in the United States is William Allen White, and one of the most remarkable things about Mr. White is his loyalty to his own town. That town is Emporia, Kan. Mr. White got his start in Emporia, and Emporia is good enough for him. He steadfastly refuses to desert his home town and go to a large city. It is said that eastern magazine editors have offered him large salaries to go to New York and work for them, while newspaper editorial positions at enormous pay are said to be open to Mr. White in almost any big city. The young Kansan—he is now about forty—says "Get thee behind me, Satan," to all these tempters. He runs a paper in Emporia which he owns, and he would rather stay there and edit the Gazette than to be editor of the biggest metropolitan daily.

Mr. White has a theory that it is best for a human being to live in a small town, a city of a few thousand inhabitants. Of course he does not advocate life in a community where there are no modern conveniences. Every such community is striving, or ought to be striving, to grow up to such dimensions that it may enjoy all modern improvements. Emporia has grown up that far, and it suits Bill White. Every little while Mr. White prints in the Gazette something that seems to be handed out straight from the shoulder. Frequently it is a suggestion for town improvement or looking toward a plan for enabling the town to hold its own. Here is a recent utterance from his pen which is applicable to any town in America:

"The man who buys his goods of a mail order house and expects his neighbors in Emporia to buy goods of him or buy labor of him or to buy professional service of him is economically a leech. He is sucking industrial blood out of the town and gives none back. He sends his profits out of town like a Chinaman and has no more right to a standing in the community than a foreigner. We are all neighbors industrially in this town, and the man who sends away for his goods is not one of us. He is of another industrial system and deserves no man's support in Emporis."

Mr. White's allusion to the Chinaman is a happy one. It is recalled that one of the chief objections to the Chinaman's residence in this country when exclusion was being discussed was the fact that the pigtailed person spent very little money in the United States, but sent his earnings to China or took them back there with him when he finally returned to his native land. He came here not to be a citizen, but to make money off the Americans and carry the money away.

Citizens of towns like Emporia and of thousands of places either larger or smaller who do a considerable part of their retail buying by mail, sending their money to the big cities which have no interest in the smaller cities except to get their money and keep it, are unwittingly making Chinamen of themselves, practically speaking. Like Chinamen, they make their living in the community, getting their money from the other people,, and like Chinamen, they ship the money out instead of spending it at home so that it may get back into local trade.

"We are all neighbors industrially in this town," says Mr. White. That is as true as anything can be. There is such a thing as being a neighbor industrially as well as socially. It is all very well to greet your neighbors with a cheery "Good morning," but in the long run it is more neighborly to buy a bolt of calico from Neighbor Jones, a cured ham from Neighbor Johnson and a patent lamp from Neighbor Jenkins. These little attentions will make Neighbors Jones, Johnson and Jenkins feel much more neighborly, and they in turn will be more inclined to "neighbor" with you when you have anything to sell, be it professional services, town lots, hogs or hominy.

The interdependence of all the people in a community is what Mr. White intended to point out when he spoke of being neighbors industrially. If you send away for your goods you are "not one of us." Instead, you're a Chinaman. Most Chinamen in America send away to China to buy their food—the nuts and last year's birds' nests and other dainties fancied by the orientals. There is some excuse for the Chinaman buying these things in China, because he has become accustomed to them as articles of diet and they are not to be bought in the United States. But Americans eat and wear things grown and manufactured in America. These things are on sale at the local stores. When you send away for such things, though your money does not get outside the United States, you are sending to a foreign country so far as your own community is concerned, for the money won't come back.

William Allen White, who elects to live in a small city because he believes that human happiness is best conserved in small cities, strikes the keynote of the present crusade for home trade when he declares that a man who buys his goods away from home "is sucking industrial blood out of the town and gives none back." That is what it amounts to. Unless checked, the result must be industrial anaemia.

AMUSEMENTS.

Originality, novelty and surprise can always be found at Proctor's theatre, and go hand in hand with the many good things in the varieties which patrons expect, and which are furnished in every bill. For the week of December 23, a show composed almost entirely of new acts will be presented. Select your own headliners from the following: Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, always favorites in Newark, supported by a company of five people will present their great laughing success, an original farce in one act entitled, "Billy's Tombstones." William A. Dillon, the songsmith, will sing some of his latest compositions. Mlle. Agoust and company will appear in a brilliant juggling act. Curtis and Palmer will render their latest comedy songs and sayings. Conlon and Steele in a lively dancing specialty. De Chaunt and his clever dogs will amuse old and young. A new set of comedy motion pictures will also contribute to an excellent diversified entertainment.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

When you want to have your house painted or papered let Charles Conover & Co., of Elmwood Place, do the work. It will give entire satisfaction. The firm's line of wall-papers is exceptionally fine.

The H. E. Gayle Hardware Company offers its customary Christmas hints and a visit to the firm's store will convince you that here you can get hundreds of things suitable for gifts; articles of use that will be a lasting pleasure.

A suitable Christmas gift would be a suit of clothes or anything in the men's furnishing line, such as will be found at Weinberger's clothing store on West Front street. You will have the choice of a great many articles to select from and at reasonable prices.

By trading with Roth & Co., the East Front street butchers, you can always save money and at the same time you will get the very best meat, fish, game and poultry. Patronize this firm and you will never regret it. Every Friday you will find specials in the fish department that are money-savers.

NEW YORK IS MUSIC MAD.

"The Merry Widow" Scores an Unprecedented Hit at the Amsterdam Theatre.

Henry W. Savage's American production of "The Merry Widow," the reigning musical sensation of Europe, was given its New York premiere at the New Amsterdam theatre last Monday night, and was accorded the most enthusiastic reception in the musical stage history of America, by an enormous audience that jammed the big playhouse to the limit of its capacity.

Judging from the criticisms of the piece and the splendid welcome it was given, it is difficult to place a limit on the length of its forthcoming run in New York. Indeed, the advisability of putting on a second "The Merry Widow" company at another Broadway theatre is under serious consideration by Mr. Savage. Should the Yankee impresario decide to do this he would create a new record in the theatrical world, as two companies appearing in the same piece under the same management have never played simultaneously in the same city.

Among the artists, all of whom have scored in their respective parts, are Ethel Jackson, Donald Brian, R. E. Graham, Lois Ewell, William C. Weedon, Fred Frear, Walter C. Wilson, Charles eMakins, Harry Hyde, Margaret Dalrymple, F. J. McCarthy, Francis Cameron, Blanche Rice, Eva Bennett, Harry Meyers, Ralph Whiting, Gerald Lane, Nicholas Szabo, Aurora Platt, Pauline Winters, Marion Armstrong, Jean Ward, Clara Tichenor, Portia Belma, Bernice Harte and Sophie Witt.

The New Hosiery.

Ribbed hose of a mixture of wool and silk and listed among the dollar kind. The feet are finished with double silk thread, which gives warmth, yet not too much bulk. They can be purchased in white, black or gray. Seamless stockings which greatly resemble the "rosette" needlework formerly done by our grandmothers are made in a variety of yarn colors, and may be classed among the novelties.

CHAPTER XXVIII.
"Coward!"

I heard a clock in the village strike the hour. It was six. The chateau walls cast a long shadow on the opposite bank of the river. The mountains in the far distance were purple and red in the evening light. The long day was coming swiftly to an end; and the night was mysterious with its promise of despair.

This tower of the three rooms! Two of these rooms held their tragedies. What if the third room had its tragedy likewise!

I struck sharply the door of that room in which Madame de Varnier had said that Captain Forbes was imprisoned. I listened; there was no answer. I called the name of the king's messenger aloud; still there was no answer. Soon the moon would rise, and its cold rays might fall on the lifeless body of Forbes; for if all were well, why should there be this ominous quiet?

The suspense was unendurable. I listened at the door of the room that concealed the two women. I heard the murmer of voices. That reassured me so far as Helena's safety was concerned; but it made me absolutely certain that Captain Forbes must have heard my voice if he were living, and in that room.

And when the two women came out? I shrank from that coming with dread. I had told Helena to be brave, to ignore the evidence of her own sight. But I had been shaken in my own belief as to Sir Mortimer's innocence. Surely her faith would be greater than mine; but the evidence seemed so overwhelmingly against Sir Mortimer, if Sir Mortimer's letters and notes were genuine. At any rate the poison I loved must hold a bitter cup to her blanched lips; it must be emptied to the very dregs. Her suffering was inevitable, whether she believed her brother innocent or guilty.

I could not doubt that she would refuse to purchase the silence of Madame de Varnier at the cost of further dishonor, even though I were chiefly to bear that myself. But if she demanded that? Was I strong enough to resist her tears? I must be. My reason told me of the folly of Madame de Varnier's plan. But if I yielded weakly presently, and the ruse actually succeeded, I knew that the hypocrisy of the act would become more and more dreadful to Helena with the coming years. No; if in that supreme ecstacy of her agony she should entreat me, I must still refuse. I must decide for her, even though she thought my own cowardice responsible for that refusal.

Coward! How that word beat a devil's tattoo on my excited brain. It had been the keynote to all my suffering, and to all my joy. Willoughby had died uttering it; Helena had echoed it in thought; and Madame de Varnier had spoken it again and again in her fierce contempt during the past hour. Yes, it was the keynote of my suffering and my joy. It was the motif that obtruded again and again in the stormy music of these past hours. It was a baneful talisman, a watchword. Its letters seemed to have almost a magic potency. It was a countersign that opened for me the gates of paradise and hell.

A talisman! A watchword! A countersign! Suddenly I saw the word C-O-W-A-R-D written in flaming letters. They revolved furiously. They danced before my vision.

This was sheer madness—this impossible conjecture. I reasoned the unreasoning impulse to hope against hope. But the forlorn, desperate possibility fought obstinately for recognition. It held me with all the damning power of a hallucination.

And then suddenly it became a conviction. It was no longer an impossible hope, not even an intuition. It became an absolute belief, a certainty. And this was the reason for my belief:

Whenever Madame de Varnier had mentioned the safe she had called me coward.

C-O-W-A-R-D!

That was the combination of the safe.

CHAPTER XXIX.
I Open the Safe.

At last a door opened. Helena made her way toward me with uncertain steps, her hands held out before her, as one groping in the dark. Her splendid fearlessness was gone. She looked at me with the wild eyes of a wounded animal vainly seeking a way of escape. As she reached my side her hands were still held out as if for protection. I grasped them firmly, but I did not speak.

"It is true," she murmured. "It is true, and too horrible."

"Do not believe it," I said obstinately. "It is impossible."

"Can one deny a fact? Am I a child to be solaced with smooth words? I have seen; I must believe, though God knows the truth makes me wish a hundred times that I lay beside my poor disgraced brother."

It is always painful to see one whom we respect the prey of an emotion uncontrolled. It was doubly painful for me to see this strong woman, whose dominant quality was courage and calm, writhe under the blow that deprived her for the moment of all power to think coherently. I dared not tell her my belief that I held the combination of the safe, and that before many minutes were passed I might have the papers in my possession.

The woman who tortured us both stood at the threshold of the little room Helena had just left, a malevolent figure in her hour of triumph. As I looked toward her, tempted to expel her brutally from that room, and if my surmise was false, to force from her, even by violence, if necessary, the combination of the safe, she withdrew hastily, leaving Helena and myself alone. It was then that I feared the worst. She had appealed to Helena. She was confident of her success.

Still I held Helena's hands tightly in mine. I wished to give back to her her poise, her calm courage.

"Mr. Haddon," she whispered presently, "do you think—is it possible—to do this thing?"

"It is possible; but it would be the act of a madman and a liar," I said gently.

"You say it is possible." She withdrew her hands almost roughly. Her voice was monotonous and harsh. "Then you will save us, mother and myself, from this deep disgrace."

"There is no service that I would not do for you, Miss Brett, that would bring you peace and happiness—"

"Peace! Happiness!" she interrupted with fierce remonstrance. "I do not look for peace or happiness. Honor itself—and the motto of the Bretts is 'Honor, My Sword'—can no longer be our proud boast. But if silence can be purchased it must be. I dare not let my brother's name be held in reproach. I dare not, I cannot, for his mother's sake, let it be known that he has been false to England."

"We may yet save him if—"

"Yes," she broke in with a strange exultancy that was even more dreadful to me than her despair, "and it is you whom I have despised that is to save us. A life for a life—those were the words I said to you at Lucerne. Now it is to be dishonor for dishonor. I am asking you a terrible sacrifice. I am dragging you with me to the depths. But there is no other to help us. Say that you will."

"Your grief robs you of your reason," I said gently. "Escape is not to be found in that way. It is the last hope of a desperate and unscrupulous adventuress, who has herself little hope of success. It is her last card, and she will lose nothing by playing it. But we, you and I, we risk everything—"

"Ah, you refuse! You are afraid of the risks. I might have known you would be afraid. That woman said that it was hopeless to ask a service so heroic from one who was a proven — Oh, forgive me, I did not mean to say that."

"Miss Brett, I think there is no disgrace I would not gladly endure to help you. I swore to rescue your brother's honor if it were possible. If I could do so now, though I sacrificed myself, I tell you I would. More than that, though every instinct tells me that I should fail, I will do what you ask even now—

"Heaven bless you!" She cried brokenly.

"But first of all I want you to realize clearly just what you are asking. I want you to be quite sure that you are not adding dishonor to dishonor in asking me to do this thing. No; it is not that I am afraid. I have not that kind of fear. But I think that neither of us should be so cowardly as to yield to this woman's demands. In the oratory yonder lies your brother. Ask yourself, when you see him, if it is merely the merciful hand of death that has smoothed his forehead, or whether the calm and serenity is that of a man who held the motto of his house, 'Honor, My Sword.'"

This appeal was perhaps not wholly sincere. One cannot deny facts because one wishes to. It still seemed to me that it must be true that Sir Mortimer was proven guilty of taking bribes.

Nor did I dare tell Helena now of my wild conjecture. I dared not raise her hopes at the risk of a speedy disillusionment. Once the papers were in my possession, together we could defy Madame de Varnier. And if disappointment was to be mine I hoped that by the bier of her brother Helena would recover her courage and clear vision.

Again I was alone. But Madame de Varnier who had awaited the result of Helena's intercession, now came toward me. I saw with a thrill of thankfulness that the door of the room of the safe was not closed.

"You told me that it would be for her to decide," she said confidently. "I know that she has decided. And your own decision? Does your resolution falter?"

"You are mistaken." I began to pace the floor with rapid steps, advancing nearer and nearer to the room of the safe. "She has not yet decided. I believe with all my heart that she will refuse. She is in your oratory there. She will gain strength from the presence of the dead to defy you."

"Perhaps," sneered the woman. She seated herself near the table slightly turned from the room she had left.

An instant and I had gained it, and drawn the bolt. Another and I was on my knees, my fingers tremblingly whirling about the shining surface of the little knob that controlled the combination.

C-O-W-A-R-D.

I whirled it this way and that, then pulled at the handle.

It resisted my efforts. A cold perspiration broke out on my forehead. I had been a victim of my own madness.

But again I moved the knob; this time slowly, with infinite care, with the calmness that comes with despair. I heard the woman without call my name in a frenzy of rage, her hands beating against the door.

Once more I turned the handle. It yielded to my touch. The safe was open.

I saw no papers of any sort in the large compartment. It was empty with the exception of a jewel case. I slipped out a drawer, the only one in the safe. Two packets were there.

I seized them greedily. I was about to open them, when a shadow fell across the room. There was a light step behind me. I looked up, the papers in my hand.

Captain Forbes was standing by my side.

He had made his entrance through the open window.

"Good evening, Sir Mortimer!"

I rose to my feet, staring at him stupefied.

"I am sorry if my abrupt and unceremonious entrance has alarmed you," he said mockingly, and regarded me with a cold smile.

"You have managed to escape?" I stammered.

"Exactly; and I hope I do not inconvenience you. With your permission, sir, I will withdraw the bolt. This little room reminds me too well of the one I have just left. It is too cramped for my taste."

He brushed by me brusquely and drew the bolt. I thrust the papers in my breast pocket. With one motion I closed the safe softly, and turned the knob.

CHAPTER XXX.
Trapped.

Captain Forbes passed into the larger room. I followed him slowly.

"Ah, that's better," he sighed. "Now I am among friends." His sardonic smile took in Madame de Varnier and myself, who had not yet recovered from our astonishment.

Indeed, it was rather embarrassment that held me speechless. Presently he would know that it was not Sir Mortimer whom he had surprised at the safe. And knowing that, it was inevitable that he mistake me for one of the conspirators. First of all at Vitznau—I had taken dispatches from his hand. Had I indeed been really under the influence of an opiate I might have urged that as the reason. I could have said that I was not conscious of any deception; I was simply a victim of Dr. Starva and Madame de Varnier, and not responsible for my acts.

But not only had I not taken the opiate, but Madame de Varnier knew that I had not, and even had I wished to tell the lie she would have contradicted me.

And now he had caught me redhanded at the safe. He would draw his conclusions swiftly. It would be absurd to suppose that I should know the combination of the safe, merely as Madame de Varnier's guest. A hostess does not vouchsafe to her guest the key of her strong box. If I were not Sir Mortimer, I must be in league with Madame de Varnier and Dr. Starva.

That was the conclusion he must arrive at. To tell him the absolute truth—that by one chance out of ten thousand I had stumbled on the combination—would only deepen his conviction as to my guilt.

And Helena? What would she think? Would her faith in me be so strong that she would believe me? Had Captain Forbes not surprised me at this moment my guessing of the riddle of the safe would have seemed miraculous indeed, but the fact that I had the papers, and could place them in her hands to be destroyed, would support my story readily enough.

But I dare not give to her these papers before Captain Forbes and Madame de Varnier? It seemed to me that the king's messenger of all persons must not know of Sir Mortimer's guilt. For though the papers, the proof, was in our possession, the fact remained. And if Captain Forbes knew that I was not Sir Mortimer Brett, but an impostor, would he not demand those papers? And having them, would he not read them?

And Madame de Varnier? To what extremes would she not go in her rage? Now she believed that in some way I had been cognizant of Captain Forbe's escape, and had gone to the room containing the safe to give him assistance. But when she knew, as she must presently, that I had taken the papers from the safe I could not doubt that she would not submit meekly. She would have her revenge, both on Helena and on myself. She would insist on telling Captain Forbes of Sir Mortimer's guilt.

He would demand from me the papers and my cleverness would have gone for nothing. For the mind of Forbes moved in an obstinate channel. Duty to him was a soldier's first impulse. In doing what he thought his duty, he would sacrifice all. Not Helena's tears, nor my own entreaties, would prevent him from hurrying back to Downing street with the proofs of Sir Mortimer's guilt.

For some seconds after we had reached the large anteroom, the three of us stood like so many wax figures. Each of us had ample reason to feel ill at ease.

"I have the honor to report to your Excellency," said Forbes at length, in a voice that was admirably controlled despite his indignation, "that the second dispatch—a dispatch of profound importance, as I warned your Excellency at Vitznau—was stolen from me last night. May I express the hope that your Excellency has received it?"

"No," I said calmly. It was time to put an end to this game of cross-purposes.

"Then possibly madam can enlighten you as to its whereabouts."

"I, your Excellency? Oh, no!" She swept me a mocking courtesy. "I am not so deeply in your Excellency's counsel."

"My patience, Sir Mortimer," cried Forbes, breaking into direct speech, "has its limits. I see you at Lucerne only with the greatest difficulty. I warn you of the grave purport of a dispatch which I am unable to deliver to you because of your condition. The next morning, when I would see you, you have disappeared again. I trace you here with difficulty. When for the third time I attempt to deliver this dispatch, I am held captive; the dispatch is forcibly taken from me. When I ask you if you have received it, you give me an indifferent answer. I dare not believe that you are so far lost to your sense of duty that you countenance these violent acts of a bandit. But I must insist—"

He paused abruptly. I thought it because he realized that his anger had carried him too far. But when I looked where he looked, I saw Helena Brett.

"Miss Brett!" he exclaimed in pained surprise, "I am sorry to see you here."

"And I am infinitely relieved, though bewildered, to find you, Captain Forbes." She extended him her hand, smiling wanly.

"But you will help me to make your brother realize the danger of further misunderstanding," he said gently, his anger at my indifference vanishing at sight of her pale and haggard countenance.

"My brother, Captain Forbes, is dead. He lies in that room," she answered firmly, though her lips trembled.

She had made her decision. She, too, was determined at all hazards not to act a lie.

As for Captain Forbes, he was dumb with astonishment. His eyes widened with dismay and concern. But though he did not speak his startled glance dwelt on me.

"Mr. Haddon is my loyal friend," said Helena, interpreting his look. At the same time she reassured me with a quiet smile that more than her words expressed her trust.

A slow flush of anger mounted to the temples of the king's messenger. He towered over me menacingly.

"You have dared tamper with his Majesty's business; you have tricked one of his servants. By Heaven, you will rue it dearly!"

"Captain Forbes!" Helena laid her hand on his sleeve in her distress.

"Madam!" He turned on her indignantly. "This man has deliberately passed himself off as your brother. He tricked me into giving him important papers of state. You know that, and you defend him? You dare call him friend?"

"I did not know that," she replied firmly. "But I dare call him friend, Captain Forbes. You do not understand—"

"Understand!" he stormed, before I could make any reply myself. "I understand this only too well: he is in league with a notorious woman, and the still more infamous Dr. Starva, two Bulgarian adventurers of the most dangerous type. I think that is enough. That he has obtained under false pretenses my dispatches convicts him of high treason. He will not leave my sight until he is placed under arrest."

"I am an American," I said quietly. "You may find it more difficult to do that than you imagine."

My mild expostulation maddened him, only the more.

BISMARCKS BREAK THE TOURNEY TEAM RECORD

Taking two games out of three and smashing the tourney's high team score, the Bismarcks reasserted themselves in the championship contest at Campbell's alleys last night. They walked away from "Charlie" Meyer's Roderick Dhus in first and second tallies by margins of 109 and 45 but dropped the third through a slump brought about by discouraging splits. By winning the series, the Bismarcks tightened their grip on second place, although a clean sweep on the part of two other teams will make them share the honor.

Chauncey Stout again bobbed up as a "sure-thing" roller and drove the gallery frantic by his shooting. In the first game he started with a bad split but pulled himself together and smashed the timbers for seven straight strikes, netting him a score of 244, four pins behind the top-notch figures made by Orrie Dodge. His team mates held up their end and the aggregate chalk-up showed 914, just nine better than the previous record credited to the Washingtons. In the second game Stout came back for 192 but in the third he went to the bad and barely had a look-in with 142.

Frank McInerney, of the same team, went crazy in the second try and landed 234 but his other figures were 168 and 148. Captain Britton pinned an average of 162.1 and Tom Muir fell down to 150.1. C. W. Runyon, of "hook" ball fame, tallied 139.2.

Captain Meyer was in good form when the series was called and went on the board for a double century even. His arm and eye gave out after that and 165 and 179 were his returns. Ortleb landed a 225 in the middle try and it bolstered up his average to 175.2. Harry VanEmburgh led off on his side but the pace he set was easy to follow. His figures were 167, 137 and 173. Fred Koller and "Tunie" Vail were in fair form and turned in averages of 146.2 and 137.1.

The scores:

AUTOISTS SEEKING RELIEF

Alleged that Fines do not Go to Improve the Highways of the State.

WILBUR F. SADLER TALKS.

President of State Automobile Association Objects to Spending the Money on a Corps of Inspectors.

The New Jersey Automobile and Motor Club has instituted a crusade against the holding up of motorists by country constables on the slightest provocation. It was brought out at the meeting of the legislative committee of the club on Thursday that, according to the evidence gathered by the representatives of the various automobile clubs, the fines imposed upon automobilists, which under the law should go to the State for the purpose of repairing the roads, seldom get further than the pockets of the justices of the peace or the treasury of the municipality in which the fines are imposed.

Clive Crosby, who presided at the meeting in the place of the president, Angus Sinclair, stated that this practice was prevalent all over the State, and added that thousands of dollars had been collected in fines on autoists and none of it had ever reached the State.

It was suggested that the crops of automobile inspectors be increased to fifty, half of this number to be paid men and the other half to be reputable automobile owners, who would take it upon themselves to see that the laws were enforced, the inspectors of both classes to have the power to arrest offenders. This was aimed to do away with the indiscriminate arrest of drivers of the horseless wagons by country constable who saw visions of fines to come to their pockets. It was the intention of several of the members present to make this even more radical and to attempt to obtain legislation making this body a sort of State police, and taking out of the hands of the police the power to arrest automobilists for infringements of the law

W. F. Sadler, president of the Associated Automobile Clubs of New Jersey, opposed this measure. "It would create an entirely unnecessary State body, that would grow year by year and eat up the funds paid the State by automobiles," was the contention of Mr. Sadler. "Why, this matter can be handled by the police," he declared, "and I am opposed to any move of this kind. This State corps of inspectors would soon grow to such proportions that it would be such that there would be no money left to repair the roads."

Taking up the question of automobile legislation, Mr. Sadler declared that it would be impossible to get a new law this year to supplant the Frelinghuysen law, and that even amendments would be difficult to obtain, inasmuch as last year he had discovered that "politicians did not do all they promised," and that he thought the automobile interests would have cause to congratulate themselves if further unnecessary restrictions were not put upon the owners and drivers of cars. He stated that the present law was a farce, and that the automobilist could not obey it or the authorities enforce it.

A resolution was adopted recommending that the legislative committee endeavor to have the speed limit extended so that the limit in the open country should be twenty-five instead of twenty miles an hour, six miles at sharp turns and in the city, and fifteen miles an hour where houses are one hundred feet apart on the road.

CONVICT TRIES SUICIDE.

Third Attempt—Keepers Say He Is Simply Bluffing.

William Simpson, a convict in the State prison, made a third attempt to take his life in his cell yesterday morning at Trenton. He made a noose of his bed sheet, but was discovered by a keeper before he lost consciousness.

He was committed from Cape May county last April and claims that rather than endure the disgrace he would rather die. Simpson says he is innocent of the assault and battery for which he was convicted, but the keepers claim he is bluffing and only trying to strengthen his case before the Court of Pardons.

Even Truants on Santa's List.

"Playin' hookey ain't so orful," said one member of the truancy class of the Montclair correction school yesterday, when Frank Gray, the truant officer, impersonated Santa Claus and distributed Christmas gifts among the lads. The gifts were given by the good boys, who at the presentation exercises sang and recited "pieces," which the bad boys generously applauded.

CELEBRATE HOLY NATIVITY

Special Services Were Held by Many Local Congregations Yesterday.

Christmas was observed in the following churches yesterday:

Trinity Reformed.

Christmas Sunday was a particularly happy day at Trinity Reformed church yesterday, special services being held morning and night. Although Miss Winifred Carroll, contralto of the choir, was detained by illness, her place was taken by Mrs. E. H. Bird and special music was rendered. The regular Chirstmas program will be given next Sunday morning. The church was attractively decorated with trees, greens, holly and red crepe paper tied in bows. An effective arrangement was a star containing sixteen incandescent lights, suspended over the pulpit. This was illuminated at night, and large white letters displayed the words, "The King Is Come." About the pulpit was placed two large blooming white narcissus. The decorating committee comprised H. F. Crawford, chairman; H. P. Seader, Fred Soper, Miss Harriet Randall and Miss Emma Line.

A feature of the morning service which delighted everyone was the short address by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor. This was his first words to the congregation in the church auditorium, and he took occasion to thank one and all for past loyalty and he wished everyone a "Merry Christmas." He also pronounced the benediction at the close of the service.

Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, acting pastor, delivered a strong sermon from the text St. John, first chapter, and portion of fourteenth verse.

The musical part of the service comprised a "Te Deum," by the quartet choir, and Miss Raybert also rendered a beautiful solo, "The Birthday of a King," in a way that pleased the congregation.

An elaborate Christmas service was held in the evening by the Sunday-school, which was in charge of Superintendent F. E. Smith. The school occupied seats in the body of the church, while the rest of the edifice was thronged with members of the church and congregation.

Te program opened with these recitations: "The Sweetest Story," Wilma Tier; "Puzzling," Howard Willett; "Christmas to All," Beatrice Bodine; "Sweeter Every Year," Charles Todd. In addition there was singing by the Junior department, led by the superintendent, Mrs. L. R. Schofield, with Master Ernest Stevens, accompanist, and singing by the Primary department, led by the superintendent, Mrs. J. M. Tier, and Miss Lucy Coriell accompanist. The Junior department, from memory, recited "The Christmas Story," as related in the second chapter of St. Luke.

The principal part of the program was devoted to a cantata," The Joy of the Christmas Morn," by the Primary department, under the direction of Mrs. J. M. Tier, superintendent. The various parts were taken as follows:

"The Longing for Christ," Adelaide Cole, Ada Smith, Marguerite Barkalew and Maud McAfee; "Night," Elsie Tier; "Morning," Helen Roberts, who recited and also sang; "The Joy of His Birth," Ralph Martin; "The Joy of the Children," Beatrice Tier, Helen Woodruff, Marjorie Storr, Helen Saffron, Margaret Smith, Mabel Laury, Esther Kellogg, Edna Smith, Margaret Hope, Madeline Blair and Elsie Debele; "Joy in the Home," Adelaide Cole, Ada Smith, Marguerite Barkalew, Maud McAfee, Helen Roberts, Elsie Tier, Ralph Martin, Roy Macintyre, Alfred Willett and Harold Gayle; "The Joy of the World," (Holly Song), Theo. Vail, Marian Woolley, Dorothy Martin, Louise Seader, Grace Vail, Nellie McAfee, Marion Blair, Ella VanArsdale, Adele Freeman, Ruth Freeman, Ruth Hoffman, Lillie Schlief.

An interesting part of the program was an exercise by the Beginners' department, the following taking part: Malcolm Sheppard, Clifton Wiggins, Alma Allegar, Dorothy Seader, Carl Schlief, Elsie Zipp, Marjorie Dufford, Reginald Applegate and Alfred Townley.

Horace J. Martin, Sr., was precentor, and led the school in the singing of carols. An excellent orchestra also assisted in the rendition of the musical selections. The orchestra was comprised of C. P. Wheeler, R. W. Barnes and Miss Elelyn Berg, violins; Dr. J. F. Berg, 'cello; Elmer P. Wheeler, flute, and Miss Lillian A. Force, piano. Praise is also due to the quartet choir and Arthur L. Titsworth, organist, for their part in the program.

Park Avenue Baptist Church.

"The King of Kings" was the name of a cantata given by the Sunday-school of the Park Avenue Baptist church, yesterday afternoon. Superintendent George E. Hall was in charge. There was a very large audience. Assisting in the rendition of

DEATH OF DR. PARSONS

Distinguished Methodist Episcopal Divine Released from His Suffering.

Rev. Dr. Charles Wesley Parsons, pastor of Grace M. E. church and one of the best known Methodist ministers in the East, died at his home on Park place at 5:45 last night. He had been ill for the past three weeks with pneumonia and complications indirectly due to an operation for tic douloureux, which he underwent a month ago. It was performed at the German Hospital, New York, and he returned home shortly afterward, firm in the belief that an affliction that had been upon him for twenty years had been alleviated if not entirely cured.

The illness that directly caused his death was not considered especially serious at first but at times last week his condition became quite grave and Saturday night it was alarming. He continued to grow worse all yesterday and sank into unconsciousness three hours before the end.

Dr. Parsons was born at Decatur, N. Y., fifty-seven years ago and prepared for the ministry at Casenovia Seminary, near Scranton, Pa., and afterward at Drew, graduating from the latter in the class of '74. His first charge was at Fairfield, Herkimer county, N. Y., and he remained two years during which he almost doubled the membership of the congregation. After that he was pastor of the following churches: Hanson Place, Brooklyn, three years; St. Paul's, Newark, five years; Grand Avenue, Kansas City, three years; State Street, Watertown, N. Y., three years; First, Gouveneur, N. Y., First, Anoka, Minn., one year; First, Minneapolis, Minn., one year, and lastly, Grace church, North Plainfield, where he assumed charge two years ago last April.

In all his pastorates, Dr. Parsons accomplished a great work but in later years he was retarded and kept from his efforts by constant and distracting pain in the face. At times it was excruciating and it was because of this that he assumed a charge like that of Grace, finding that the duties of a smaller congregation would be more conducive. His brilliancy and depth of thought would have made him a leading factor in the religious world if he could have ridden himself of the physical drawback but as it was he had risen high in the denomination. A month ago the pains became so intense that he decided to undergo a further operation and arranged his affairs in order to be away an indefinite time. He passed through the ordeal, one that would have appalled an ordinary man as the surgeons had to cut his face open without administering anaesthetic, and he came back to Plainfield happy in the thought that it had not been in vain.

Dr. Parsons took a great interest in the political affairs of the nation and was a personal friend of many statesmen. At one time he was Governor-elect Fort's pastor.

Dr. Parsons is survived by his wife, two sons and two daughters. The latter are Mrs. J. H. B. Conger, of Newark; Frederick Parsons, of Chicago, and Miss Helen Parsons and George Parsons at home. He also leaves a sister, Mrs. Mary C. Dedrick, of Albany, N. Y. The funeral will be held in Grace church tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock and burial will be at Fairfield, N. Y.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM AT DR. GROSZMANN'S SCHOOL.

Exercises appropriate to Christmas were held at the Groszmann School, Saturday afternoon, and there was a large attendance of parents and friends from New York, Newark, Orange, Long Island, Washington and this city. The program was a polly one and dramatic in nature, the children representing various characters, and also giving a fairy tale, "Red Riding Hood," written in verse by Dr. Groszmann. The attempt of Dr. Groszmann was to show what had been accomplished by the children in the teaching of self-control and the aims were realized to an appreciaable extent. After the entertainment there was an exchange of Christmas gifts among the children.

Tomorrow night the annual Christmas tree festivities will be enjoyed by the children and teachers, at which time there will be gifts to the teachers and other features. This will be more in teh nature of a family gathering, no outsiders being invited. Dr. Groszmann was complimented upon the results obtained with the children during the past term by the parents, some of whom came a great distance to the exercises on Saturday.

City Bank Election.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the City National Bank for the election of directors for the coming year will be held at the bank on Tuesday, January 14, between the hours of 1 and 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

HUDSON TUNNEL IS READY

Passenger Service Through Big Tubes Promised within 10 Days.

It is promised that within the next ten days passenger trains will be run through two tunnels connecting New Jersey with the island of Manhattan and the city of New York. The bores which will be opened are those extending from the terminal of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad in Hoboken to Morton street, in Manhattan. One of the bores will be for trains running from Jersey to New York, the other for those coming to Jersey.

Workmen are now engaged night and day putting the electrical equipment to run the trains in the bores, and, unless all present plans miscarry, the passenger service will be in full swing by the first day of the new year.

The opening of the tunnel system will mean much to the State of New Jersey. It will mean much to Newark and its surrounding towns and cities. It is expected that the six months following the opening of the tunnel will see thousands of New Yorkers turning toward Jersey in search of homes. Within the next year it is thought that the rush will be tremendous. Prominent real estate men of Jersey City share the belief that the popoulation of the State will be increased by 200,000 within the next few months.

The new tunnel project brings New Jersey more than five minutes nearer to New York. The trip across the Hoboken ferry now takes from ten to fifteen minutes. The trains will make the trip in less than five minutes, and when things are running well the time will probably be reduced to three minutes.

History of Hudson Tunnel Project —Work begun in 1878 by D. C. Haskin, a civil engineer, who failed in 1880, after about 1,200 feet had been built.

Construction resumed by the English contracting firm of Pearson & Son in 1890. Enterprise failed again after 1,800 additional feet had been built.

William G. McAdoo, a lawyer, organized the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company in 1892 and work was taken up again and pushed through.

First passenger train will be run through north tubes of tunnel by January 1.

Cost of enterprise, $60,000,000, including an $8,000,000 terminal building in Manhattan.

JAMES H. DALY DEAD IN HIS 81ST YEAR

James H. Daly, for many years a well known resident of the city, died at 3:30 yesterday afternoon at his home in the Stillman building on West Front street. He had been failing for the past year, death being due to senile debility. Mr. Daley was eighty years old and came to this city from Flemington in 1882. He was a tailor by trade and for a time held a responsible position with the Scheppflin company when it conducted one of the city's most important industries. When the concern ceased operation he entered business for himself on North avenue and continued several years, retiring because of failing health.

While a resident of Flemington, Mr. Daly was prominent in Hunterdon county politics and was also one of the organizers of the Catholic church in that place. Surviving him are a wife, one daughter, Miss Kathryn Daley, and two sons, Captain James Daly, of the local fire department, and John P. Daley, who is travelling in the West with a theatrical company.

Will Present "Eager Heart."

The Christmas mystery play, "Eager Heart," will be presented at the parish house of Grace church Thursday night. The play is a revival by the Elizabethan Dramatic Society of the quaint and primitive dramatic art of the period and is from the pen of A. M. Buckton. Miss Brooke Peeters, of New York, will take the title roll and will be supported by a cast from aming the young people of the church.

Xmas Entertainment.

The Christmas entertainment under the auspices of the Sunday-school will be held at the First Baptist church Friday night at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the church. William Till, of Bayonne, and his accomplished daughters will furnish the program. The public is invited. A Christmas party for the primary department will be held Friday afternoon in the lecture room.

—Fifty dozen of fancy celery will be put on sale by Neuman Brothers this afternoon. Place orders for some as it is sure to go quick.

PLAINFIELDER HEAD OF SALAAM TEMPLE

Harry W. Marshall, of this city, was elected potentate for the coming year at the annual election of Salaam Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, held in Krueger Auditorium, Newark. The others officers elected were as follows

Chief rabban, Alfred N. Dalrymple; assistant rabban, Louis V. Aronson; high priest and prophet, William C. Astley; oriental guide, Andrew C. Snyder; recorder, George C. Ward; treasurer, John C. Groel; trustees, William W. Blanchard and Frank Tanner; representatives to the Imperial Council in St. Paul in June, Rev. Dr. William H. Morgan, Henry L. Jenkinson, Harry W. Marshall and Charles Kasefang.

The election was marked by several contests. It was necessary to cast four ballots to elect the members to represent the order at the Imperial Council. After the meeting dinner was served.

Mr. Marshall is president of the Plainfield Board of Trade.

DR. YATMAN SPEAKS AT Y. M. C. A. THEATRE MEETING.

The first of the present winter's series of Y. M. C. A. theatre meetings was held in the New Plainfield theatre yesterday afternoon. It was conducted by F. H. Andrews and was attended by fully 300 people, considered a large number because of the very attractive weather conducive to remaining outdoors.

The speaker was Rev. Dr. C. H. Yatman, of Ocean Grove auditorium fame, and who is well known to Plainfielders through his work at the seashore resort. The subject of his talk was "The Six o'Clock Man," in other words, one who is straight up and down. In plain and practical terms he asserted that the Christian in his idea was not the one who became converted and immediately jumped up and down in his enthusiasm, but one who accepted salvation, paid all his debts to his fellow men and made amends fully for mistakes in life. The talk was greatly enjoyed.

During the meeting, the choir of the First M. E. church rendered a number of selections and Rev. E. E. Roberson read scripture and led in prayer.

BECKSTEIN'S EXHIBIT ATTRACTED THE CROWD.

With an excellent attendance and with all the prize-winning chickens and cats looking their best, the nineteenth annual exhibition of the New York Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Association came to an end Saturday night in Madison Square Garden, New York.

The pen of Japanese silkies shown by A. C. Beckstein, of the Oak Tree Poultry Farm, Plainfield, was constantly surrounded by interested spectators. Japanese silkies are a rarity in this country, and Mr. Beckstein's exhibit was notable from the splendid brood of little white chicks, that kept close to the fluffy white mother hen. The brood, by the way, was the third set hatched since April 19, the first batch of thirteen eggs having brought out twelve chickens. Mr. Beckstein also showed some magnificent Orpingtons, which won seven blue ribbons.

Gone South to Be Married.

Miss Rose Davis, who has been making her home with Rev. and Mrs. George B. Shaw, of Central avenue, left today for her home at Salem, West Virginia. She was accompanied by Irving Davis, of Manning avenue, who will be married to Miss Davis' sister next week. The bride and groom will return to Plainfield to live. Mr. Davis is engaged in business here as a contractor.

Xmas Day Service.

Announcement is made of a service to be held in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Christmas morning at 10 o'clock with a short address by the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie. The service has been suggested and this year definitely asked for by a number of the congregation who desire to attend church on that day. The evening prayer meeting will be omitted.

Miss Waldo a Guest.

Mrs. Ambrose Ryder Adams, who recently gave two receptions at her home, 41 East Sixty-fourth street, New York, to introduce her daughter, Miss Alma Frances Adams, gave a theatre party and supper to the receiving party Saturday night. Among the guests was Miss Ruth Waldo, daughter of Leonard Waldo, of West Eighth street.

Miss Sarah Kiernan.

Miss Sarah Kiernan, daughter of William and the late Catherine Kiernan, died at her home on Steiner place yesterday. She was a sister to Miss Elizabeth Kiernan, a teacher in the Somerset school. The funeral will be held at the late home and will be private.

T. LOGAN MURPHY DEAD

Retired Clergyman Succumbs After Four Day Illness in 69th Year

Following an illness of but four days' duration, Rev. T. Logan Murphy, a retired clergyman, for many years rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, passed away at his home in West Front street at 4 o'clock on Sunday morning. He was taken ill with the grip on Wednesday, after having been about town the previous day. His condition was not thought alarming but on Friday he became much worse, gradually sinking, and at 1 o'clock on Sunday morning he passed into unconsciousness, his end following within three hours.

Rev. Mr. Murphy, who was well known among townspeople generally, became rector of the Church of the Holy Cross on February 14, 1877, continuing in his ministrations among the people of that parish until July 1, 1899, when ill health compelled him to give up the work. With his wife and daughter, he sailed for Europe, hoping to recuperate his health. He accepted an invitation to become assistant rector at the American church, in Paris, where he remained for two years. Since that time, he had lived quietly in this city where he had a host of friends.

Born at Pittsburg, Pa., Sunday, October 30, 1839, Rev. Mr. Murphy received his early education in that city. His boyhood days were spent at Newportville, Pa. He received his degree in divinity at the Philadelphia Divinity School in West Philadelphia. He was ordained to the diaconate by the Rt. Rev. Dr. William Bacon Stevens, bishop of the diocese of Pennsylvania, on December 20, 1865, receiving his priest's orders on September 26, 1866.

His first parish work was undertaken at Grace church Philadelphia, while still a deacon. His ordination to the priesthood took place in the old see church of New Jersey, St. Mary's, Burlington, the venerable Bishop William Odenheimer officiating.

In October, 1866, Rev. Mr. Murphy accepted an invitation to become rector of Calvary church, Tamaqua, Pa., where he remained for one year. In the next year he took charge of Zion church, Newport, R. I., and later consented to assume the work at Christ church, Fitchburg, Mass., where he remained until coming to the Church of the Holy Cross.

On July 17, 1867, Rev. Mr. Murphy married Miss Annie E. Mixsell, daughted of David Mixsell, a wealthy and influential resident of Easton, Pa. The wife and three children, former Councilman Clarence Murphy, and Arthur T. Murphy, both local lawyers, and Miss Annie Murphy, survive him. He was a member of Plainfield Council, Royal Arcnum.

The funeral, which well be private, will take place at his late home tomorrow afternoon. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, will officiate. Interment will be made at Hillside cemetery.

NELSON R. PETERSON ANNOUNCES HIS MARRIAGE

To the great surprise of his many friends Nelson R. Peterson, of Watchung avenue, today announced that he had been a benedict for the past four months. He was married on August 7 last, the bride being Miss Gertrude Porter, daughter of Mrs. Mary Porter, formerly of Newark, but now of South Stirling. The wedding was performed in "The Little Church Around the Corner," New York, Rev. Dr. Houghton officiating. Mrs. Evaline P. Cornish, of Newark, sister of the bride, and Percy Vail, of this city, were the attendants.

Mr. Peterson is a rural mail carrier attached to the local post office and the wedding was the result of a romance commenced last summer. The present Mrs. Peterson was then visiting friends at South Stirling and her letters were delivered by the Plainfielder. They became acquainted in this way and when the young woman's vacation was concluded and she returned to her home they had reached an agreement that took them to Dr. Houghton's church.

The groom is a member of Company K and also of the Independent Fife and Drum Corps. He and his bride will begin housekeeping on Howard street early in January.

Hope Boys Win.

The Hope chapel Boys' Club basketball five defeated a team from the Plainfield High School freshman class in the Hope gymn Saturday night. The score was 46 to 8. The teams lined up as follows: Hope—Kenney, Firstbrook, Muir, C. Hoffman. High School—Moran, Clark, Bohan and Todd, Dorthy and Van Zandt.

'PHONE COMPANY ON TOP

Fanwood Township Committee Outwitted by Utilities Corporation.

According to a recent interpretation of a law of 1878, the New York and New Jersey Telephone company has apparently outwitted the officials of Fanwood township in its efforts to supply 'phone service to the residents of that place without paying the township committee for the privilege. The township committee has always demanded payment in return for franchises from any corporation or company.

The telephone company has steadily refused to pay anything to the township for permission to furnish telephone service to the residents, and now it has gone ahead with its work of erecting poles and stringing wires for subscribers and its warrant for so doing has been that the consents of property-owners over whose property it desired to run its wires, have been obtained and that it is not necessary to pay the township anything for the privilege.

It is said that the only thing for the township committee to do is to take advantage of the law of 1905, which allows townships working under the old law to take advantage of the new one, giving such committees full power to grant franchises. This must be done by the taxpayers, it being necessary to hold a special election. No matter what action is taken in the furture, however, it will have no bearing on franchises previously given. Four years ago the New York and Philadelphia Telephone Company paid several hundred dollars for a franchise to run a through line, but no privileges were given for local service. The 'phone people can give local service, no matter what is done by the authorities.

FITZ'S FATHER-IN-LAW WON'T ASK HIM FOR AID.

"I guess it was coming to me. I've trusted too many people in my time."

Thus David Gifford, father of Mrs. Bob Fitzsimmons, of Dunellen, spoke yesterday of his being sent to the poorhouse by the Associated Charities at Colorado Springs, Col. While he is said to be partially deranged, it is not apparent in conversation. He declares he will not ask either his daughter or Fitz for help, but will stay the remainder of his life, if necessary, on the poor farm. He is fifty-five years old.

The Charities organization is trying to find out where Mrs. Fitzsimmons is, according to dispatches, in order to notify her of her father's condition.

When Gifford was divorced from his first wife in Iowa he permitted her to retain possession of their baby, Julia, the present Mrs. Fitzsimmons, and it is said she was reared in ignorance of her father. He married again in Montana, and the second wife also divorced him on the ground of desertion. Since then he has drifted "from pillar to post."

Mr. and Mrs. Fitzsimmons are filling a vaudeville engagement at Hamilton, Ont.

100TH ANNIVERSARY OF WHITTIER OBSERVED.

Services in commemoration of the 100th birthday anniversary of John Greenleaf Whittier were held at the Friends' Meeting-house on Watchung avenue, yesterday afternoon. One of the principal speakers was Henry W. Wilbur, a Friends' minister from Swarthmore, who dwelt on the religious life of Whittier. Another interesting speaker was Rev. A. C. Nickerson, who told of the anti-slavery work of Whittier during the Civil War.

There were scripture readings by W. D. Williams and different ones gave about twenty-five quotations of verse from Whittier. There were also readings concerning Whittier by Mrs. Clara S. Rushmore, Mrs. Mary J. Shoemaker, Miss Minnie Angell, Mrs. Cora Lippencott and Mrs. Alveretta C. Vail; also a biographical sketch by Mrs. Sarah Hutchinson. Carlton Vail recited "The Barefoot Boy," one of Whittier's best known selections.

Rev. Dr. Shaw Leaves.

Rev. and Mrs. George B. Shaw and children left South Plainfield at 6:40 o'clock last night for Milton, Wis., where they will spend Christmas with Mr. Shaw's parents. The first of next week Mr. Shaw will go on to North Loup, Neb., where he will assume the pastorate of the Seventh-Day Baptist church. A large delegation of members of the Seventh-Day Baptist church accompanied Mr. Shaw and his family to South Plainfield to give them a farewell sendoff and wish them success and happiness in their new home.

HITS LOCAL OPTIONISTS

Assemblyman Pierce Accuses Their Leaders of Gross Misrepresentation.

Assemblyman-elect Carlton B. Pierce is the first of Union county's quartette of lawmakers to put himself on record as opposed to local option legislation at the coming session of the Legislatutre, the Cranford member in the Lower House having made his position clear at an affair given in his honor at Truell Hall, Saturday night. Mr. Pierce, as the guest of the Delta Upsilon Club, of Plainfield, delivered a lengthy address confining himself to political matters. His remarks caused constant applause and at the conclusion of the speech he was heartily congratulated by his fellow fraternity members for the fearlessness of his utterances.

The major theme of the Assemblyman-elect was local option and he took occasion incidently to attack the leaders of that movement in New Jersey. He made the unequivocal declaration that the leaders of the movement are conducting a campaign of falsehood and misrepresentation. The statement spread broadcast by them that New Jersey is the only State east of the Mississippi that has no local option law was emphatically denied. The Bishops' law, he asserted, is in effect a local option measure inasmuch as it has a provision which permits a given district to make the license fee a prohibitive one. In this connection he cited Plainfield as an example. It will be recalled that the fee here is $1,000 and that no saloons are allowed in the residential sections. The people have decided upon this agreement and therefore it is local option.

Mr. Pierce reiterated his statement that he is heartily in favor of local option but that he could not lead his sanction to a movement that is based upon misrepresentation and exaggeration. At the present time, he added, any municipality in the State can make the license fee so high as to be prohibitive, and consequently he said that the Bishops' law is an excellent measure.

Another subject touched upon by Mr. Pierce was the corporations. In dwelling upon this matter he advocated the strict regulation and supervision of all corporattions. Regret was expressed by him that the Republican party in New Jersey had not seen fit to follow the party in Pennsylvania and New York in passing a law providing for the supervision of corporations. In this State, he stated, the Democratic party appears to be the sponser for Republican measures in the Empire and Keystone States. He intimated that in this respect, he stands independent of his own party and heartily in favor of such legislation.

An hour was spent by the club members singing fraternity songs in the spacious ball room, adjourning from there to the ball room where an excellent buffet supper was provided. Before the speechmaking these officers were elected: President, Lindsey Best; Dr. H. B. Corbusier, vice president; secretary, Alden E. Moore, and treasurer, William Booth.

TROLLEY CAR CRASHES INTO BAKER'S WAGON.

Speeding along West Front street at a fast clip shortly before noon today, trolley car No. 1935, of the Main line, crashed into the rear of a delivery wagon belonging to W. W. Warnock, the baker. The vehicle was shoved ahead for twenty feet and then tossed to one side in a badly demolished condition, while the horse was knocked beneath it.

Clarence Zimmerman, the driver, was totally unprepared for the collision and was hurled through the front part of the wagon, narrowly escaping serious injury. He landed on top of the struggling horse and only by quick presence of mind rolled to one side in time to avoid being struck by its hoofs. The animal was afterward gotten to its feet and beyond a few slight cuts was unharmed.

Witnesses to the accident assert that the responsibility rests with the motorman of the car. Zimmerman was proceeding east some distance ahead of the trolley and turned toward the tracks to clear a coach standing in front of the Leal school. No warning bell was sounded and the first he knew that a car was near him was when the crash occurred. He was badly shaken up and was compelled to seek medical attention.

West End Officrs Entered.

The police were informed this morning that someone had broken into the offices of A. L. Cadmus, at the Commercial Mills, and L. A. Rheaume, on South Second street, last night. Nothing was secured at the mills but $1.50 in postage stamps, was taken from Rheaume's place. This morning Patrolman McDonald arrested Joseph Smith and John Morris, two hoboes, on suspicion but they were released at noon.

The Christmas entertainment at the Congregational church Monday night, December 30, will be in charge of Miss Aimee Emmons. A program of unusual interest will be given.

The Christmas entertainment at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church on Monday night, December 30, will be in the nature of a cantata in which members of the Sunday-school will take part.

Owing to the illness of Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons, pastor of the church, the annual Christmas entertainment at Grace M. E. church, under the auspices of the Sunday-school, will not be held this year.

Miss Nettie Beeching made an address at the Christmas exercises held at the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel, Watchung, yesterday afternoon. The Sunday-school enjoyed a program of recitations and the singing of carols.

The Sunday-school of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will hold its Christmas entertainment this afternoon and evening. The program for this evening at 8 o'clock will be a concert by the Lotus Glee Club, of New York, followed by a social hour during which refreshments will be served.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Timbo's restaurant is the place to get a first class meal. You will find the menus the best ever and uniform in quality, as well as the service.

Putnam & DeGraw's dry goods store is the center of attraction these days for holiday shoppers. There you will find no end of suitable articles for every member of the family. Visit this store by all means.

Holiday shoppers will find C .M. Neagle's drug store on West Front street a desirable place to secure Christmas gifts. The stock is large and attractive; besides Mr. Neagle carries a full line of drugs and medicines.

L. W. Randolph's pharmacy on West Front street offers countless articles suitable for Christmas gifts, either in Huyler's confection, toilet articles or the numerous things that a first class pharmacy of this kind sell. The Christmas decorations at the store are among the most attractive in town.

CLOSED PORTALS.

Plainfield Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet tonight and have initiation.

The Women's Relief Corps will entertain Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and John Hand Camp, Sons of Veterans on Friday night at G. A. R. headquarters.

BURIES HIS FOURTEENTH WIFE.

Latest Lamented to Rest Beside the Other Thirteen.

Martha Maria Vann, the fourteenth wife of James Nicholas Vann, of Mount Hope, near Middletown, N. Y., is dead and will be laid beside the thirteen other wives in the Vann family burial ground at Mount Hope today.

James Nicholas Vann is one of the most remarkable characters in Orange county. He was born in Mount Hope Township, April 22, 1807, and is therefore 100 years old.

Although colored, Vann's fourteen wives have all been white and he expresses a distaste for women of his own race. He has been body servant to some of the most prominent men of Orange county.

He has preached, doctored and studied law, but is now getting so feeble as to be able to hardly get around.

Many years ago his biography was published in book form and had a large sale.

NO GIFTS FOR EMPLOYES.

Dr. Ward Says Santa Claus Won't Stop at Prudential Office This Year.

The Prudential Insurance Company, which for several years has followed a custom of remembering its employes at Christmas with gifts, will not do so this year. Dr. Leslie D. Ward, vice president of the company, said yesterday:

"It has never been our intention to make the presentation of Christmas gifts a fixed rule. For the last five or six years we have usually given our office employes something on Christmas, but there have been years during this period when we did not. The general situation at this time prompts us to make this one of the off years."

Major Maze Edwards, of West Seventh street, who has been detained at home for several months as the result of injuries received at Block Island last summer, is now suffering from an attack of rheumatism.

Full Xmas Stocks to the 11th Hour.

Despite the Tremendous Selling Every Department Will Be Ready Tuesday With Surprisingly Full, Fresh Assortment of Givable Things. . . . . .

Santa Claus is in a merry mood because he finds at least one store wherein stocks are kept intact to the last minute before he is ready to begin the work of distribution.

This great holiday bazaar is crowded with gifts useful and ornamental, and in practically every line assortments are most complete. It is not our policy to sell out, but we try and have stocks so large that people who come up to the night before Christmas may find what they should expect in a great establishment of this sort.

Even the Toy Store, which of all departments in most stores shows depletion and disorder about this time, looks as tho we were just beginning the season, so full is the variety of all sorts of dolls, toys and games. Santa Claus will be happy in this toy store Tuesday night. Can we help you out at this late hour with a few suggestions?

There's No Wolf At the Manufacturer's Door!

Don't be fooled!

What you may fancy to be the scratching of a hungry invader of your peace is more likely to be the gentle knocking of Opportunity at your door.

Don't be fooled!

Forget the wolf-scare, and don't keep Opportunity cooling her heels.

The mere fact that commercial nervousness exists and that so many manufacturers and wholesalers just now are affrighted and weakening, means the best sort of chance for the live, courageous business man to take hold and work out his biggest success.

We want to hear from that kind of manufacturers and wholesalers.

We have assisted in working out the advertising problems of a great many manufacturers who had real difficulties to encounter, and who have faced them, fought them out—and won!

And advertising—wise advertising in newspapers—has played a great big part in their successes.

We can be of the same kind of practical, profitable service to you.

May we call upon you, at your convenience, to discuss with you a co-operative plan for grasping the present advertising opportunity?

There's a way in which you can help your salesmen get more orders—or get them direct, if you want to. It's a way that gets the business, too. Our plan is not based on theory but on long and successful experience in getting business that is hard to get. It is remarkably economical and tremendously effective.

Just say you're interested, and we'll tell you all about it.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

VARIOUS SPORTS.

C. M. Daniels, the New York Athletic Club champion swimmer, has received an invitation to visit Australia, accompanied by an offer to pay his expenses for six months on a tour to embrace Melbourne, Sydney and leading cities in New Zealand and other Australian countries to compete against the crack swimmers of Oceanic. It is unlikely that Daniels will take the matter up, he being unwilling to spend so long a time away from his business.

Lee Talbot, the Mercersburg hammer thrower who made such a sensation with his school-boy hammer records, appears in a new light at Cornell—the champion wrestler of the university. In the recent tournament he won the championship of the freshman class in the heavyweight division, and then in the finals beat C. C. Oderkirk, of the senior class, after a stiff bout, in which neither secured a fall in the first period, Talbot winning in the second period in 4.10.

The watch charms to be given to the world's champion Chicago Cubs were delivered to President Herrmann at Cincinnati yesterday afternoon, and the charms will be mailed to the members of that victorious team today in order that they may have them to wear on Christmas Day.

Robert L. Morrell, chairman of the contest committee of the Automobile Club of America, has announced that the Ormond Beach races would be run over a thirty-two-mile course, made by constructing loops at each end of a sixteen-mile straightaway stretch of beach. These loops will be built of two-inch planking, will be thirty-two feet wide, and provide an easy curve, as thes andhills will be graded away at the edge of the course.

Chicago University has gone on record as favoring only five football games for one season.

William Lauder, who coached last year's football team at Williams' College, has been re-engaged for the coming season. Lauder is a graduate of Brown University and has played on the Philadelphia and New York National League nines. Cage practise will begin February 1, and the opening game will be played April 18.

In spite of the large attendance at the football games this season, the University of California students are more heavily in debt than they were last year. Manager Snedigar reported that the indebtedness of the student body was $15,304.87, which was $4,000 over the figures of last year.

Contrary to the usual custom, the Yale hockey team will not take a trip to Pittsburg during the holidays, but will get some needed practise in about New York city. Matches have been arranged with the Crescent Athletic Club on January 3 and with the Hockey Club on January 4. Another practise match will be played on January 6, at Montclair, with a team of Yale graduates.

Optimism as to the influence of football on college life is the keynote of observations made by President Isaac Sharpless, of Haveford College. Coming at this time, closely following Swarthmore College's refusal of the million-dollar bequest made with the proviso that athletics must be abolished there, this championship of the cause of football by the conservative head of the Main Line institution is of special interest.

The champion rugby team of Leland Standard University of San Francisco will in all propability make a trip to British Columbia during the Christmas holidays and play for the trophy which has been offered by J. Cooper-Keith, of Vancouver. Last year the university team made the trip to the North and played three games, two of which they lost and the third was a tie.

TRENTON WATER IMPURE?

Four New Cases of Typhoid Yesterday—May Sink Wells.

With four new cases of typhoid fever in Trenton yesterday, making seventy-one cases so far this month, the Mayor has asked the Board of Health to meet the Water Board to consider the situation.

The Health Board believes the source of polution is the water of the Delaware River. But both boards are now considering another source of water supply. There is talk of boring artesian wells, and it is said that the same pressure of water now supplying Camden, can easily be found there.

Tells of Wedding a Week Later.

Miss Mattie Ernst, daughter of August Ernst, of Bloomfield, gave her parents a surprise yesterday by announcing that she had been married to George O'Maly, of East Orange, since December 11. The couple were married in the parsonage of the Park Avenue German Presbyterian church, Bloomfield, by the Rev. Remi J. Bultinghausen. Miss Mary Ernst, a sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid and Elwood Van Winkle best man.

Hugh Laing, of North avenue, has recovered from a recent illness and is able to be out again.

THE DAILY PRESS.

Plainfield, N. J., December 23, 1907.

GONE TO THEIR REWARD.

Plainfield lost two prominent citizens yesterday when Rev. Dr. Charles Wesley Parsons and Rev. T. Logan Murphy entered into rest. Both had many sincere friends who will mourn their loss, and yet in the case of the former one cannot help but rejoice in the fact that the Master has seen fit to relieve him of his sufferings which he bore with Christian fortitude for twenty long years.

Had Dr. Parsons not been afflicted with a disease that caused constant excruitating pain, it is not improbable that long ago he would have been one of the foremost divines in America. Many years since, he resigned to his fate and his Christian spirit was never dampened by an ailment that baffled the most skilled physician. The way in which he withstood the terrible pains won for him the admiration of all who enjoyed his acquaintanceship and it is therefore but natural that his friends should give thanks that he has at last been called to his reward.

Rev. Mr. Murphy's end came as it were "in the twinkling of an eye" but he had lived to fill a usual position in society. For thirty-three odd years he had been an active exponent of Christ's ministry and had brought many souls to Jesus. He will be greatly missed in the community in which he took great interest.

PERSONAL.

Kereo Knox, of Philadelphia, is visiting at his home on Rockview avenue.

Miss Helen Roberts, of Prospect place, left today for Scranton, Pa., to spend two weeks with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hoagland, of Somerset street, are parents of a daughter born to them a few days ago.

Miss Erastine C. Smith, of Madison avenue, who has been detained at home with the grip, is much improved.

Dennis F. Kilbridge, Sr., of West Fourth street, is seriously ill with a complication of troubles brought on by pneumonia.

Miss Ethel Lorton, of Watchung avenue, has assumed the position of stenographer and typewriter in Mayor Fisk's office.

Mrs. Mary J. Hawkins, of East Seventh street, who has been quite ill at her home for several weeks, is slightly improved.

John Van Doren, of Harlingen, who has been visiting his aunt, Mrs. John A. Goodwin, of Manning avenue, has returned.

Thomas A. Moore, of East Sixth street, who has been very ill with typhoid fever, is now at his home and is recovering slowly.

Robert Gow, of West Fifth street, who was called to Portsmouth, Va., by the death of his brother, John Gow, returned home yesterday.

Herbert S. Guinn, of Netherwood, left today for Vineyard Haven, Mass., on account of the death of his grandmother, Mrs. S. R. Guinnn.

Winfield S. Decker, of West Fourth street, who has been ill for some time, is now unable to go out and his condition does not improve to any extent.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. Steinberger, daughter and son, of Orange, and Miss Minnie eWiss, of Milwaukee, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. George A. Schmidt, of Watchung.

Miss Madeline Read, a student at boarding school in Middletown, N. Y., is spending the holiday vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Read, of Myrtle avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierrepont Foster and their daughter, of New Haven, Conn., are visiting at the home of Mrs. Foster's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Brown, of Watchung avenue.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

On account of Wednesday being Christmas Day, the mid-week prayer meeting at the First Baptist church for that night will be omitted.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Shirley, formerly of this city, but now of Westfield, was baptised in Holy Trinity church yesterday at that place, and was given the name of Howard Charles. The sponsors were Mrs. John Kilbride, of New York, and Theodore J. Shirley, of this city.

—Fancy table apples are among the special holiday offerings at Neuman Brothers. Among them are Jonathans, Spitzenbergs, Kings and Lady apples. The fruit display at this store also includes fancy Tangierine oranges at thirty-five cents a dozen and delicious Malaga grapes.

PUBLIC LIBRARY MAKES THE CHILDREN HAPPY

Christmas is the children's time, and following the suggestion of a good friend of the children, the young people's corner at the Library has been decked in holiday attire.

The green and red decorations cover many an empty space caused by the constant distributiton among our young people of children's books, and more especially the Christmas literature. As the Christmas books come back they are going to be placed on the table so that during the next two or three weeks the boys and girls may continue the holiday season feasting on poetry, stories, Christmas customs or games.

Pictures, too, are being displayed There are pictures of presents that sister or brother can make and pages of Christmas dolls, for in the doll-land there is a Christmas time too.

And would you like to know some pretty ways to decorate the dinner-table on Christmas day? Well, visit the Library and you will see pictures of tables with Santa Claus standing in the centre, or large Christmas bells, and in one there is a table with about a dozen small stockings hung over it, which are filled with all sorts of good things.

These decorations will be up until after the New Year, so the corner will be a most attractive place for the boys and girls during the holiday vacation.

the musical numbers was an orchestra comprising Arthur S. Mosher, George W. V. Moy, Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, Ernest Higham, Miss Arline Brown, Miss Marjorie Brown and Whitney C. Frazee.

The numbers of the cantata were as follows: Chorus, "Remember Us, Lord," the Misses Bessie Giles, Viola Hillyer, Lulu Stryker, Nellie Giles, Ada Williams, Emily Runyon, Anna Clark, Elinore Stutsman and Sarah Boyd; exercise, Charles Dayton, Harry C. Runyon, Benjamin Hadley and Charles VanWinkle; motion recitation, Miss Elinore Stutsman; recitation, "Ho! Watchman," Miss Bessie Giles; chorus, "Prepare Ye the Way of the Lord," the Misses Bessie Giles, Viola Hillyer, Lulu Stryker, Nellie Giles, Ada Williams, Emily Runyon, Anna Clark, Elinore Stutsman and Sarah Boyd; tenor solor, Harry C. Runyon; vocal solo, "Sleep, Little Baby," Miss Agnes Dooley; recitation, James Sutton, Nelson VanWinkle, William Richards, William Doane; song by the Wise Men, Charles Dayton, Charles VanWinkle, Harry C. Runyon and Benjamin Hadley; tenor solo, Benjamin Hadley; recitation, Miss Alice Brown. The cantata was concluded with several carols by the chorus of young women.

The morning and evening services at the church were largely attended. The choir rendered special music and the pastor, Rev. A. E. Finn, preached Christmas sermons.

First M. E. Church.

In addition to the program at the First M. E. church, which was followed as published on Saturday, the exercises held in the main department of the Sunday-school in the afternoon included the singing of carols, with orchestral accompaniment of three pieces. James R. Joy, as superintendent of the school, was in charge of the program. Under the direction of Mrs. Judd Stewart, the Intermediate department presented this program: Recitation, "The Christmas Story," nine boys; recitation, "A Christmas Thought," Lucile Ewart; song, "Glory to God in the Highest," fifteen girls; recitation, "Dorothy's Christmas Gift," Zeta Voorhees.

There were large congregations at both the morning and evening services when the announced musical programs were rendered as announced and the pastor, Rev. A. C. McCrea, preached appropriate sermons. The edifice was attractively decorated with greens and flowers.

Congregational Church.

Following the morning Christmas service at the Congregational church, the Sunday-school enjoyed a special program, which included instrumental numbers on the organ, piano, 'cello and violins by Mrs. B. T. Barnes, Miss Alice Morgan, William Gaston, Herbert Smith and Clarence Heaume. There were piano duets by Miss Martine Weeks and Miss Elizabeth Martin; an anthem by the choir and informal exercises by the primary department. The program pleased a large number of people who remained after the morning service. W. Paulding De Nike, 'cellist, assisted in the rendition of Christmas music and also gave several solos. There was no evening service.

First Baptist Church.

The announced program was followed at the First Baptist church, yesterday morning and afternoon. The special anthems by the quartet and chorus choir in the morning were especially well rendered, and the sermon by the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, enjoyed. In the afternoon the pregared program was followed by the Sunday-school, in which members of the Junior and Primary departments took part. Mrs. L. W. Serrell was in charge of the Junior department and Mrs. J. A. Powlison the Primary department. Mrs. Dudley S. Miller and Miss Marguerite Serrell assisted at the piano. Dr. Chambliss gave a brief but interesting talk to the school. The offering was for The Day Nursery.

Grace M. E. Church.

Owing to the critical illness of Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons, the pastor, whose death occurred later in the day, the members of Grace M. E. church made no especial preparation for a Christmas service in the morning yesterday. The pulpit was occupied in the morning by Rev. Dr. H. D. Starks, of Montclair, and he delivered a Christmas sermon. In the afternoon at the Sunday-school exercises Dr. Starks made a short address to the school. There was the singing of carols, Superintendent W. J. Conroy being in charge. Recitations were given by the following children under direction of Miss Florence Smalley and Miss Edith Mager: Alma Coombs, Clara Bodenheimer, Gladys Brokaw, Samuel Bodine, Roy Pope, Helen McDonald, Helen Nelson, Evelyn Nelson, Edna Mantz, Grace Conover, Marie Van Winkle, Edna Taynor, Harold Taynor, Norman Conover, and Clarence Bodine. No evening service was held on account of D.. Parson's death.

Monroe Avenue M. E. Church.

The church and Sunday-school united in a special program at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church yesterday morning, the features being the singing of anthems by the choir and carols by the school. Miss Charlotte Aldrich had charge of the school program. Rev. E. E. Roberson, the pastor, delivered an appropriate Christmas sermon. In the evening the choir sang Christmas anthems and Mr. Roberson preached again.

Presbyterian Sunday Schools.

As in former years, the Sunday schools of Hope, Warren and Bethel chapels assembled at a union service yesterday afternoon with the Crescent Avenue Sunday-school. The pulpit was banked with palms, ferns and flowers for the occasion and Rev. Dr. Zelie presided. In addition to the singing of carols by the entire gathering and solos contributed by the Crescent Avenue church choir, the program was as follows:

Responsive reading, led by L. R. Hopton, superintendent of Crescent Avenue school; prayer, Rev. F. D. Tildon, pastor of Bethel chapel; responsive reading, E. E. Parvin, superintendent of Warren chapel; responsive reading, led by G. Herbert Condict, superintendent of Hope chapel; address, Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie; prayer, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor Warren chapel; benediction, Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel.

First Presbyterian Church.

The program at the First Presbyterian church was carried out as detailed in Saturday's Daily Press. The musical part was in charge of Organist Clifford A. Braider and appropriate sermons were preached by Rev. Dr. Herring. In the afternoon the Sunday-school took part in an appropriate program of recitations and singing.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Rev. Mr. Attlee, pastor of the Baptist church, is encouraged by the larger attendances at the services lately. Yesterday there were more out than usual at the morning and evening services.

A company of young people spent Saturday evening in Plainfield and incidently took in "His Honor, the Mayor," which they greatly enjoyed.

Mrs. Laura Sisty, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Susan Manning, of Brookside avenue, has returned to her home in Netcong.

Miss Nellie Manning, of Front street, has returned to Irvington, where she is engaged as teacher in the public school.

Miss Marjorie Voorhees, of Asbury Park, is spending the holidays with her aunt, Emma Manning, of Brookside avenue.

Florence Johnson, of Plainfield avenue, spent Sunday at Chamberlain's Corners with Mrs. Oscar Thorne.

Sumner Randolph, of Plainfield avenue, lost a valuable horse by blood poisoning on Saturday.

Prayer meeting will not be held on Tuesday in consequence of the holidays.

William Faulks, of Maple avenue, is confined to the house by illness.

JEWS PHYSICALLY INFERIOR SAYS PRESIDENT ELIOT

In addressing the newly formed Menorah Society at Harvard, the membership of which is composed of the Hebrews attending the university, President Eliot made an amazing statement on the physical infirmity of Jewish people. He said:

"Your race has not had a chance to develop physically and intellectually as it should, but now that you have obtained freedom in this country your young men should be quick to seize your opportunities.

"It as a well-known fact that if you take a representative gathering of, say, 1,000 Jews, you will find them distinctly inferior in stature and physical development to a similar gathering of any other race. This is the natural result of the hardships which your race has undergone for many generations.

"The Jews here at college neglect the out-of-door life, and I urge you to do all in your power to develop splendid physiques. There used to be a glorious time when the Jewish race possessed a strong martial spirit. There is no reason why the Jews should not make excellent soldiers, and I think it would be a good thing for as many of you as can to join the militia."

—The Common Council will hold an adjourned meeting tonight to pay bills for the month and close of the various accounts for the year.

THE CHRISTMAS MYSTERY PLAY,

EAGER HEART

will be presented at the Parish House of Grace Church on THURSDAY EVENING, at eight o'clock. The play is a revival by the Elizabethan Dramatic Society of the quaint and primitive dramatic art of the period, and comes from the pen of Mr. A. M. Buckton, who has to his credit other plays of equal literary excellence. Miss Brooke Peeters, of New York, will be responsible for the title roll and will be supported by a cast from the young people of the church. Tickets for the play are FIFTY CENTS (50c). 12 23 3

Dec. 26

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Lottie Blair Parker has already made a reputation with her "Way Down East," but she added to it appreciably when she wrote "Under Southern Skies." Her plays are all of the clear variety, with action galore. In addition she works in a prettiness of detail that a man might strive for all time to bring about, but which a woman can do innately. "Under Southern Skies" tells of life in lower Louisiana in the period around 1875 and necessarily brings in the quaint costumes of that day. The scenery used in "Under Southern Skies" is suggestive of the South in every one of its details showing picturesque scenes of home life and other interesting phases of southern life. It will be at the New Plainfield theatre Christmas afternoon and night.

A strong heart story of Indiana, from the pen of the gifted Ramsay Morris, is announced as the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday night. It was suggested by the strong story of the "Ninety and Nine," made famous by the late Ira D. Sankey and in addition to having enjoyed a run of several months in New York has two road seasons to its credit. It is very strong scenically and with the original metropolitan cast should make an acceptable offering for the patrons of the local playhouse.

Leonard Grover's new comedy drama, "The Minister's Daughters," is a very pleasing and strong play, and is in the hands of an exceptionally good company. The play deals with pathos and comedy so intermingled that the audience pay earnest attention to its action from the first curtain, until the fall of the final one. This play staged in an elaborate manner, will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night.

"WHERE'S THE FIRE? THERE!"
A Scene from "Minister's Daughters" at the New Plainfield Theatre Friday evening, December 27.

"Thorns and Orange Blossoms," that masterly dramatic conception taken from the novel of Bertha M. Clay, comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night. The cast has been strengthened; the scenery all bright and new and many more electrtical effects added. Both press and public in Eastern cities acclaim the production one of the prettiest en tour this season, and no expense has been spared by the Rowland & Clifford Amusement Co. to make the production give satisfaction.

ARRESTED, HE PROTECTS FAMILY'S IDENTITY.

Several persons Saturday identified a prisoner in the Newark Police Headquarters as a man who was seen in or near their houses at the time of recent robberies in which plunder of the aggregate value of several thousand dollars was carried away. The fellow described himself as Henry Tomlinson, twenty-four years old, of the Mills Hotel, Seventh avenue and Thirty-sixth street, New York. He later admitted that the name and address are fictitious. He refuses to tell anything about himself other than that up to the time of his arrest after a lively chase in Newark on Thursday afternoon he made his home with his mother and sister.

That he is a resident of New York the police are satisfied, but he declares that he will go to prison for twenty years, if necessary, rather than disgrace his mother and sister by revealing his own name and their identity and residence.

"I won't tell you anything," he declared to the police. "If you want to know anything more about me it is up to you to find out."

"Tomlinson" will not admit that he is the "gentlemanly" sneak thief who has been seen several times and has obtained much plunder, but formal charges have been made against him.

Elks Will Give Children a Treat.

Poor children of Orange will be entertained on Christmas Day by Orange Lodge of Elks in the city armory. Bryon G. Harlan, a noted singer, will be Santa Claus, and dispense gifts to the children. There will be an entertainment in conjunction with the distribution of good things.

$15,000 For Three Cows.

Three thoroughbred belted Holstein cows, declared to be the best of their breed in New England, were sold Saturday at Worcester, Mass., to Wendell Andrews West, of Englewood, N. J. They were bought from G. Harry Dodge, who received $15,000 for the animals.

FORBIDS PUBLICITY IN MASONIC AFFAIRS

Grand Master MacGregor, of the New Jersey Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, has sent out from the State headquarters at Trenton a drastic order entailing silence on all of the twenty-six thousand members of the order in New Jersey so far as the affairs of Masonry are concerned.

Members of the subordinate lodges are forbidden to give out any information concerning the order, and officers may only make known such information as may properly interest the public. Enforcement of this order will prevent the making public of annual elections now being held.

Complaint has been made that men of prominence in public life have been using lodge meetings as agencies through which to discuss public questions, and that reports of such addresses have been made public. Jersey Masons, it is said, will communicate with members of the order in other States with a view of preventing all publicity in the future.

A speech of Judge Dill, of the Court of Errors and Appeals, on Messrs. Harriman and Fish, and made in a Masonic meeting, found its way into print. This incensed the Grand Master, it is said, and was one of the reasons for the order of silence.

WOULD NOT MAKE BEER FLAVORED WITH TAR.

One of two unusual suits at law in which the brewery firm of P. Ballantine & Sons is the complainant and the Public Service Corporation is the defendant will be tried today in the Supreme Court in Newark before Judge Heisley. This action is for the recovery of damages to date of $30,000 besause of alleged pollution of wells from which the brewery company formerly derived a part of its water supply, by tar, naphtholine, ammonia and other chemicals and minerals, which escape from the gas making plant of the Public Service Corporation, which is near the brewery. The other action is a suit in chancery to enjoin the Public Service Corporation from further polluting the wells.

In the Chancery Court the bill filed sets forth that the Ballantine corporation prior to July, 1903, pumped water, which is used for coaling and other purposes, from two wells situated more than 200 feet south from the southerly line of the gas plant premises. The Public Service Corporation took possession of the gas plant in June, 1903, and in the course of its operations, the bill says, permitted large quantities of the chemicals named to escape, the result being that they percolated into the wells, clogged the pipes and ruined the water for the purpose for which it had been used.

The matter was taken up with the Public Service Corporation, which did several things to remedy the trouble, but to no purpose. The brewery company bored new wells, but those also became polluted, and the brewery, in addition to spending about $20,000 in efforts to overcome the trouble, has been obliged to pay the city about $10,000 for water, besides increasing the annual operating expenses of its plant about $4,000 on account of the pollution of the wells.

SISTERS MEET AFTER BEING PARTED 45 YEARS.

Separated in New York when they landed from Sheldon, England, forty-five years ago, Mrs. John J. Coombs, of Athol, Mass., yesterday was reunited with her sister, Mrs. Helen Graham, of Elizabeth, N. J.

During that time the women had searched for each other, but it was not until a week ago that Mrs. Coombs received word from a friend that her sister was still living.

Mrs. Graham was shopping in a department store in New York, when she met a friend, who told of a visit to Athol, where she had been the guest of a Mrs. Coombs.

Mrs. Graham learned that Mrs. Coombs was of the same maiden name as herself. Mrs. Graham wrote to Mrs. Coombs, and the latter's answer indicated that the women were related. Mrs. Graham, determined to confirm her hope that Mrs. Coombs was her sister and went to Athol yesterday. There was a pathetic meeting at the railroad station.

The two sisters will spend Christmas together and Mrs. Graham contemplates moving to Athol.

Dickinson Resigns from Club.

Colonel Samuel D. Dickinson has sent his resignation as a member of the organization bearing his name to the executive committee, and it is now in the hands of John Mitchell, the club's president. The letter, which is said to contain some very interesting matter, will be taken up for consideration at the next meeting of the club, on January 8. County Clerk Rotherham said yesterday, as things looked, he expected to have an easy time being elected county chairman.

$500 License Fee in Bloomfield.

The Bloomfield Town Council Thursday night, by a vote of 4 to 2, raised the fee of all liquor licenses from $300 to $500 a year, to take effect July 1 next. Clergymen and church were back of the movement. The saloonkeepers expected the amendment would be defeated.

BY ARTHUR HENRY VESEY

(COPYRIGHT, 1906, by D. APPLETON & COMPANY)

"An American?" He advanced to me as if to lay hands on me. "Do you flatter yourself that your nationality gives you free to play the spy and traitor with impunity? Give me those papers."

I took a step nearer. Instinctively I put my hands at my breast as if to protect the precious papers. But again Helena, distressed at his violence, restrained him.

"Captain Forbes," she pleaded, "pray restrain your anger. It is natural that you should feel the deepest suspicion against Mr. Haddon. But if you will be patient, I am sure he will make all clear to you."

"Miss Brett," he said sternly, "this is a man's work. It is hardly becoming in you to defend one who has traduced your brother's honor. How dare you claim an impostor like this as friend? He must be indeed a clever villain to have so deceived you."

"Mr. Haddon has done enough," she answered proudly, "to justify my faith in him. And let me tell you, Captain Forbes, that I believe in his word so implicitly that I have given him my word that until midnight to-night I shall neither question his motives nor interfere with any action of his. Nor shall I permit another to act on my behalf."

Indignation and surprise fought for mastery, as Forbes answered with resolution:

"I shall refuse to obey you, Miss Brett. You forget that it is not yourself who has been wronged so much as Sir Mortimer and myself. Now, sir, give me those papers that you took from the safe."

For the first time Madame de Varnier, shocked into rigid attention, spoke. Her surprise at the demand forced from her a contemptuous defense of myself.

"You are mad!" she cried involuntarily.

"You see, Miss Brett," exclaimed Forbes, with satisfaction, "his accomplice defends him."

"The papers from the safe, did you say?" asked Helena in slow wonder.

"Perhaps you know that I was imprisoned in the room yonder. It took me three hours to loosen the bar of the window. I made my way round the sloping roof of the towers by the stone gutter to the window of that other room. The window was open. When I gained it, and was about to enter it, I saw this man, whom I believed to be your brother, enter the room, bolt the door behind him, kneel at the safe, open it, and abstract from it a packet of papers which he now has in his pocket."

If Forbes had expected Helena to be dumfounded at this surprising news, his wish was gratified. But it was wonder tempered with infinite joy. The papers that convicted her brother of guilt had been rescued from the cruel clutch of Madame de Varnier. She did not realize at once that I had steered clear of Charybdis only to fall foul to Scylla. The peril of Sir Mortimer's guilt being known was now infinitely greater than it had been half an hour ago. Helena's defense of myself, and Madame de Varnier's untimely interruption, had both alienated all sympathy from Helena and strengthened his conviction that I was one of the conspirators.

If I had kept silent so long, if it seems unmanly that I should have allowed a woman to plead in my behalf—it is because I was racking my brain for a means of escape from the awkward predicament that held me captive.

"I have told you, Captain Forbes, that I have ample reason to believe in the honesty of Mr. Haddon. If he has taken any papers from the safe, it is with my fullest and deepest gratitude. It was the woman there who had stolen them from my brother. They are personal papers. They concern only my mother and myself now that Mortimer is dead. Mr. Haddon will restore them to me."

"I shall forbid that," protested Forbes hotly. "I tell you, Miss Brett, those are papers of State. They belong to the State. I must see that they are placed in the hands of the ministers of the Foreign Office. For the last time, give me those papers."

I leaped at the loophole Helena had offered me. If I could not prevent their falling into the hands of Forbes, at least I could delay that dire event.

"I shall obey you, Miss Brett. Into your hands alone shall I place those papers."

"If you please," she said with dignity, and held out a hand that did not tremble to receive them.

And still I hesitated. I saw the gleam of resolution in the glitter of Forbes' blue eyes. If I produced the paper now it would be only to have the king's messenger snatch them from my grasp. Forbes turned to Helena in angry triumph.

"You see, Miss Brett, he hesitates. The woman and himself are as reluctant that the papers fall into your hands as they are that I obtain them. He thinks that he may trick you, as he has already once tricked me. Is there nothing I can say to shake your blind confidence in this treacherous impostor?"

"Nothing," said Helena, with resolution; but I could see her troubled surprise at my reluctance.

"Then I shall be forced to resort to violence. I am going to have those papers, and at once. If you are so blind to the grave danger of letting this man keep the papers, even for the moment, I am not. How could he have taken them from the safe unless it were with the permission and perhaps at the entreaty of this Madame de Varnier?"

"The inference is clear enough, I should think—she must have left the door of the safe open."

Helena spoke confidently, but trust in me had been put to a sore test.

"Your credulity is very great if you think that. Why, madam, I saw him deliberately work the combination of the safe."

Helena uttered a cry of horror at my supposed treachery. Her trust was shattered.

"I could not dream of a villainy so hypocritical!"

Instinctively she came close to Forbes' side as if for protection. She had read in my eyes that Forbes spoke the truth. No words of mine could convince her now of my sincerity.

Madame de Varnier had been quite forgotten by us all. Until now she had been listening in breathless silence. Forbes' declaration that I had taken the papers must have seemed to her the sheerest absurdity. She had been certain that she had locked the safe; she was equally certain that no one but herself knew the word by which it might be opened. She must have thought, too, that my tacit confession of taking the papers was a ruse to deceive her, though she could not guess its purpose.

But when Captain Forbes asserted with evident sincerity that he had seen me working the combination her anxiety became unendurable. At the risk of being surprised at the safe, she had stolen quietly to the room, thinking herself unobserved. But through our backs had been turned from the room, I had seen her movement by her shadow cast on the floor by the setting sun pouring in the open window through which Captain Forbes had made his entrance.

I clutched the arm of the king's messenger; I made an imperious gesture

"Take it!" She Screamed. "Take it!"

for caution and silence. I pointed to Madame de Varnier disappearing into the little room of the safe. With a motion incredibly light for so heavy a man Forbes tiptoed after her, and watched her open the safe through the half-closed door.

It was only a question of instants before she had thrown open the door of the safe with a cry of dismay. But that instant sufficed.

As Forbes turned his back to me I took swiftly from my pocket the two packets. One envelope was plain, with no writing on it. The other was addressed to Sir Mortimer Brett and bore a foreign stamp.

No word was spoken. I had but to hold the two packets before Helena. In an instant she had hidden in the bosom of her dress the first packet I have mentioned, whose envelope was plain; the other I returned to my pocket.

Madame de Varnier sprang to her feet with the litheness of a tigress. She came toward me as I stood by Forbes' side with a rage that was dreadful in its intensity.

Before I could guess at her purpose she had torn my coat open and seized the packet I had placed there. She pressed it into Forbes' hand. Her bitter rage and disappointment made her oblivious of the fact that she had given only one of the packets.

"Take it!" she screamed. "Take it! Ah, M. Coward, you are clever, but it shall avail you nothing. At least I shall have my revenge."

Forbes buttoned his coat over the papers he had received with an amazed but grim satisfaction. Helena, standing apart from us, was convulsively clenching and unclenching her hands. Unseen by the other two, I cast her a meaning glance that she should exert her strong will to regain her poise. When they looked at her she stood passive and acquiescent. As for myself, I affected an air of chagrin and defeat.

"You will bear me witness, Miss Brett, that I did my best to place the packet in your hand. I can only hope that Captain Forbes will restore you those papers without reading them, or that they are of little importance."

"Little importance!" hissed Madame de Varnier. "Sir, guard those papers well; your ministers at Downing street will not thank you if you lose them. And now, M. Coward, that you have conquered me, but not robbed me of my revenge, how much longer are we to stay here?"

Captain Forbes showed little surprise at the turn affairs had taken. He interpreted Madame de Varnier's move as that of one who had betrayed a confederate for motives of revenge. While he recognized the fact, he mistook the motive.

"And they speak of honor among thieves!" he sneered in an aside to Helena.

I feared that Helena might make an indignant protest. But she said nothing. I supposed her silence dictated by prudence; this was no time to champion my cause. But as I looked at her I read her perplexity in her troubled eyes. I had given her back the papers indeed, but that I should have known the combination was too startling a fact to be accepted without distrust. I could have known the combination only from Madame de Varnier; that proved to me to have been in her confidence. If I had repented and betrayed my accomplice in my remorse, she was prepared for the act itself, but she could no longer trust me.

"As this woman says," Forbes was speaking to me, "there is nothing to detain us here longer. But you, sir, as well as this woman, will leave this room only to be placed under arrest. You must consider yourself my prisoner."

With these words he strode toward the door of the staircase, and turned the handle.

"It is locked," he said sternly. "Who has the key?"

I handed it to him in silence. As he received it from me he glanced meaningly toward Helena. It was one more link in the chain of evidence. I confess I could have wished the key had not been in my pocket.

He turned the key. To the consternation of all of us the door still resisted his efforts. He exerted all his strength to no purpose.

"What new trick is this?" he demanded furiously of me.

"I think," it was to Madame de Varnier I answered, "that Dr. Starva has taken the precaution of insuring himself a free field."

Kissed Pretty Actress.

A dinner for all the company on Christmas Day at Norwich, Conn., is the wager won by Thomas Uri, of the "His Honor, the Mayor" troupe, which gave one of the best performances seen here this year at the New Plainfield theatre on Saturday afternoon and night. Uri bet a friend, Henry Mozart, of Louisville, Ky., that when Miss Botti sang "A Little Girl Like Me," he would be embarrassed, Mozart wagering that on the other hand he would accept her invitation for a kiss. Not knowing the wager, Miss Botti directed her song to Mozart, who promptly jumped on the stage and gave her a smack a ala Olga Nethersole much to the edification of the S. R. O. house Madelyn Marshall, who made such a hit in "The Free Lance" and other corking good shows, threw the house into convulsions of laughter time and again.

No Service At Grace M. E.

Because of the death of Dr. Parsons, no service was held in Grace M. E. church last night. The congregation assembled, not being aware of the pastor's demise, and a short prayer was made by Dr. Carroll, after which the benediction was pronounced. The official board held a meeting later in the evening and arrangements were made for a session tonight at which action will be taken relatives to Dr. Parson's death. The Christmas entertainment, which was to have been given Friday night, will be omitted.

STUYVESANT HIGH SCHOOL DEFEATS THE P. H. S. FIVE.

The Plainfield High School basketball team was snowed under in the P. H. S. gymnasium, Saturday afternoon, when a game with the swift team from the Stuyvesant High School, New York, was played. The final score was 41 to 22. The local five in the first half scored 12 points, while the visitors run up a score of 22. In the last half the New York boys simply ran away from their opponents and the game was never in doubt.

PUPIL ACCUSES TEACHER.

Wallace H. French, principal of the Centre Grove public schools, has been held in $200 bail by Mayor G. W. Payne, of Millville, charged by Richard Taylor, a well-known dairyman, with assault and battery on the son of the latter, who was a pupil at the school.

The boy testified that he was ill and when he asked permission to leave the room the request was refused. He, however, left and when he went back to the room he asserted French struck him with his clenched fist.

Y. M. C. A. Five Won.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball team took the Madison Y. M. C. A. five into camp at the local gymnasium, Saturday night, by a score of 49 to 39. The local team played an especially strong game. At the end of the first half the score was 25 to 22 in favor of the locals and the score of the second half was 24 to 17 in favor of the Plainfield five. No other game was played.

In the City Court.

Nicholas Kelley, of the East End, was arrested Saturday night on a complaint from the hospital that he was causing a disturbance in the laundry in which department his wife is employed. No one appeared against him when the case was called in the city court this morning and the matter was adjourned for a week while the police conduct an investigation.

Doane Favorite For Assessor.

John H. Doane is the favorate among the Second ward members of the city committee for assessor. The vote of that ward in committee stood: Doane, 3; Timpson, 2, and Hand, 1.

—Martin Roth has resigned his position at the Ransom Concrete Works and returned to Sherwin's shoe store.

—B. F. Conover, of Park place, for five years a clerk at Scheuer & Co.'s grocery store on West Front street, has resigned.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Members of the Y. W. C. A. gymnasium are informed that there will be no regular meetings of the classes until January 6, but all young women enrolled in this department are invited to come to the gymnasium Thursday night for an informal hour of games and "stunts." The gymnasium will be opened at 7:45 o'clock.

On Christmas Day, the Young Women's Christian Association rooms will be opened as usual. Late in the afternoon and in the evening, one of the secretaries will be at the rooms to welcome any members or any young women who are not living at home. Plenty of good books and the Christmas number of many magazines can be found in the library. The last noon lunches will be served today and tomorrow.

The members of the Y. W. C. A. are requested to keep New Year's Eve free from any other engagement so that they can attend a "surprise party" which will be given at the association home that night. All who attend the party will be given a treat. Every member is invited to come and bring a friend.

—The annual election of the Watchung Silk Company will be held at the mill on Chatham street, Monday afternoon, January 13, from 2 to 3 o'clock.

THE CITY FATHERS' ROUTINE.

Petitions for One Year Lighting Contracts With P. S. C.—Many Other Petitions.

In its efforts to close up the business of the year the Common Council held another adjourned meeting, last night. Some of the matters considered were of importance, while others were of minor interest and consisted chiefly of receiving petitions and referring old ones to the Common Council of 1908. Councilmen Tyler and Hibbard were the only absentees.

A petition from W. J. Counihan and others asked that methods be adopted to set back buildings on West Second street so that they would come to the building line, and the fact that a fire destroyed a large portion of one of these structures a few days ago made it seem an opportune time to take action in the matter. The properties referred to stand adjacent to the New Plainfield theatre. The petition was referred to the fire and building committee.

Mrs. Lewis C. Hewlitt, of West Front street, protested against the payment of a personal tax for 1904 on the ground that she did not own the amount of property claimed, that her late husband was a veteran of the Civil War and that she is unable to pay the tax. The matter was referred to the finance committee, as was also a petition from R. W. Emerson, who asked to have $33.06, an amount paid for two properties, 1610 Maple street and 1625 Willever street, owned by Maria Kelly. He stated that he engaged Clarence L. Murphy to make the search and was informed that the taxes were paid on the properties and that they had been sold in error under the Martin Act. The amount which Mr. Emerson asked for includes $20, which he paid Mr. Murphy for searching the titles to the property. The petition was referred to the finance committee.

Mrs. Julia B. Keely protested against a $60 sewer assessment against the Estate of Patrick Keely on properties located at 525-533 East Sixth street, claiming that the sewer is no benefit to the property as it is impossible to connect with it. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

Patrick J. Reville asked to have a $2 dog tax remitted, claiming that he did not own a canine, and the proper affidavit accompanying the petion, on motion of Mr. Tolles the tax was cancelled.

The Power Specialty Company, of New York, agents for the Foster Superheater, designed for garbage disposal, requested a conference with the Common Council with a view to installing its system here. The communication stated that a plant was being built in New York and would be ready for operation January 1. The communicatiton was referred to the public affairs committee.

Petitions were received from the Board of Trade and Plainfield Council, No. 402, United Commercial Travelers, urging that a one year electric light contract be made with the Public Service Corporation, instead of one for five years. They were both referred to the public affairs committee.

City Engineer Gavett reported that between December 1 and 11 eleven sewer permits were granted and $11 turned over to the city treasurer. Constable Peter V. Weaver's bond was presented and referred to the corporation counsel for approval.

In accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Mellick, of the fire and building committee, which was adopted, a claim for $108.06 against the street and sewer committee was cancelled. The bill was for brick used for pavement in front of No. 3 Engine House. As an offset to the bill the fire department has allowed the street department lengths of hose to use in its work. Councilmen Ginna and Tolles voted against the resolution more in a spirit of fun.

On motion of Mr. Mellick the petition of N. Peterson asking for permission to move a house on Evona avenue a distance of 500 feet was granted.

A resolution by Mr. Tolles, which was adopted, provided that the sewer assessments against the Board of Education on property located at Essex street and Darrow avenue and Berckman street be cancelled. These assessments, the corporation counsel advised, were made in error and should be cancelled, and charged to the city at large.

Another resolution offered by Mr. Tolles, and adopted, authorized the city treasurer to make the following distribution of taxes from the con-

Assistant Bill Clerk—Enoch S. Clouting, of Cape May, $500.

Other patronage to be distributed as follows:

Essex, one assistant to the bill clerk, three doorkeepers and two pages; Atlantic, two pages; Bergen, assistant to supervisor of bills, one doorkeeper and one page; Burlington, assistant to clerk and one page; Camden, one doorkeeper; Cumberland, one doorkeeper; Gloucester, one doorkeeper; Mercer, two doorkeepers and one page or postmaster of the House; Morris, one doorkeeper and one page; Ocean, one doorkeeper; Passaic, two doorkeepers, one page and postmaster; Salem, one doorkeeper; Union, one doorkeeper and one page.

Doorkeepers receive $350 for the session and pages $200. The Speaker has the naming of a private secretary at $600. Atlantic or Salem county will name an assistant private secretary at $400.

HE'S GOT THE JOB AND WANTS THE MONEY

Ignatz Weingreen, a New York lawyer, communicated with the Common Council, last night, stating that he had been retained to collect the labor bill for the Italians employed on the Southside sanitary sewer under the original contract with Peter Morgan, of Poughkeepsie, and after giving the names and numbers of the Italians he represents, asked that a prompt settlement of the claims be made. Upon the suggestion of President Daniel the communication was referred to Corporation Counsel Marsh.

There are a number of Italians who were employed under the original contract and when Mr. Morgan failed to keep his agreement, attachments were secured on materials used in construction. Some of the claims have been settled, but the labor bill was never paid for the reason, it was said, that it could not be until it was ascertained how much money would be left upon the completion of the work.

Dr. Hurlbut Receives a Gift.

Rev. Dr. Jesse Lyman Hurlbut, formerly pastor of the First M. E. church, but now of the Park Methodist church, Bloomfield, was given a happy surprise at the Christmas exercises by the Sunday-school Sunday night. The superintendent of the school walked on the platform with a machine, at the same time requesting Dr. Hurlbut to inspect it. The superintendent began turning a crank and to the surprise of both pastor and congregation crisp new one dollar bills began to fall out one by one. Dr. Hurlbut was asked to catch them and when he counted up he had an even $100 as a gift from the congregation.

CITY-BOROUGH CONTRACT

North Plainfield Commission Asks for 90 Days Option on Sewage Scheme.

PLAN FOR SPECIAL ELECTION.

Plainfield Common Council Arranges to Have Favorable Action Taken Early in the New Year.

The North Plainfield Sewage Commission, of which William J. Buttfield is secretary, communicated with the Plainfield Common Council at its adjourned meeting, last night, in reference to sanitary sewer connection with the city's system as outlined in a report previously presented. After quoting the provisions of the report, which calls for a charge of $25 per one million gallons of sewage cared for by the city for the first ten years, the charge to be adjusted by a commission at the end of each succeeding ten years, Mr. Buttfield asked the Council to give the borough a ninety-day proposition which could be submitted to the taxpayers in that municipality for a vote.

In reporting back this communication later, Chairman Ginna, of the street and sewer committee, stated that recent conferences had been held with the borough commission and the price named in the original report was considered a fair one. He then recommended that the matter be referred to the 1908 Council with the suggestion that the figures stated in the report be the basis for negotiations. The recommendation took the form of a motion and while it was adopted, of course, it will not be binding on the incoming body.

It is the desire of the borough commission to secure a system of sewers for the borough at the earliest possible date and in order to connect with the Plainfield plant it is necessary to first secure the consents of at least one-half of the property-owners of the borough. This will have to be done by a vote and it is for the purpose of laying a definite proposition before the taxpayers that the commission communicated with the Council last night.

It was referred to the new Council so that action can be taken as soon as possible.

STREET COMMITTEE BUSINESS REFERRED

During the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, Chairman Ginna, of the street and sewer committee, who retires this year, reported back a great many petitions and asked that they be referred to the 1908 Council. The petitions were as follows:

Plainfield Land and Improvement Company for a sewer, provided for; S. A. Ginna and others for the extension of Kensington avenue; B. O. Bowers and H. C. Corsa, overflow of Green brook; W. S. Chadbourne, proposed new street from South Plainfield; E. M. French, referring to other petitions; H. R. Linbarger, for the acceptance of East Second street east of its present terminus; George Viebrock, for sewers on East Second street, provided for; C. A. Sturtevant for sanitary sewer in Lake street; Highland Park Realty Company, sidewalks and crosswalks on Leland avenue; Central New Jersey Land Improvement Company, for ordinance vacating portion of Hill street; H. W. Beebe and W. M. Wherry, against burning of leaves; Town Improvement Association, asking for measures to widen streets; E. P. Williams, storm sewer in Darrow avenue; J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company and B. Frank Coriell, for macadamizing Stebbins place; Muhlenberg Hospital, for widening and macadamizing Randolph road; Edward Willis, grading East Seventh street; Charles H. Hand, to establish building line on Watchung avenue; Ransome Concrete Company, for grading South Second street; J. F. Darby, crosswalks on Sandford avenue; Plainfield Land and Building Company, sewers in Denmark road and Dixie Lane, provided for in previous work.

Court Wished Him "Merry Xmas."

Isadore Kossow, a Russian peddler, was arrested by Detective-Sergeant Flynn, yesterday, for selling sweaters and woollen goods without a license. He pleaded ignorance of American laws when arraigned in the city court this morning and Judge Runyon suspended sentence with a warning and a wish for a "Merry Christmas."

NEW CITY HALL LOCATION

City Fathers Considering the Purchase of the Powlison and Jones Building.

IS IN EAST FRONT STREET.

Reported That It Can Be Bought for $40,000—Preferable to Smalley Building.

The Common Council has apparently abandoned the plan to purchase the Smalley building in North avenue as a city hall and is now negotiating for the Powlinson and Jones big brick structure in East Front street. An executive session of the city fathers was held last night when it was decided to discuss the subject again with the new members of that body next Monday night with the idea of making the deal. The present owners ask $40,000 for the structure, which is amply large enough for the accommodation of all departments of the municipal government.

The East Front street structure, it is said, is much better suited for the purposes. It would accommodate the police department on the first floor in addition leaving ample space for the tax collector, city clerk and street commissioner as well as the overseer of the poor. The second floor could be used as a council chamber as well as for committee rooms and mayor's quarters. On the top floor there would be room for the board of health and several other departments of the city government.

OLD SOLDIER GETS CHRISTMAS PENSION

Christmas cheer in the form of $500 back money and a pension of $15 a month has come to Floyd Symons, of Berkeley Heights, one of the oldest men in this vicinity. As a veteran of several Indian uprisings and the War of the Rebellion, Symons has an honorable record but various difficulties have prevented him from securing the recognittion necessary to secure assistance from Uncle Sam.

The old soldier has passed the four score mile stone but still enjoys his mental and physical capacities and is well known throughout Union county. The fighting in his system developed in his boyhood days and when the Red Men grew restless in the late '50's he was one of the volunteers who helped put down their uprisings. His frontier duty was served under General Hancock and when the Civil War broke out he was again in the ranks. He was wounded a number of times.

Friends of Symons have been seeking to secure the pension for him for a long time but it was not until this week that success came to them.

TRAVELING LIBRARIES ARE A GOOD THING

The Senator from Union county introduced a bill which became a law in April of last year, for the purpose of giving the State's correctional institutions access to and advantage of traveling libraries.

As a result of this act twenty-four travelling libraries have been placed in the institutions of the State.

"The object of punishment should be to make the criminal a better person and anything, proper reading in particular, which will life the mind or plant in the imagination the good, the ideal and the virtuous, is certainly of benefit to the State in the creation of a worthy citizenship from characters of the most unpromising nature.

"Work along this line should be continued for the purpose of helping the unfortunates who want to learn and to have a chance to lead better lives in the future.

"The small appropriation from the State, amounting to $1,000, has been a sum well invested and it is to be hoped that the policy of the State may continue to recognize its wisdom."

An Early Morning Blaze.

A still alarm was received at Fire Headquarters at 1 o'clock this morning for a slight blaze at the home of F. T. Gidney, 817 Richmond street. It was evidently started by matches left in a coat that was hung under a stairway and which became ignited in some way. The chemical engine and No. 2 hose wagon were sent our and quickly extinguished the flames. The damage is placed at $25 to the house and $50 to clothes. Harry Haydon owns the house.

MRS. M. E. KIMBALL DEAD

Founder and President of Children's Home Passes Away in 79th Year.

TRULY A VERY NOBLE WOMAN.

Head of Rasores Club and Prominent Charity Worker Succumbs to Pneumonia—Survived By One Son.

Mrs. Marianna Everett Kimball, founder and for thirty years president of the Children's Home and probably the most zealous charity worker in all Union county, died at 7:30 o'clock this morning, after two days illness with pneumonia, at her home at Truell Court. She was seized with the grip ten days ago but her condition was not alarming until Sunday when symtoms of pneumonia developed. She was in her seventy-ninth year and had been active in doing good deeds until the last.

Mrs. Kimball was a niece of Edward Everett, at one time United States Senator from Massachusetts and later minister to the Court of St. James. The venerable Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale was her cousin. Her father, Thomas Huse Everett, came from a promihent old New England family.

Mrs. Kimball was born at West Newbury, Mass., on Feb. 8, 1829. She was married to Dr. Horace Kimball in Boston, Mass., in the fall of 1870. Dr. Kimball practised dentistry in New York city for a number of years and upon his retirement, he and his wife removed to this city about twenty years ago.

Mrs. Kimball organized the Children's Home some thirty odd years ago. The first building stood on Grove street near Rockview avenue. Later the Home was removed to Hillside avenue and finally to its handsomely appointed building at Westervelt and Jackson avenues. It is one of the most worthy charities in the county and its existence is due solely to the efforts of this noble woman.

Among the other associations in which Mrs. Kimball took an active interest was the Rasores Club, a literary organization of cultured women. She was president of this organization at the time of her death. She was an active member of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church and was a faithful attendant at its services.

Mrs. Kimball is survived by one son, James Everett Kimball, and by a sister, Miss Lucy H. Everett.

The funeral services will take place at the residence of her son, No. 633 West Seventh street, on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment will be made at the convenience of the family.

MOVE TO ABOLISH LOCAL BILL BOARDS

The Town Improvement Association, in a communication, called the attention of the Common Council last night to what it termed "The billboard nuisance," requesting that some action be taken to abolish it. Among other things the association said that the boards not only disfigured the city, were excessive in size, were a hinderence in time of fire, but that they serve as a screen for immorality and filth.

It was suggested that a tax be levied for the boards, that a committee of three be appointed to approve the kind of posters to be displayed.

Councilman George P. Mellick, a member of the public affairs committee, to whom was referred the communication, made an earnest request that prompt action be taken next year. He said that he regretted that he would not be in a position to further this worthy matter. Many persons had spoken to him about the unsightly bill boards about the city, especially on Watchung avenue, near the railroad station, where people in going to and from the trains are hemmed in by huge boards which are often covered with objectionable posters.

Mr. Mellick said that he would personally hand Mr. Tyler, chairman of the public affairs committee, the communication and urge him to secure the needed reform.

Glass Smasher Fined.

Joseph Brown, colored, was fined $5 in the borough court yesterday on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was arrested Saturday night by Marshal Pope after he had smashed a glass door in a Somerset street store and was trying to demolish a window pane. He failed to produce the fine and was committed to jail.

F. H. Stein Now Ticket Agent.

F. H. Stein, formerly of Somerville, has succeeded E. D. Ellwanger as ticket agent at the Eastbound station of the New Jersey Central.

SOMERSET COURT OPENS

Justice Bergen Makes Some Important Announcements as to Terms.

SOME LICENSES ARE RENEWED.

Mayor-elect Townsend Foreman of Grand Jury—Local Cases On the Calendar.

The December term of the Somerset County Circuit Court opened at Somerville this morning with Justice James Bergen on the bench. Judge Schenck was also present, together with lawyers from all parts of the county and this city. Justice Bergen announced that hereafter the opening days for the court in Somerset county would be the second Tuesday in April and September and the third Tuesday in December. Heretofore the opening days have been the fourth Tuesday in December and the third Tuesday in April and September.

J. S. Bunn, of Somerville, was appointed court crier. It was further announced that all Supreme Court cases would be referred to Judge Vail, of the Circuit Court.

In the matter of license applications, several were laid over, among them a number of old ones. The court explained as its reason for so doing that it desired to make an investigation to learn whether the granting of the applications would be conducive to the best interests of the community in which the licensed place is located. Among the applications refused was that of David Drake, of Smalleytown. Those of Joseph Blatz and Richard A. Boyce, of the borough, were granted.

Mayor-elect Samuel Townsend, of North Plainfield, is foreman of the Grand Jury. Other members from the borough are George T. Rogers and Harrison Coddington. Charles Parkhurst Sebring is a member from North Plainfield township.

There are but few cases on the calendar of interest to Plainfield. One is that of Edward Vanderhoff against Richard Baldwin for the replevin of a horse. V. W. Nash, Jr., represents the plaintiff and Francis J. Blatz, the defendant. Another case is that of Horace Coddington against George H. Fairchild, on note. Clarence Garretson represents the plaintiff and F. J. Blatz the defendant. The third case is that of the Electric Vehicle Company against H. L. McGee on contract. Carlos C. Gallup represents the plaintiff and Reed & Coddington the defendant.

MARTINE ARRANGING A TOUR FOR BRYAN

"Farmer-orator" James E. Martine is arranging for William Jennings Bryan to visit Jersey City during his promised three days' stay in New Jersey early in February. He will arrive here on February 6 as told exclusively in The Daily Press some days ago.

In this connection, Mr. Martine consulted with Senator William H. Gebhardt, of Hunterdon county, and Assemblyman Joseph Tumulty, of Hudson county, in Jersey City last Saturday. It is also probable that additional speeches will be made at Camden, Paterson and Newark. The biggest meeting will be held at the Newark auditorium. Bryan will also probably spend a day at Cedarbrook farm as Mr. Martine's guest.

Grace M. E. Official Board Meets.

At a meeting of the official board of Grace M. E. church, last night, resolutions of condolence of the death of Dr. Parsons were passed and copies will be sent the bereaved family. It was decided to have the pulpit filled by supplies until the annual conference meeting in this city next April.

Mr. Schloss Meets With Accident.

Emanuel Schlos, of the firm of J. Scheuer & Co., of West Front street, received a painful injury to his hand, yesterday, while cutting some meat in the market. The knife accidentally slipped, inflicting a deep gash in the flesh. A physician attended to the wound and no serious results are feared.

Miss Runkle in Newark.

Miss Mary Runkle, of West Eighth street, has been the guest of Miss Louise E. Polhemus, of Washington street, Newark. Last night Miss Runkle attended a brilliant gathering of society folk at the second of the fortnightly dances at Oration Hall, Newark.

Rev. E. E. Roberson, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, has again assumed his pastoral duties, having been much benefitted by a vacation of one month.

WATCHUNG HUNT CLUB FULLY EXONERATED

National Association Scores C. D. Freeman for Making Groundless Charges.

FRED ALPERS IS VINDICATED.

Colonia Man Without Just Cause Put Reputable Men In False Light—He's Officially "Roasted."

The Watchung Hunt Club, its stewards and Fred Alpers, a gentleman rider, all of whom were concerned in charges preferred by Charles D. Freeman, of Colonia, following the steeplechase meet in May and June of this year, have been completely exonerated by the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association, after a most searching investigation. An investigation with the same result had been previously made by the stewards of the hunt club.

The trouble grew out of charges made by Mr. Freeman, then master of the hounds, that the meeting last spring was not properly watched over by the stewards and by the club officials. He demanded that the license of the club be withdrawn. His action was based on a rumor that Mr. Alpers, who rode Mr. Freeman's horse, "Strongheart," on the second day of the meet, had "pulled" the animal to allow another horse on which Mr. Alpers had a large bet, to win. "Strongheart" was one of seven horses in the race in question and finished second and an investigation of his record shows, it is said, that this was the best finish ever made by the horse. It developed that Mr. Alpers had placed a bet of $10 with the bookmaker on "Strongheart" to win. "Diana" finished first.

Mr. Freeman was abroad at the time and immediately following his return the charges were made. The stewards of the hunt club, Charles Pfizer, of Bernardsville; H. L. Herbert, of Lakewood; Julian Gerard, of New York; P. F. Collier, of Monmouth county, and Lewis Young, of the Union County Hounds, began an investigation and upon the completion of it the matter was taken up fully with the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association.

In the meantime, Charles C. Marshall, who was at that time president of the hunt club, sent the following communication to The Daily Press, which was published on Thursday, June 6:

Editor, The Daily Press:

Referring to articles in the daily papers touching the races of the Watchung Hunt, will you permit me space to make a statement in behalf of that organization?

It is implied that the races were in some respects conducted in violation of the law of the State of New Jersey; in what respects is not stated. No such violation is known to the officers of the club.

No arrangement of any kind existed between the club and the bookmakers. The club received no money from them, offered them no privileges or protection, and had nothing to do with them. So far as they were present, they were present on the grounds as other individuals were, through the purchase of their own tickets, with the same rights as the general public—neither more nor less. Any notion that they were present under the protection of the club, or for its profit or advantage, I am authorized to state is unqualifiedly false.

As to the rumors of "jockeying" referred to, I may say that if facts tending to sustain charges of that offense are brought to the attention of the stewards of the hunt, those facts will be thoroughly investigated and acted upon in a manner that will give entire satisfaction to those presenting them. Furthermore, the National Steeplechase Association, under whose rules and general jurisdiction the races were held, is always ready to receive and hear charges of this character, and to punish the offender with the severity which the disgraceful character of his act demands.

Yours respectfully,
CHARES C. MARSHALL,
President of the Watchung Hunt,
30 Broad street,
New York City.

Since the completion of the investigation of the charges by the hunt club, the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association has been leaving no stones unturned in making a minute inquiry into all the facts. The offi-

William Cramer, of Brooklyn, has been visiting friends at Pluckemin.

SOMERVILLE.

Augustus C. Linsley, of South street, who was officer in the custom house in New York, was stricken with apoplexy on the street in that city on Saturday and died before members of his family could reach him. He was about seventy years of age and had resided here for many years. He was formerly a conductor on the Central Railroad of New Jersey. For many years he has been an active member of the Second Reformed church. He was a member of General Wadsworth Post, G. A. R. The funeral will be held from the Second Reformed church this afternoon.

An interesting Christmas service was held in the Second Reformed church Sunday morning. The Sunday-school attended in a body, marching in from the Sunday-school room. There was special music by the school and choir and Rev. Dr. E. G. Read, the pastor, made a short address. The church was very prettily trimmed.

The primary department of the First Reformed Sunday-school held its Christmas exercises in the chapel on Saturday afternoon. It was a very pleasant affair.

Miss Helen Bascom, of Hackettstown Centenary Collegiate Institute, and brothers, Frederick and Perry Bascom, of Rutgers College, New Brunswick, are spending the holiday season at the home of their parents, Rev. and Mrs. P. C. Bascom, in West Second street, Bound Brook.

Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Livingston, of Bound Brook, have gone to Augusta, Ga., where they will spend several months.

J. Theodore Miller has been confined to his home in Bound Brook with a severe attack of the grip.

Miss Emma Car, of South Bound Brook, is spending some time with relatives at Coeymans, N. Y.

Mrs. Thomas Apgar, of South Bound Brook, has been visiting friends at Weston.

CANDY AND GUM ARE SCHOOL SPECIALTIES.

Children of the public school at Swedesboro are having the time of their lives. All day they can sit in school and chew gum or eat candy, and when their supply runs out they can go to their teachers and buy more, for every teacher now runs a confectionery store and sells the children the candy they wish to buy.

The profit from these sales is to be used to purchase a piano for the new $38,000 schoolhouse, now in course of erection. Of course, the rule forbidding children eating in school hours has not been revoked, but under the present circumstances it is but natural that the teachers cannot always see when it is being broken.

AGE OF PROTESTANTISM PAST, DR. SMYTH ASSERTS

The Rev. Dr. Newman Smyth, a member of the Yale Corporation and for twenty-five years pastor of the Center church, the largest and most conservative Congregational church in New Haven, Conn., electrified his congregation Sunday morning by declaring that the age of protestantism is past, that it is no longer needed. He said the churches are all split up and are becoming more so every day. They no longer have power over the people or the State. He said that the time for a new Catholicism is at hand and that the sooner people realize it the better.

The Rev. Artemas J. Haynes, pastor of the United church, said in his sermon yesterday that neither he nor his church would take any part in the coming $6,000 a week revival by J. Wilbur Chapman. All the other Congregational churches are in it.

These two sermons have shaken New Haven, the stronghold of Congregationalism in New England.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Communion services will be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church the first Sunday in January.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold a business meeting Friday night.

There will be a joint prayer-meeting of the church and Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church Friday night.

"What Happened to Santa," will be the name of a cantata to be given by the Sunday-school of the Park Avenue Baptist church Monday night.

The pastor's class for young people of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will be held Thursday afternoon, instead of Wednesday, this week.

The choir of the First Baptist church will repeat its Christmas music Sunday night, comprising the special anthems and solo parts by the quartet.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church, has decided to continue the "Conquest Mission Study Course," commencing January 1.

The week of prayer services will be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, commencing January 5, and a service will be held on the first four evenings of that week.

The Christmas entertainment to be given at Monroe Avenue M. E. church Monday night, December 30, will be presented by members of the Sunday-school. There will be the usual distributions of gifts to the members of the school.

The Sunday-school of Faith chapel will hold its Christmas exercises and entertainment Friday night, when there will be the usual presentation of gifts and general good time, under the direction of L. W. Randolph, superintendent. The school will also sing carols and give recitations.

The Young Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will meet in the lecture room Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The topic will be "Manoah's Wife, Sanctified Common Sense," and Mrs. Frederick K. Thompson will be the leader. There will be an address by Mrs. Heinrich, a missionary, and the members of all the missionary societies of the church are invited to attend.

Rev. Dr. T. L. Gardner, editor of The Sabbath Recorder, will occupy the pulpit at the Seventh-Day Baptist church on Saturday. After that the trustees of the church will decide upon the arrangements for pulpit supplies until July 1, when Rev. Edward Shaw, of Milton, Wis., will assume the pastorate. It is believed that Dr. Gardner and Rev. A. H. Lewis will share in the work.

BISHOP CONFERS HOLY ORDERS.

Three Seminarians Enter the Priesthood.

In the chapel of the Immaculate Conception at Seton Hall College, Saturday morning, Holy Orders were conferred on three seminarians by Bishop O'Connor. The new priests are the Rev. Thomas J. Martin, of Eighth street, Newark; the Rev. James V. Rutledge, of Morristown, and the Rev. Cammillo Laponte, of Stigilano, Italy. Father Martin celebrated his first mass at St. Joseph's church, Newark, yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, and Father Rutledge will say his first mass Christmas Day. Hhe has chosen the Church of the Assumption, Morristown, as te place.

Fathers Martin and Rutledge will both remain at the seminary for a while, but Father Laponte will be assigned to parish work in the Newark diocese.

TYPHOID ATTACKS BURLINGTON

Attributed There, as in Trenton, to Delaware River.

Despite heroic efforts of the Board of Health to check its spread, typhoid fever is assuming more the character and size of a dangerous epidemic at Burlington. Up to midnight twenty-nine new cases and one death had been officially reported by the health commissioners for the twenty days of December. Nine new cases developed last week and three more cases were unofficially reported yesterday.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Intercollegiate football, which has been barred from the Northwestern University for two years, will be resumed at the opening of the season of 1908. The decision of the trustees of the university was read yesterday by President Harris, in the presence of 1,500 students, and was greeted with cheers. The annual football contests, however, are to be limited to three intercollegiate games.

The Dartmouth Athletic Council is said to be endeavoring to arrange an athletic alliance with Princeton, and that the efforts of the Williamstown athletes are likely to be crowned with success. Since the bad beating that the Tigers administered to Dartmouth two years ago the two institutions have not met on the athletic field. The suspension of relations was caused by no ill feeling, but was forced by matters that the authorities at Princeton considered sufficiently strong to prompt the ending of athletic meetings with Dartmouth. Dartmouth's move to renew relationship with Princeton follows close on the heels of the amicable ending of the differences with Williams.

George S. Lyon, the Canadian golf champion, will go to the British Olympaid and defend his title as Olympic golf champion, won at St. Louis in 1906.

The basketball teams of the entire country, from coast to coast, and from Canada to the Gulf, will have a chance this winter to meet a team of husky fellows known as the Arctic Brotherhood, which has come down from the frapped silences of Alaska to meet the fives of the United States and Canada.

As a result of a series of conferences between Garry Herrmann, president of the American bowling congress; Frank M. Clute, president of the National Bowling Association; John J. J. Clingen, of the New York Bowling Association, and others high up in the game, that extended through the entire meeting of the National League baseball magnates recently held in New York, and after a committee will be appointed by the N. B. A. to meet delegates from the A. B. C. and the Canadian and Western bowling congresses at Cincinnati, next February, to revise the constitution and rules of the A. B. C., in accordance with the demands of the Eastern pin knights, and lay the foundations for a national bowling commission, to be organized along the lines of the ruling baseball body.

BASEBALL.

Billy Keister, for three years second baseman and outfielder on the Jersey City Eastern League team, has been picked up by the Toronto club.

Umpire Jack Egan, who has held the indicator in the Eastern League for several seasons, has been appointed a member of the American League staff for 1908.

The Newark Eastern League team may take a little Southern trip as far as Virginia in the spring. The regular training camp will be pitched at Wilmington, Del.

Manager Buckenberger will take the Rochester team on a spring training trip, playing near Baltimore and Washington, and then throughout New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

The Mobile Club, of the Cotton States League, will be on the Southern League map next season.

Catcher Tom Raub, who has seen service in the Eastern League, playing with Toronto, has been purchased from Lancaster by the Birmingham, Ala., Club.

Manager Hugh Duffy, of Providence, says he has secured the outright release of First Baseman Abstein from the Pittsburg Club. The big German led the Eastern League in long-distance hitting last season.

Matty McIntyre, once a member of the Newark Eastern League team, is wintering at Tampa, Fla., where he will play on a hotel team. Clyde Engle, the Newark right fielder, may play with the same team.

First Baseman Arthur Brown, who was with Newark in 1906, will be one of the real Browns next season. He will train with the St. Louis Americans at Augusta, Ga.

John O'Hara, third baseman of the Atlantic City independent team, will be tried out by the Philadelphia Americans next spring. Connie Mack thinks him a wonder.

NO WORK AT ALL NOW.

A committee of employes waited on President Samuel Kline of the Kline Barber Chair Company yesterday and demanded six days a week work instead of the four days the concern was running.

Mr. Kline told the men that he had kept them on four days' work because he did not wish to close the shop entirely, as the times warranted. But in answer to their demands for six days a week work he said: "I shall now close the place entirely; you are all laid off and the place is closed indefinitely." The committee was speechless as Mr. Kline walked out.

YOU CAN'T FOOL HIM.

It was only after a thorough investigation that The Daily Press became a sponser for Carlton B. Pierce, of Cranford, in the campaign waged by his friends to make him a nominee for legislative honors in preference to Randolph Perkins, who wanted a monopoly in that connection. Our opinion of the man already appears to have been correct, judging by his remarks in this city Saturday night on the local option agitation, as exclusively told in this paper.

Mr. Pierce, the Assemblyman-elect, in vigorous terms denounced the campaign of misrepresentation and exaggeration being conducted by the leaders of the movement. At the same time he very wisely put himself on record as a believer in the principle which they advocate. It was meet and right for him to take exception to some of their widely circulated statements, chief among which is the false assertion that New Jersey is the only State east of the Mississippi which is without a local option law. In this connection he showed conclusively that the admirable Bishops' bill is in effect a local option measure.

"You can fool some of the people some of the time, but you can't fool" men like Mr. Pierce at any time.

A CHRISTMAS THOUGHT.

In the revised version the carol of the Nativity ends with the words: "Peace among men, in whom He is well pleased." Is there a more blessed and more urgent thought for Christmas than this, that in every one of His human creatures—brown, yellow, black or white, Christian or Buddhist or Mohammed, good or bad—God is "well pleased," because now, since the Babe is born in Bethlehem, He "sees the angel in the stuff?" We make distinctions of race or color, of moral or social condition. We call some men "common or unclean." Not so God. The hymn of the Nativity was the birth-song of Democracy.

"A man's a man, for a' that and a' that." Poor Burns may not have been a Christian, but he was nearer the kingdom with such a sentiment bursting from his indignant soul than many a man who calls himself a follower of Jesus Christ.—Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

GIVING OUR BEST.

Giving at Christmas time finds a full support in the example of the first worshippers of the Christ Child when they, the Wise Men of the East, having found Him, opened their treasurers and presented unto Him gifts, gold, franckincense and myrrh. These gave Him the best.

What is our best? The best that mature manhood can give in this day is a strong, loyal, loving service. The best that youth can give is enthusiasm in service. The best that child life can give is cheerfulness and songs from hearts that are filled with Christmas joy. All can give something. Whatever it is, let it be the best.

The wise men on that first Christmas worshipped and gave gifts to Jesus. The wise men of the present day are doing the same.—Rev. Abel C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church.

MRS. KIMBALL.

The death of Mrs. M. E. Kimball removes from the community a noble woman; one whose life was consecrated to an earnest effort in behalf of friendless children. It is not too much to say that this good woman for years did more for suffering humanity and particularly for the orphan, than any single individual in the community. When far past the three-score and ten mark, she continued on unceasingly in her splendid work and not until God called her to a well deserved reward did she round out the grand task that had been her life work. Like her many happy wards—"of such are the kingdom of heaven."

AS TO CHRISTMAS.

The great thought of Christmas to me is thus expressed in the thought of another: "The finite cannot grasp the Infinite until the Infinite expresses Himself in the finite. Christ is God made simple."

A sick woman said to Mr. Cecil. I can form no notion of God. You talk to me about Him, but I can't get a single idea that seems to contain anything. His answer was: You knok how to conceive of Jesus Christ. To see Christ is to see God.—Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

The Daily Press carriers will pay their friends a visit tomorrow and each patron will receive a handsome calendar. Don't forget the little fellow who delivers your paper in rain or shine. He's worthy of your remembrance.

Rev. Dr. C. F. Aked's most recent performance has those of Rev. Dr. Madison C. Peters beat a mile. How they do love notoriety!

Bryan and Martine—Oh, what a scream!

No paper will be issued tomorrow.

TWO YOUNG MEN WHO FLED TO THIS COUNTRY.

Carl Reigner, twenty years old, of Elizabethport, and August Tuntenburg, eighteen years old, of Bremen, Germany, ran away from the latter place some time ago to escape having to join the army of that country, which is compulsory for all young men between the agaes of 18 and 21.

The young men managed to work their way to this country at different times and became acquainted here. Reigner is a machinist, while Huntenburg shipped as a sailor.

Reigner went to Elizabethport, where he secured a position at his trade. He remained there until a short time ago, when he went to Trenton.

Huntenburg went to Trenton after he could find no work in New York. Both young men happened to meet there on Saturday night after they had tried in vain to secure employment. They walked and walked until their shoes were almost worn from their feet.

Tired and hungry, they decided that the only thing left for them to do was to beg from passersby. Early yesterday morning Patrolman Mullen saw them begging on North Broad street, Trenton, and he placed them under arrest on the charge of vagrancy.

KILLED BY A FALL AT 90.

Didn't Want Spectacles but Failing Sight Caused Accident.

"Just you remember now and don't one of you dare to get me a pair of spectacles for a Christmas present. I have got along without them all these years, and I don't intend to begin their use at this time of life.

Thus Mrs. Hope Meyers, 90 years old, admonished her relatives only a day or two ago at Burlington. Yesterday she fell down a flight of stairs, not seeing her danger, and died three hours later from her injuries.

Mrs. Meyers fell when she was passing through a hall in her home on the way to the room occupied by her daughter, Mrs. William McGonigal, who is critically ill of typhoid fever. Mrs. Meyers was injured internally and had several bones broken.

Mrs. Meyers was one of the oldest residents of this town and was wonderfully preserved. Her daughter's recovery has been impaired, it is feared, by the shock of her mother's death.

WANDERS UNCLAD IN STORM.

Man Delirious from Pneumonia Escapes from Home.

Edward Murray's midnight excursion at Summit in a driving rainstorm with melting snow under foot may cost him his life. Murray has been suffering from pneumonia, and while delirious Sunday night arose from his bed, overpowered his wife, who sought to restrain him, and, clad only in his nightgown, ran out in the storm and disappeared. This was at midnight.

Mrs. Murray notified the police, but they were unable to find him. At 6 o'clock yesterday morning, Kirk Schuyler, colored, found the crazed man wandering about in the woods back of the plant of the Essex-Union Water and Light Company, three miles from his home. Murray was wrapped in an overcoat and taken home. Today his condition is critical.

Meant to Slay Another as Well.

John Lukoszeviczius, the young Lithuanian who murdered and robbed Michael Miszkunas, manager of St. George's Hall, early on Saturday morning, and also tried to kill Anthony J. Bugis, an assistant, admitted to Police Captain Christie yesterday that he had intended to kill both men, he having heard that Bugis had about $50 in his pocket. It was to get his money as well, as the roll that he knew Miszkunas had that he had waited around the hall he thought a favorable opportunity for killing both had arrived.

BEST GUARD AT FARM IS PUGNACIOUS GANDER.

Honk! Honk! Hiss-s-s-s! Ri-i-p-p! "What the dev— Leggo there! Ouch! (Hist-t) Help! Murder! (Honk) Take him off. (Ho-oonk).

Then the brief struggle, once more the sound of ripping cloth, and finally heavy footsteps beating rapidly down the garden path, pursued by a trimphant series of "honks."

Such were the midnight sounds that awakened the household of James M. Sholl, a farmer on the Oxmead road, near Burlington. The uproar, while it lasted little more than sixty seconds, was sufficient to arouse every sleeping thing on the farm, and the barking of three hounds lent speed to the legs of a terrorized tramp, who was beating it down the lane toward the public road.

To this hour the marauder is probably unaware of the character of creature which spoiled his raid upon the poultry house and relieved him of a portion of his trousers' leg and nipped out several bits of flesh adjacent thereto.

By the farmer's family, however, "Patsy," the big gander that led the geese flock, was hailed as a hero the next morning. The only marks of the conflict the big bird bore were a few missing feathers and a lacerated wing.

It was "Patsy's" second victorious encounter with a tramp during a short but tempestuous lifetime. For four years the bird has been king of the barnyard, and even the cattle have held this gander in fear. Two years ago, in a battle with a strange dog, to protect some goslings, "Patsy" nearly killed his antaginist, and came out of the fray minus an inch of bill. This has not lessened his fighting abilities a whit.

Sings Better Asleep Than Awake.

Edward Shea, Montclair's trance man, who has been slumbering for a month, now sings in his sleep. While apparently unconscious, the young man begins singing and continues his musical efforts for nearly half an hour. Then he stops and is apparently as sound a sleeper as ever. Shea, before falling into his somnolent state, was never regarded as a vocalist of much ability, but his singing now demonstrates that he has a voice of great sweetness. Those who have heard him do not remember that he ever sang the songs before. His case still puzzles the physicians. The young man is fed by artificial means, and, although he does not receive much nourishment, his physical appearance is good.

Alden E. Moore, of Kensington avenue, has been confined to his home for the past few days by a severe attack of grip.

SERVICES ON XMAS 'DAY

Catholics and Episcopalians Will Observe the Anniversary of Christ's Nativity.

AND OTHER CHURCHES, TOO.

Lutheran Congregations As Well As Crescent Avenue Presbyterian to Hold Services.

Services will be held in the following churches on tomorrow, Christmas Day:

St. Mary's Church.

Christmas Day will be appropriately observed at St. Mary's church tomorrow morning with a number of special masses. At 5:30 o'clock there will be the solemn high mass of Aurora at which Father Bogan will be the celebrant. Othe masses will be held at 7:30, 8:30, 9:30 and 10:30. The last one will be a solemn high mass, Father Vincent Sciolla being the celebrant, assisted by Father McLaughlin, S. J., of St. Peter's College, Jersey City. Father Delehanty will be the sub-deacon. At the last mass Father Bogan will preach the sermon. He will also be in charge of the other masses, offering the greetings.

The choir, under the direction of Miss Mary Smith, organist and choirmaster, will render a special musical program, presenting "Missa Sollonelle," by Gounod, and the Christmas anthem, "Adestes Fideles," Dudley Buck's rendition, will be given by the quartet and chorus. In addition the chancel choir of forty boys will sing the processional, the Proper mass and recessional.

Yesterday afternoon the children of the lower grade of the Parochial School enjoyed their Christmas festivities, there being presentation of gifts by Santa Claus in the person of Frank McInerney. About 250 children were present.

St. Joseph's Church.

The Christmas celebration will begin at St. Joseph's church tonight with the usual midnight mass. Father Brennan will be the celebrant and a Passionate Father from Hoboken will be the sub-deacon. Other masses will be held in the morning at 7:30, 8:30, and 10:30, with special music by the choir under the direction of James Bailey and Mrs. A. E. LaPorte. Father Shandel will have charge of the 7:30 o'clock mass, while Father Miller will take the other masses, assisted by visiting priests. The church has been elaborately decorated with greens and flowers for the festive occasion.

Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the Sunday-school enjoyed its festival and tree, about 200 children being present. There was an exchange of gifts, the children receiving games, books, etc., in addition to ice cream and cake. Father Miller received a handsome parlor table from the teachers, while he gave books to the teachers. The members of Miss Justina Smith's class presented her with a large and handsome picture.

Church of the Holy Cross..

The Christmas services at the Church of the Holy Cross tomorrow morning will be as follows: Early celebration of Holy Communion at 6 o'clock; second celebration of Holy Communion at 8 o'clock; morning prayer, sermon and late celebration of Holy Communion at 10:30 o'clock. The music at this service will be rendered by the full vested choir of boys and men and will be as follows:

"Te Deum," E flat, Bennet; "Benedictus D," Parry; "Introit," anthem, "In the Beginning," Andrews; offertory, "Shout the Glad Tidings," Hawley; Steane's Communion Service in F.

The church is beautifully decorated, hundreds of yards of greens being used to good effect. The reredos and pulpit are banked solidly with holly and in the chancel and sanctuary countless cedar and spruce trees have been used. The altar has been brightened with the vivid red poinsetta flowers from California. The windows and choir stalls are given a touch of color by the holly wreaths with which they are adorned. High up in the peak of the cancel, an electric and holly star shines forth.

The children's Christmas tree and festival will be on Thursday night at 7:45. There will be gifts and candy for the children from off the tree, which will be illuminated with dozens of tiny incandescent lights. A manger for gifts of games and groceries to be given the members of the Children's Home will be built at the foot of the tree. The Christmas carols will be sung by the children and at the service the rector will speak to them.

St. Stephens' Church.

At St. Stephens church tomorrow morning there will be early celebration of Holy Communion at 7:30 o'clock, matins at 10 o'clock; high celebration of Holy Communion with sermon by the rector, Rev. A. S. Peck, at 10:30 o'clock. The choir will render special music. The church has been appropriately decorated with greens and holly, the arrangement about the altar being very attractive. The services for the rest of the week will include services Thursday morning, St. Stephens' Day, at 7:30 and 10 o'clock; Friday morning, St. John the Evangelist Day, at 10 o'clock; Saturday, Holy Innocents' Day, 10 o'clock. Saturday night at 7 o'clock the Sunday-school festival will be held in the church.

Grace Church.

Christmas Day will be observed with special services at Grace church in the morning. There will be early celebration of Holy Communion at 7 and 8 o'clock and at 10:30 o'clock there will be Holy Communion, a full choral service by the vested choir under the direction of W. E. MacClymont, organist and choirmaster, and a Christmas sermon by the rector, Rev. E. Vicar Stevenson. The musical service will comprise several anthems, together with solo numbers. The edifice has been suitably decorated for the occasion, especially about the chancel and altar.

Church of the Heavenly Rest.

Christmas services will be held at the Church of the Heavenly Rest tomorrow morning in charge of the rector, Rev. Charles Townsend. The program for the service at 10 o'clock will be as follows: Celebration Holy Communion, prelude, anthem, "Angels From the Realms of Glory," "Festal Te Deum," sermon by the rector; offertory anthem, "There Were Shepherds," communion hymn, 228; "Gloria in Excelsis," recessional hymn, 50. The church has been appropriately decorated for the day with greens and holly.

St. Peter's Lutheran Church.

Christmas services will be held in German at St. Peter's Lutheran church at 10:30 o'clock in the morning. The children's services will be held at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. The pastor, Rev. J. Duerschiner, will be in charge.

Mt. Zion A. M. E. Church.

Rev. T. J. Diggs, pastor of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, will conduct a service at the church at 5 o'clock in the morning and tomorrow night a cantata will be given by the Sunday-school, under the direction of Rev. E. B. Maynard.

PERSONAL.

Miss Ida Backer, of Whitehouse, who has been visiting here has returned home.

William Lyon, of Bradford, Pa., has returned home after a visit with friends here.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church, is suffering from a severe cold.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Lempen, of East Second street, are entertaining the former's parents from Stonington, Conn.

Edward Terry, of Watchung avenue, who has been ill at Muhlenberg Hospital during the past ten weeks with typhoid fever, was out yesterday for the first and has returned to his position with W. L. Smalley, Jr., the butcher at Park avenue and Fourth street.

Funeral of James H. Daly.

The funeral of James H. Daly, whose death occurred at his home in the Stillman building Sunday, was held in St. Mary's church this morning. The mass was said by Rev. Father Bogan in the presence of a large gathering of friends. Burial was made in St. Mary's cemetery, the pall bearers being John J. Kenney, Chief P. S. Kiely, John J. Gaffney and Albert Matthews.

Prayer Meetings Omitted.

The mid-week prayer-meetings will be omitted tomorrow night at Trinity Reformed church, the First Baptist church, Congregational church, Crescent Avenue and First Presbyterian churches, Warren chapel and Park Avenue Baptist church, on account of it being Christmas Day.

J. F. Fort Speaks.

In his speech delivered Saturday night at the annual dinner of the New England Society of the Oranges, in the Woman's Clubhouse, East Orange, Governor-elect Fort signified his intention to stand for the strict enforcement of the law and paid a glowing tribute to his native State.

Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Schloss, of East Front street, are parents of a daughter born to them on Sunday.

The Danish Lutheran church will hold its Christmas tree festivities in the W. C. T. U. rooms tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Christmas exercises of the Baptist Sunday-school were held last night in the church. Notwithstanding the weather there was a large attendance of the parents and friends to enjoy the delightful program. Santa Claus, as usual, was on hand and helped distribute the presents. Superintendent Charles R. Vincent and Rev. T. Moore-Smith were both remembered, the former with a handsome steel engraving. The pastor received a substantial purse. The program consisted of recitations, carols and stereopticon views.

The younger members of the Methodist Sunday-school enjoyed their part of the Christmas celebration yesterday afternoon, when the Christmas tree was held in the church. Every scholar received a present as well as oranges and candy. Santa Claus also remembered Rev. Mr. Deterick with a nice purse of money.

Tomorrow being Christmas Day the stores and factories will close. No special events are scheduled. At the New Plainfield theatre the attraction will be "Under Southern Skies."

Mrs. Ella Rogers and daughter, Miss Stella, of Brooklyn, have been visiting Mrs. Rogers' father, Alvah Ryno, of Front street.

School closed this afternoon and pupils and teachers bid good-bye to school room and study until Monday, January 6.

Miss Nancy Wade, of Milburne, is spending her holiday vacation of two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abram Wade.

Fanwood Council, R. A., holds its semi-monthly meeting tonight in the Library rooms.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The following officers have been elected by the Middlesex Volunteer Fire Department: President, Harry Manning; chief, William Hamilton; foreman, William Reilley; assistant foreman, Alfred Springer; second assistant foreman, David Bigley; recording secretary, Charles Brantingham; financial secretary, Frank Faulks; treasurer, Robert Horn, Sr.

The Good Government Club met last night and gave to the following committee full power to act in regard to the forth-coming masquerade ball to be given in Washington Hall next Tuesday night: R. Horn, C. Jackson, Patrick Kane, Harry Manning and Peter McDonough.

Monroe Pyatt and Rammond Payne with a party of friends attended the Christmas exercises Sunday evening at Trinity Reformed church, Plainfield.

William Shields' son, who is employed in the night shift of the electric light plant, is confined to his home by rheumatism.

A number of friends from South Plainfield attended the funeral of D. Towers, of Metuchen, yesterday.

Alfred Springer spent yesterday with his mother at Perth Amboy.

Funeral of Rev. T. Logan Murphy.

With only relatives in attendance, the funeral of Rev. T. Logan Murphy was held at his late apartments in the Jackson building this afternoon. The service was extremely simple and was conducted by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church. Numerous floral tributes were extended by friends. Burial was afterward made in Hillside cemetery.

Miss Kiernan's Funeral.

A private funeral service over the body of Miss Sarah Kiernan was held at the home of her father on Steiner place at 1 o'clock this afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson and was followed by interment in Hillside cemetery.

—Alex. Lusardi, 211 West Front street, dealer in foreign and domestic fruits, choice confectionery, nuts, cigars, etc. Store will be open on Wednesday until 4 o'clock p. m. **

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will not meet tomorrow afternoon on account of it being a holiday.

ELKS PROVIDE CHRISTMAS CHEER FOR POOR CHILDREN

As the guests of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., several hundred children assembled this afternoon for the annual Christmas treat from the big-hearted Elks. They were instructed to be on hand at 1 o'clock and at that hour the auditorium was packed to the doors by the youngsters.

A program of moving pictures, illustrated songs and comedy acts had been arranged for the boys and girls and shouts of laughter and applause was sufficient proof to the committee that the bill was fully satisfactory. At the close of the performance, a delegation from the lodge saw to it that each of the children received a box of candy and an orange and a ticket calling for a serviceable gift. When it is presented at one of the local stores it will be exchanged for a pair of stockings, a pair of mittens and a cap.

The Elks were aided in distributing admission tickets to where they would accomplish the most good by Miss Holly, of the Charity Organization Society. The number given out was about 100 in excess of any previous year.

The committee which arranged and had charge of the affair comprised Harry Van Emburgh, David J. Carney, Frank Rowley, John J. Kenney and William Drayton.

—An extra stamp window has been opened at the postoffice to take care of the holiday rush. The clerks say that the business this year thus far is fully as large as that of last and they can see no difference in the outgoing and incoming holiday business.

THE CHRISTMAS MYSTERY PLAY,

EAGER HEART

will be presented at the Parish House of Grace Church on THURSDAY EVENING, at eight o'clock. The play is a revival by the Elizabethan Dramatic Society of the quaint and primitive dramatic art of the period, and comes from the pen of Mr. A. M. Buckton, who has to his credit other plays of equal literary excellence. Miss Brooke Peeters, of New York, will be responsible for the title roll and will be supported by a cast from the young people of the church. Tickets for the play are FIFTY CENTS (50c). 12 23 3

Dec. 26

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Lottie Blair Parker's ever popular "Under Southern Skies" will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night.

The program of the New Plainfield theatre is carrying an underline announcing the return on Thursday night of the justly popular dramatic favorite, "Ninety and Nine," which has served on previous occasions to fill that pretty theatre to the doors. The piece is from the facilo pen of Ramsay Morris and the author's effort to furnish a vehicle for a clever cast that would prove acceptable to the patrons of popular priced attractions and at the same time eliminate the cheaply melodramatic features that have characterized so many of the so-called "Thrillers," has met with success. The attraction is a very heavy one from a scenic standpoint, two large sixty foot baggage cars being required to transport the production.

Full of comedy bright and catchy wit, a superb story beautifully told, enacted by a company of clever people, and staged in the most elaborate manner, is Leonard Grover's "Minister's Daughters," which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night. No expense has been spared in making this cast complete in every detail, a fact which is greatly appreciated by the public. The use of the almost forgotten cry, "Come back," attests its popularity.

The Rowland & Clifford Amusement Company will present a selected cast in Bertha M. Clay's masterpiece, "Thorns and Orange Blossoms," at the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night. The company recently began its road tour after an extended engagement at the Academy of Music, in Chicago, and cast and production are in every way the same. Few attractions en tour this season, if any, are so magnificently equipped with such an elaborate array of scenic and mechanical effects, and the prospects are favorable for a record breaking season. The plot is ingeniously rich in character portraiture, breath-taking scenic effects, and masterly dramatic situations all linked with consistent comedy and pathos of the realistic kind. There is never a yawn, a sigh or a restless moment from curtain to curtain; the interest is gripped and held from beginning to end. The action of the play is swift, accurate and telling in effect. Everyone goes away in bettetr nature, at ease in mind, and fostering a resolution to follow one or more of the admirable thoughts suggested.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

JUDGE ADVOCATE OF FIRST.

Governor Stokes Appoints Cortlandt Parker, Jr.

Cortlandt Parker, Jr., of Newark, has been appointed judge advocate of the First Regiment, National Guard of New Jersey, with the rank of major. Governor Stokes announced the selection at Trenton Saturday.

Under the federal Dick law, to which the militia of this State is to conform hereafter, the judge advocate of a regiment has higher military honors and is a much more important figure than heretofore. Major Parker succeeds Captain Mervyn A. Rice, who held the post under the old regime. It is understood that Captain Rice did not seek reappointment.

The new appointee is a prominent lawyer and as such fitted to perform the judge advocate's duties, which are of a legal nature. He has had experience in the National Guard, having resigned from the service recently when lieutenant of the First or Essex troop of cavalry.

Recovers $120 Lost at Poker.

District Court Judge Chamberlain, of Bayonne, Friday decided that Philip Schillowitz would have to return to Louis Cohen $120 which Cohen swore he lost in a gambling place conducted by Schillowitz at Avenue C and Twentieth street, and which the police broke up after several women had complained that their husbands were in the habit of gambling away their wages.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will hold its annual Christmas festivities Thursday night.

CHAPTER XXXI.

The Ladder of Stones.

Madame de Varnier had been seated in sullen apathy. At my words she looked up at me for a moment in dull surprise. Then slowly, as if a mask had fallen over her face, an expression of horror and insensate fury disfigured her beauty. She rushed to the door; she shook it frantically; she beat on it futile blows.

"What does it mean, this locked door?" demanded Forbes of me once more.

"It means that Dr. Starva, the ally of this woman, for some purpose of his own, has imprisoned us here," I answered calmly. "Even you, Captain Forbes, will not accuse me of fastening the bolt."

He turned from me in contemptuous silence. "It is only a question of a few hours at the most," he said reassuringly to Helena. "At dawn we can attract the attention of some one from the street. In the meanwhile we must be patient."

"I am thankful that you were able to make your way to me," said Helena brokenly. "It would be dreadful to be here alone with my brother lying dead in that room."

"Are we to make no effort!" I demanded. "Surely in some way—"

My words were arrested on my lips. Madame de Varnier had abandoned herself to her despair. As I spoke she looked up furtively, and then transfixed me with a glance of warning.

"If you can suggest a means, I am ready to listen," said Forbes. "But that door of oak with its bands of steel is beyond my strength. As to the possibility of a descent from the outside, it is hopeless to think of it. Even if one existed, I should scarcely avail myself of it, leaving you with these people, Miss Brett."

"But Mr. Haddon—"

"—is not to be trusted, I am afraid," said he, with a sneer.

"Mr. Haddon, it is hard to believe you guilty of treachery. In spite of everything, I wish to keep faith with you. But will you not explain to Captain Forbes—"

"No, Miss Brett," I returned bluntly, "I shall make no explanation to Captain Forbes until he sees fit to ask me for one."

"And I should refuse to believe any," said Forbes with contempt. "You say your brother is in that room. May I see him?"

She led the way to the oratory in silence. The door closed gently behind them. Madame de Varnier and I were alone.

"I hope you are satisfied, monsieur, with your adventure in this Castle of Happiness," she said with a hysterical sob.

"I am waiting for the climax," I answered significantly. "Is it to be a comedy or a tragedy?"

"Oh, God!" she raised her clenched hands in a gesture full of anguish, "it is I who am asking that."

"Why did you look at me in that manner. You wish to tell me something—to warn me."

"The death-mask—" she whispered. Her emotion suffocated her. "Why should Dr. Starva have imprisoned us here, unless—"

I looked at her stupefied.

"But Prince Ferdinand is not here at the chateau."

Her self-control vanished utterly. She clung to me in her despair.

"Save him! Save him!"

"But Ferdinand is not at the chateau!" I repeated.

"Last night—in the music room—that death-mask!" She spoke incoherently, but her meaning was too clear.

"You knew that he was coming here?"

"When you told me of the death-mask, when I saw the rage of Dr. Starva—I realized his danger. Yes, he was coming here—to-night. But I telegraphed him that at all costs he must not come. But if Dr. Starva by some means intercepted that telegram—"

"Who sent it?" I questioned anxiously.

"Jacques."

"Then your prince is doomed. It was Jacques who betrayed to me your presence here. I thought it was because I bribed him sufficiently well. Be sure of this, he is Starva's creature."

"Heavens, how you torture me! But if this is true, why did he allow Sir Mortimer's sister to come to me? He must have known that you sent for her."

"With ourselves she would be safely out of the way. Dr. Starva is more ingenious than I have given him the credit of being. We are caught like rats in a trap."

"But you must save him!"

"Impossible!"

"Listen; it is not impossible. There is a ladder—not on this side, but beneath the window of the oratory."

Her eyes glittered in the semi-darkness. She placed a finger on my lips. I had cried out in my surprise.

"A ladder of a hundred feet or more! And it stands against the wall of the tower!" I exclaimed incredulously. "Besides, if it were there, Captain Forbes must have seen it."

"This ladder, I call it so for want of a better name, is made of great stones half as long as one's forearm that project from the smooth masonry at intervals of a foot. The chateau is old, very old. In feudal times, with a stout rope, one might escape from the tower. But it is impossible! We have no rope." She wrung her hands.

"But if this ladder of stones reaches from roof to terrace, it would be simple enough without a rope. The stones are built out at regular intervals? How far are they apart?

"At intervals of a foot, they reach in a straight line for 100 feet. But the chateau is 150 feet high. These stones begin at the roof. No one could drop that 50 feet to the marble terrace below and live. Yes; we are caught like rats in a trap."

WHY SO WEAK?

Kidney Troubles May Be Sapping Your Life Away—Plainfield People Have Learned This Fact.

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffers backache, headache, dizzy spells, look to the kidneys for the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will keep you well. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and keep them well. Here is Plainfield testimony to prove it.

Oliver H. Voorhees, job printer, living at 21 Stone street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I was suffering from kidney weakness for a long time, due, probably, to my being compelled to be on my feet so much of the time. On arising in the morning I would find myself very weak, and suffering from severe pain in the back and sides, accompanied by headache. The kidney secretions were of bad odor, and the desire to pass them was too frequent. I could not seem to find either a doctor to cure me, or a medicine that would help me until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Pharmacy. Before I took three boxes I was relieved of my aches and pains, and my kidneys were well again.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

STATE FIREMEN SEEK CHANGES IN THE LAWS

The State Firemen's Benevolent Association is preparing to have better legislation during the coming session of the Legislature and with that end in view the executive committee of the organization met at Trenton Saturday, and appointed several committees for the work. Among the delegates was Captain William Townley of the Plainfield department.

The meeting was presidede over by John J. Sweeney, of Jersey City, and Frederick Van Horne, of Trenton, was secretary. Matters generally concerning the association were discussed, the most important of all being the question of legislation. The question of death from illness resulting from the performance of duty was also talked over. The question was brought up because of the numerous cases now before the police commissioners of Trenton for pension where the patrolmen died from colds and other maladies said to have been contracted in line of duty.

One of the recommendations which the executive committee will make to the State body will be that the volunteer firemen shall receive the same benefits as the paid department. Another will be for passage of the salary bill, which was lost at the last session of the Legislature.

The bill was introduced by Senator Lee, of Atlantic, and provides that in all cities but the first class captains and foremen shall receive not less than $1,000; assistant not less than $1,300, and engineers not less than $1,300. First grade firemen shall receive not less than $1,200, second grade not less than $1,000, and third grade not less than $900. The bill also provides that no change in salaries shall be made without a vote of the people.

The following committee was appointed to draft a new pension bill to be presented to the coming Legislature: M. J. Ryan, of Paterson; W. J. Rose, of Camden; John Sweeney, of Jersey City; William Saupe, of Newark; James McMillian, of Orange. The last-named is the chairman of the committee.

The following delegates were present: John Sweeney, of Jersey City; Harry Abbett, Paterson; William D. Sombere, Hoboken; William J. Soupe, Newark; W. J. Rose, Camden; Samuel Witham, Trenton; William Townley, Plainfield; George Dougherty, Atlantic City; James O'Rourke, Elizabeth; James M. Millian, Orange; J. R. Combs, Bayonne; William Jenkins, West Hoboken, and Frederick Van Horne, Trenton.

TAX APPEALS FILED WITH COUNTY BOARD.

The work of the County Board for the Equalization of Taxes is finished so far as the taking of appeals is concerned. Friday was the last day on which requests for the reduction of assessments could be received, and nothing remains now but to hear evidence in support of such appeals as have been set down for hearings. Three such cases were entered before the office closed Saturday.

Former Governor Foster M. Voorhees presented an appeal on behalf of former United States Senator George Peabody Wetmore, of Rhode Island, whose meadow lands in Elizabeth were assessed at $103,000.

The Royal Manufacturing Company, of Rahway, asked to have an assessment of $54,700 on office furniture and some machinery reduced to $20,000, and the Continental Iron and Steel Company, also of Rahway, asked to have an assessment of $7,000 reduced to $1,025, which they claimed was the true value of the property assessed. Their cases will be heard on December 26. No appeals were received Saturday.

BISHOP'S ANNIVERSARY.

Was Ordained a Priest Thirty Years Ago Yesterday.

The Rt. Rev. John J. O'Connor, bishop of the Catholic diocese of Newark, observed in a quiet manner the thirtieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood Sunday.

The bishop followed the usual Sunday religious routine. He celebrated mass in the chapel of the Immaculate Conception adjacent to Seton Hall College. He received few visitors during the day, but each of them took occasion to congratulate him on the event.

The Rev. Alois Stecher, of St. Peter's R. C. church, in Belmont avenue, Newark, also observed the thirty-fifth anniversary of his ordination Sunday. He celebrated mass in the morning at the chapel of St. Peter's Asylum and received a warm greeting from his parishioners. There was no special program to mark the event. Father Stecher was educated for the priesthood at Innsbruck, Germany, and ordained at Milwaukee, Wis.

Want Stricter Cigarette Law.

The recent report of the officers of the United States naval recruiting vessel that excessive cigarette smoking was ruining the eyesight of the young men of the country has aroused the Women's Club of Upper Montclair. The members intend to have the next Legislature adopt a law which will raise the age limit for the legal sale of cigarettes to eighteen years. The existing statute is too liberal of interpretation, the members of the club think.

BOWLING.

Because of tonight being Christmas eve, no games will be rolled in the bowling tourney at Campbell's alleys. The next series will be held Thursday night when the Washingtons, captained by Nash, and the Brian Borus, captained by Radin, will meet. Both these teams are now in third position.

Chauncey F. Stout still holds the lead in the individual averages of the tourney bowlers. For the twelve games in which he has rolled his figures are 194.9, while the nearest competitor is Chief Kiely who has 180.8. Charles F. Meyer, Jr., is third and Edward A. Laing stands fourth. Ten of the bowlers stand below the 150 mark.

An effort is being made by a number of the crack bowlers in the city to start a two-man tourney to be rolled afternoons. There are many of the pin hitters who are employed at night or have engagements that prevent their taking part in the regular contests and the afternoon plan has been suggested. If the preliminary efforts meet with success the contest will start soon after the first of the year.

Dr. John C. Johnson.

Dr. John C. Johnson, for nearly fifty-eight years a practising physician in Blairstown, died at his home in Blairstown yesterday morning. He was born in Newton, N. J., on October 21, 1828, and was a graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, a member of the New Jersey Medical Society, of the Warren County Medical Society since 1852, and a director of Blair Academy since 1888. Dr. Johnson leaves a wife, one daughter and also a sister, Mrs. W. W. Woodward, of Newton, N. J.

DR. PARSONS' FUNERAL

Clergymen of all Denominations Pay Tribute to a Distinguished Divine.

REV. DR. CARROLL IN CHARGE.

New York Methodist Ministers Pass Resolutions—Interment at Fairfield, New York.

The funeral of Rev. Dr. Charles Wesley Parsons, whose years of pain and suffering were eased by death Sunday night, will be held in Grace M. E. church this afternoon. Beside the members of his congregation and other friends it will be attended by nearly every clergyman in the city and many from Newark, New York and other places. A committee from the New York Methodist Ministers' Association will be present and read a set of resolutions passed at a meeting yesterday.

The service will be directly in charge of Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll while five other Methodist ministers will take part. Addresses will be made by Dr. Carroll, Rev. Dr. Goodall, pastor of Calvary M. E. church, New York, and Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church. Prayer will be offered by Presiding Elder Rev. Dr. Daniel Halleran, of Elizabeth, and scripture readings are to be given by Rev. Dr. Whitney and Rev. E. E. Roberson, the latter of the Monroe Avenue church.

Miss Alice Carroll will preside at the organ and will accompany the congregation at the beginning of the service in singing one of Dr. Parsons' favorite hymns. A solo, "Crossing the Bar," will be contributed by Mrs. Thomas McDonald, a member of the First M. E. choir, and at the close of the service Beethoven's funeral march will be rendered by Miss Carroll.

One of the ministers in attendance will be Rev. E. C. Dutcher, of Dunellen, who was born in the same house as Dr. Parsons at Decatur, N. Y., their fathers being succeeding pastors of the Methodist church in that place.

Burial will be at Fairfield, N. Y., where Dr. Parsons had his first pastorate.

WIFE FINDS LETTERS FROM HUBBY'S AFFINITY

Louis Baum, a salesman, is in jail at Paterson charged by his wife, Rosie, with neglecting and abusing his two young children and planning to desert his family. She says she found two letters showing that Baum was about to leave for Boston, where he was to meet clandestinely a married woman. Baum was arrested at his home, 468 Main street, Paterson.

One of the letters alleged to have been found by Mrs. Baum, dated from Passaic, December 17, and ready to be posted, was to "Dear Sweetheart," in which the writer said: "I thought the matter over, Jen, and I find that the best way is for me to be near you. * * * I will fix it so we can see each other one day a week."

A postscript to the letter says: "Just kissed your poto." The other letter which Mrs. Baum says she found was from a woman. Speaking of her husband, the writer says:

"He watches me awful. I quarreled with him about him kissing me, and he said: 'I know who is to blame; you are in love with black ——,' and he said, 'You tell him if I catch him— You know the rest."

Baum is held in $500 bail, which there does not seem any pospect of his raising.

Tax Collector W. R. Townsend reported through Chairman Tolles, of the finance committee, that Mrs. Maplesen, of Dunellen avenue, had paid $1.35 in excess in taxes for 1906 and at the suggestion of President Daniel the claim will be presented with the necessary affidavit and remitted in the customary way.

Still another resolution by Mr. Tolles authorized the city treasurer to pay into the Firemen's Pension Fund $50, the license money received from the New Plainfield theatre and $150, the license fee from a moving picture gallery theatre, which is according to the provision of law.

When the Common Council adjourned it did so to hold its final session for the year on Monday night, December 30, and President Daniel suggested that all committees be ready to close up accounts at that time.

Catherine O'Keefe.

Catherine O'Keefe, a twin daughter of Patrolman and Mrs. Dennis O'Keefe, of Liberty street, died yesterday afternoon. The funeral will be held from the parents' home this afternoon and burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

The association designated S. S. Howland to make the investigation and lay all facts before it. This he did and his report to the association follows:

To the Stewards of National Steeplechase and Hunt Association.

Gentlemen: As requested by your resolution I have carefully investigated the statements made by Charles D. Freeman, in certain letters to August Belmont, returned herewith, that the meeting last spring of the Watchung Hunt Club was not properly watched over by the stewards of the meeting and by the club officials, and that the license of the Watchung Hunt should be withdrawn, unless completely reorganized.

Mr. Freeman has so far modified his statements, that he now declares that the stewards of the meeting were in no way to blame, but that the present master and the committee took no pains whatever to investigate certain newspaper rumors that in one race a horse ridden by a gentleman rider had been pulled to allow another horse on which the same rider had a large bet, to win.

My investigation shows that the newspaper report was but a rumor with no foundation.

That the President of the Watchung Hunt within a few days of the close of the meeting wrote in denial to the said paper.

That moreover the hunt committee did take it up (though no request to do so had been made to them in writing or verbally), but found no cause for action whatever.

During my investigation I have seen Mr. Freeman, L. E. Waring, the present master, Lawrence Smith, official steward of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association; C. H. Smith, bookmaker and the gentleman rider implicated.

In conclusion I beg to report that in my opinion the Watchung Hunt even went further than required (no complaint having been made to its board), and found no cause whatever for action, and that therefore Mr. Freeman's complaint is unjustified and should be dismissed, and that while Mr. Freeman most distinctly stated that he wished to make no charges against the gentleman rider who rode his horse, the said complaint has of necessity placed in a most disagreeable position, a gentleman, quite innocent of any wrongdoing.

Yours truly,
S. S. HOWLAND.

The above letter was followed with one from the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association to Harvey Fisk, secretary of the Watchung Hunt Club. It is as follows:

Secretary,
Watchung Hunt Club.
Plainfield, N. J.

Dear Sir: At a meeting of the stewards of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association, held at the office of the club, Windsor Arcade, New York, on Friday, December 20, the report of S. S. Howland, on the complaint of Charles D. Freeman as to the conduct of officials and participants at the spring meeting of the Watchung Hunt Club was approved, and the secretary was instructed to send a copy of Mr. Howland's letter to Charles D. Freeman, Fred Alpers and the secretary of the Watchung Hunt Club. Enclosed please find copy.

Yours respectfully,
H. G. CRICKMORE,
Secretary.

It is now said that the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association will go still further in the investigation for the purpose of ascertaining Mr. Freeman's source of information as to the charges made. Mr. Freeman was abroad at the time of the meet and did not have direct knowledge of things of which he complained. Mr. Alpers is one of the most popular gentleman riders in the east and he has a host of friends who are naturally much pleased over his vindication as well as that of the hunt club.

More Typhoid in Trenton.

Four new cases of typhoid fever were reported to the health office at Trenton yesterday, bringing the total reported since December 1 up to eighty. Mayor Gnichtel has appointed a committee, consisting of John W. Manning and Charles A. Engle, of the Water Board; Francis B. Lee and Dr. Elmer Barwis, of the Health Board, and Judge Lanning, of the State Board of Health, to investigate the typhoid situation and render a report to the Common Council.

JERSEY PICTURES ON VIEW

Interesting Scenes are Depicted on Canvases Exhibited by Jonas Lie.

ON VIEW IN NEW YORK CITY.

The "Camp Fire," "Burning the "Leaves," and "From the Watchung Hills" Are Especially Good.

Of the few men who have sat at the feet of Van Perrine and formed the little group of artists who may best be called the "Palisades School" Jonas Lie, of this city, according to the N. Y. Press critic, is the only one who has not fallen into the evil ways of a mannered, and conseuently narrow, viewpoint. He is also the only one of these men who has gone forward—just how far lovers of pictorial art may see in the current exhibtion of his work that is on free view in the New Gallery in New York. The painter shows a score of canvases and fifteen pastels, all landscapes and scenes well within "commuting distance" over in New Jersey. Lie has studied hill and plain beneath the light of spring, autumn, summer and winter, and the measure of his success in translating these varied effects through the medium of oils and colored chalks is far beyond anything he or any of the workers of his particular school have achieved thus far. He has easily out-stripped his master.

Two of his happiest achievements there are autumn scenes, wood interiors called "Camp Fire" and "Burning the Leaves." The feeling of autumn in the woods is expressed with compelling sincerity, and the effect of the glow of the fire and drifting smoke, with the group of figures around the blaze, is replete with the tang of the acrid smoke characteristic of such fires. Markerly different from these, and yet quite as fine in their way, are two autumn scenes with a gale blowing and the leaves flying from the reddish-brown trees in windy confusion and stress. As if to show a gentler phase of nature, he has painted a broad, sunny landscape, "From the Watchung Hill," that is a splendid piece of work, and he also has three misty scenes, landscapes enshrouded in fog, that have the austerity of coloring affected so often by Whistler. In the "Evening Hour," and again in the "Last Gleam," he has tried his hand at painting the glow left by the sinking sun, and in his winter scenes he has pictured the purlieus of a Jersey village with all their ugliness softened —made brilliant, in fact—by the artist's skill in flooding them with wintry sunshine. In all an admirable exhibition, the most interesting the season has brought us.

SALVATION ARMY GIVES 500 CHRISTMAS DINNERS.

The annual distribution of Christmas dinner baskets took place at the Salvation Army Hall on East Second street at 7 o'clock Christmas eve. Over one hundred baskets were given out stocked with poultry, vegetables, groceries and fruit, sufficient to provide 500 persons with a good dinner. The recipients were full of gratitude and thankfulness for the gift, and Capt. Hopkins on their behalf wishes to thank every friend whose contribution made this distribution possible.

It necessitated a good deal of hard work on the part of Capt. Hopkins and his band of workers, but the joy and gladness it has brought into other lives they say have more than repaid them for it all.

New Electric Light Manager.

S. C. Meeker, Jr., of Brooklyn, has been appointed to the position of manager of the electric department of the P. S. C., on West Second street, succeeding Mr. Hofnaegle, who has been transferred to Perth Amboy for the present. Mr. Meeker is a graduate of Cornell, and has had several years' experience in the electrical business. He will be under Superintendent Deal, who has charge of the central division.

Caught Alleged Horse Thief.

From a description furnished by the New Brunswick police, Captain Frederickson arrested John Vincent, an alleged horse thief, at Front and Somerset streets, Tuesday night. He is accused of taking a rig from the barn of E. D. Phillips on the Raritan river road. The place is located in Somerset county and Vincent was turned over to Marshal Flammer, of Bound Brook.

Former Pastor Here.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. K. P. Ketcham, of Freeport, L. I., spent Christmas Day with relatives here. Dr. Ketcham, for many years pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of this city, has retired from the active ministry since filling the pulpit at Freeport.

DELAFIELD'S POULTRY WON STRING OF RIBBONS

The Sunswick Poultry Farm, at South Plainfield, of which Rufus Delafield is the owner and George May, the manager, captured a long string of prizes at the poultry show held in Madison Square Garden. In all Mr. Delafield received twenty-five ribbons, two gold specials and three silver cups.

The list of prizes follows:

Black Orpingtons, second and third cocks; first and gold special and silver cup, black hen and third. black hen; third black cockerel; second and gold special, black pullet and third, black pullet; buff Orpingtons, second, cock; second, cockerel; second, third and fifth pullet; white Orpingtons, first and silver cup and third, white cock; second, white hen; fifth, white hen; second, white cockerel; fifth, white pullet; second, Japanese bantam.

M'ADOO TUNNEL WILL BE OPENED MARCH 1, 1908

The New York Public Service Commission has extended for two months, to March 7, 1908, the time at which the McAdoo tunnel people must be operating their tunnel under the first franchise, granted in 1902. This franchise provides for operation of the tunnel in New York to Christopher and Greenwich streets, but by the extension of time the tunnel company will be able to complete its work over to Sixth avenue and Fourteenth street, a point which would serve the traveling public much better, about two years before the franchise stipulates.

In its application for this extension of time the Hudson and Manhattan Company, the successor to the New York and Jersey Railroad Company, said that it would be in position to comply with the terms of its first franchise by January 7. It pointed out, though, that Christopher and Greenwich streets would be rather a desolate spot to drop passengers from Jersey, while the extension of time would permit it to finish some work now nearly completed, so it could operate a large part of the route provided for in its second contract, which calls for operation June 15, 1910.

The company's letter says:

"We are prepared to operate, as required by the franchise of the New York and Jersey Railroad Company, on or before January 7, 1908, that portion of the line extending from the centre of the Hudson River to Christopher and Greenwich streets, but we do not believe that such operation would be of advantage to the public. If the time for such operation be extended to March 7, 1908, we shall be prepared to operate a through line from Hoboken to Fourteenth street and Sixth avenue. We believe that the interests of the public will be better served by an extension of the time for sixty days, enabling us to begin operation between Hoboken and Fourteenth street, rather than to begin to operate from the centre of the river to Greenwich and Christopher streets, on or before January 7, 1908.

"In this connection we beg to assure you that at all times the work has been prosecuted in good faith and with all possible diligence. The completion has been delayed by unexpected obstacles and natural causes beyond our control. We feel that the interests of all concerned will be conserved by this short extension of time for our operation. We therefore respectfully request your honorable body to extend the time for the completion and operation of such line from January 7, 1908, to March 7, 1908."

Want Case Reopened.

Judge Newcorn in the district court tthis morning granted a motion made by Chauncey Beasley, counsel for the Public Service Corporation, for a rule to show cause why the verdict for $300 given in the case of the Plainfield Cab Company against the P. S. C., should not be reopened. The hearing will be given in two weeks. When this case for damages was tried last week, the P. S. C. was not represented by counsel and after W. A. Coddington, of counsel for the cab company, concluded his argument a verdict for $300 was given for the company.

"The Land of Lochs and Braes."

George N. Cross, A. M., of Haverhill, Mass., will lecture at All Souls' church, Park avenue, Thursday night, January 2, on "Scotland, the Land of Lochs and Braes," which will be illustrated with a large number of fine views.

Last Meeting for the Year.

The Common Council will hold its final meeting for the year on Monday night, when all matters for 1907 will be disposed of or referred to the 1908 body.

XMAS IN THE CHURCHES

Customary Services Held in Episcopal, Catholic and Other Edifices.

HYMNS OF THE NATIVITY.

Crescent Avenue Presbyterians and Lutherans Also Appropriately Observe the Day—Special Sermons on the Feast.

Christmas Day was formally observed in all the local Roman Catholic and Episcopal churches yesterday in accordance with the churches' laws. The Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church as well as a number of other Protestant congregations also celebrated the day.

The orders of service follow:

Crescent Avenue Church.

Considering the fact that many members of the congregation were engaged with Christmas festivities at home with the children, there was a good attendance at the Christmas Day service held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. It was the first time that a service of this character has been held at the church on Christmas morning, although it had been suggested in previous years. This year there was an urgent demand for it and it was decided to inaugurate this kind of a service.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the church, was in charge, and he delivered a short sermon appropriate to the day, reminding all of the significance of the festive occasion and urging all to be thoughtful of the welfare of others who, perhaps, might not be as fortunate. The music was in harmony with the day and altogether the service was helpful and inspiring.

Church of the Holy Cross.

The usual elaborate Christmas services were held at the Church of the Holy Cross, yesterday morning, and a large congregation was present. Rex. George A. Warner, rector, was in charge. There was early celebration of holy communion at 6 o'clock; second celebration of holy communion at 8 o'clock; morning prayer, sermon and late celebration of holy communion at 10:30 o'clock.

The full vested choir of men and boys rendered this musical program: "Te Deum," E flat, Bennet; "Benedictus D," Parry; "Introit," anthem, "In the Beginning," Andrews; offertory, "Shout the Glad Tidings," Hawley; Steane's Communion Service in F.

The church was attractively decorated with hundreds of yards of greens, and the reredos and pulpit was banked solidly with holy, while in the chancel arrangements was through the use of the vivid red poinsetta flower from California and the windows and choir stalls were decorated with holly wreaths.

In response to a large number of letters of appeal sent out by the rector for contributions to the poor fund, the amount received far exceeded the expectations of Mr. Warner, and he was much gratified.

The Christmas festival and tree will be enjoyed by the Sunday-school tonight in the church and parish house. There will be a program of carols, and gifts will be distributed among the children, as well as grown-ups, while all will have an opportunity to contribute something to the Children's Home. Hundreds of little incandescent lights will be used for the illumination of the tree and parish house. The exercises will begin at 7:45 o'clock.

St. Joseph's Church.

There was a great gathering of worshippers at the midnight mass held at St. Joseph's church, Tuesday night, many being unable to gain entrance to the church. The elaborate musical service was in charge of Mrs. A. E. LaPort, organist, and James Bailey, choirmaster. Father Brennan was the celebrant and Father Danian, of Hoboken, the deacon, while Father Miller was the subdeacon. The mass was a very impressive one throughout. Other masses were held in the morning at 7:30, 8:30 and 1030, with special music by the choir. Father Shandel had charge of the 7:30 o'clock mass, while Father Miller took the other masses, assisted by the visiting priests.

St. Mary's Church.

Christmas Day was observed at St. Mary's church yesterday morning with a number of special masses. At 5:30 o'clock there was the solemn high mass of Aurora at which Father Bogan was the celebrant. Other masses were held at 7:30, 8:30, 9:30 and 10:30. The last one was a solemn high mass, Father Vincent Sciola being the celebrant, assisted by Father McLaughlin, S. J., of St. Peter's College, Jersey City. Father Delehanty was the sub-deacon. At the last mass Father Bogan preached

MRS. RALPH K. MINER DIED ON CHRISTMAS EVE

Mrs. Ralph K. Miner, a former well known resident of this city, died Tuesday night at her home in Oriskany Falls, N. Y. She had been ill but a short time and news of her death came as a great surprise to her many friends in the city and borough. The body will be brought here and the funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Emil Messerschmidt, of East Fifth street.

Mrs. Miner was formerly Miss Charlotte Messerschmidt, the daughter of William Messerschmidt, of East Fifth street. Her first marriage was to the late Fred Ross who died a year afterward. Shortly after her marriage to Mr. Miner they removed to Oriskany Falls, but she returned to Plainfield at frequent intervals to visit friends, the last time about a month ago. Mrs. Miner was an accomplished vocalist and for several years was contralto soloist at the First Presbyterian and Congregational churches. She also took part in numerous musicals.

Beside her husband and a three-year-old daughter, Mrs. Miner is survived by her father and two brothers, Charles Messerschmidt, of New Brunswick, and Harry Messerschmidt, of this city.

ITALIANS IN A SCRAP; ONE IS GIVEN 60 DAYS

George Highrock and Andrew Dino, two members of the Italian colony on North avenue, near the Netherwood station, engaged in a fracas in a yard at their home yesterday morning. Fists and feet were used as weapons at first but the fight waxed stronger and beer bottles were brought into use. Dino proved to be the more expert of the two in wielding them and he laid Highrocks flat on his back with a terrific crack on his cranium. It laid his scalp open and he took a "down and out" count.

While the battle was in progress, neighbors sent word to the police and Dino was in the act of beating a retreat when a couple of cops pounced on him. He was hustled to jail while Highrocks was taken to a physician's office to be patched up. He was also locked up later on.

When the men were arraigned in court this morning, Judge Runyon recognized the two as having been before him once before. At the time Dino was fined and he declared that at the first opportunity in the future he would get "square" with Highrocks for his part in the arrest. The magistrate remarked that he had evidently fulfilled his threat and when testimony showed that Dino was the aggressor in yesterday's affair he was sent to jail for sixty days. Highrocks was let go on suspended sentence.

CHIEF KIELY'S MOTHER DEAD.

Passed Away at Her Home on West Fourth Street Late Last Night.

Mrs. Bridget Kiely, wife of Michael Kiely, and mother of Chief of Police Patrick S. Kiely, died at her home on West Fourth street late last night. She had been ill less than a week, cold and grip being the start and ending with bronchitis.

Mrs. Kiely had been a resident of Plainfield over thirty years, living the entire time in the West End where she had many friends. She was a member of St. Mary's church and was active in patish work. There are no other surviving near relatives beside her husband and Chief Kiely.

The funeral will be held at the late residence Saturday morning at 8:30 and from St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock where a solemn high mass of requiem will be said for the repose of her soul. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Chief Monahan Restores Jewels.

The $22,000 worth of jewels recovered by the Jersey City police from White and Koroff, who are charged with stealing them from the United States Express Company's platform at the Communipay ferry in Jersey City, have been turned over by Chief Monohan to General Supt. L. P. Starkweather of the express company. Some of them will be used as evidence when the youths are tried.

Four Babes for Xmas.

The Christmas present of Mrs. William Luck, of Roanake, Va., to her husband yesterday was two boys and two girls at a birth. All are doing well, and reports say that Luck is happy.

Engagement Announced.

Miss Mary E. Brouwer announces the engagement of her niece, Miss E. Caroline Brouwer, of Dunellen, to William Varick Nevins, Jr., of Brooklyn, N. Y.

SAENGERBUND'S BIG TIME

Mayor-elect Samuel Townsend Honored Guest of Germans' Society.

CHRISTMAS TREE CELEBRATION

North Plainfield's New Mayor Shows How Expert He Is With the Pins.

The usual "Merry Christmas" time prevailed at Saengerbund Hall all day yesterday and the members and their friends enjoyed the occasion until late last night.

The principal feature of the day's celebration was the entertainment and Christmas tree for the children in the afternoon. About 150 were in attendance and they played games about a huge tree in the centre of the dancing floor and afterward sang carols. Little Miss Leary, a five-year-old tot from Dunellen, gave a recitation and sang a solo in a manner that earned her heart applause. In conclusion August Wolf appeared as Santa Claus and distributed gifts, each child getting a toy and a useful article.

Prize bowling on the alleys occupied the attention of the members at night and some high scores were chalked up. The record figures were made by Adolph Barre, who banged the pins for 290. The excitement was intense while the frames were reeled off and it was thought that he might turn out a perfect score. John Wirth and Alfred Luthmann were also successful bowlers and carried off several handsome prizes.

During the afternoon, Mayor-elect Samuel Townsend visited the hall on invitation from the members and was an interested spectator at the children's frolic. He refrained from making an address but expressed himself as being greatly pleased with the manner in which the society observed the day. He was shown all through the building and before leaving took a try at the pins on the bowling alley. Mr. Townsend is well up in the game and bested several of the Turn Verein's cracks.

The day's celebration was in charge of Walter Koeppel, August Wolf, Carl Felber, Louis Moraller and John Retzer.

HOPE CHAPEL BASKETBALL TEAM DEFEATS Y. M. A.

The Hope chapel basketball team played an exciting game in the gymnasium yesterday with Hope Y. M. A., the latter five winning out by a score of 22 to 14. Mortimer excelled in throwing goals, being credited with eight, while Kenney and A. Hoffman were credited with five. Kenney threw six goals from foul. The lineup:

Hope Chapel Basketball Club—Forwards, Kenney, Firstbrook; centre, Muir; guards, C. Hoffman, A. Hoffman.

Y. M. A.—Forwards, Hunter, Rimmer; centre, Mortimer; guards, Eckert, Brownell.

Field goals, Kenney, 5; Muir, 1 C. Hoffman, 2; A. Hoffman, 5; Hunter, 3; Rimmer, 2; Mortimer, 8; foul goals, Kenney, 6; Eckert, 1. Referee, William Chamberlain; scorer, W. Douglass; timer, Earl Huff; time of halves, twenty minutes.

Will Delight Old and Young.

The Christmas mystery play, "Eager Heart," to be given at the parish house of Grace church, tonight, will delight both old and young. The play is a revival of the Elizabethan Dramatic Society and is from the pen of A. M. Buckton. Miss Brooke Peeters, of New York, will be supported by an able cast from the young people of the church.

Gives Jersey Old Records.

The Secretary of State of Massachusetts has informed Governor Stokes that the Bay State Legislature has contributed a valuable addition to the archives of New Jersey. The gift consists of six rolls of Captain John Mott's company, Third Brigade, New Jersey Continental line, signed in 1777.

Alliance Meeting.

The Christian and Missionary Alliance will meet in the rooms of the W. C. T. U. on Madison avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. It is expected that one or more students from the Missionary Training College, Nyack, N. Y., will be present. All are welcome. Young people are especially invited.

Too Much Christmas.

As a result of too much Christmas celebration, N. B. Snell fell into the hands of the borough police yesterday afternoon. Chief Weiss found him on Somerset street hugging a hitching post. He was fined $3 by Recorder Dolliver this morning.

—Fancy Indian River and Tangierine oranges are a special offering at Neuman Brothers. Special prices by the box during the holidays.

ITALIAN COMMITS AN UNPROVOKED ASSAULT

Evidently filled with Christmas cheer of the red eye variety, Joseph Pradiso, of Cottage place, committed an unprovoked assault on Patrick McLaughlin as the two passed on Washington street, yesterday morning.

Pradiso led off with a right hand drive at McLaughlin that almost knocked him off his feet and then followed it up by hurling stones at him. One of the missiles opened his scalp and blood poured down his face in a stream. Pradiso was still in a combative mood when Patrolman George Dobson hove in sight, but he started on a run at sight of the bluecoat. The officer caught him after he had gone a block.

In the city court this morning, McLaughlin said he wasn't anxious to press a charge against the prisoner, but Judge Runyon refused to let him off. He scored Pradiso heavily and fined him $5 with a preference of twenty days. He paid the fine.

CONSOLIDATION SCHEMES IN MANY COMMUNITIES

"The prospects are unusually bright for a lot of consolidation bills before the next Legislature, quite aside from any measures looking to the annexation of Harrison, Kearny and East Newark to Newark. That the communities named will ultimately be merged into Greater Newark there is hardly room for doubt, but the plans for this great improvement have not yet fully ripened.

"Last week steps were taken at El Mora looking to its annexation to the city of Elizabeth, and these steps have been indorsed by the latter's Board of Trade. It will ultimately mean the consolidation of Roselle Park and Roselle Borough with the larger city. And again, Raritan is being coaxed by Somerville to unite with it and thus make a larger and more influential municipality. The borough of Bound Brook is on the north side of the Raritan River, in Somerset county, and the village of South Bound Brook is on the south side of the river, in Middlesex county. There is, therefore, some difficulty in the way of consolidating the two, but efforts are being made to bring it about.

"As usual, there is much talk of annexating North Plainfield to Plainfield, or else of forming a new county. The latter project is practically impossible, if the opinions of the papers in various sections of the State are to be taken as indicative of legislative action, but the consolidation scheme is making progress. A commission appointed some time ago to recommend terms has filed its report, and sentiment seems to favor the plan reported.

"Nothing has been heard tthus far of any serious effort to consolidate Hoboken and Jersey City, nor is there any announcement of a renewal of last year's scheme to melt Stanhope and Netcong into one homogeneous municipality, but there are rumors that Trenton would like to take in any desultory villages near its outskirts, so as to get even with Camden, if possible, and New Brunswick would like to amass an unearned increment of population by annexing a contiguous township, and thus catch up with Perth Amboy. The era of consolidation is here, and no doubt several other schemes for making "greater" cities will present themselves before the Legislature convenes."—Newark News.

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENTS ARRANGED FOR TONIGHT.

Several Sunday-school Christmas entertainments will be held tonight, including ones at the Church of the Holy Cross, Trinity Reformed church, Grace church and at the Seventh-Day Baptist church. At the Church of the Holy Cross te school will furnish the program, while at Trinity Reformed church a professional entertainment, assisted by members of the church choir, will provide the program. A play entitled "Eager Heart," will be given at Grace church and at the Seventh-Day Bautist church the members of the school will present a program. The exercises at the latter church will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Held a Family Reunion.

Among the pleasant family reunions yesterday was one at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Newman, on West Fifth street, where their sons, Rev. Fred Newman, of Trenton; Frank Newman, of New York, and Louis Newman, of Brewster, N. Y., together with their families gathered to enjoy the festivities of the day.

Mrs. Margaret Sweeney, of Liberty street, has returned home from Muhlenberg Hospital, where she has been for the past three weeks, following an operation.

DEATH SUMMONED BOTH

Mrs. Martin W. Brown and Her Sister-in-law Mrs. R. Higgins, Called Together.

BODIES LAID SIDE BY SIDE.

One Succumbs Following Operation While Other Passes Away on Train—Both at Newark on Tuesday.

Mrs. Martin W. Brown, who resided in Fanwood for the past two years, died Tuesday night in the German Hospital, Newark, following an operation performed three weeks ago. The body was taken temporarily to an undertaking establishment in that city and by a strange coincidence the body of her sister-in-law, Mrs. R. Higgins, of Orange, was brought into the same place yesterday afternoon. The latter died on a train en route from Jacksonville to New York and the fact was discovered just before Newark was reached. Mrs. Higgins had left the Florida city to come north for an operation and was traveling with an attendant in a Pullman car.

Mrs. Brown was thirty-five years old and before removing to Fanwood had made her home at Garwood. Her husband is a steamboat inspector employed in New York. She was a member of All Saints' Episcopal church and was very active in all its work. Though her residence in Fanwood had been of short duration she had made hosts of friends there and was prominent in social affairs. She leaves no children.

Mrs. Higgins was a widow and was the mother of Charles H. Higgins, of the F. M. Stillman Company, of New York. Dr. Elliott, county physician of Essex, performed an autopsy on the body and declared death to be due to Bright's disease.

D. AND H.'S NEW LINE.

To Carry Pennsy, "Valley" and Central of Jersey Freight Into New England.

The Delaware and Hudson Company, which during the past few years has established a through line to New England points via Wilkes-Barre, in connection with the Pennsylvania, Lehigh Valley and Central of New Jersey, with the Boston and Albany and Boston and Maine, expects to profit largely by the New Haven's efforts to debar the Central of New Jersey, the Reading and Baltimore and Ohio access to New England territory through the Harlem gateway.

The company has already spent several million of dollars in the construction of a large freight classification yard at Wilkes-Barre, has four-rtacked its Pennsylvania division between Wilkes-Barre and Carbondale and double-tracked from the latter point to Albany and Mechanicville and is now in position to handle expeditiously and influx of New England business that may come to it. The road also has connections with the Erie and the Lackawanna at Binghampton, N. Y.

BRIDE 78, GROOM 32.

Becomes Grandfather to Scions of Wife Older Than Himself.

By his marriage to Mrs. Betsy Devoll-Braden, of Santa Cruz, Cal., known to her host of friends as "Aunt Betsy," Harry Andrews, of Tennessee, has become grandfather to scions of his wife who are older than himself. Andrews as 32 and his bride 78.

Immediately after the wedding she declared that she felt as young as she ever did, despite the groom being her third husband who had imprinted a marriage salute upon her lips.

Mrs. Devoll-Braden-Andrews is quite wealthy and has a handsome home.

CRANFORD WIFE A SUICIDE.

Mrs. Lawrence Morrin Block, 28 years old, wife of a shoe dealer of Cranford, committed suicide on Tuesday at her home on Lincoln avenue, by drinking carbolic acid, in, it is presumed, a sudden derangement.

Mrs. Block was on the street Tuesday morning and appeared to be in good spirits. She leaves a daughter 6 years old. Her husband, after her death, showed a reporter a diamond ring which he had bought for her as a Christmas present, and could not account for her act.

Mrs. Mary Mead.

Mrs. Mary Mead, widow of Isaac Mead, a former resident of Scotch Plains, died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Augusta Coyte, of Newark, yesterday. She was in her ninety-fourth year and death was due to the infirmities of old age. The funeral will be held at Mrs. Coyte's home, 43 North Seventh street, tomorrow morning at 10:30. Burial will be in the Scotch Plains cemetery.

FORGET BRIDGE AND ARE HIT.

Trenton Freeholders to Order Penn. Road to Remedy Dangerous Spot.

The Mercer Board of Freeholders will serve notice on the Pennsylvania Railroad this week to depress the grade of its tracks where the line passes under the Olden avenue bridge at Trenton. It appears that many men are being injured there because the grade was raised two feet when the arch bridge over the Delaware river was erected.

Railroad men have been dodging the bridge for years, but they forget the two feet rise in grade and men are constantly being either killed or badly injured. That was the case with Engineer Paul Lawton the other day. He was on the running board and forgot the bridge. Twenty-two men have been killed or hurt at this point within the last four years.

TRENTON'S BLUE LAW FIGHT.

Storekeepers Defy Closed Sunday Advocates and Keep Places Open.

The Trenton Merchants' Association has been defied by the proprietors of stores who desire to sell goods on Sunday.

Last Sunday a large cigar store kept open, on advice of counsel, as did the confectionery stores owned by the Greeks, and, although they were fined for the previous Sunday opening, nothing has been done with the violation of last Sunday.

The store proprietors say that they are in the fight to win, a liberal Sunday for Trenton, and the Merchants' Association officials say its members are too busy with Christmas trade to bother with Sunday closing, but that it will be taken up after New Year's. The association has voted $5,000 for the legal fight to construe the "blue laws" literally. The store people say they will spend more than $5,000 to get a liberal Sunday for Trenton.

NEW JERSEY SHOWS HOW TO PROLONG ONE'S LIFE

The State of New Jersey, in building a sanatorium near Glen Gardner, has undertaken the highly commendable task of teaching consumptive folks how not to die—how not to die from the great White Plague, which carries away in this country more people every year than any other disease.

It will certainly prove of interest to the public to know the exact course of treatment prescribed at the New Jersey Sanatorium, says the Washington (N. J.) Star, and there may be persons afflicted with tuberculosis who can apply the treatment in their homes with much benefit to themselves.

Take a male patient for instance. He arises at 6:30 in the morning. The room is previously made warm and comfortable for him to dress, the windows having been kept wide open during the night to admit the fresh air freely. Some time before he arises the windows are closed and the steam heat turned on, so that it is comfortable in the room by the time he is called upon to get out of bed.

The first thing he is obliged to do after arising is to take a cold bath. This is somewhat of an ordeal for a new patient, but he gets used to it by easy stages. Some of them begin by rubbing a little water on their breasts at the start, but once they become accustomed to the cold water bath, they really enjoy it.

After the cold bath, the patient goes to breakfast, which is served in the large dining-room. He takes this meal at 7:30 o'clock. It consists of a regular diet, such as might be served in any home, the patient being allowed as much to eat as he wishes.

After breakfast he goes back to the ward and empties the sputum cup that he used during the night. These sputum cups are small pasteboard boxes that set into a tin receptacle. They can be removed and destroyed frequently. He must use them under all circumstances, no patient being allowed to spit into anything else, not even on the grounds around the building. When he goes out for a walk, he must carry a small box which fits into his pocket and which is large enough to hold one of the pasteboard receptacles. When he has occasion to spit he must use this receptacle, no matter even if he is walking in the woods some distance away. The theory is that sputum forms the only means of communicating the germs of tuberculosis. When it becomes dry, it is carried as so much dust by the wind, thus forming a very favorable means of communicatiton to other persons. In no other way, the doctors claim, is there any danger of communicating the disease.

After completing this task, the patient is required to go out into the air for one hour. He may enjoy a sunbath from the fine observation porches in front of the ward buildings or he may roam over the premises, as he chooses. In cold weather, however, it is necessary that he keep well bundled. Staying out in the air, no matter how cold the weather, is considered not only beneficial, but is compulsory, providing he is properly clothed. Cold air will never hurt a patient, either awake or asleep, providing he keeps well bundled up.

At 10 o'clock the patient goes inside and paratakes of what the doctors term a lunch. It consists of milk and eggs—both pure and fresh, and secured mostly from the farmers of the neighborhood.

The patient takes the eggs with the milk and each patient gets an opportionment of eggs according to his physical condition. If he is delicate he gets possibly as many as five eggs at this lunch, along with plenty of milk. The more delicate he is the more eggs he gets.

After lunch the patient goes out into the air again and remains until 12 o'clock. At this hour dinner is served. This is the big meal of the day and the patient is encouraged to eat all he can. There are no particular restrictions placed upon him and, aside from rich pastry and pork and veal, he is served with most any manner of food, prepared mainly with a view to tempt his appetite. If he likes some particular kind of meat he may have more of it for the asking and he may pass his plate even a third time if his appetite is not yet appeased. A good appetite is indicative of improvement in the patient and it pleases the doctors of the sanatorium to see a patient with a growing appetite.

After dinner, the schedule calls for an hour's rest and the patient lies down for that length of time. Then he goes out into the air again and remains until 3 o'clock. At this hour he is served with another lunch, but this consists of milk alone, no eggs, as a rule, being served at the afternoon lunch.

Then he goes out for more air, remaining outdoors until 5:30. Supper is served at that hour and this meal is made the lightest meal of the day. A little more of the health-giving air is then prescribed in the course of treatment and he goes out until 9 o'clock. The plan is to keep a patient out in the air at least eight hours each day.

At 9:30 the signal for "lights out" is sounded, the windows are opened and the patient goes to sleep. An hour before he retires the windows are closed and the rooms made comfortable for disrobing. They are opened again after he gets into bed and is properly and warmly wrapped up.

Treatment at the New Jersey institution, although in practice only a little over one month, is already proving beneficial. D.. S. B. English, of Camden, who is superintendent of the institution, states that of the thirty-three patients who were there on November 30, all had gained flesh and strength with the exception of two. One young man, who had been there just a month, had gained thirteen pounds. Dr. English's assistant is Dr. Henry B. Dunham, who was connected with the State institution in Massachusetts for nine years.

There are at present twenty-three persons on the payroll of the institution. Among them are the two physicians, a nurse, a matron, an assistant matron, laundryman, foreman of grounds, chef and baker.

Tuesday and Thursday of each week have been set aside as visiting days at the sanatorium.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Ramsay Morris' masterpiece, "The Ninety and Nine," which played for six months at the Academy of Music, New York, will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tonight.

"A play without a star and yet bright lights shining all the time," and Orange Blossoms," Bertha M. and Orange Blossoms. Bertha M. Clay's absorbingly interesting play, which will be at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday, "and," continues the dramatic writer, "this is what the public want—evenly divided casts, with each character competent to carry his or her portion of the play in a finished and convincing manner." It is a significant tribute to the judgment of the producers that the feature pointed out was a dominating influence for the selection of "Thorns and Orange Blossoms" for a road tour. The story appeals to all classes; it has a vital interest for everyone, the working girl or the petted society belle, the young man about town or the head of the family—to each there is a pointed lesson, a moral, a suggestion, and over all is spread the spirit of kindliness, of wisdom, of real humanity, of living and breathing heart interest.

McIntyre and Heath will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday, matinee and night, January 4, in Klaw & Erlanger's big production of the musical novelty, "The Ham Tree," which has proved one of the greatest laughing successes the American stage has ever known. These comedians have no equals in the delineation of quaint negro characters and they are funnier than ever in their career in "The Ham Tree." The book is by George V. Hobart, the lyrics by William Jerome and the catchy music by Jean Schwartz. Klaw & Erlanger have been most lavish in the brilliant and gorgeous production, and have surrounded their new stars with a company of real excellence. Prominent in their support are the statuesque Jeanne Towler, Carolyn Gordon, long a favorite with the Daly musical productions; and Belle Gold. A special feature is the chorus of fascinatingly pretty girls who do some wonderfully attractive singing and dancing specialties and admitted by all who have seen "The Ham Tree" to have no equal.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

A. M. Griffen, the hardware merchant, handles a superior line of housefurnishing goods; also hardware and builders' materials. You will find the goods all right and the prices attractive.

Christmas past and no doubt many of your gifts came from the Woodhull & Martin Company store. You will be pleased with them if they did and it will make you feel like patronizing a concern that sells such goods. The holiday rush has not depleted the stock and during the coming year you will continue to find countless bargains as in the past. Remember that the firm always maintains quality at lowest possible prices.

TROOP IN ATLANTIC PLANS AN ARMORY.

Members of the City Troop, of Atlantic City, the crack mounted squadron of the resort, the planning to erect an armory in the exclusive Chelsea cottage district. Club and ball rooms, as well as halls for drill and a riding school, will be incorporated in the building.

A special corps of rough riders will go in training within a few weeks for instruction in trick riding.

Gaudy new dress uniforms will be adopted by the troop during the coming week, and the organization is to be made the official welcoming association for noted persons who visit the resort.

Fire Destroys Dr. Patton's Home.

The old Crane homestead, in West Caldwell, owned by Dr. E. W. Patton, of New York, was destroyed by fire yesterday morning. The fire was discovered by Patrick Dunn, the caretaker, who tried to extinguish the flames with buckets of water, but the fire gained such headway that it was impossible to save the structure. The loss is $4,000. Dr. Patton purchased the property last spring as a summer residence.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

BASEBALL.

Australia is taking to baseball.

With Burke, Poland Russell and Phelan, Providence will have a quartet of heavy stickers next season.

Christy Mathewson, of the New York Nationals, will coach the West Point pitchers next spring.

Gene McCann, of the Jersey City pitching staff, whose home is in Baltimore, had the misfortune recently of being a member of an automobile party which ran down and killed a negro in that city.

Billy Nattress, the Buffalo shortstop, is one of the star bowlers of the Bison City, where he is a manager of alleys.

President P. T. Powers announced yesterday that the Eastern League batting and fielding averages are in the printer's hands and will soon be issued. The delay this year compiling the averages is due to the dilatory tactics of the official scorer of the Montreal Club, who failed to send in his official figures, according to the usual arrangement.

Rube Waddell, the eccentric pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, is in Mobile, Ala., where he will remain until sporting time in the spring. Waddell has established a home for himself and parents in that city.

The Donohue family of five ball players, mother and sister, of which Jiggs, of the Chicago White Sox, is the most famous members, had a reunion in the old Donohue homestead in Springfield, O., on Christmas.

After one year of baseball under protection, the fans of Lancaster, Pa., are clamoring for the outlaw game. This sentiment is created by the drafting of former Lancaster players by other league clubs.

Warren Gill, of the Oklahoma Club, has been signed by Fred Clarke, of the Pittsburg club, to play first base next season. Gill is six feet tall, and his home is at Arkansas City, about ten miles from Fred Clarke's farm at Winfield, Kan.

Manager Frank Chance, of the Cubs, is on the track of a real Chinaman who is said to be a wonderful ball player. En Sue is the name of the new find. He is a student at St. Louise College, Honolulu, and friends of the Cub manager speak highly of his ability in fielding, but not so highly of his hitting ability. Chance, however, has sent the celestial a contract to sign, and will take him on the training trip if he agrees to play.

GOLF.

Like the birds, whose recent migratory flights have been headed toward warmer climes, so are the golf professionals preparing for a shift of scenes and new fields to conquer. In another fortnight practically all of the Northern "pros" will have completed their plans for the winter. Many will identify themselves with Southern greens; others will take advantage of the opportunity to spend a few weeks with relatives and friends in Bonny Scotland, while a few more will be content to worry along in the vicinity of their old stamping grounds and take chances like the rest of the ordinary mortals, who remain in the North and endeavor to dodge la grippe, pneumonia, etc.

At first glance it would seem hardly necessary to attempt to explain why the professionals for the most part go South in the winter. The natural answer would be "to make more money, of course."

But such is not always the case. Some do go South with winter, secure good greens and clear a few hundred dollars and return to this side of the Mason and Dixon line that much better off financially. And in many instances those are the ones who have good paying jobs in the North and really do not have to piece out with the Southern invasion in order to make ends meet.

Those are the canny Scots. But all Scots are not canny, as is shown by the fact that a goodly proportion of the salaried golfers "are all in, down and out" at the end of the summer seasons. They lived as they went, not losing any sleep over what the future had in store. With them winter work becomes a necessity, many of whom are willing to put in a few months in the South, if for nothing more than to pay expenses.

Prominent professionals who will stay at home are Alec Smith, of Nassau; Steward Gardner, of Exmoor; Jack Hobens, of Englewood; George Pearson, of Yountakah, and Dave Hunter, of Essex County. Smith, who was located at Atlanta, Ga., last winter, says he wants to get better acquainted with New York. He did well on his trip a year ago, winning the open championship of South Florida, while Anderson accounted for the North Florida open title.

Miss Scraper (amateur violinist)—Did you notice that old man crying while I was playing my sonata?

Friend—Yes. He said your playing reminded him of old happy days.

Miss Scraper—What, was he a violinist?

Friend—No; he was a piano tuner.

JUDGESHIP FOR CAREY, A HUDSON COLBYITE.

The political situation in Hudson county has become so bitter that complaint may be made to the Postmaster General of the pernicious activity of some of the postmasters in the contest between Sheriff Kaiser, backed by Dickinson, and County Clerk Rotherham. The Secretary of State is not inclined to surrender, and is fighting hard. He has summoned the old guard of postmasters, and several of them have become so active in the fight that they have disturbed the Rotherhamites.

It is intimated that Senator Kean is not averse to the retention of Dickinson as the Hudson leader. The Rotherhamites have appealed to Governor-elect Fort.

A change in the county slate may be made, and Mr. Vickers, the Assistant Prosecutor, may be reappointed. Governor-elect Fort, it is said, looked with favor on Robert Carey, the Corporation Attorney, a New Idea man, for this place. Carey was not enthusiastic, as it would have interfered with his private law practice, and the Rotherhamites are not anxious to have Carey as assistant to Garven. It has been suggested that Carey be appointed District Court Judge to succeed Judge Erwin, whose term will expire soon. This appointment would likely suit Carel better than the other, and would give him time for his own practice. Judge Erwin has not been active in the factional fight, but, it is said, has the indorsement of the Dickinson wing.

BIBULOUS INTRUDER PENITENT.

Man Who Broke Into House to Sleep Takes the Pledge When Sober.

Woodbridge, Dec. 26.—The Misses Freeman, who reside on the outskirts of this town, have not yet wholly recovered from the fright they experienced a few nights ago while alone in their home. They were aroused about midnight by the barking of the watchdog, and discovered some one attempting to force an entrance at the hall door. Then the stranger encircled the house several times in an irregular route, apparently seeking a suitable spot to break into the dwelling. The women sat up the remainder of the night keeping watch.

Early Sunday morning one of the women descended to the dining-room and discovered a man asleep on the safe. She called to her sister, and the two women fled from the house in their nightrobes to the home of Adam Huber. He went to the Freeman homestead and ejected the intruder, who was plainly under the influence of drink. Later in the day he returned and made his apologies to the women he had frightened. He resides about eight miles from tthis town, and mistook the road home while intoxicated. He promised to take the pledge if no action was taken against him, and departed in a contrite mood.

Yale Keeps Dean Wright.

Dean Henry P. Wright, of Yale, who stated last spring that he would retire next spring on account of his advanced age, yesterday announced in the Alumni Weekly that he would remain another year. Protests against the Dean's retirement arose from Yale graduates everywhere. In 1909 he will complete a quarter of a century as Dean.

Choose Bromley Lecturers.

Secretary Stokes, of Yale, yesterday announced that the Bromley lecturer for next sping would be Col. George B. SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS.

Dr. Rem L. Disbrow has been elected treasurer of Harmony Lodge of Masons of Toms River for the twenty-fifth year.

As usual on Christmas Day Park Commissioner I. A. Hall, of Paterson, gave his annual dinner to the newsboys of that city yesterday afternoon.

Nine new cases of diptheria were reported to the Camden Board of Health Tuesday, and one death. There were also two new cases of scarlet fever reported.

Following an annual custom, James H. Birch, Sr., manufacturer and philanthropist of Burlington, sent nearly two hundred turkeys to the homes of his employes yesterday. Mr. Birch found great pleasure in presenting the gifts in person.

Claiming that his son's reason has been affected by excessive cigarette smoking, George Fitzgerald appeared before Recorder Stackhouse, in Camden, and asked that some means be adopted to restrain the boy. He was later taken to the State asylum.

After Mrs. Alice Green, of London, N. J., applied for alimony and counsel fee from Charles E. Green, her husband, in the Court of Chancery, in Camden, Tuesday, and each charged the other with infidelity, counsel was granted a fee of $25 and the matter of alimony was continued until the final hearing.

Mayor Adamson, of Paulson, Tuesday, purchased from Marshal Samuel Cole a lot on the outside of the borough for $1,250 and began actual work on the gas plant, which is to be finished by the contractors in 100 days. Efforts have been made to purchase a lot owned by John Parker, but he wanted $2,500 for it, although he made protest to the county board against an assessment of $1,000.

Justice of the Peace Knight committed Ernest Waples, colored, of "Matchtown" to the Camden county jail in default of $1,000 bail for assault Tuesday. Only Waples' poor aim probably saved him from being a murderer. A fight occurred Saturday night between Waples and Reuben Sharp, also colored, over a woman, and Waples fired a bullet, which plowed a furrow across Sharp's abdomen.

Caught in quicksand while returning to Atlantic City across a marshy section of newly made land near the Inlet last Sunday night, Dr. Nelson Ingram, a retired physician and enthusiastic yachtsman, had sunk to his waist and was fast becoming exhausted when his cries for help attracted attention. Hubert Somers, a banker, organized a rescuing party and released Dr. Ingram from his dangerous plight with much difficulty.

TRUANT DAY FIXED ON IN MIDDLESEX COURT.

Middlesex County Superintendent of Schools H. Brewster Willis, who is credited with inaugurating the movement to have the American flag float over schoolhouses, is now devoting special attention to the truancy law. Judge Booraem, the Middlesex county judge, is aiding him, with the result that there has been a greater number of pupils in the schools this winter than has ever been known in Middlesex. That he proposed to continue the movement is shown by the fact that he had seventeen truants here in court Tuesday.

Superintendent Willis has the matter down to a system which has proved most successful. All of the teachers in the county make reguuar reports to the supervising principal of the district, who makes a monthly report to the county superintendent, who gets out the warrants and forces the children and their parents into court, where the parents must explain why their children are out of school.

Judge Booraem gives them fair warning that if the children are not in school the parents will be looked after by the grand jury, and can be severely punished for their failure to take advantage of the school law.

Teachers attend court with their records on days when the court hears these cases, so that they can prove how many days the children are out of school. They are in sympathy with the movement, and are very outspoken in their expressions of the successful results coming therefrom.

COLBY'S GIFTS TO NEWSBOYS.

Presents Them With Cards Calling For Toys.

Senator Everett Colby, of Llewellyn Park, repeated his Santa Claus act Tuesday by riding in his auto to Orange, where a big crowd of newsboys awaited him. The crowd was so big that the Senator waved them to the plaza at the Lackawanna Railroad station, where he announced that he would give out cards entitling the holder to a gift at a local toy shop.

He gave away fifty cards, and threw the last one in the air to let the boys scramble for it. There was a scrimmage of no small proportions, and finally a tiny fellow wiggled out from the mass of legs and arms and waved a muddy card aloft. When the cards were all gone the line of boys seemed as long as ever.

"I'm sorry I haven't any more cards with me," said the Senator, "but I'll be around again in the morning and fix all you fellows up who haven't any."

MASKED MAN HAUNTS ON CHRISTMAS EVE.

The masked mystery, as the individual is called who has been annoying the family of Charles F. Simonds, a travelling salesman, living in Willard place, Bloomfield, made a Christmas Eve visit to the Simonds home. He was seen by several persons who, however, were unable to catch him, and when Policeman Albert E. Drew arrived the fellow had vanished. A careful search was made in the neighborhood, but no trace of the masked person could be found.

On November 8 Mr. and Mrs. Simonds were held up in their home by a man whom they found in the cellar. He demanded money, and Mrs. Simonds gave him $20 from a roll of $200. The robber promised to repay the loan, as he called it, but has never done so. His second visit was about one month later, and then he stood on the front porch and beckoned to Mr. Simonds to come out. Instead Mr. Simonds telephoned to the police. When Policemen Huddy and Mertz arrived the man was gone. Last night the third visit was made while Mr. Simonds was away.

It was dusk when Miss Simonds responded to the ring of the door bell. As she opened the door the switched on an electric light, and as the rays fell upon the masked face Miss Simonds stepped back and screamed. Frightened, the fellow dashed from the porch and down the avenue and escaped. The entire town has become alarmed over the fellow's strange actions.

COUNTERFEITERS' DEN.

Complete Outfit Found in Elizabeth —No Arrests Made.

Detective Michael Mulcahey, of the Elizabeth police force, and two secret service detectives from Newark raided a counterfeiters' den at 178 Front street, Elizabeth, Tuesday, and although the man they sought made good his escape before the detectives arrived at the house, they found paraphernalia enough to convince them that the making of counterfeit money has been carried on for months by an expert counterfeiter.

The arrest of Charles Murcke and Charles Boza, on Saturday last, for passing counterfeit coin led the local police force to make the investigation which resulted in the rail.

W. J. Bryan Senator.

Governor Broward appointed William James Bryan, of Jacksonville, Fla., United States Senator yesterday to succeed Stephen Russell Mallory for the remainder of the term expiring March 4, 1909. About two years ago Mr. Bryan announced his candidacy to succeed Senator Mallory. He is not related to William J. Bryan, of Nebraska.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Clark held their annual family dinner and reunion at their home in Front street yesterday. Those sitting down to dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Cass Ackerson and family, of Matawan; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Smith and children, of Lincoln; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Clark and children, Mr. and Mrs. George Clark and children, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Clawson and Mrs. Smalley, all of this place.

The Christmas exercises of All Saints' Episcopal church Sunday-school will be held on Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The children have been rehearsing the Christmas music, under the direction of Miss Klemser, organist of the Sunday-school.

A number of trap shooters from here and the borough held a clay bird shoot yesterday morning on the old Brookside grounds near the mountains. There is some talk of reorganizing the Brookside Club and holiday weekly shoot again.

Miss Caroline Lent, of the corps of school teachers, left for her home at Palmyra, New York, Tuesday night, where she will spend her holiday vacation of two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Muir and son, of Newark, were the guests over Christmas of Mrs. Muir's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Meyer, of Park avenue.

Frankie Lee, a student at the Madison Boarding School, is home for his two weeks' vacation.

Special service was held in All Saint's church yesterday morning at 10:30.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Robert Randolph, Arthur Grey, Elwood Johnson and Harry Perrine were out hunting yesterday and all they shot was one little sparrow.

John, Mary and Nellie Farrel, of Metuchen, spent the Christmas holidays with their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. McDonough.

Florence Johnson, of Plainfield avenue, invited her Sunday-school class to be her guests on Monday night.

Leonard C. Attlee, the son of Rev. C. W. F. Attlee, is spending the week with his parents on Brookside avenue.

Lillian Norman, who resides at the Norman Hotel, had a pleasant stay with Verna Allen on Maple avenue.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

Just now a great deal of attention is given to stripes, two tone and two color, although they are seldom very strongly contrasting.

Some of the new muffs are trimmed with a number of little heads and look as if they had no padding. The flat collar or stole has also a number of heads on each side.

Many of the newest two piece walking suits have a coat of one color with skirt of contrasting tone, and smart models of a more elaborate nature are even allowed jaunty little velvet coats.

Braid and velvet in conjunction are finding tremendous favor for gowns of every variety, and a very fine cord that is new is used a great deal, with the wider braids to carry out a prescribed design.

Wraps surely have never been so fascinating nor so "different." They are indescribable. The fur ones show the greatest novelty in their combination with lace, cloth, silk and the more sheer fabrics like tulle and chiffon.—New York Post.

To Soften Hard Water.

Limewater may be used to soften hard water. The proportion should be ten gallons of water to one gallon of limewater. Sal soda is the only remedy when the hardness is permanent.

HOPELESS.

Standing neath the vine-covered arbor, at the southern end of the garden, about page 357, the man and the woman gazed earnestly in each other's eyes.

"My own," murmured the man, "my very own—may I call you so? Thanks. Then, will you, sweet one, be my wife?"

"Ah," she said, her frame convulsed with sobs, "would that you had not spoken, Aubrey, for I can never be your wife."

"You never can?" ejaculated the disconcerted lover, starting back in amazement.

"No, no," she said, with a choking sob.

"But you love me?" he queried anxiously.

"Yes, yes," she replied, convulsively.

"And will you always remain single if you don't marry me?"

"Yes, yes."

"There's never been any scandal about you, has there?"

"Sir!"

"No, of course not," he hastened to mutter. "Pardon me; 'twas an unworthy thought. But as far as I can make out, there seems to be no bar whatsoever to our union."

"No,"—the light of love irradiated her classic features,—"there is nothing to prevent our being married."

"Then why—why"—the man's voice vibrated with passion—"why can you not marry me, if there is no earthly reason to prevent it?"

"Because," she answered, in a tone of helpless despair, "I am the heroine in a woman's novel."

As he recognized the insuperability of the obstacle before them, he quailed and then, with deep drawn sighs, he glided into the forty-eighth chapter.—Puck.

The Explorer's Yarn.

In 1911 the great explorer returned from his search for the south pole and mounted the lecture platform.

"Ah, my friends," he related with much feeling, "the memory of the hardships in the ice automobile brings tears to my eyes. For days we had no food and gaunt starvation stared us in the face. Not a dog, not a penguin, not even an old boot. But on the fifth day salvation came and we were saved."

"Ah," shouted a man in the front row, "you killed a bear or a walrus?"

"No, my friend, you are away off. I said salvation came and it did and unexpectedly. In turning a sharp corner on the ice pack the automobile turned turtle and we had turtle soup. Thus did we escape starvation.'

And then the ushers took up a collection.—Chicago News.

NEW YORK CITY.

There are about 18,400 lame children in New York city.

The most reliable records show that there are 3,879 millionaires in New York city.

There is no city in the world where so many special privileges are allowed to be enjoyed by the authorities as in the American metropolis.

The government of New York city will spend more than twice as much in the coming year as the government of the United States spent in the year before the civil war.

New York city would never have existed as a metropolis without the waters around Manhattan Island, yet to facilitate travel over these waters there has been spent and planned to be spent in bridges $201,000,000.—New York Herald.

THE CHRISTMAS MYSTERY PLAY,

EAGER HEART

will be presented at the Parish House of Grace Church on THURSDAY EVENING,

Dec. 26

at eight o'clock. The play is a revival by the Elizabethan Dramatic Society of the quaint and primitive dramatic art of the period, and comes from the pen of Mr. A. M. Buckton, who has to his credit other plays of equal literary excellence. Miss Brooke Peeters, of New York, will be responsible for the title roll and will be supported by a cast from the young people of the church. Tickets for the play are FIFTY CENTS (50c). 12 23 3

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 29, 1907.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Foreign missions. The coming triumph of the cross. How may we hasten it?—Isa. xi, 1-10.

In this part of the eleventh chapter of his prophecy Isaiah foretells the advent and the character of the Lord Jesus Christ and prophesies the victorious spiritual restoration of Israel under Him and the coming of the gentiles also to His standard, which would mean the universal triumph of the cross. Centuries have passed into history since the great prophet spoke, but through all the years there has been an increasing fulfillment of his prediction, and never in the history of the world did the signs of the times indicate their complete fulfillment more than today. The coming triumph of the cross is assured. Those who are interested in hastening it are not engaged in a losing but a winning cause and therefore should be the more zealously consecrated to their work as related to foreign missions. The world may seem steeped in wickedness and in sin, but our God is a great God and in a day may turn the current all the other way and literally fulfill the couplet:

The indications of the coming triumph of the cross and its speedy coming are many and forceful.

Today the noise of battle,
The next the victor's song.

1. The past triumph of the cross is an indication of it's future triumph. When Christ ascended into heaven He left the care of the church in the hands of eleven men and a few other followers. He commanded them to preach the gospel "unto the uttermost parts of the earth." It seemed like an impossible task, and yet within a century the Roman world knew of Christ. In three centuries a Christian emperor ruled in Rome. Since that time Christianity has spread throughout Europe, America and from them to the great gentile nations of the world. It has met with persistent opposition. The blood of martyrs has been the seed of the church. Yet it has ever gone on "conquering and to conquer." Through the past only can we read the future. What has been can be and will be, and still greater things will be, for "God is marching on."

2. The advancement of the world in material conveniences indicates the coming triumph of Christianity. God directs all things, even great modern physical improvements. Missionaries of the cross only a few years ago required great time for traveling, months to cross the ocean, many days of walking from stations on mission fields, weeks and months for communications with their co-laborers at home. But how all has changed! Great ocean liners to carry them across the ocean; swift traveling steam trains to bear them from station to station; telegraphs, telephones, oceanic cables and even the wonderful Marconi system of telegraphy are being used and will be more frequently used in their labors. The world is growing smaller every day, and God's hand is in every advancement for the sooner coming triumph of the cross.

3. Another indication of the coming triumph of the cross is the increasing interest which laymen are taking in its advancement. The burden formerly fell upon the women of the church and even the children, but now the men are being aroused to great interest in the work, as evidenced by the laymen's movement recently formed and the increased gifts of our Christian rich men to the cause of missions.

But all can help in bringing about the future triumph of the cross. Every dollar given to missions, every efficient effectual prayer offered for the world's salvation, every soul saved, hastens by that much the coming of the Lord, when all men shall acknowledge Him to be the King of kings and Lord of lords.

Value of Pledges In India.

Secretary Halliwell of the Indian Union describes an address in which Sir Andrew Fraser, lieutenant governor of Bengal, highly commended Christian Endeavor, and here is an extract from that very encouraging speech:

"I remember once when on tour coming across a solitary Indian Christian who, I suppose, never saw a Christian missionary or minister from one year's end to another. He was a very small postmaster in an out of the way village.

"I forgot how I came to know that he was a Christian. Perhaps he came to see me, or some one may have told him of the little service we held in our tent. At any rate, I came to know about him and sent for him to have a talk. I found that he knew his Bible well, that every day he and his wife read the word of God together and prayed, and were sometimes joined by one or two of the villagers.

"To such as these, to the Indian Christian scattered abroad in the villages, lonely men or little groups of two or three, the Christian Endeavor pledges are a very great help."

Complete Mastery by Christ.

What Endeavorers need to long for and also earnestly pray for is the complete mastery of themselves by Christ. The instrument may be a poor, mean one, but if swept by the touch of His kingly hand and enveloped and indwelt every day by His divine presence the possibilities of experience and service will be great indeed.

Just as I am, young, strong and free,
To be the best that I can be,
For truth and righteousness and Thee,
Lord of my life, I come.

—Australian Christian Endeavor Link.

Dec. 29: "Our accounting." "We must all be made manifest before the judgment seat of Christ."—II Cor. v, 5-10.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

Passages for reference—I Cor. iv, 1-5; I Pet. iv, 6-13.

Every one has a consciousness that he is responsible for his actions. All human society is based on the recognition of this principle. We blame or praise others as we see their doings to be worthy or otherwise. However we have come by the ability, we all are able to distinguish right from wrong, and when we know a thing to be right in action and it is presented to us as a matter of choice we feel that we ought to do that way rather than the opposite or another way. We judge ourselves and others to be worthy of praise or blame according as right or wrong has been done.

But there is higher authority than even our own moral judgment or that of others. Paul puts the truth very forcibly when he says, "With me it is a very small thing that I should be judged of you or of man's judgment; yea, I judge not mine own self, but He that judgeth me is the Lord." The ultimate source of authority for us is the Lord. His nature fixes the eternal principles of truth and righteousness. We have been so made that those principles of God's nature are the law of our nature also. We are like Him. His truth is for us, the right for action, the good, the beautiful and the perfect.

We were born into this great, beautiful, but awful world of material things of physical nature. We were also born into a world of moral beings. We came into being knowing nothing. We have thus far learned somewhat of both worlds. We have known hunger and thirst and also fullness and satisfaction of these appetites. We have known heart longing and love, fear and confidence. We have been making a life of our own different from any and all other lives. Your body is different from all others, and the inner life is unlike any other that can be found.

As certainly as your body has its own dimensions and characteristics, its powers and limitations, so surely has the inner and true life its own measures. You cannot wholly gauge them, nor can your fellows who know you most intimately do so. You will inevitably be compared with those with whom you most associate, but that comparison will not reveal your absolute worth and measure. Only He who holds the truth in His own keeping will ever know your just estimate. Jesus declared, "I am the truth, the life and the way." By the measure of His manhood you are to be judged. He is the standard man. Some day you shall stand beside Him and what you are will be manifest to Him, to you, to all.

Use, then, this body and earth life to grow. Before long the measuring up time will come. The man in you will be measured for a new body in a new world wherein dwells righteousness. How big a body will it take to fit your soul for entrance to that life? How much of a man, how much of a woman, are you now? What a changing time that will be when the Lord gives to every one his just deserts! Some who are now big bodies will shrink mightily, and some little folk will be astonishingly enlarged. What will you get, do you suppose? Just what you deserve. Best deserve all possible.

Shining Lives.

Nothing can help our city and our country so much as shining lives—lives of simple honesty and faithfulness and good cheer—lives of men and women who will not lie or play the coward, who will render to all their dues, who have clear sight to see the right and firm will to maintain it and make it the common law.—Charles Gordon Ames.

Call of Love.

We hear much these days about what men will do for money, but the lust of gain is, after all, not the mightiest force at the heart of human achievement. Men have done and will do more at the call of love than any other call, and that fact should make a man an optimist all his days.—Forward.

Most Precious Reward.

Praise is well, compliment is well, but affection is the final and most precious reward that any man can win, whether by character or achievement.—Mark Twain.

He who would be a great soul in the future must be a great soul now.—Emerson.

Exactness in little duties is a wonderful source of cheerfulness.—F. W. Faber.

The CASTLE of LIES

BY ARTHUR HENRY VESEY

(COPYRIGHT, 1906, by D. APPLETON & COMPANY)

"Fifty feet! It would mean a broken limb, if not certain death. But if a rope could be knotted of our clothing for half that distance!"

I went into the room through whose window the king's messenger had made his untimely entrance. I leaned far out of the window, shuddering. I was resolved to make the descent myself. Twice I had proved myself a coward. This was to be my chance, unless Forbes should stubbornly refuse to believe in the existence of Ferdinand's danger.

The moon was rising; it shed an unearthly light on the pale face of Madame de Varnier as she looked up at me anxiously. The wind came in fitful gusts.

Suddenly there sounded a muffled report. At first I thought it thunder in the far-away mountains. But as I listened intently the mysterious sound was repeated again and again, though more and more feebly. And it came from above.

"Do you hear it, that strange, muffled clap?" I asked of Madame de Varnier.

She took my place at the open window. For some moments she heard nothing. Then, strangely enough, though the wind was blowing almost a gale, it sounded distinctly.

"It is a flag on the high flagstaff of the central tower," she said presently. "But who can have given orders that it be raised?"

"That is a matter of indifference," I said joyfully. "An ensign so large as that requires a fairly substantial cord. If we can get that cord and plait it—Where is it fastened? Surely at one of these windows?"

"No," she said anxiously. "It is Dr. Starva who has raised that flag. But why?" The question seemed to increase her anxiety.

"Then where?" I demanded impatiently.

"It must be from one of the windows of the story below."

"Well, we shall soon see."

I poised myself to clamber through the window on the broad stone gutter, along which Captain Forbes must have made his way. Then I hesitated.

"What! You are afraid!" cried the woman fiercely. "If so, I will go myself."

"No, I am not afraid," I replied with deliberation. "I am wondering what they will think when they come from the oratory presently, to find me gone. She will think that I am your accomplice."

"I can easily tell the truth."

"They will scarcely believe you. Shall I, or shall I not, tell them of Ferdinand's danger?"

"But will they believe you? While you hesitate Prince Ferdinand may be assassinated. Is this a time for explanations? Say that the fools persist in misunderstanding you, it is only a question of an hour or two at the most before you may tell the truth. Go, and I swear by the cause I hold sacred that if you save him the honor of Sir Mortimer Brett shall yet be saved."

"You have promised much already only to deceive me," I said gloomily.

"But I swear it! They are coming; I heard the door of the oratory open."

I hesitated no longer.

CHAPTER XXXII.

I Escape from the Tower.

I clung to my precarious support, lying prostrate on the broad stone gutter. The roar of the swirling river beat at my senses confusedly; the giddy height made my head swim. Something of the horror I had felt in rounding the overhanging shoulder of the mountain with Willoughby that fatal day came to me now.

But presently that giddiness passed. The extraordinary promise of Madame de Varnier rang in my ears. How it was possible for her to explain away Sir Mortimer's damning words if the letters were genuine, I could not see. But this had been a day of miracles.

Slowly I made my way toward the first of the flanking towers. The wind struck me with redoubled force as I turned the corner. I heard the ensign above fluttering loudly in the gale.

I looked up. I could see it now. It floated bravely in the spanking breeze. The moon, shining squarely on it, made it even possible for me to distinguish its design. It was the national flag of England, the royal arms in its center. Then I remembered the quotation from the Blue Book I had read early in the morning just before Captain Forbes had signaled to Helena:

"The flag to be used by His Majesty's Diplomatic Servants, whether on shore or embarked on boats, is the Union, with the Royal Arms in the center thereof, surrounded by a green garland."

There was a grim irony in this flag flying proudly over the chateau in which Sir Mortimer lay dead. But if Madame de Varnier had spoken the truth in protesting that she did not know that the flag had been raised, why had Dr. Starva caused it to be flown?

The strange perplexity Madame de Varnier had shown when she had heard the flutter of the flag occurred to me now. Was it by any chance a signal—a signal of as dread a portent as the double stamp? If that were true, I might disconcert Dr. Starva's plans materially when I lowered it presently.

I had reached my goal now. For some minutes I was compelled to lie inactive, however; for the flag, bellying in the gale, made it impossible for me to grasp the cords.

As I lay there impatient, waiting my chance, I glanced below. I could see plainly the ladder of stones, as Madame de Varnier had called it, the ragged edges of the granite sparkling brightly in the moonlight. I leaned over as far as I dared; they extended as far as I could see.

As my eye traveled the line to the terrace below, the door of the great hall opened. A flood of light irradiated a portion of the terrace. I saw distinctly two figures conversing a moment at the doorway. One of these figures entered the chateau again, but the other, and I had recognized Dr. Starva by his great bulk before the door was shut, stole across the terrace and entered a brougham that stood waiting.

As the carriage disappeared under the covered archway of the passage leading to the village street I made renewed efforts to reach the cords. I could readily guess Dr. Starva's mission. He had gone to meet Prince Ferdinand at the station. Heaven knows how eager I was to be one of the reception committee!

When at last I had caught one of the cords, I severed it thoughtlessly with my penknife. I had not counted on the strength necessary to hold so large a flag. The cord slipped from my hand. I expected the flag to fall and reached out frantically for the other rope. But in some way the rope I had severed, and to which the flag was not fastened, became entangled in the pulley and the flag, falling halfway down the pole, remained at half-mast.

I now reached up as far as I could, standing on the stone gutter. I was about to sever the other cord, that to which the flag was fastened, when it occurred to me to attempt to disengage the ropes from their fastening at the window below. I was completely successful. I estimated that I had now a length of at least 50 feet.

When I had plaited the cords doubled, and knotted them at intervals to prevent them from slipping through my hand, I made a loophole to slip over the last stone of my ladder when I should reach it. Then taking the cord between my teeth, I lowered myself cautiously over the gutter.

The wind was still blowing in fitful gusts. I had been reluctant to avail myself of the few extra feet of rope necessary to keep the flag afloat. I fastened the end of the cord about the stone gutter, leaving the flag still flying at half-mast. There seemed a certain aptness that my carelessness in cutting the rope had seen to it that the dead ambassador be fittingly honored.

It seemed ages before my feet touched the first block of granite projecting from the smooth masonry. But once on my way the first part of my descent was made with no great difficulty.

The roar of the river sounded nearer and nearer. I was more than halfway down now. The numbness had passed from my arm; I was more confident; I tried to hasten my progress.

Step by step I neared the terrace.

And when I had reached it? The excitement of the escape, Madame de Varnier's vehement importunity, had engrossed my attention so far. The descent itself had seemed so hazardous that the confronting of Dr. Starva had been forgotten. But how was I to conquer him unarmed? Not by force certainly. Strategy must be my ally.

Suddenly the perspiration broke out on my forehead. I had felt for my next step, and it was missing.

Frantically my feet reached down for it. I lowered myself one more round; still I could not touch it. Then I laughed aloud in the ecstacy of my relief. I had reached the last round of the ladder.

My arms ached. Merciful heavens, how they did ache! But I was full of courage in spite of my exhaustion. I lowered myself by my arms still another round, and slipped the nose over the last of the stones I could reach. Then I trusted myself to the rope.

In spite of the knots the friction burned my palms as if they were branded by fire. I could not regulate my speed; I was too exhausted for that. I trusted to blind luck; I could only hope that Madame de Varnier's estimate was a conservative one.

How far I actually fell I have no idea. My feet came to the pavement with a force that sent me headlong. But aside from the violent shock and a bruise or two, I had suffered no injury. I struggled thankfully to my feet.

My arm was seized not too gently. If I had wished to make an outcry I should have been prevented by the hand placed at my mouth. I peered into the face of the man who had made me captive. I do not know whether I was more relieved than consternated to recognize Locke as we stood in the shadow.

"Haddon!" he cried, as he made out my features. "Where in hell did you come from?"

"Not hell, Locke; say rather heaven." I pointed upward to the tower.

"You must be in a desperate hurry when you essay the role of an angel to come flying through the air," he said grimly, and the hold on my arm tightened. "Suppose you tell me your errand."

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Prince Ferdinand Comes to the Chateau.

"Locke," I panted, leaning breathless against the wall, "for God's sake let me go. It is a matter of life or death."

"Gently—not so loud."

Again his hand was placed at my mouth. He pulled me back into the shadow of an angle of the wall. He listened intently.

There was a heavy footfall on the terrace. It sounded nearer. A man, muffled in a cloak, came to the edge of the band of moonlight. He also was listening. Presently he stole softly to the parapet, and looked down at the village. Neither of us spoke until he had resumed his beat before the great portal of the chateau.

"Who is he?" I whispered.

Locke led me out of hearing, hugging the wall.

"You know as well as I. Now, then, for our deferred talk. This morning I asked you for some explanation of your extraordinary conduct. You chose not to give it me. Well, I mean to have it now. Come, what is this errand that sends you flying through the air for a hundred feet at the risk of your neck? It appears to be pressing."

I was still struggling for my breath. It was not physical fatigue that made me tremble so much as sheer despair at the hopelessness of disarming Locke's hostility and suspicions in the precious minutes that remained. At any moment now Dr. Starva might be returning.

"The death-mask!" I began incoherently. "Prince Ferdinand—"

His grasp tightened. He drew me roughly toward him in his surprise.

"The death-mask! What of it?"

"Starva has lured Prince Ferdinand to the chateau. Already he has gone to meet him at the station. When he returns with him here—"

"Ferdinand comes to meet Sir Mortimer."

"Sir Mortimer, man, is dead."

"Dead! And you have undertaken to fill his place? It is very considerate of you."

His voice vibrated with distrust. But I tried to keep my temper.

"If Ferdinand enters that door with Starva he will never leave it alive, unless help is summoned."

For a moment Locke's suspicions wavered. I had spoken with a solemnity that touched even his skepticism

"And who has told you this?" he asked slowly.

"Madame de Varnier, the Countess Sarahoff."

"Ah, your friend of the kursaal. Where is she?"

I pointed upward.

"In the tower there. The four of us—Captain Forbes, Miss Brett, that woman, and myself—were trapped by Dr. Starva. Don't you see, it was to clear the field for action—to leave him free to accomplish his frightful work unmolested? Locke, this is no time for talk. One of us must conceal himself in the hall there; the other summon help. Are you armed?"

"Rather," he answered grimly. "It is that fact that should show you the uselessness of struggling."

"You have called me a fool more than once," I cried bitterly. "But you are a hundred times a fool that you are blind to the need of action."

"All in good time, my friend. I have still a question or two to ask. If Captain Forbes is imprisoned in the tower there, why did he permit you to play the hero alone? Why is he not with you? Have you pulled the wool over his eyes as you did over the eyes of Miss Brett? It seems to me a little remarkable that he should trust a man who has tricked him more than once."

Locke's cool question staggered me. I had no intention of lying, but my hesitancy did not lessen his growing distrust of my motives.

"There was no more time to explain things to him than there is to you. Besides, he would not have believed me," I muttered.

GO SLOW, BILL.

Oh, Billy Bryan, ain't you happy
That Ted's out of the race.
Do you think 'twill be a thing quite sas/
To step into his place?
We know you're hopeful, Bill Bryan,
But don't let this allure,
That you will fill the shoes of Teddy.
Don't you be too sure.

Oh, Billy Bryan, don't get giddy
Because that third term's nil;
Twice the people turned you down, Bill,
It may be your third still.
Even if Teddy's cut the running,
His job's not in your sling;
Because he's not to be your rival,
Don't think you've a sure thing.

Oh, Billy Bryan, won't you hustle
With Ted out of the ring!
But though there's music in the air, Bill,
'Tis not the time to sing.
For Teddy knows what he is doing
And what he's going to do,
'Tis no part of his plan, dear Billy,
To make things nice for you.

GEORGIA DRY JANUARY 1.

Stringent Prohibition Law Will Then Cover the State.

Georgia is now on the verge of one of the greatest changes that has marked the history of the State. From the beginning of the first day of January the legal sale of liquor throughout the State will end and the new no-license law will go into effect.

The bill, which was passed by the most sweeping majority ever given to a Prohibition measure in any State, is a rigid one. It allows no opportunity to sell liquors of any kind except in the smallest amounts, and then only on the prescription of a physician.

Georgia will be a really dry State when the first day of January, 1908, begins. There is only one loophole in the measure. It does not prohibit the sale of liquors in clubs, the act applying only to "public places."

PASTOR REFUSES GIFT OF $100 IN GOLD.

"If the brethren have no objections I would rather not take these five double eagles. They are new money and very pretty, but they lack the sacred motto which my mother taught me to look for on all of our country's coins."

With this little speech the Rev. W. A. Jones, pastor of the Knoxville Presbyterian church, on the South Side in Pittsburg, last night turned back to the donors $100 of a $220 purse his congregation had given him as a Christmas present. The purse was made up in gold and the five objectionable $20 pieces happened to be of the new issue which does not bear the "In God We Trust" motto.

XMAS IN THE CHURCHES

the sermon. He was also in charge of the other masses, offering the greetings.

The choir, under the direction of Miss Mary Smith, organist and choirmaster, rendered a special musical program, presenting "Missa Sollonelle," by Gounod, and the Christmas anthem, "Adeles Fideles," Dudley Buck's rendition, was given by the quartet and chorus. In addition the chancel choir of forty boys sang the processional, the Proper mass and recessional.

Christmas at Mt. Zion Church.

"The Chiming Bells," was the name of a cantata given at the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, last night, by the Sunday-school, under the direction of Rev. E. B. Maynard, the superintendent. Rev. J. T. Diggs, the pastor, also assisted. After the cantata, great fun was provided the children through the appearance of "Santa Claus," in the person of Henry Staats. He entered the church through a rear window in the presence of the large crowd and caused great delight to young and old. He then generously distributed gifts of all kinds among the members of the school. Later ice cream and cake were served by the committee in charge. Superintendent Maynard is proud of the enjoyable rendition of the cantata and the whole program.

Grace Church.

Special services were held at Grace church yesterday morning, including an early celebration of Holy Communion at 7 and 8 o'clock and at 10:30 there was the celebration of Holy Communion together with a full choral service by the choir under the direction of William E. MacClymont, organist and choirmaster, and a Christmas sermon by the rector, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson. The elaborate decorations, especially about the chancel and altar were greatly admired.

St. Stephen's Church.

Early celebration of Holy Communion, at 7:30, matins at 10 o'clock; high celebration of Holy Communion with sermon by the rector comprised the special services at St. Stephens' church, yesterday morning. The choir, under the direction of Charles Suhr, organist and choirmaster, rendered anthems and solos. There was a large attendance at each service.

Church of the Heavenly Rest.

Rev. Charles Townsend, rector, was in charge of the Christmas services at the Church of the Heavenly Rest, yesterday morning. At 10 o'clock there was celebration of Holy Communion, with sermon by the rector and special music by the choir.

CHARITABLE VISIT 550 ASBURY PARK HOUSES.

The Asbury Park Elks' lodge distributed Christmas cheer to 125 families yesterday, giving each family a basket of groceries and a chicken. The Salvation Army likewise distributed baskets of food, as did also Sitting Bull Tribe of Red Men. Besides, the Red Men distributed toys and candies to the children of poor families.

Altogether, about 550 families in Asbury Park were helped. Not all were poor, but many were out of employment. The day was quiet and the weather was spring-like.

The members of the gymnasium classes at the Y. W. C. A. will meet in the gymnasium tonight to enjoy a program of games and "stunts." Those in charge have planned for a jolly good time.

BATTLE OF TRENTON.

Will Be Celebrated Today by Caliphs of State Capital.

The Princes of Caliph, of Trenton, today celebrated the 131st anniversary of the Battle of Trenton, giving a street parade and other outdoor demonstrations, to be followed by a reunion and banquet at Turner Hall. Members of the order from Newark, Philadelphia and Boston are taking part.

W. H. Parker and O. P. Hanks are the prime movers in the celebration. Trentonians formerly celebrated this anniversary with a sham battle, following a parade from Washington's crossing at dawn, but of late years this practise has been abandoned.

REMOVAL OF BAR CHRISTMAS GIFT.

Trenton was yesterday given a Christmas gift, in the completion of the removal of Perriwig bar, at an expense to the government of $50,000. This Christmas gift is worth many million dollars to the people in the decreased cost of coal when it is transported up the Delaware river next season.

Other freight will come in cheaper, and the residents, who see the benefits about to be conferred on the city, take this removal of Perriwig bar as a Christmas gift.

YOUTH FOUND DEAD IN ALLEY.

Head and Face Bruised; May Have Come from a Fall.

Joseph Nelson, 20 years old, was found dead in an alley in the rear of a house on East Mulberry street, Millville, yesterday. Coroner Ralph Charlesworth and Dr. Charles B. Neal discovered bruises about the head and face. While these may have been received by a fall, the coroner is not entirely satisfied and is making a thorough investigation.

The young man was last seen alive in the vicinity of the place where the body was found two hours later, in company with several companions.

Not Strike Breakers.

Terence V. Powderly, head of the distribution bureau of the immigration department, addressed the American Federation of Labor convention at its recent session in Norfolk, Va. He described the system under which the bureau of which he is the head is operated. He said its purpose was to distribute the immigrants arriving at the various ports of the country in such a manner as to best concern the interests of the country and of the immigrants. That part of Mr. Powderly's address which most interested the delegates was his assurance that the distribution bureau was not to be used to make strike breakers or wage reducers of the workmen who come to us from foreign shores.

Sentinel's Curiosity Saves Life.

Charles Matthews, of Ogden street, Orange, was locked up in the local jail Tuesday night for safe keeping. During the evening Policeman Finneran, acting as corridor sentinel, saw Matthews standing on his cot tying a handkerchief to one of the bars of the cell. Matthews said that he was merely getting ready to wipe his face, explaining that he was perspiring. The police think that it is just as well that Finneran happened along the corridor when he did. Matthews has been despondent.

Trenton Girls Prettiest.

David Taylor Ivins, a wealthy Trentonian, who spends most of his time traveling in foreign lands, is the authority for the statement that Trenton girls are the prettiest and the brainiest he has encountered in any part of the world. He has just returned from a trip around the globe and will start in a few days on a tour of exploration in South America.

Stokes At Home With Mother.

Governor Stokes spent Christmas with his aged mother in Millville. Other State officials spent the day at home and there was "nothing doing" at the Capitol. Beginning with next week, the State House will be put in order for the opening of the one hundred and thirty-second session of the Legislature, on Tuesday, January 4, 1908.

—Daily Press want ads. pay.

—Fred Emmons, of Newark, has accepted a position in this city with the Kent Light Company.

LABOR NOTES.

Boston Typographical union, No. 13, is already actively engaged in arranging for next year's international convention in that city and the celebration at the same time of the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the Boston union. The convention will assemble August 10 of next year.

Boston Methodist ministers' meeting is to join the Boston C. L. U. It will send fraternal delegates, who will have a voice, but no vote. The Woman's Trades union, Woman's Label league and several other similar organizations are already affiliated under the same plan.

President Gompers was the recipient of a mounted elk's head, presented by the delegation from the State of Washington to the A. F. of L. convention. The gift was unveiled by two women trades unionists from Washington.

The American Federation of Labor unanimously adopted a resolution calling for the establishment of a parcels post by congress.

From 264,825 members in 1897, says Secretary Morrison, the federation has increased to 1,538,970 members in 1907.

Public Ownership Rejected.

The American Federation of Labor refused to place itself on record as favoring government ownership of railways and mines, the question having co meup on a resolution offered to amend the economic platform adopted in Minneapolis last year so as to include railroads and mines in the favorable action taken at that time on the nationalization of telegraph and telephone properties. The opponents took the ground that government ownership of mines and railways would prevent all strikes and that with a federal government opposed to labor it might prove a detriment to labor.

Safety Pin Buttons.

If a button is gone from a young child's garment and the place must be pinned together temporarily much time may be saved in the course of a day if you pin a good sized safety pin into the spot where the button was and then just slip the buttonhole over it as you would over an oval shaped button, instead of unpinning every time the garment is unfastened.

Breaded Ham.

Wash and boil and skinned ham all over with beaten yolk of egg. Have ready a paste of cracker crumbs worked smooth with rich milk. Cream is better if you have it. Season with salt and pepper and spread it over the upper surface of the ham a quarter of an inch thick. Set in a quick oven to brown. It should be colored evenly all over. East cold.

Keep Bugs from Seeds.

When putting flower seeds away for winter put each kind in a paper and put a drop of turpentine in the paper too. It will keep the bugs and worms from eating the seeds.

—Strictly fresh vegetables are always to be had at Neuman Brothers. New consignments reach the store every day.

—The dry goods firm of M. & A. Tepper remembered the employes of the firm yesterday by giving each one a pound of Huyler's confection. A. E. Force & Co., proprietors of "The White Store," also gave each one of its employes a pound of candy.

PEDAGOGUES IN SESSION

Speakers at Atlantic City Discuss the New Retirement Fund Scheme.

PRESIDENT MAKES AN ADDRESS.

Randall Warden, of Newark, and Dr. John J. Cronin Among Those Who Read Papers of Intrest.

The fifty-third annual meeting of the New Jersey State Teachers' Association began at Atlantic City yesterday in the local high school and was continued today. The feature of yesterday's session was the speech of President Charles B. Boyer, of Atlantic City, who said in part:

"If this association is to be more prosperous in the future, if it is to exert a more potent influence for the social and financial betterment of the State teachers, it will be necessary that every State teached should be a member. There is no word which more fully expresses that which is of paramount importance in the present State of our civilization than co-operation. The provisions of the retirement fund act of 1907 making it compulsory for all teachers receiving their first appointment after January 1, 1908, to become members of the fund is in accordance with the principle of co-operation. From the accumulation of the contributions of the many the few are to receive financial aid when no longer able to render efficient services to the State."

Speaking on the teachers' retirement fund, President Boyer said:

"The present retirement fund system is the outcome of heroic struggles made by men and women of the State during the early years of the history of this fund. Credit is due the teachers of this State who by their undaunted courage and loyalty have been instrumental in placing this fund upon a basis of equity and stability. Fifty years ago no one would have dreamed that the State of New Jersey would ever enact a law whereby her teachers might be pensioned. Today we have a thirty-five years' service law and a State retirement fund system, the two combined making, without a doubt, the strongest teachers' pension system in this country. The above has been accomplished through united efforts and purpose, the foundation principles of all great undertakings."

Randall D. Warden, director of physical training in Newark, spoke on "The Relation of Physical Vigor to Public School Education." Following Mr. Warden, Dr. John J. Cronin, of the Department of Public Health of New York City, spoke on "Results of Proper Medical Inspection of School Children."

The officers of the association are: President, Charles B. Boyer, of Atlantic City; first vice-president, William J. Eckoff, of Newark; second vice-president, J. J. Unger, of Vineland; secretary, Lewis C. Woolley, of Trenton; treasurer, H. J. Neal, of Lakewood; railroad secretary, Miss Emma A. McCoy, of New Brunswick. The executive committee consists of the officers and Miss Lydia K. Ennis, of Jersey City; R. J. Boynton, of Paterson, and Miss Mary A. Burrough, of Chandler.

Sorrow at the Home.

Because of the death of Mrs. M. E. Kimball, president of the Children's Home Association, the customary Christmas tree for tomorrow afternoon will be omitted this year. Gifts for the children will, however, be very acceptable, and friends are asked to send toys and useful articles to the Home, corner Westervelt and Jackson avenues, any time tomorrow. Checks may be sent to the treasurer, Miss Ella Serrell, 122 Plainfield avenue.

Cards for Teas.

Mrs. Charles Lyman Case and her daughter, Miss Case, of New York, have sent out invitations for teas to be given at their home, West Eighty-seventh street, on Fridays, December 27, and January 10. Mr. Case and family were residents of this city for a number of years. Mrs. Charles E. Case, of New York, formerly of Madison avenue, will receive with them January 10.

Special Music.

The choir of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, assisted by William Holmes, baritone, and George Smith, tenor, of the First Baptist church choir, will give a cantata, "The Advent," at the morning service tomorrow, and Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis will intersperse the selections with appropriate remarks by way of explanation.

Dance at Casino Tonight.

The younger society set of the city and borough will enjoy a subscription dance at the Casino tonight. The affair is being arranged by Miss Anna Fisk, assisted by a number of her friends.

ITENARARY FOR BRYAN

Martine Announces Nebraskan Will Make Four Speeches in Jersey.

DUE HERE ON FEBRUARY 6.

Will Spend the Night at Cedarbrook Farm—It's Just a Friendly Visit.

James E. Martine today announced the plans for William Jennings Bryan's forthcoming visit to New Jersey in February. The Nebraskan will enter the State at Camden, on Thursday morning, February 6, and he will make a speech in that city in the afternoon. Later in the afternoon, he will speak at Paterson. At night he will speak at Jersey City and will wind up his day's work by making an address at Krueger auditorium, Newark. He will spend the night with his friend at Cedarbrook farm here and on Friday morning will hold an informal reception, it being intended to invite the New Jersey leaders irrespective of factions to meet him.

"There is no significance in Mr. Bryan's visit other than he is honoring me by his presence," said Mr. Martine. "I have visited his home on more than one occasion as a personal friend and he has visited mine. Now he is coming to my house again and of course I feel very much flattered. This talk of Bryan wanting me for the vice presidency is all rot. It was complimentary for my name to be mentioned in that connection in my home town of course but I am not seeking such a high honor. You may rest assured that Mr. Bryan will lead the people's cause in the next Presidential campaign and I have enough faith in the people to believe that he will be elected."

When Mr. Martine was asked what he thought of the suggestion that Mr. Cleveland be sent to the Denver convention, he refused to speak on his qualifications but declared that in his opinion the health of the Sage of Princeton would prevent him taking part in the deliberations.

"Bryan's nomination is inevitable, nothing can pdevent it except an act of God," added Mr. Martine.

GREEN GOWN PROVES NEGRESS'S UNDOING

Fred Taylor, colored, and his wife, Mary, engaged in an argument on West Front street late last night because the woman wanted to go to a dance in progress in the Schepflin building and the husband objected. During the row Mrs. Taylor did some cussing that would have done credit to a Tenth avenue horse car driver and a good part of it fell on the ears of City Judge Runyon who chanced to be passing by.

The pair moved off just as he approached but the quarrel was continued later on Plainfield avenue and Patrolman Nick Meyers took a hand in it. To him it seemed that Taylor was the aggressor and he placed him under arrest, instructing the wife to down to court for the trial.

When Taylor was arraigned this morning, Judge Runyon did not recognize him as a participant in the Front street row but when Patrolman Meyers instructed Mrs. Taylor to stand up the magistrate gave a surprised look. She wore a bright green gown and it was this that caught the magistrate's gaze.

"If I'm not mistaken," he said, "I saw that gown in front of the post-office last night and the owner was proving herself a past master in the art of cussing. Was it you?"

Mrs. Taylor admitted that it was and after that the case moved along in double quick time. The husband was let go on suspended sentence but his wife was fined $8 or twenty days, His Honor remarking that the green gown ownership was all he needed to establish her guilt.

Boy Hunter Shot by Accident.

When hunting near his home, in Rock Hill, Henry Keating, 13 years old, accidentally shot himself yesterday. He went out with a bird dog. When the animal started in pursuit of a chicken the boy chased the dog and struck it with the butt of his gun. This caused a cartridge to explode, the charge entering Keating's stomach. The boy was taken to St. Peter's Hospital at New Brunswick, where Dr. Donoaghue operated on him. He has a chance to recover.

Announce Engagement.

Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Berg announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Sue Pomp Berg, to William Coulter Boyd, of New York city.

To Repeat Music.

The Christmas music sung by the First Baptist choir will be repeated at the Sunday evening service.

BODY OF WOMAN FOUND

Strangled to Death, Thrown in Pond at Harrison, the Murder Mystery.

WOMAN IS STILL UNIDENTIFIED.

A Watchman Tells of Seeing Strange Pair—Victim Wore Good Clothes and Rings.

The nude body of a woman was found yesterday morning in a pond formed by the overflow of the Passaic River at First and Arlington streets, in Harrison. Several articles of clothing were found scattered around the neighborhood, and Deputy County Physician Allers announced after an examination of the body that the woman had been murdered undoubtedly. He said that the body had not been in the water more than twelve hours. No marks were found on the body, however, to indicate how the woman was killed, and this will not be known positively until after the autopsy. Dr. Allers believes, however, that she was strangled.

There are no marks on any of the garments to aid in identifying the body, and the woman's name is unknown. The only clue for the police is a red jacket embroidered with black military braid, bearing the name of Oppenheim, Collins & Co., Fulton street, Brooklyn, and the police believe that the woman came to Harrison from that borough. Information given to Chief of Police Rogers last night by Peter Cogan, night watchman in the Marine Engine Company's works, which are less than a quarter of a mile from the pond in which the body was found strengthens the theory that the woman went to Harrison from New York, perhaps accompanied by the man who murdered her.

Cogan told Chief Rogers thathe had seen a woman answering the description of the dead woman at about 10:30 o'clock on Wednesday night, while he was standing in front of the engine works before his round of inspection. Cogan said that he noticed the woman, because she appeared to be better dressed than most of the residents of the neighborhood. He noticed, he said, that she wore a red jacket.

Cogan said that when the woman had passed he saw a man hurrying aalong about ten feet behind her. He was short and stocky and had a black mustache. Cogan said that the man and woman did not appear to know one another when they passed him, but a hundred yards beyond, he said, the woman stopped, apparently to tie her shoelace, beneath an electric light, and Cogan saw the man catch up with her, lock arms with her, and walk away. They were walking together when they passed beneath the next electric light.

Cogan said it was 11:30 o'clock when he again came out on the sidewalk. Just then he said a man passed him and he saw that he had a bundle, as of clothing, under his arm. He was the same man who had previously been with the woman. Thinking that he might be one of the Passaic River Yacht Club men, Cogan called to him:

"Anything doing down below?"

The man stopped short, said Cogan, and looked at him searchingly, and then said: "No. I saw a fellow in his shirt sleeves down by the pond."

Without speaking again he hurried away.

The story told by two sisters, Mary Johnson, 19 years old, a singer in a Newark vaudeville house, and her sister, Minnie, 22, disagrees, however, in point of time with that of Cogan. Miss Mary Johnson told Chief Rogers that she and her sister were returning about 2 o'clock yesterday morning from a visit, when they heard cries for help coming across the meadows, where the pond is located. The cries sounded like "Spare me!" and "Help!" the girl said, and so frightened the sisters that they retraced their steps, and crossed the Passaic River into Newark by the Fourth street bridge.

When they were nearly across the bridge, Miss Johnson said, a well-dressed man approached from the direction of the cries and, raising his hat, said: "Good evening, ladies."

Miss Johnson said that the man disappeared when he saw her speak to a policeman at the Newark end of the bridge.

The discovery of the body was made by Irving Webster Crane, of 533 Broad street, Newark. He saw two feet sticking up from the water, and, with Albert Thompson, of Elizabeth, who had a catboat on the river near by, hauled out the body, and then notified Chief Rogers.

Chief Rogers ordered the arrest of Thompson, and then began a search. The red coat was found at some distance from the pond. It had been slit up the back and was in two

HACKMAN'S RIG IS HIT BY MAIN LINE TROLLEY

A main line trolley car bound toward the Watchung avenue terminus at 12:30 o'clock this morning, struck Hackman Charles Barry's rig at Richmond and Third streets. The wagon was badly wrecked and the horse was thrown down and disabled.

Barry was driving toward his home on Howard street when the collision occurred and he was pitched headlong into the street. The shock rendered him partly insensible and assistance had to be secured to get him to a physician. The accident was witnessed by Jerry Callahan, the scene being directly in front of his home, and he summoned a cab for the purpose. Barry was still confined to his home today, suffering from numerous contusions and shock.

The motorman disclaimed all responsibility for the accident but it is stated that he was running the car at high speed and sounded no warning bell.

PRISONER LOSES ON REHEARING OF HIS CASE

Claiming that the facts of the case were not properly presented and that his punishment was unwarranted, Andrew Dino, who was committed to jail for sixty days by Judge Runyon yesterday on a charge of assaulting George Highrocks, was granted a rehearing this morning. He was represented by V. W. Nash, Jr., who sought to prove by six witnesses that the defendant had struck Highrocks only after the latter had threatened to kill an old man who lives in the same house where the trouble occurred.

Highrocks appeared in court with W. S. Angleman as counsel and the entire case was again gone over in detail. After forty-five minutes had been expended in taking testimony, Dino on cross examination admitted that the old man he claimed had been threatened ,was ten or fifteen feet away from either he or Highrocks and that nothing had been said just previous to the assault. As a result Judge Runyon declared the facts were just as he had taken them to be in the first instance and that the sentence must remain. He refused to name a fine preference and Dino was taken back to his cell.

"ZIP" LITTLE VICTIM OF A FEARFUL SLASHING

Edward Little, colored, a farmer resident of this city and familiarly known as "Zip," is in St. Barnabas' Hospital, Newark, suffering from at least a dozen stab wounds, the result of a row in a saloon near his home, at 27 Augusta street, Christmas eve with Theodore Smith, twenty years old, of the same address, for whom the police are now looking. Although terribly slashed and much weakened from loss of blood, Little made his way after the assault to a drug store at Springfield avenue and High street, where he dropped to the floor.

Smith is alleged to have done the stabbing with a long-bladed knife, and so far as the police learned the two men quarreled over an alleged interference by Smith with Little and a white companion. Little was stabbed in the forehead, on both arms, in the right breast and in the left shoulder. A cut on his left wrist almost severed the hand. While none of the wounds is dangerous, the doctors fear blood poison may develop.

Soon after little reached the drug store word was telephoned to the First Precinct and Court Officer Eckerlin was sent with ambulance. Policeman Conlin, of the Fourth Precinct, was attracted by the crowd which gathered, and the report spread that a man had been murdered. Smith made his escape immediately after the stabbing occurred. Early yesterday morning word came from Jersey City of the arrest of a man who answered the description of Smith, and Detective-Sergeant Quinn, with Policeman Farrell, of the First Precinct, was sent to look at the prisoner. He was not Smith. Little lived on Arlington avenue for many years and at various times was chef in local hotels and restaurants.

Battle of Trenton Celebrated.

The one hundred and thirty-first anniversary of the battle of Trenton was observed in that city by a banquet and annual reunion of the Princess of Caliphs yesterday. In former years this event has been celebrated by a sham battle.

ENTERTAINMENTS OF XMAS

Festivals in Five Local Sunday Schools Making Little Ones Merry.

SOME GIFTS ARE DISTRIBUTED.

Holy Cross, Grace, Friends, Trinity and Warren Chapel Hold Their Annual Celebrations.

Several Sunday-schools held their Christmas entertainments last night. Among the number were these:

Warren Chapel.

The Christmas entertainment at Warren chapel, last night, was provided by Joseph French, of New York, a professional humorist, and Miss Justine Roberts, of Brooklyn, dramatic reciter. Mr. French had no trouble in amusing the large crowd present, including members of the Sunday-school and chapel, and kept everyone in good humor. Miss Roberts was well received and she pleased all with her clever work. After the entertainment ice cream and cake were served to all. In the afternoon the entertainment for the primary department was held and Mr. French was also engaged to provide amusement for the little ones. Miss Laura Lovell was in charge and directed the distribution of candy, books and dolls to the children.

Friends' First-day School.

The Christmas entertainment under the auspices of the Friends' First-Day school was held at the meeting house on Watchung avenue, last night, was under the direction of the new superintendent, W. D. Williams, who opened the program with Scripture reading. There were several readings, including "The Christmas Angel," by Mrs. Mercy R. Vail; "The Strange Ride," Mrs. Amy Lorton; "The Little Christmas Story," Miss Margaret Vail, and in addition the children gave recitations and a dialogue, "Consider the Lilies," was given by nine boys and girls. An interesting part of the program was an address by Mr. Williams on "The Observance and Keeping of Christmas," which delighted the children. The program concluded with a concert reading entitled "Peace," after which ice cream and cake were served and gifts were distributed as usual. Mrs. Amy Lorton and Mrs. Arthur Stryker trained the children for their part in the entertainment.

Seventh-Day Baptist Church.

The Christmas entertainment under the auspices of the Sabbath-school of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, last night, was an elaborate one and much effort was expended in the preparation and rendition of it by those in charge. The first part of the program was devoted to a cantata, "The Story of the Birth of Christ," from the prophecy of the coming of Christ to the announcement of the Advent by the Wise Men. This part was practically all music and included the singing of "And the G lory of the Lord Shall Be Revealed," from "The Messiah." Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis read the "Magnificat," and the "Pastorale Symphony" was rendered on the organ. A male quaret, Dr. O. B. Whitford, D. E. Titsworth, Roy Titsworth and Arthur J. Spicer sang "Silent Night."

Then followed a song by the primary department, "Away in a Manger," and the singing of "The Christ Child Lullaby," by Cecelia and Beatrice Cottrell; a soprano solos, "The First Christmas Gift," Miss Evalois St. John; an exercise, "Hearts of Love," John Cottrell, Jr., Laura Stillman and Ruth Morris.

Dr. H. M. Maxson, who had charge of the program, then announced the receipt of gifts for the local charities, including money and toys, and referred to the appropriateness of such gifts at this time. The charities remembered in this way are the Charity Organization Society, the Children's Home, Muhlenberg Hospital and The Day Nursery. In this connection one of the classes had dressed dolls for the above purpose and Laura Stillman, Ruth Morris and Cecelia and Beatrice Cottrell sang a missionary song.

Other numbers on the program included recitations, "Christmas Joy," Mary Huting; "A Little Bit of Holly and a Little Bit of Love," Helen and Maudella Ford and Dorothy Hubbard; song and chorus, "Bethlehem Beloved;" recitations, "God Bless Us All," Harold Whitford; "Merry Christmas to You All," Cecelia Cottrell; hymn, " Come All Ye Faithful," congregation. The entertainment closed with the distribution of gifts to the school by Dr. Maxson, the singing of "Joy to the World the Lord Is Come," by the school, after which ice cream, cake and coffee were served.

The entertainment committee comprised Mrs. Sarah Wardener, chairman; Mrs. Linton Crandall and Miss

PRESENTED "EAGER HEART"

Elizabeth Dramatic Society Presents Xmas Play in Grace Parish.

RECTOR READ THE PROLOGUE.

Bright Young People Form the Cast Which Delights a Large Audience.

The Christmas mystery play, "Eager Heart," was given in the parish house of Grace church, last night, before a large and enthusiastic audience which generaously applauded the clever acting on the part of those in the cast. The play is a revival by the Elizabethan Dramatic Society of the quaint and primitive dramatic art of the period and comes from the pen of A. M. Buckton, who has to his credit other plays of equal literary excellence.

Miss Brooke Peeters, of New York, took the title role, "Eager Heart," interpreting the part in a delightful manner. The other parts in the cast were taken by young people in the parish. Aside from the leading role, those who were in the play and the characters represented, were as follows:

"Eager Sense," Miss Alice Titus; "Eager Fame," Miss Annie Johnson; "Mary," Miss Helen Stevens; "Kings," Arthur Wills, Alfred Manley and Robert Bellows, shepherds, Miss Florence Stewart, Miss Holstein, Miss Ruth Titus, Robert McGulrick; "Joseph," R. H. Depew, Jr.; angels, Miss Charlotte Finch, Miss May Faber, Miss Katherine Titus, Miss Margaret Carpenter and Miss Laura Bristol.

Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector, assisted in the presentation of the play by reading the prologue, and "The Invisible Choir," was represented by the choir choir. During the evening the choir sang several selections, being hidden from view in one of the rooms off the auditorium. The music was greatly enjoyed and very effective.

Miss Egan was chairman of the committee in charge of the affair, and she was ably assisted by Alfred Egan and J. Paul Nolting in securing the people for the various parts in the play.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR CASINO DANCE

Arrangements are about completed for the subscription dance at the Casino New Year's Eve, when a farewell will be given to the old year and the New Year will be ushered in in an appropriate unique manner. The affair is being planned by several committees, of which Mrs. Charles Arthur Reed, of North Plainfield, is the ruling spirit. The rush of responses to the nummerous invitations sent out shows that the society folk of Plainfield and North Plainfield has set its seal of approval on the function and that it will be a brilliant affair.

The entertainment committee, comprising Mr. and Mrs. William L. Lockwood, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Davies and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Coriell, has made elaborate preparations for a delightful program. Brown's famous quartet from New York will give vocal and instrumental selections between the dances and arrangements will be made for those wishing to play bridge whils, instead of dancing.

The "Jollification Committee," comprising Joseph M. Shellabarger, is planning several "stunts" that promises to make the New Year sit up and take notice. Something very novel is assured in decorating effects, electrically and otherwise. Four pieces of music have been engaged for the dancing and Demolli will serve a fine supper from 12 to 2 o'clock.

These patronessess have been secured for the occasion and they will act as a receiving committee: Mrs. Charles Joel Fisk, Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, Mrs. William Palmer Smith, Mrs. Edward H. Ladd, Jr., Mrs. George P. Mellick, Mrs. John B. Dumont, Mrs. Chapman Fisk and Mrs. Frederick Goodhue Mead.

The executive committee comprises Mrs. Charles Arthur Reed, chairman; Lewis G. Timpson, Henry L. Hall and Frederick W. Butler, treasurer. The floor committee will consist of Lewis E. Waring and J. Hartley Mellick.

Entertained Boys at Turkey Supper.

According to his annual custom, Rev. A. S. Peck, rector of St. Stephens' church, entertained the younger boys of the parish at a turkey dinner, last night. The affair was given in the parish house and after the feast of good things the rest of the evening was spent playing games and listening to vocal and instrumental music.

TROUBLE AT THE DEPOT

Expressman James Wagner Assaults Baggage Master Jeremiah F. Garretson.

CASE TO BE AIRED IN COURT.

The Episode An Added Chapter in the Controversy Following Jacob Wagner's Dismissal from Co.'s Employ.

Another chapter in the controversy that arose when Jacob Wagner, for thirty-eight years an employe of the New Jersey Central, was recently dismissed as assistant baggage master at the North Avenue station, took place on the railroad platform yesterday afternoon. An altercation ensued between Baggage Master Jeremiah Garretson and Expressman James Wagner, son of the deposed man, and Garretson was assaulted. Just what led to the trouble has not yet been made clear but Garretson has preferred a charge against Wagner and the matter will be aired in the city court tomorrow or Monday.

In his story to Judge Runyon, Garretson asserted that he was attending to his customary duties at the station yesterday and was in the act of passing between the track gates with a truck when Wagner came up behind him. No words passed between them, he alleges, but the younger man suddenly struck him a blow in the face that knocked him down. As he was regaining his feet, he says, he was assailed the second time and the force of the blows marked his face. There was no doubting this as when the complaint was made the baggage master had a couple of black and blue bumps on his head.

Wagner could not be seen today to get his side of the occurrence but his witnesses maintain that previous to the assault an exchange of words took place over a trunk that Wagner had called for.

The police said this afternoon that they had not apprehended Wagner, but are still looking for him. Mr. Garretson is confined to his home as a result of his injuries.

Sympathy is generally extended to Mr. Garretson, it being considered the assault was entirely unprovoked. It is expected that the railroad company will use every effort to see that justice is meted out in the case.

SENTENCES IMPOSED.

Judge Atwater Gives Various Terms to Minor Offenders.

Several cases came before Judge Atwater in the Court of uarter Sessions in Elizabeth yesterday morning for sentence.

Albert Apgos, of Plainfield, who pleaded guilty to selling liquor illegally, was put in charge of the Probation Officer for one year and ordered to pay a fine of $25. This disposition of the case was made because it appears that Apgar no longer sells liquor, and the complaint was made by Apgar's father-in-law through spite.

George Schencw, colored, was arranged for breaking, entering and larceny at the home of William Brown, of Mountainside, on November 29. He stole money and goods to the value of $40. He claimed he did it to get money to help his crippled brother. He is 22 years of age. Sentence was deferred until Saturday and the Probation Officer was instructed to further investigate the case.

IT WAS A FIRE.

But a Pail of Water Quenched It.

A small fire in the kitchen of C. B. Pope's house on Regent street, North Plainfield, caused an alarm to be sent in from Box 143 at Grandview avenue and Somerset street, this morning at 10 o'clock. The combination chemical and hose wagon from fire headquarters responded and the blaze was extinguished with a pail of water. The damage was slight.

Mr. and Mrs. William Polon, who were married about a week ago, had leased the house and were preparing to move in when the fire occurred. The origin of the blaze is not known asa the stoves have not yet been placed in the place which was unoccupied.

Fire at the Seminary.

A still alarm was turned into Fire Headquarters at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon for a blaze on the second floor of the Seminary, evidently caused by plumbers who had been at work. The chemical engine, a hose wagon and ladder truck were sent out and the fire was quickly nipped. The damage will reach about $50.

COURT HITS TALESMEN IN A MURDER CASE

John Weigle was sentenced to State prison yesterday at New Brunswick by Justice Swayze for twenty years on a plea of guilty of murder in the second degree for slaying Charles Deock, a friend, at Keasby on November 14. Prior to this plea the Hungarian, through an interpreter, demanded a trial and a jury was chosen.

There were many challenges. Nearly every talesman challenged by the State said he had conscientious scrupples against capital punishment, and would not vote for murder in the first degree even if the evidence warranted it. Justice Swayze sustained all these challenges, but became more and more exasperated as juror after juror put up that excuse. Charles McLaughlin, of New Brunswick, was the man upon whom the gathering storm broke.

"I have never in all my experience known of so many men who were willing to violate their oaths as jurors," said his honor. "Men who do this simply advertise their unfitness to act as jurors. I will sustain the challenge."

While the jury was being drawn Prosecutor Berdine asked that the pistol in evidence be unloaded. Judge Cowenhoven had no objection, but asked that it be done in the presence of an officer of the court. Detective Peltier extracted the balls with Judge Booraem and Deputy Sheriff Carman looking on.

"Please don't point it this way," said Justice Swayze, with some anxiety.

NO INAUGURAL BALL.

Governor Fort to Dispense with Usual Brilliant Spectacle.

The Second Regiment intended to have a ball on the night of January 21 in the armory at Trenton, on the occasion of the inauguration of Governor Fort. It was planned to invite the visiting military and other organizations, and to name a general reception committee of persons prominent in military, State, local and society affairs. The ball was to be one of the most brilliant of Trenton social season.

The new Governor, however, made it known that he did not desire any such social eclat to mark his coming into power, and as he is to be the commander-in-chief of the National Guard, his wishes have had such weight that the ball has been called off.

Stickpin in Chicken.

The gizzard of a chicken is a peculiar place to find a valuable turquoise stickpin, but that was what Mrs. William F. Dugan, of Second street, Trenton, found when she was cleaning a fowl Tuesday for the Christmas dinner. The pin was larger than ordinary. While pulling out the entrails Mrs. Dugan scratched her hand several times and finally discovered the pin in the gizzard. The pin was the object of much curiosity, and the neighbors immediately began a run on the grocery store where the chicken was purchased.

$100,000 Ball.

Miss Mary Astor Paul, daughter of James A. Paul, Jr., of the Drexel firm, made her debut last night at Horticultural Hall, Philadelphia, at a ball that for grandeur, costliness and general unusualness eclipsed the famous "Ball of the Four Seasons" with which, four years ago, he introduced his elder daughter. The flowers alone cost $35,000 and the cost of the entire ball is figured at $100,000.

Titus H. Laury, the contractor, will be glad to furnish you witth estimates for al kinds of construction work.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

BASEBALL.

Manager Hugh Jennings, who won the pennant for Detroit in his first year in the American League, signed a new contract last week. His old contract had another year to run, but Owner Yawkey canceled it and gave him a more attractive one.

Detroit, despite the capture of the pennant, has paid out $8,850 for purchased players since the close of the season, and $4,750 to cover drafted men, a total expenditure of $13,600 for new talent.

Outfielder Kennedy, of the Brooklyn Atlantic League team, will be tried out by the Philadelphia Nationals next season. Looks as though Atlantic League players are in good standing in organized baseball.

"Here's a new one for you," said Mal Eason during the recent National League meeting. "Remember that no-hit game I pitched against the St. Louis Club in 1906? Well, I venture that none of these other no-hit affairs were won without a curved ball, but mine was. Fact. I didn't throw a curve ball in that game, but I had a fast ball with a great jump to it, and nothing else. It hardly seems possible that a pitcher could fool a crowd of big league hitters for nine innings with a straight ball, but that's what I did that day."

The Boston Americans are anxious to get Outfielder George Stone and President Taylor is said to be willing to give up five men for the heavy-hitting outfielder. Congalton, Grimshaw, Kroh, Jacobson and Shaw are the men whom the Boston club will give to McAleer if the latter will permit Stone to get away.

McGraw is busy with prophesies. He says Merkle is the coming first baseman and Charles Herzog, his Reading Atlantic League find, is the real article at either second or short.

In the American Association baseball organization present indications point to the prohibition of Sunday games in five towns—Kansas City, Louisville, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Indianapolis. While Minneapolis and St. Paul are doubtful, the clubs there have been forced to play outside the city limits for a number of years and the reformers may go a step farther and prohibit Sunday games altogether. The lid has been clamped on in Indianapolis, as far as baseball is concerned, for a number of years. In Kansas City the agitators have closed up the town and Tebeau will consider himself in luck if his club is able to play Sunday ball. The same conditions prevail in Louisville though the Southerners are not as radical on the question as the Kansans.

Hugh Jennings will receive $5,000 as the manager of the Detroit club next year. This is $2,000 more than he got last season. His new contract holds good for two years.

GOLF.

Will Anderson, a four-time national open champion who, since leaving the Apawamis Club three years ago, has been engaged by the Onwentsia Club, of Lake Forest, at one of the highest salaries ever paid to a golf professional, is free to do as he likes during the winter. He has repeated his program of a year ago by going to St. Augustine, Fla. In addition to doing well in a business way at the club in the Southern peninsula, Anderson displayed flashes of old-time form, notably when he broke the eighteen-hole record at St. Augustine, returning a score of 66. He also won considerable money in open tournaments.

Open Champion Alec Ross, of Brae Burn, is en route for Pinehurst, where he will winter once again, and incidentally help his brother Donald sell balls and clubs to the enthusiastic amateurs. The Ross brothers have been doing exceedingly well at Pinehurst for several years. Although the season there is short there is something going on in a competitive way practically all the time.

Fred McLeod and James Simpson, two of the biggest money winners in the West during the past season, sailed recently for Scotland. They will be back in the spring. Another well-known player who intends to revisit the land of the thistle is George Low, of Baltusrol. The time was when Low made a practise of taking charge of things at Miami, Fla., during the winter months, but latterly he has shown a preference for renewing acquaintances at Carnonstie, his birth-place. While abroad Low generally visits his old friend, Harry Vardon.

A trio of Pittsburg pros, Fred Brand, David Robertson and Norman Clark, sailed two weeks ago on the Lusitania. Bob Bolton, who had a green in Missouri last season, has also taken passage. Last Saturday Isaac Mackie, of Fox Hills, and Alec Jolly, of Roseville, sailed away.

Jack Pearson, the Richmond County Country Club man, has left for Ocala, Fla., while Joe Mitchell is at Jacksonville. His brother Will has gone to the Macon Golf Club and Dave Ogilvie, formerly identified with the North Jersey Country Club, has connected again with the club at Augusta, Ga. William Braid did not go back to the Hampton Terrace course at North Augusta, his place having been taken by George Gordon, from Poughkeepsie.

James Mackrill is at Aiken alone this winter. Jack Jones, his companion there in seasons past, has gone to England. Willie Wilson is at Camden, S. C., while Tom Hucknail, of Baltimore, has temporarily transferred his base of operations to Savannah, Ga. Alec Baxter, of Chicago, is at New Orleans.

Gil Nicholls, the Woodland man who was runner-up in both the national and Massachusetts open championships, is figuring on spending only a month in "Southland." He expects to leave shortly after the first of the year. Lawrence Auchterlonie goes to Belleair, while A. H. Fenn will be found at the same old stand, Palm Beach. George Merritt will have charge at Ormond.

"Nipper" Campbell, of Brookline, champion of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association, has gone to Scotland for a visit and so has Alec Cunningham, of Glen Ridge. Willie Wier, of Morris County, intends to put in the winter as usual at Summerville, S. C.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS.

In a dispute with a colored employe, Tuesday night, John Magee, a North Woodbury machinist, was badly cut with a razor and is confined to his bed. The negro escaped.

Gilbert Matticks, the negro charged with the murder of James Camm, an aged factory watchman, at Bridgeton, was brought into court Tuesday afternoon and entered a plea of not guilty. The court appointed James S. Ware and Roscoe Ward to defend him.

Captain James S. Willets, one of Ocean City's oldest and most esteemed residents, was the recipient of a post card "shower" in honor of his eighty-first birthday Tuesday. Captain Willets was the keeper of the United States life-saving station in that city for about twenty years, retiring about fourteen years ago.

The few belated passengers on a Cedar Lawn trolley car bound toward Paterson, at an early hour Wednesday morning, witnessed an exciting collision between the car and a big delivery wagon at Vreeland and Twentieth avenues, in which the wagon was upset and Henry Snyder, the driver, thrown heavily to the ground, while the horse, taking the front part of the wagon with it, ran away. Snyder suffered from shock and cuts and bruises.

Clad only in the thinnest kind of nightclothing and with his feet entirely unprotected from the cold of early yesterday morning, eight-year-old Frank Ferry ran a mile and a half from his home on Beatty street, Trenton, to the Second District Police Station to tell the sergeant on duty there that his mother was being murdered by his father. Two policemen accompanied the boy back to the house, only to find that Ferry had merely threatened to do his wife harm and that no blows had been struck. The boy suffered severely from his long run in the cold.

ERIE THREATENS CUT IN CHICAGO-NEW YORK RATE.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—The Erie Railroad has announced the withdrawal of all its passenger rates now published in the Chicago rate sheet, and a rate war will be percipitated unless the other Chicago-New York roads bring enough pressure to bear to stop it. The new rates which the Erie proposes to establish will be announced January 1, and if filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission then will become effective February 1.

This action by the Erie has aroused all the other trunk lines, and it is probable that several more will cancel their rates in the Chicago rate sheet. The New York Central lines already have intimated that they, too, wish to put in new rates between Chicago and all points East.

No announcement has been made by the Erie officials as to just how far the cut in rates will go. It is reported, however, that if the fight becomes hot the tariffs will be cut a second time, and it is not improbable that for a time the fare between Chicago and New York will be $12. The second-class fare is now $10, which represents a cut of $6.75.

SOMERVILLE GIRL WEDDED.

Miss Margaret Belle Allen Becomes the Bride of Joseph B. Saums.

Miss Margaret Belle Allen and Joseph Beekman Saums were married at Somerville Wednesday at the home of the bride, 56 East High street. Rev. Dr. E. G. Reade, of Somerville, officiated. The ceremony was performed under an arch of palms and in front of a bank of ferns. Miss Lillian Koehler played the wedding march. Miss Gertrude Bevers, of Newark, a cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid, and the best man was Edward Merrill, of New York.

The bride wore a brown chiffon broadcloth suit, with a hat to match. She carried white roses. The bridesmaid was attired in green broadcloth and carried pink carnations. The bridegroom is manager for a Chicago manufacturing company, and after a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Saums will make their home in that city.

Weds His Former Pupil.

Belvidere, Dec. 27.—A wedding took place here Wednesday, the principals being Miss Grace Emery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Emery, and Van Cleve Brugler, vice-principal of the Hackettstown High School. She was at one time his pupil. The ceremony was performed at the bride's home on Third street, by Rev. J. de Hart Bruen. After a reception and a collation the couple left for Niagara Falls. On their return they will live in Hackettstown.

—Boice, Runyon & Co., of Park avenue, expect to take possession of their new building the latter part of January or first of February. No arrangements have been made for the disposition of the brick structure now occupied as an office.

—W. K. Collins, formerly central office manager at the local telephone exchange, has been transferred to the company's office at Morristown, and his position here has been taken by Mr. Beals, who has been connected with the Plainfield office for the past year.

Plainfield, N. J., December 27, 1907.

Mayor Fisk will review the first year of his administration and will suggest work to be accomplished during the new year in his second annual message to the Common Council early next month. It is expected that he will advise the purchase of a site for a city hall, if that is not put through by that time; that he will advocate again a municipal system of garbage collection and disposal; that he will urge that proper action be taken to bring about a consolidation of city and borough; that he will urge that a prohibitory tax be placed on all bill-boards; that he will urge better pay for the superior officers of the police department; that he will recommend a revision of the city charter; that he will once more ask for proper fire protection in the east end by having a fire house erected in that section, and that he will support a proper appropriation for a school house in Darrow avenue.

It is quite likely that the outgoing Common Council will discuss in executive session on Monday night the proposition, as exclusively told in this paper, to purchase the Powlison and Jones building in East Front street. In casting about the city, few if any properties as desirable for the purposes of a city hall may be found. With some slight alterations it would be admirably adopted for municipal headquarters' purposes and its purchase would relieve the city of the necessity of obtaining a new location for the police department. Its acquisition would be an economical move all around so far as the municipality is concerned.

Bryan's Jersey Hook.

Coming of William J. Bryan into Jersey in next February, ostensibly to call upon his friend James E. Martine, endeared to a host and known as the "Farmer Orator," has a greater political significance. Bryan is after Jersey's representetion in the Democratic convention, and if Martine can control the outfit the Nebraskan may have the Jerseymen in addition to his Western support. In return Bryan will be willing to champion Martine for Vice-President, so the political forecast reads.—New York Press.

Bryan Bags 25 Ducks.

Colonel W. J. Bryan and Governor Campbell put in a day at Wallisville, Texas, shooting ducks, according to word which was brought there last evening from their camp on Lake Surprise. It is said that Mr. Bryan killed his limit of twenty-five ducks allowed in one day under the law in less than three hours yesterday morning. He occupied a blind which afforded a good view of the feeding grounds of the fowl. Governor Campbell was satisfied with a smaller number. A bear hunt had been planned for today.

P. S. in Plaintiff's Role.

The Public Service Corporation was a plaintiff for the first time recalled yesterday at New Brunswick, when it won a suit by default in the District Court. It brought an action to disposses John Kelly, a former employe of the city water department, from the property owned by the corporation at 7 Washington street. It claimed that Kelly had rented the property from it and had agreed to pay $5 a month, but had failed to produce the rent for December.

Assembly Caucus on Excise.

A caucus of the Democratic members of the New Jersey Assembly at the Robert Davis Association clubhouse, in Jersey City, on Saturday evening, has been called by Mark A. Sullivan, chairman of the delegation. The principal business will be to consider the party policy toward liquor traffic legislation.

ENTERTAINMENTS OF XMAS

Ethel Titsworth, while Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard was in charge of the music. The supper committee comprised Mrs. William C. Hubbard, Mrs. H. M. Maxson and Mrs. D. E. Titsworth.

Trinity Reformed Church.

The Christmas entertainment at Trinity Reformed church, last night, under the auspices of the Sunday-school, attracted a capacity audience, the lecture room being filled to overflowing with members of the school and their friends. In providing an entertainment the committee of which Edgar F. Sheppard was the chairman, made a happy selection in securing Charles R. Taggart, known as "The Man from Vermont." He delighted both young and old with a thoroughly enjoyable program that was bright, clean and in every way suited to such an occasion.

Mr. Taggart included in his entertainment descriptive piano selections, recitations and character sketches, ventriloquial dialogues and violin mimicry. His imitations of the church organ and birds on the violin were the best ever heard here; while his impersonation of "The Old Country Fiddler," was ideal and true to life. He certainly has the mastery of the violin, being able to make the instrument do anything desired. The piano selections and character sketches were especially clever, as was also his ventriloquial dialogues, and the audience was sorry when the program was concluded.

In addition to the part taken by Mr. Taggart, another delightful feature was the singing of Miss Ethel Moore, soprano, formerly of the church choir. She sang eveeral selections, accompanied on the piano by Miss Lillian A. Force and eacn time received an encore. Her voice was especially pleasing and the selections well chosen for the occasion. She was presented during the evening with a handsome bouquet of roses. After the entertainment all of the members of the school and Home Department received a box of candy.

In the afternoon the primary department enjoyed its Christmas entertainment. The little folks had a thoroughly good time under the direction of Mrs. J. M. Tier, superintendent. There was no long program of recitations and songs, as usual, but instead the children repeated the Christmas cantata, "The Joy of the Christmas Morn." given Sunday night, to the delight of the older people present. Other features were recitations by Beatrice Bodine and Alfred Willett and a song by Dorothy Ross. Afterward there was the distribution of dolls and games for the boys and girls and besides ice cream and cake were served. It was a happy occasion for the children and they enjoyed it to the fullest extent.

Holy Cross Church.

The Church of the Holy Cross was filled to overflowing last night with members of the Sunday-school and parish to enjoy the Christmas entertainment provided by the rector, Rev. George A. Warner. The services began at 7:45, when the vested choir marched around the church singing "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," and after the opening collect and prayer, Christmas carols were sung and the Christmas lesson read by Mr. Warner, who also told the story of "The Other Wise Man," by VanDyke.

The church was then darkened and the electric lights covering the large Christmas tree were illuminated. In all six dozen tiny incandescent electric lights of varied colors together with the bring trimmings on the tree made a pretty sight. Topping the tree was a minature Santa Claus bearing a tiny light on his head.

Then followed the distribution of gifts to the children and choir, eacn member receiving a box of candy. The members of the choir also presented to H. Raymond Loder, organist, a handsome leather music roll, accompanied by a letter of appreciation, and to the rector the choir gave a Waterman fountain pen, gold mounted, in a leather traveling case. This was also accompanied by a letter of appreciation.

A feature of the festivities was the placing of a manger beside the chancel steps in which were placed a large number of gifts, books, toys, etc., for the Children's Home. They will be delivered today. The festival closed with the recessional, "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

Saloonkeepers on Good Behavior.

The saloonkeepers of Montclair closed their places at 1 o'clock on Christmas afternoon and kept them closed until 6 o'clock yesterday morning. There are only eight saloons in this town of 20,000 population. The action of the saloonkeepers was a great surprise, but it is supposed to have been due to a desire on their part to placate the religious element that has appealed to the Town Council to close all saloons at 10 o'clock, at 7 o'clock on Saturdays and all day on holidays. The same element also wants the license fee raised to $1,000.

Girls' School Head a Bankrupt.

A petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday at Trenton by Mtilda De Mille, owner of a girls' school in Pompton Lake, in the United States District Court. It says she owes $12,257 and has no assets. Judge Lanning has appointed Atwood L. De Coster referee in bankruptcy in the case.

Pleads Non Vult, 20 Years.

John Weigi, of Keasbey, was sentenced to twenty years in State prison yesterday afternoon by Justice Swayze at New Brunswick upon a plea of non vult to the charge of murdering Charles Deock on November 14. Weigi and Deock were friends. Weigi had planned a trip to Europe, and wanted Deock to go with him. When he refused a dispute followed, and Deock was shot by Weigi and almost instantly killed.

Testing Flour.

If flour is white, with a yellowish straw color, it is good, while if it has a bluish cast or black specks it is the opposite.

Flour can also be tested by its adhesiveness. Wet and knead a little of it between the fingers. If it works soft and sticks it is poor.

If a little flour is thrown against a dry, smooth surface and it falls like a powder you may know it is not of the best quality.

If flour squeezed in the hand retains the shape given it when the hand is relaxed it is a good sign.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The choir of the South Plainfield Baptist church was practising last night for the special service on Sunday night. The music is especially good and the service bids fair to compare favorably with that held this time last year.

William Shields, of Lehigh avenue, employed on the night shift at the electric light station, is dangerously ill with inflammatory rheumatism.

David Blackford, the proprietor of the saw mill, who has been unable to attend to his business for the last month, is still seriously ill.

A party of friends visited at the home of Peter Johnson, in Plainfield avenue and spent the evening playing various games.

Raymond Cole, of Milltown, is spending the holidays with his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Norman.

BODY OF WOMAN FOUND

pieces. A fur muff, in which were two garters and a fur boa, was found in an old scow moored a few rods distant from the catboat. On the cinder beds that surround the pond were found two stockings in different places.

The woman appeared to have been about 35 years old, and must have been of attractive appearance. Her clothing was of good quality. On one of the fingers of one hand was a gold ring setting from which three stones had, apparently, been wrenched. She was about 5 feet 4 oinches in height and weighed about 165 pounds. Her hair was brown and wavy. Her hands were well-kept and evidently unaccustomed to hard work.

Thompson was held by Rogers, although Cogan's story virtually exonerated him in the mind of the Chief. He also had Kirkman arrested last night. Both men denied that they knew anything about the murder.

ASBURY PARK BUSY.

New Hotel Going Up and Old Ones Being Remodeled.

Activity in building interests disproves that Asbury Park is in any great degree feeling the financial slump which has affected other places in the country. Asbury Park had a good summer season this year. It was not abnormally large, but it was far above the average, and there is every indication of a good season next year.

Several large hotels have been remodeled. At least four have had other stories added and one new one is in course of construction. More than a dozen large houses have been erected since last summer to add to the size of the city's residential district. And this all in old Asbury Park. Building is active on the West side, in Allenhurst and among our neighbors farther north. To the south, in Ocean Grove, West Grove, Bradley Park, Neptune City and in Bradley Beach, many new houses are being erected. This is particularly true of the latter place. Bradley Beach is growing as probably no other place on the coast.

Pneumonia Epidemic.

During the last two months more than three-fourths of the deaths that have occurred in Montclair have been caused by pneumonia. Physicians are at a loss to account for the epidemic, as the winter has not, so far, been especially severe up to the present time.

BESLER VICE PREST. OF RAILROAD CLUB

The New York Railroad Club, which is made up of the most prominent railroad officials identified with the Eastern roads, and which is now about one year old, effected its permanent organization recently by electing officers as follows: Elbert H. Gray, president; F. D. Underwood, president Erie Railroad, vice-president; C. W. King, secretary. The house committee consists of W. G. McAdoo, Walter G. Oakman, W. G. Besler, vice-president and general manager Central Railroad of New Jersey; W. H. Marshall and Frederick Jennings.

The club will occupy the twenty-first and twenty-second floors of the Cortlandt street building of the Hudson Terminal at Church street, New York. The club membership, which is limited to 500, is composed of prominent railroad men, bankers and commercial men.

NEWARK CLERGYMAN CAPTURES A SWINDLER

Being a muscular Christian, the Rev. Dr. A. A. James, rector of Christ Episcopal church, Newark, did not find it hard yesterday to capture Walter Lawrence, who the police say is known also as Hall, Finlay and Williams. When Lawrence called at the rector's house he told a tale of woe. It was that he had been imprisoned on a false accusation and it had been impossible to live down the disgrace of his incarceration.

Once before that story had been told to James, who took an interest in the teller of it and got him a place with a wholesale butcher. The man thus befriended disappeared, after forging checks for $200. With that experience in mind the rector, on hearing Lawrence's statement, said: "Well, your story may be all right, but I think the police should investigate before I do anything for you."

The word "police" had strong effect on Lawrence. He jumped up and started to run out. The rector blocked his way. Lawrence struck out. The clergyman neatly blocked the punch, caught the fellow in a rib-breaking clutch with both arms and held him until the police arrived in answer to a telephone call by a servant. Lawrence was locked up.

MOCK TRIAL SUIT OVER A BREACH OF PROMISE

Stephen B. Joseph, a well-known resident of North Plainfield, has been sued for breach of promise by a prominent women of the borough. For sometime it has been alleged that he has been trifling with a widow's affections. He now claims that his intentions were not serious, but nevertheless the widow became attached to him, and as he seems to have lost interest in the matter the widow has attached his property, which is a form of attachment he does not enjoy.

The result is that he finds himself the defendant in a breach of promise suit and his actions toward the widow will be fully explained at a trial to be held Friday night, January 3. The parties interested in the suit are so prominent that it is feared the city court will not hold the anxious spectators. Arrangements have been made to try the case at the Y. M. C. A. It will be held under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., for whose benefit the proceeds will be devoted.

It will be a mock trial and it promises to be an enjoyable affair, especially as several prominent citizens are to take part. The committee in charge have engaged Colonel A. V. Newton, the well-known lawyer-lecturer, of Worcester, Mass., who will arrange the details and act as prosecuting attorney.

City Judge William N. Runyon will preside at the trial and County Registrar of Deeds F. H. Smith will act as clerk of the court. Winfield S. Angleman will be the counsel for the defendant and Mayor Charles J. Fisk has been chosen as foreman of the jury, which will be composed of prominent citizens. Former Sheriff B. Frank Coriell will be the court crier and Martin A. Stutsman court officer.

USED THE CRUCIFIX.

Massachusetts Priest Captures Two Burglars.

Father Wotan, of Lawrence, Mass., heard strange noises on the ground floor of the parish residence early yesterday morning. He had no weapon in the house but he descended the stairs quietly with a heavy silver crucifix in hand hand.

The priest found two burglars in the dining room. One of them drew a revolver and aimed it at the priest, but the latter felled him with a blow from the crucifix and then knocked the other down with his fist. He kept the men locked in the room until the police arrived.

ADMIRAL GEORGE DEWEY SEVENTY, HALE, HEARTY

Admiral George Dewey was 70 years old yesterday. He is in splendid health and robust in physique. He received a number of presents.

Among the admiral's callers yesterday were a number of those who attended the birthday dinner last week, at which President Roosevelt was present, and which was advanced in date because the latter expected to be at Pine Knot, Va., last night. During their conversation they recalled a happy toast which the President proposed when they drank to the health of the admiral. It was as follows:

"To the man who has done more for and reflected greater glory on America than any other man now living." The toast met with a hearty response from those surrounding the admiral's table.

At the meeting of the Naval Relief Association the admiral was presented with two handsome silver inkwells, with a pentray. Former Surgeon General Van Reypen, of the navy, made the presentation speech. The health of the admiral was drunk from a decanter containing old Madeira wine, of the vintage of 1847. The decanter was formerly the property of George Washington, and in his presentation speech General Van Reypen said it was eminently fitting that the health "of the other George, whom we all love," should be drunk from the same decanter.

THREE ARE KILLED IN CRASH AT CAMDEN.

Three persons were killed and between fifteen and twenty injured this morning in a rear-end collision between a Mount Holly accommodation train and an Atlantic City express on a division of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Camden.

The crash occurred on the trestle work at Third and Bridge streets, Camden. The locomotive of the accommodation train crashed into the rear end of the Atlantic City express, which was stationary at the time. The killed and injured were in the smoker of the accommodation train, under which the tender of the locomotive was driven.

One of the dead has been identified as Theodore Webster, secretary of the Warren-Webster Company. He lived at Merchantville, N. J.

The other dead have not been identified.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The stirring melodrama, "The Minister's Daughter," will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre

MILDRED MASON, HER BLIND SISTER.

A Scene from "Minister's Daughters" at the New Plainfield Theatre Tonight.

tonight. It is replete with striking situations and tells a story that holds the close attention of the audience throughout.

If there is any virtue in newspaper commendation, and if the endorsement of the public at large, for the past ten years is to be taken as a criterion, then "Human Hearts," which will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night, is certainly entitled to take rank as the "Great American Drama." During the many years that "Human Hearts" has been presented in this country, the praise accorded it by newspaper critics and the general public has been universal. There has been no dissenting voices; the verdict of approval has been unanimous. Even rival managers have graciously acknowledged that "Human Hearts" is a "Mighty good play."

JIM MASON

"Human Hearts" at New Plainfield Theatre next Tuesday Night.

When a play is capable of provoking an almost constant ripple of laughter, which at frequent and unexpected intervals breaks out into uncontrolable guffaws that make the very rafters ring, there is but one verdict for the reporter on dramatic affairs to render, and that one is self-evident. Such a play in its own peculiar field is great. That is just what "Mrs. Temple's Telegram" will do at the New Plainfield theatre New Year's afternoon and night. It is one of the cleverest farces that has been seen since the days of Charles Hoyt and possesses a plot that appeals to one's sense of the ridiculors, and lines that sparkle with wit and humor. The company is one of the most evenly balanced and uniformly clever that has been seen in a farce comedy in a long time.

Klaw & Erlanger's production of George V. Hobart's new musical novelty, "The Ham Tree," in which they will present the famous black-face comedians, McIntyre and Health, is an innovation in musical plays. This attraction will be the bill at the New Plainfield theatre on Saturday afternoon and night, January 4.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Mrs. Harold McCormick, of Chicago, is said to have ordered a thirty volume set of Browning's works to be bound at $1,000 a volume.

Miss Theodora Shonts, who is to marry the Duc de Chaulnes of France, is a fine linguist. Her maternal grandfather was the late Governor Drake of Iowa.

One of the peaks of the Carbon range in Alaska has been named Mount Grace in honor of Miss Grace McDonald of Meeteetse, Wyo., who was the first woman to scale it.

Although blind and partially paralyzed, Mrs. Catherine Snay, of Oxford, Mass., celebrated her one hundred and sixth birthday by smoking her pipe. She has smoked since she was ten.

Mrs. Mary K. Michael, of Hamilton, O., is an expert plasterer and paperhanger. Her husband, a plasterer, is a hard worker and is sometimes so pressed with business that he cannot get through it all. Then Mrs. Michael leaves her household labors and helps him.

Mrs. Caroline C. Furbush, of Greenfield, has one of the finest collections of books and autographs in western Massachusetts. She has also a collection of rare china. Her library of 7,000 or 8,000 volumes contains many rare editions of standard works, and some of her books are exceedingly rare.

Mrs. Ida Lewis Wilson, or Ida Lewis, as she is more popularly known, keeper of the Lime Rock lighthouse, at the southern end of Newport harbor, has again been honored for bravery in saving lives during her long service as a keeper of the light. Notice has been received from Andrew Carnegie that he has placed her name on his private pension list, insluring her an income of $30 a month during her lifetime.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Excuses are like weeds—losts of them, but no good.

Some fellows have a great deal of ability in ungrammatical packages.

Having common sense and having command of it are two different things.

It takes a lot of time to properly air grievances. Not one in a hundred is worth it.

So many people are like a poorly governed community—they fail to maintain a sinking fund.

When a man has an opinion or a theory that happens to turn out right, how he loves to hear about it!

Men are possessed of two great fears—that they will become old and that they will never live to be old.—Athison Globe.

M. F. Gano, the real estate broker, always has a list of desirable properties for sale or lease. If you want anything in his line give him a call.

When You Need The Doctor In A Hurry

and he cannot get to you quickly, that is when Jayne's Expectorant proves of invaluable assistance. Pneumonia often comes with a sudden chill or a sudden congestion of the lungs—frequently at night. It is then that may prove effective in saving life by preventing an attack of pneumonia. For 77 years this well-known remedy has proved successful in relieving and curing Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Pleurisy, Croup, Whooping Cough, Inflammation of the Lungs and diseases of like nature.

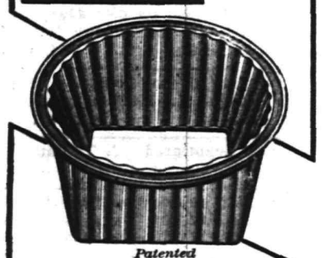
Get it TODAY, and keep it on hand for an emergency. Three size bottles, $1.00, 50c., and 25c.

Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge is a splendid tonic for adults, as well as a safe Worm Cure for children.

The One and Only Square Pot



Patented

Makes

easily the most powerful heaters ever constructed.

Look at the fire pot of a furnace from a practical point of view. Figure out for yourself which is better, the old-fashioned round fire pot that balks and clogs, giving imperfect combustion and wasting fuel, or the patent Square Pot used exclusively in Boynton Furnaces.

With this construction there are no slanting sides to gather ashes, no possibility of clogging, no necessity of raking. The grate bars operate under the entire fire bed, insuring thorough cleaning and quick combustion.

Noticeably economical in fuel. Easiest to regulate and care for. The ash-pit is large and square—handy to clean and giving increased draught.

Remember these most important improvements are found only in Boynton Square Pot Furnaces. Have your plumber, steam-fitter or tinsmith tell you about them.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for steam or hot water. Also ranges.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

New Books Just Added to the Circulating Department of the Library.

Arnim, Mary Annette Beauchamp, grafin von.—Fraulein Schmidt and Mr. Anstruther.

"Little detached incidents, reminiscences, reflections on life and literature, and so on, form the subject of the letters, which depend for their charm wholly on the personality of the writer."—Nation.

Bacheller, Irving.—Eben Holden's last day a-fishing.

"This is a new story of Eben Holden. It reveals him, old though he is, a true lover of good sport, and shnows that time cannot change his gentle humor, his caustic wisdom and his simple kindness. The book gives two pictures, one of fishing on a summer day, the other of a Christmas-time in Eben Holden's old-fashioned country home."

Barr, Amelia E.—Heart of Jessy Laurie.

"Simple Scotch folk figure in this story of a high-spirited fisher lass. Mrs. Barr here returns to the scenes of her 'Daughter of Fire' and 'Jan Vedder's wife.'"—N. Y. Times Review.

Benson, A. C.—Thread of Gold.

"Mr. Benson is not only a successful essayist and a man of letters, but he is what the prophets and teachers must ever consent to be—the guide, companion, friend of all his readers, to whom they turn again and again, not for facts or phrases, but for counsels of fine living and incspiration for noble thinking."—Outlook.

Burnett, Mrs. Frances E. Hodgson.—The Shuttle, an international romance.

"A story of English and American social conditions."—N. Y. Times Review.

Call, Annie Payson.—Every day living.

"That the knowledge of God's law of liberty is power to the person who will gain it, nay, use it, is the theme running through Mrs. Call's dozen and more essays. There is the note of impersonal freedom which everybody can catch if he but work."—Outlook.

Connolly, James.—The Crested Seas.

"A new collection of sea stories, including 'The Drawn Shutters,' 'The Smugglers,' 'The Americanization of Roll-Down Joe,' 'The Dance,' 'The Joy of a Christmas Passage,' 'The Blasphemer,' etc."—N. Y. Times Review.

Hadley, Arthur Twining.—Standards of public morality: the Kennedy lectures for 1906.

"Urges the necessity for the same ethical standard in public and private life. Contents: Formation of public opinion; Ethics of trades; Ethics of corporate management; Workings of our political machinery; Political duties of the citizen. Author is the president of Yale University."—Publishers' Weekly.

Hamer, S. H.—Story of "The Ring," being a short analysis of the plot of Wagner's "Ring of the Nibelung" with principal musical "motives."

"The author has endeavored to tell, as simply and briefly as possible, the story of Wagner's great musica-dramas, so that anyone knowing nothing of them may learn easily what they are about. The principal musical "motives" are given so that, having grasped the plot, anyone who wishes to persevere in the study of these works may learn something of the music and what it is intended to convey."—Preface.

Hichens, Robert.—Barbary sheep.

"A slight story steeped in the atmosphere, the mystery, the fascination of the Algerian desert."—Nation.

La Pasture, Mrs. E. B. de.—Peter's mother.

—"This book is a good illustration of the fact that normal characters can be made interesting."—Outlook.

"An excellent entertainment in which sentiment and humour are most agreeably blended."—Spectator.

Lee, Jennette (Mrs. Gerald Stanley Lee).—The Ibsen Secret: a key to the prose dramas of Henrik Ibsen.

"Mrs. Lee believes that symbolism is to be found everywhere in Ibsen's plays. She aims to make this clear in the included studies. . . . . The writer is professor of English language and literature, Smith College."—Publishers' Weekly.

Martin, Mrs. Martha Evans.—Friendly Stars.

"Untechnical, really delightful descriptions of the twenty brightest stars and the great constellations, their locations, colors, distances, movements, their rising and setting. Makes no demand for preparatory knowledge on the part of the reader. Professor Jacoby says in his prefatory note: 'the book will serve a useful purpose and help to arouse a wholesome, popular interest in the stars.'"—A. L. A. Booklist.

Molmenti, Pompeo Gherado.—Venice, from the earliest beginnings to the fall of the Republic.

"He has what many who attempt works of this kind lack—charm, the gift of presenting a great body of material so that it not only conveys information, but gives pleasure."—Nation.

Moore, George.—The Lake.

"It is Irish to the core, but with a quiet and contemplative melancholy. Of the few events none is cheap or trite."—Atlantic.

Patterson, A. H.—John Glynn, a novel of social work.

"The pictures of the seamy side of London life are said to be true without being unwholesomely realistic."—N. Y. Times.

Saleeby, Caleb Williams, M. D.—Worry, the disease of the age.

"The author ..... describes the cause and effects of worry, its action upon our vitality, and power to resist disease, upon digestion and sleep, and upon our mental and physical skill at various operations. Important chapters on the use of drugs, quack advertising, and religion."—Publishers' Weekly.

Van Dyke, Henry.—Days Off.

"This new book ..... is a fresh and altogether delightful expression of all that is best in the life out-of-doors, combined in a number of cases with the fictional interest of a good story."

Wallace, Dillon.—Long Labrador trail.

"A record of the successful expedition made in 1905 into the unexplored regions of Labrador ..... a record of privation and heroism, well told, full of the irresistible charm of real explorations."—A. L. A. Booklist.

Wharton, Mrs. Edith.—Fruit of the tree.

"It will be nothing to Mrs. Wharton's readers to tell them that if 'The fruit of the tree' were, merely as an story, far less of an achievement, its author would still hold us by her English—English of a mathematical perfection, secure, exact, unerring."—N. Y. Times Review.

Wright, Mrs. M. A.—Woman Errant.

Sequal to "People of the Whirlpool."

Young, Alexander Bell Filson.—The Wagner stores.

"The author has made a reputation as a writer, and has given many years to the study of music. His book is intended as an introduction to Wagner's operas, and is addressed primarily to the lay mind. The metrical translations into English verse of the lyrical passages from the operas have been made by Mr. Young's friend, Eric Maclagen."—Publishers' Weekly.

SIRES AND SONS.

Richard Croker will spend the winter in Egypt.

In a recent speech in London Mr. Balfour uttered a sentence containing 275 words.

At one time in his life Julian C. Carr, the Durham (N. C.) tobacco man, carried $1,500,000 of insurance and he yet carries $600,000.

Stuyvesant Fish, Jr., is a fireman on the Rock Island Railroad. He has been working in a freight office in Oklahoma and says he intends to learn all about railroads.

John Maginnis, former mayor of Butte, Mont., sent to Boston chapter, Knights of Columbus, an offer of $25,000 as a Thanksgiving gift toward the fund that is to be devoted to the purchase of a building.

John B. Hill, of Atlanta, is the first negro in the country to receive a Carnegie hero medal. A check of $500 was sent as a reward for risking his life in saving several people in danger from a runaway team in Atlanta.

William E. Corey, head of the steel trust, weighs 210 pounds and is so much worried by his size that he is said to have offered a Turkish bath rubber in New York his salary for one year ($100,000) if he would take off the surplus flesh.

John Bigelow, ex-minister to France, who reached his ninetieth birthday anniversary on Tuesday, Nov. 25, is up at 9 o'clock every morning and put in seven hours before he is willing to call it a day, although he says he "is past the age of usefulness." He lives at 21 Gramercy park, New York.

President George T. Angell, of the Boston Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, is now eighty-four and a half years old, and, on condition of remaining away from all public meetings and taking the utmost care of his health, his physician has promised him five years more of work and usefulness.

SCIENCE SIFTINGS.

Professor Percival Lowell, the famous authority on Mars, has new pictures of the planet which corroborate in a striking manner his theory that it it the abode of intelligent life.

Two years will elapse before another opposition of the planet Mars, when it makes a still nearer approach to the earth than in 1907, and after that no favorable opposition will occur for a period of twelve years.

Tests of a clock recently installed in a Cleveland observatory have proved that the mechanism is so accurate that the clock will not vary more than fifteen one-thousandths of a second from the exact time in twenty-four hours. This is considered to be nearly as steady and reliable as the sun itself.

By a new French process milk powder is produced by forcing the liquid under high pressure through a tube only one two-hundred-and-fiftieth of an inch in diameter into a closed chamber heated to 167 degrees F. by a current of warm air. The milk expands to vapor, the air current carries off the water, and the solids fall in powder.

George Stagaard, the shoemaker, of Church street, makes a specialty of shoes to order, as well as repairing. His prices are reasonable.

THE OLD MASTERS.

Miserable Compensation for Their Grand Works of Art.

"I make more money in a day than Michael Angelo made in a month," said a popular illustrator. "I've been studying up the wages those old chaps got. It is amazing.

"Michael Angelo was paid $40 a month while doing the cartoons of the battle of Pisa, and Leonardo, who helped him, got the same rate. They were both docked for lateness and off days, but there was no overtime allowance. Correggio got for his 'Christ In the Garden' $7.25. Carracci's 'Resurrection' only brought the painter $6.50. Albert Durer for his pen and ink portraits was not paid in cash. A bag of flour, a hundred oysters, a pair of boots—Durer would gladly do your portrait on such a system of remuneration.

"Rembrandt's top notch price was $475. He got that for his 'Night Watch.'

"Velasquez worked chiefly for the Spanish government. He was paid at the average rate of $35 a picture. Think of it! Thirty-five dollars for the 'Rokeby Venus!'"—Minneapolis Journal.

Treatment of Oilcloth.

Linoleum or oilcloth can be made to wear indefinitely if a coat of varnish (a hard drier) is applied as often as necessary to sand the wear and tear.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

Cut a groove along the side of the cork of a medicine bottle; put back in the bottle and it will be easy to count the drop one by one without pouring too fast.

To make an iron run smoothly, get some leaves from evergreen trees. Rub hot irons on them and they will iron without sticking the starched clothes. This is used in old Virginia. Leaves may be dried for use.

Furs that have become flat and oily looking about the neck may be made fresh and like new by rubbing the fur the wrong way with hot bran. Furs that have ben wet should never be hung in front of a stove or ana open fire to dry.

For mud stains on dresses dissolve a little carbonate of soda in water and with it wash the mud stains. Another plan is to rub the stains with a cut raw potato, afterward removing the potato juice by rubbing it with a flannel dipped in water.

It is a good idea to save all lids from fruit baskets to use as mats on kitchen tables under the tea kettle and hot vessels or as trays upon which to place jars when canning vegetables or fruit in boiling water in a large vessel. They can be burned when soiled.

It is sometimes a difficult matter to find an appropriate place in which to beat rugs when living in cities or large towns. Take an old spring matter, place it on the sidewalk, lay the rug face down on this and beat. All the dirt will fall through and may be swept away.

Benzine, naphtha and alcohol are best for cleaning the glass of pictures and do not require the care that water does when used for this purpose. If the water leaks through some unseen crack or crevice and finds its way on to the picture it will leave a stain or mark, while the three former will dry at once and leave no stain or mark whatever, and at the same time they will be found to give the glass a brilliant polish without rubbing.

CHICAGO'S CO-EDS SPRING A BRAND NEW ONE!

Out at the University of Chicago the women's dormitories have developed fountainheads of humor, from which wit springs as spontaneously as oil from John D. Rockefeller's wells in Indiana. Most of the numerous "gags" at the founder's expense are suspected of having emanated from this source. Recently the co-eds have evolved a new jest, or, rather, a new version of an old one, which starts off like this:

"Why is J. Pierpont Morgan like Pharaoh's daughter?"

"Can't you guess it? Why, how perfectly stupid of you.

"J. Pierpont Morgan is like Pharaoh's daughter because they both found a little prophet in the rushes on the banks."

GLEANINGS.

The mainspring of a watch is two feet long.

Blacking was originally made of soot and stale eggs.

Corn and beans are the staple articles of diet of the working classes of Mexico.

There is every possibility that the waiters of the Paris cafes will shortly go on strike again in support of their cherished right to wear mustaches.

The police of Denver are trying to cure drunken men by having their photographs taken while the men are drunk and showing the unfortunates the next morning how they looked.

The German government has asked for supplementary credit to the extent of $100,000 for the construction of a new airship which Count von Zeppelin will build at once in order to be ready for experiments in the first favorable weather next summer.

INDUSTRIAL ITEMS.

Germany's annual product of milk is almost the same in value as the annual coal output, the first being about $405,000,000, the second $404,600,000.

The manufacture of rubber from the native guayule shrub has begun in Marathon, Tex. It is estimated that the factory owners control 75 per cent of the guayule land in Texas.

Consul J. I. Brittain sends the information that there will be a complete industrial exposition held at the city of Prague, Bohemia, in 1908, extending from May until October.

The retail clerks of Chicago have started a movement for the organization of the saleswomen of that city in order that they may occupy the same positions in the labor world as the male salesmen.

ODD HAPPENINGS.

The foot and ankle of Albert Sutter, of Elizabethport, N. J., were burned off by a hot copper wire which, passing through a roller, became coiled around Sutter's leg.

The ear of William S. Brobst, of Pottsville, Pa., a bridegroom, was so severely injured at the wedding on account of two grains of rice having lodged on the drum that an operation has been necessary.

When John Dreeland, aged eighty, of St. Louis, awoke the other morning he was on a narrow ledge outside his window, forty feet from the pavement, his feet dangling in space, and, being thinly clad, he was half frozen. He was rescued by firemen.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

To allow a child to sit in wet boots and stockings is to court illness.

Dryness of the skin and general eruptions call for more fruit to be eaten.

A remedy for profuse perspiration of the hands is made by combining ninety grams of cologne with fifteen grams of tincture of belladonna. Moisten the hands several times a day with the mixture.

Nothing heals chapped lips and hands more quickly than cocoa butter. For ten cents one can get a cake of cocoa butter which will last for months. One pleasing feature about this is the fact that it has a delicate odor which is pleasant and quite different from any of the vaseline remedies. For children's chapped hands cocoa butter is recommended far and near because of its quick work in healing the most delicate flesh.

Blackheads are so annoying that their first approach should be the signal for immediate war upon them. As they are caused by a clogging of the pores, the extraneous substance can often be removed when the pores are opened through heat or steaming. While frequent steaming is not advisable, washing the face with hot water and then rubbing vigorously with a coarse towel will often prove efficacious in routing blackheads.

No matter how busy you may be, it will repay you to devote a little time to your toilet at night. Have plenty of hot water and give the face a thorough laving. The result will be as refreshing as an hour's sleep. Brush the hair for twenty minutes. It will be glossier and thicker for the trouble, and the nerves will be soothed by the process. Then after exercise robe yourself in a warm dressing gown and drink a glass of hot milk, weak cocoa or even hot water, eating a biscuit or a bit of toast if you like. When the small supper is finished you will be ready to go to sleep without any insomnia cure, and in the morning you will wake up refreshed and thoroughly in good humor with yourself and the world.

SPORTING NOTES.

Siliko will be the crack trotter of Europe next year.

George Gardner has at last discovered that he is all in as a boxer and declares he will never enter the ring again.

General C. C. Watts, of Charlestown, W. Va., paid $2,100 recently for Sonoma May, the six-year-old sister of Sonoma Girl.

The celebrated Todd, eight-year-old trotting stallion, brought $30,000 in the Old Glory sale in Madison Square Garden, New York, recently.

James R. Keene's race horses have won $401,691 this year, a world's record. These figures are official. Mr. Keene himself gave out a statement in which he announced that his thoroughbreds had this year won the sum named above.

Charley Rich, the Mississippi promoter who promoted the Sullivan-Kilrain fight, plans a revival of pugilism at Kathesburg, Miss., a thriving lumber city. If Rich's plans mature, he will offer purses that will compare favorably with those offered by the gold camps of Nevada.

Lave Cross, the old timer, late of the Philadelphia Athletics and still more recently of the New Orleans club, has announced that he will retire from the game for good. The southern climate did not agree with Lave last year, and he expects to go back to Sieveland to spend the remainder of his days.

WASHINGTONS MAKE NEW SCORE IN TOURNEY

Clouting the pins in dead earnest at the gateway, the Washington bowling team won the first game of the series with the Brian Borus in the tourney, last night, and incidentally made a new five-man score, with only one man shooting below the 190 mark, they piled up a total of 945, thirty-one pins better than the previous top-noth figures established by the Bismarcks. The speed was evidently too much for them, however, as in the next game they fell back nearly 200 points and in the third 171, dropping both to their opponents.

Outside of the steady chalking in the initial try, the bowling for the series was below the usual run. "Doc" Herbert was the only man to go over the 200 mark and his average was 190.2. "Jim" O'Keefe walloped the wood for 171.1, and Captain Nash landed 164. Great things were expected of Harry Ackor, but he took a position in second rank with only 156.2. Skinner hit the timber for 162 all told, Toense 166.2 and George Ortleb 158.2.

The unluckiest man for the night was Ed. McMahon, the Cranfordite, who banged out so many splits it made his head swim. In his second game he landed five of them, every one of the impossible sort when it came to making spares. They were sprinkled through his other tries as well so that his scores were 124, 126 and 133, an average of 127.2. Harry Kuehn shared a little of his trouble and pulled out with 139.2. The Brian Brous rolled with only four men, Captain Radin being kept at home by illness. His previous average less ten was 168.

Last night's series changes the standing of the teams so that the Brian Borus now hold third place. The Napoleons are in fourth position and the Washingtons fall back to fifth. The games tonight will be between the Napoleons and the Washingtons.

Last night's scores:

HOME HINTS.

There is no better disinfectant for drainpipes than salt water.

A little vinegar in polish will be found to obviate the dead, oily look so often noticed after cleaning furniture.

If your hands are blackened with stove polish, try pumice stone on them. If you have none in the kitchen, though it is as essential there as in the bathroom, wt your hands in hot water and rub them well with baking soda until the soil if off.

Got His Anewer.

The victim of the dentist held up his hand.

"Doctor," said he, "before you put the lid on my conversation will you answer a question?"

"Yes," said the dentist, selecting a square piece of rubber and snipping it with his scissors.

"Do people chew more on one side of the mouth than the other?"

"Sure," said the dentist, picking up the clamps.

"How interesting! Which side?"

"The inside," replied the dentist, slipping the rubber dam over the verbal one that issued from his patient's lips.—Lippincott's.

Stenography.

The earliest printed book on stenography in English or perhaps in any other language is "Character and Arte of Shorte, Swift and Secrete, Writing by Character, Invented by Timothe Bright, Doctor of Phisike. Imprinted at London by J. Windet, the Assigne of Tim Bright, 1558. Cum Privilegio Regiae Majestatis. Forbidding All Others to Print the Same."

Flag Colors.

Red seems to be the most popular of national colors if flags may be used as criterions. Of the twenty-five leading natitonal flags nineteen have red in them. The same cannot be said of any other color.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Hugh Knox.

Mrs. Hugh Knox, one of the oldest residents of Pittsburg, is dead at her home in that city. Mrs. Knox was the mother of Hugh R. Knox, of this city, and was a sister of William Stewart, president of the Allegheny National Bank of Pittsburg.

Mrs. J. T. Morris.

Mrs. J. T. Morris, who formerly lived at Truell Court, died yesterday morning at the South Orange Hospital. The funeral service will be held at the home of her nephew, H. M. Strauss, of East Orange, and burial will be at Bound Brook.

Solomon Lewis.

Solomon Lewis, colored, employed as a man-of-all-work about town, died in Muhlenberg Hospital this morning where he was undergoing medical treatment. He was forty-four years old and so far as known had no relatives. The funeral will be held tomorrow.

Delbert L. Hutchinson, of East Third street, is spending the holiday season at his former home in Massachusetts.

LARGE GATHERING AT MRS. KIMBALL'S FUNERAL

Marked by a simple service, the funeral of Mrs. Marianna Everett Kimball, founder and for thirty years president of the Children's Home, was held at the home of her son, James Everett Kimball, of West Seventh street, yesterday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. Dr. John Sheridan Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. Among the latter was nearly the entire membership of the Rasores Club and the Board of Managers of the Children's Home.

During the service, Charles L. Lewis, of this city, rendered two selections, "Ten Thousand Times Ten Thousand" and "Crossing the Bar." There were numerous floral tributes attesting the love and esteem in which Mrs. Kimball was held.

The body was sent to West Newbury, Mass., where burial will take place tomorrow morning.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. L. E. A. Van Syckle, of Whitehouse Station, spent last week with friends in this city.

Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of Grant avenue, is detained at his home with an attack of the mumps.

Mrs. Leona Southworth, of Ithaca, N. Y., is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. J. Emmons, of Bank place.

Mrs. Frederick Phillips, of West Front street, who has been detained at home with a severe illness, is much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McIntyre and family, of Hollands Hook, have removed to Westfield where they will make their permanent home.

Councilman and Mrs. R. I. Tolles and daughters, the Misses Tolles, of Westervelt avenue, are spending several days near Woodmont, Conn.

CHRISTIAN FIELD

The Christmas Sunday-school entertainment will be held at Grace church parish house tonight, when the tree and usual festivities will entertain the children. This afternoon the entertainment for the primary department will be held. Tomorrow afternoon the small children will have their Christmas party in the parish house.

Rather Round.

"I don't thank you for recommending that young clerk," exclaimed the indignant old broker as they met in the elevator.

"What's the trouble?" queried the jocular banker.

"Why, you said he was as square as a dollar and he isn't square at all."

"H'm! Neither is a dollar."—Chicago News.

To Mend Amber.

To mend amber ornaments dissolve a piece of amber in chloroform and with this mend the broken article after first warming the pieces. Care must be taken to see the pieces are clean before the cement is applied, and careful handling is necessarry in order that the edges may come exactly into position once more.

Scotland Yard.

The headquarters of the London metropolitan police force is called Scotland Yard on account of the fact that a palace was built there for the kings of Scotland, to be used by them when visiting England. It is said to have been originally given by King Edgar to Kenneth of Scotland when he came to London to pay homage.

Funeral of John Sprague.

The funeral of John Sprague was held at his late home at Fanwood yesterday afternoon. Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, officiated. Burial was in Hillside cemetery, the pall bearers being Charles Noltin, George Howell, Lawrence Wormer and Harry Vernon.

Mr. Cadmus Pleasantly Remembered.

Frank Cadmus, a popular loom fixer at the Watchung Silk Mill, was pleasantly remembered yesterday by five of the weavers. They presented him with a silver shaving set as a testimonial of their appreciation.

Return Game With Marathon.

The newly formed Hope Chapel Y. M. C. basketball five will play a return game in the Hope gym with the Marathon A. C., of Westfield, New Year's eve. After the game the Hope boys will entertain the visitors.

Gold Bricks.

A common brick weighs about two pounds. A gold brick 2 inches by 4 by 8 would weigh more than forty pounds and be worth some $11,000. Few men could carry a bag of $50,000 in gold very far.

Market Value of Flies.

The market value of flies in Brazil is $700 a ton. England buys flies at that price and uses them to feed chickens and captive birds and fishes. There are almost no flies in England.

New Year's Joy.

Among those who have engaged tables for the New Year's joy times at New York restaurants are George Beaton at Rector's and Frank Bergen at the Hotel Knickerbocker.

—The olive oil sold by Neuman Brothers is imported by them from France. They guarantee the quality to be the very best.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY PRESS

"As I do not believe you," he answered with some sternness. "As I shall not believe you until you take pains to make things a little more clear. The Countess Sarahoff it is who tells you of the peril of Prince Ferdinand. She takes you into her confidence; that in itself scarcely strengthens my trust of you. But this woman is the accomplice of Dr Starva. Why, then, is she suddenly so anxious to disconcert his plans?"

"Starva has turned traitor. Have I not told you that he trapped Madame de Varnier with the rest of us?"

I was becoming desperate. The minutes was flying swiftly, and Locke was even more aggressive than when he had first surprised me. To reason with him was impossible unless I told him all. There was no time for that. Force alone could rescue me from my dilemma. If it was hopeless to disarm his suspicions, could I rob him of the revolver in his hip pocket? I made no further attempt to resist. I stood passively, waiting my chance.

"So Starva has turned traitor?" Locke questioned ironically. "But if the Countess Sarahoff is so anxious to outwit her former confederate—if the life of Prince Ferdinand is actually in peril and she would save him, why did she not send a man for that desperate work? Why did she not let Captain Forbes escape instead of you? Would he be so averse to the saving of a king's life? Even if you believe her silly yarn, she has tricked you. You are clay in her hands; her kisses have bewitched you."

I made no answer to his taunts. Unconsciously he had loosened his hold. I stood as one crushed by his vindictive. Scorn. My attitude confessed defeat. Locke believed the acted lie when he had contemptuously scoffed at the truth.

"Once more, your errand, and no more lies. You wish to save Ferdinand; you pretend that is the futile errand Madame de Varnier sends you on. You would penetrate the stronghold of a desperate band unarmed—you who only this morning saw a young girl's life threatened and raised no hand. If it was cowardice that made you hesitate, why should the coward play the hero so bravely now? Or was it that you are the ally of the very man whom you pretend you are anxious to confront empty-handed?"

"I have done my best to move you. What do you want? I am in your hands."

"I want the truth."

"I have told you the truth. If I lied it might avail me more," I said bitterly. "For the last time I entreat you. I have been proved a coward—twice. But this was to be my chance. I hoped to retrieve myself. But fate blocks the way with a fool who cannot see when a man is desperately in earnest. Ferdinand's murder is certain if we lift no hand to save him. Listen: in my pocket is the key to the little door just beyond you. Take it; let yourself into the hall; hide there and use the evidence of your own eyes."

"And let you slip from my hands? Not much! What is that?"

He turned abruptly. The accomplice of Dr. Starva who had been keeping guard before the door was running toward the passageway leading from the village street. I could hear distinctly the carriage wheels rumble over the cobblestones.

"For the last time," I besought. "There is not an instant to lose."

Still he hesitated, looking cautiously around the angle of the wall at the approaching carriage. His curiosity made him negligent.

This was my chance. One arm caught him about the neck; the other reached for his weapon. Then I pushed him violently backward and covered him, retreating myself toward the little door, the key in my hand.

"Stand back," I whispered fiercely. "Now take you choice. Go to the village; you can't go too quickly, you stubborn idiot. Come back with gendarmes; batter down the door. Or else come with me. You have accused me of cowardice more than once. Show you are a man. Quickly, your choice!"

I heard him chuckling softly to himself in the darkness.

"Well, I'm damned!" he muttered, more than once. "Lead on, Macduff." As my key slipped into the lock he was at my side.

I pushed the little door open.

The hall was empty, but brilliant with the light of a hundred candles. No nook or cranny afforded us a safe hiding-place.

I leaped up the staircase with Locke at my heels. We had reached the gallery as the great door swung open.

Prince Ferdinand entered, Dr. Starva and his ally crowding him close on either side.

The prince stepped into the hall with apparent confidence. But as he heard the door clang behind him he turned alertly to Dr. Starva.

"Where is Madame de Varnier?" he demanded in French.

"Madame de Varnier is unavoidably detained, your Majesty. She has delegated me to receive you. Be assured, your Majesty's welcome shall not be lacking in warmth. Will your Majesty pray be seated? There are urgent matters of state to be discussed."

He pushed the prince brutally into a chair, bending over him with a hideous smile that would have done credit to the devil himself.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

He Is Introduced to the Conspirators.

Locke and I were crouching behind an antique rug that hung over the gallery rail. He grasped my hand and wrung it hard; it was an apology that he had doubted me, and an assurance that he was with me now heart and soul. He had seen enough already to prove to him that I had spoken the absolute truth.

We listened breathless; yes, and we could see as well, and with no danger of discovery. The rug was a museum specimen, and in places was worn through web and woof; it was a simple matter to widen the slits slightly with our fingers.

"Perhaps your Majesty did not notice the flag that flies at half-mast over the tower," taunted Starva. "At half-mast, your Majesty! Ah, his Majesty grows pale, friend Bratinau."

"His Majesty has imagination," growled the other ruffian.

"In an hour or two he will be still more pale."

He struck Ferdinand's cheek with his open palm.

"Dog!" It was Ferdinand who spoke. He struggled vainly to rise.

"A live dog is better than a dead lion, Ferdinand. That flag at half-mast is significant of many things. It tells its story eloquently, that beautiful flag—as clearly as the little stamp that has frightened you so much."

"Interpret the flag's moving tale for this puppet king," beseeched Bratinau, chuckling savagely.

"First of all, then, your Majesty must understand that it is the standard of England with the royal arms in the center surrounded by a garland of flowers. Your Majesty knows quite as well as I that when such a flag floats, whether on sea or land, it is a signal of the presence of an English ambassador. But it flies at half-mast because the ambassador in this chateau is dead—dead as you will be, vain king, when the midnight hour has struck. Pardon us if we have given a mere ambassador precedence over a king; but you arrive a little late."

My blood boiled. I was impatient to interrupt Starva's narrative. It was Locke's curiosity that delayed our rescue. He restrained me with a gesture.

"There is plenty of time," he whispered. "It is hardly 11 now, and Ferdinand is to die at midnight. I am anxious to hear more concerning this flag. And remember, please, that you have my revolver."

I was too easily persuaded. I had listened to Dr. Starva's words in wonder. It was I, or rather fate, who had lowered that flag at half-mast. My perplexity was not lessened as I heard what followed.

"But when," continued Starva, "I entered my carriage to escort you hither in state, this flag was floating in the breeze at the head of its flagstaff. Not until your Majesty stepped on the terrace did it fall at half-mast. Shall I tell you why? When it fell at half-mast it was a signal that you were in our power. There are others anxious to welcome your coming, Ferdinand. They have watched that flag with burning eyes. They will come soon, the rest of the reception committee. Listen—three raps and silence—two and silence—one and then three. It is they, Bratinau. Open the door while I guard this ass in a lion's skin that will cease to bray at midnight."

I deplored my folly in delaying the attempt at Ferdinand's rescue. Even now, while Bratinau rushed to the door to draw its bolts, I should have fired at Starva had he not been kneeling at Ferdinand's side, twisting a cord about his wrists to fasten him in the chair in which he sat. The action exposed Ferdinand; Starva's body was shielded by that of the king. The advent of the conspirators had taken Locke and myself completely by surprise. And when we had heard the knocking on the door we had hoped that a timely rescue had come.

I counted five of them. Locke and I were hopelessly outnumbered now. We had missed our chance. I confess that something very like fear clutched at my heart when I heard the bars grate back in their sockets. I know that Locke himself was pale enough. Unless some accident favored us, not only was Ferdinand doomed, but perhaps ourselves as well.

But I forgot our own danger in the extraordinary scene that followed. Starva had sprung on a chair close to Ferdinand. With ribald jest he introduced each of his confederates as they stood about the two in a half circle. As each man's name was mentioned he stepped in front of Ferdinand and mocked him.

"Your Majesty," cried Starva, bowing low, "all of your reception committee is present except one. He will come presently—and his news will arouse you from the ennui that seems to oppress you. In the meanwhile let me have the honor of introducing to you each of these gentlemen:

The New York Tribune Index.
The files of a newspaper contain the embodied history of the world. But finding what one wants in them unaided is like the proverbial search for a needle in a haystack. One might almost as well have a locked treasure chest without a key. The key that unlocks newspaper files is an index. For over thirty years The New York Tribune has published an annual index to what appears in its columns. The same index is of use with files of other newspapers, so far as general news is concerned, for the news of the same day may be found in all. In addition, for a file of The Tribune, The Tribune Index conveys information in regard to a multitude of special articles, editorials, book reviews, correspondence and other features of a distinctive character. It is a key to a great storehouse of facts. With its cross-references anything desired can be readily found. Price $1.00.

WORLD USES 3,000,000 MATCHES IN A MINUTE

The civilized nations of the world strike 3,000,000 matches every minute of the twenty-four hours. Nearly one-half of these are ignited in this country, Americans use up the enormous total of 700,000,000,000 a year and have a larger match bill than any other nation in the world.

Hundreds of factories over the country are engaged in this industry. Some of the plants are very large, one on the Pacific Coast covering 240 acres, with 32 miles of railroad which supply the match machines with 200,000 feet of sugar pine and yellow pine logs a day.

A statement of the number of cubic feet of wood which actually is coverted into matches each year would convey only an inadequate idea of the number of trees required for the industry. For the manufacture of the match the best grade of wood is necessary. Sapwood, knotty or cross-gained timber will not do. This makes it necessary to search the best forests and pick out the choice trees only, and nothing but the choice portions of the choice trees go to the match machines. It may be seen that the lumberman sweeps over a wide area in search of suitable timber to feed into the match machines.

Seldom is the little splinter, tipped with sulphur or some other substance to be ignited by friction, given even scant mention in the consideration of the depletion of the world's finest forest, yet the manufacturers of these little fire sticks are as much concerned over the timber supply question as any other class of men engaged in an industry whose welfare depends on the use of forest products.

It might be supposed that because matches are small the makers of them would utilize scraps and leftovers. This is never the case; matches are not by-products. The match machine takes the finest timber and what it rejects goes to the by-product yard, and the by-product end of the match business becomes the larger end, so far as bulk is concerned. Among the by-products turned out by the large Pacific Coast factory just mentioned are 1,000 doors and 800 sashes daily.

As a matter of fact, it would be impossible to carry on the match business at all, at present prices, if the rejected lumber were not worked into something else. The room where the matches are made is frequently the smallest department of a match factory. The larger portions contain the sawmills.

Matches are manufactured in many ways and with numerous kinds of machines and for that reason a description of an operation in one factory would not apply to another. Nearly every manufacturing company has machinery made specially for its use, and covered by patents, and it also employs processes discovered or devised by its own chemists and mechanics, and kept secret to prevent rivals from obtaining and profiting by them. A single machine has been known to turn out 177,926,400 matches in one day—boxed and labeled ready for shipment.

Some matches are shaved with the grain from sawed blocks, some are cut both ways by saws. In some factories the blocks are boiled to make them cut easily. By some machines a boiled or steamed log is revolved on its own axis and a shaving—the thickness of a match—is cut round and round. This shaving is at the same time cut into lengths and split into match sticks. There is hardly a limit to the varities of methods employed. Round matches are made by them through dies. The Japanese make paper matches, which are wood after all.

Just Enough.

"I never could use money with a clear conscience," said Mrs. Goodsole, "that had been made in stocks. I never could forget that somebody else had lost it."

"That being the case," replied her husband, "I guess I'll give to some charity the $300 I made today."

MORE XMAS FESTIVALS

Annual Entertainments of Various Sunday Schools Make Little Ones Happy.

THE PROGRAMS IN DETAIL.

Recitations and Singing, Distributions of Gifts and Christmas Trees the Features of Festivals.

Christmas festivals were held in a number of Sunday-schools last night, including the following:

First M. E. Church.

The entertainment for the younger members of the First M. E. church Sunday-school in Vincent chapel yesterday afternoon was in the nature of a big party. Mrs. Arthur E. Crone and Mrs. Thomas MacDonald and Mrs. Judd Stewart, superintendents of the various departments, were in charge assisted by the teachers. "Santa Claus," in the person of Nelson A. Miller, delighted the children, especially in the distribution of gifts to all. Most of the time was occupied in playing all kinds of games. Then the children were served with ice cream and cake. "Santa Claus" concluded the program by remembering each child with a present.

Last night the adult members of the school and their friends were entertained with moving pictures. The selections were excellent and furnished amusement for all. Afterward there was the customary distribution of candy while the teachers were also remembered with appropriate gifts. James R. Joy, superintendent, was in charge.

First Baptist Church.

The primary department of the First Baptist church Sunday-school enjoyed its Christmas festival yesterday afternoon, when an informal program was presented, the children received gifts and Alice Downes, a new member, was received into the departments and the birthdays of Mary Buchanan, Charles White and Marie Jennings were observed. Mrs. J. A. Powlison, superintendent of the department, assisted by the teachers, were in charge.

The program was opened with a song, "Luther's Lullaby," Scripture reading and prayer. Arthur Krausse recited "Welcome," and the children sang, "Christ Was Once a Little Baby," after repeating the books of the Old Testament. After a recitation, by Marie Jennings, the birthday and welcome exercises were held, followed with another recitation by Everett Case. The children sang "The Christ Child," and the program was concluded with two recitations, one by Genevieve Letson and the other by Everett Case, Mary Buchanan, John Endress and Bessie Case. Gifts from the tree were then distributed and a social time was enjoyed.

Last night the older members of the school, as well as the members of the church and their friends, were entertained by the Rock Band Concert Company, with a program of exceptional merit. William Till and his daughters, the Misses Mildred, Esther and Mabel Till, gave selections on rocks of peculiar construction, musical glasses, swinging harps; also recitations, vocal solos, etc. These clever artists occuped the whole evening and delighted the large audience. The program follows:

"William Tell," Rossini; "March," Sousa, Rock Band; "Ave Maria," Bach-Gounod; "Jocelyn," Godard; musical glasses, Miss Mildred Till, recitations, Miss Esther Till; "Harmonious Blacksmith," Handel; "Gondolier," Powell, Rock Band; contralto solos, Miss Mildred Till; "Favorite Hymn Tunes," musical glasses, the Misses Mildred, Esther and Mabel Till; vocal trio, "O Memory," Leslie, the Misses Till; "El Capitan," Sousa, Rock Band; Gigilira and Ocarina solos, William Till and daughters; "Chimes of Westminster," swinging harps, William Till; recitations, Miss Esther Till; "National Airs," Rock Band, and selections on swinging harps.

Bethel Chapel.

The Sunday-school of Bethel chapel held its Christmas entertainment last night at the chapel edifice. A large number of pupils and their friends were present. Gifts of toys and the like were distributed among the little ones and boxes of candy and plates of ice cream to the entire school.

The program was in charge of Miss Helen Lovell and consisted of appropriate recitations and songs by the children. After the distribution of presents by Richard Lovell, superintendent A. W. Duxbury, who had been called aside for a moment, was asked to come forward and was presented with a handsome cane from the teachers and pupils of the school in token of their appreciation of his long and faithful service. Mr. Dux-

SHE TELLS OF INDIA'S 27,000,000 POOR WIDOWS

Mrs. J. Heinrichs, a missionary from Ramapatam, India, gave a deeply interesting address before the Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the First Baptist church at their meeting held yesterday afternoon in the church study. The women of India was the subject of her address, and eighteen years spent in efforts to teach and uplift this class gave weight to her statements and power to her appeal for aid in trying to reach a Christless people.

Mrs. Heinrichs described the condition of women who were absolutely without any education until within the last 100 years, and the small proportion of women who receive any education now, one-half of one per cent. representing the ratio. The custom of early marriage and betrothal resulting in 27,000,000 of widows in India at the present day, was pathetically described by Mrs. Heinrichs, who also told of Pundita Ramabai's home for 14,000 of them, and gave interesting incidents of the recent revival that has swept over some parts of India.

The address was preceded by a devotional service led by Mrs. Frederick Thompson.

WOMEN'S RELIEF CORPS HOLDS ENTERTAINMENT

The Women's Relief Corps entertained Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and John Hand Camp, No. 28, Sons of Veterans, at G. A. R. Hall, last night. There was a large attendance of members from each organization. The program was an informal one and included short addresses by Past Department Commander W. C. Smith, John Naylor, William Stryker, Raymond McVoy, Millard F. Elderton, who related Civil War incidents; piano solos by Miss May Smith; vocal solos by Mrs. John Manley and I. L. Sheppard, the latter of Somerville; readings by Mrs. Hattie Gibbins, and a recitation, "The Christmas Story," by Miss May Smith.

Aside from the entertainment the social features were greatly enjoyed, and refreshments were served by a committee comprising Mrs. Hattie Gibbons, Miss May Smith, Mrs. John Naylor, Mrs. Emma Cox, Mrs. Sadie Baglin, Mrs. Jennie Bergman and Mrs. Hattie Kirch.

XMAS MUSIC PROGRAM AT TRINITY REFORMED.

The Christmas musical service will be given at Trinity Reformed church tomorrow morning by the quartet choir, comprising Miss Etta Raybert, soprano; Miss Winifred Carroll, contralto; F. S. Cutter, bass, and E. D. Young, tenor. Arthur L. Titsworth, organist and choirmaster, will have charge. This service was postponed from last Sunday morning on account of the illness of Miss Carroll. The musical numbers to be rendered tomorrow will be as follows:

Organ prelude, "Pastoral Symphony," Handel; Gloria, "Hosanna to King David's Song," J. H. Wand; anthem, "Angels from the Realm of Glory," W. H. Neidlinger; "Te Deum in F," J. Alzamora; contralto solo, "Night of Nights," B. Van de Water; Miss Winifred Carroll; anthem, "Star of the Orient," Harry Rowe Shelley; organ postlude, "Hallelujah Chorus," Handel.

Court Plainfield Numbers 410.

Court Plainfield, No. 1144, Independent Order Foresters at its meeting last night, received two applications and initiated three, making a total of seventy new members during the year. The entire membership is now 410. Four have died. A special meeting will be held on Monday night to initiate a number who were unable to be present last night. Final arrangements are about complete for the annual entertainment and dance to be given early in January. The officers-elect will be installed on Friday night, January 10, by District Deputy Charles J. McCarty and staff of this city.

Dinner for Miss Valiant.

In honor of Miss Valiant, daughter of Mrs. John Valiant, whose engagement was announced to Donald McGee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. McGee, of North Plainfield, a dinner was given last night by Miss Virginia Hegeman at her home on Myrtle avenue. Covers were laid for twelve, those present being Mr. and Mrs. H. Reeve Stockton, Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Miss Virginia Hegeman, Miss Valiant, Miss Ursula Rowland, Miss Grace Kaufman and Dudley H. Barrows, Howard Roome, Donald McGee, Raymond McGee and Harold Hegeman. After the dinner the company attended the dance at the Casino.

CITY HALL FOR $39,000

D. T. Kenney Makes Offer to Sell Smalley Building to City Without Profit.

FURNISHINGS TO BE INCLUDED.

An Argument Made that It Would Be Most Advantageous of All Propositions Presented.

The proposition now being considered by the Common Council to purchase the Powlison & Jones building on East Front street, for city purposes, has led to the question whether it would be a wise move for the city to vacate its present quarters in the North avenue building recently purchased by David T. Kenney. It is said that if the Front street property is taken it may mean an outlay of ten thousand dollars to equip it in a way that will meet the needs of the various departments. Every one of the three floors would have to be provided with partitions and other improvements for the different offices, while many changes would be necessary before the police department could take possession.

While his friends say Mr. Kenney did not purchase the Woolston & Buckle building for speculative purposes, having had the matter under consideration for the past six months, he is willing to sell it to the city for exactly the price paid by him, $39,000, if the Common Council desires to take advantage of the proposition. "The building seems to be in every way adapted to the city's needs," said one man today. "The upper floors are available for offices and a fact not to be overlooked is that the building is now equipped with vaults and other conveniences which would be included in the sale, all of which would have to be purchased at considerable expense provided the city decided to move.

"It is reported that the Powlison & Jones building can be bought for $40,000. The price offered by Mr. Kenney for his building, $39,000, would seem to be more advantageous, as there would be a saving to the city in the expense of general equipment.

"That portion of the Kenney building now occupied as a butcher store, would be suitable for the police department, the store being deep enough to provide for a court room and the cells. There is sufficient room on the second floor to provide sleeping quarters for members of the department. If the present tenants, other than the city, vacated the building, it would leave all the room that the city would need for many years to come."

UNION AND SOMERSET SENATORS COMPLIMENTED

The Civil Service bill which Senator Ackerman, of Union county, will introduce in the Legislature, has been completed, save for a few minor changes, which will be made by the Union cougty Senator. The bill is somewhat similar to the measure which Senator Colby introduced in the last Legislature, but not in its application, which will be mandatory on the State, but optional with counties and municipalities.

The finishing touches were added at a conference a few days ago in the office of E. K. Sumerwell, chairman of the legislative committee of the New Jersey Civil Service Reform Association. Those who attended the meeting, which was held in New York, besides Mr. Somerwell were Senator Ackerman, Senator Frelinghuysen, Elliott H. Goodwin, secretary of the National Civil Service Reform League, and Thomas Herbert Brown, secretary of the New Jersey association.

Mr. Goodwin, in the course of the conversation, paid a high compliment to Senators Ackerman and Frelinghuysen. He said he had never known two legislators who worked harder or were more enthusiastic for a reform measure than the Senators from Union and Somerset.

Assault Case Remains Dormant.

No further developments have arisen from the affair at the North avenue station Thursday afternoon which led to Baggage Master Garretson preferring a charge of assault against Expressman James Wagner. The police hold a warrant for the latter's arrest but he has not yet been apprehended. Garretson has retained Craig A. Marsh to represent him when the case is called.

New Year's Eve Service.

"LARRY" LICENSED AGAIN

Saloonkeeper, Who Troubled Local Authorities, Given a Permit Again.

BY MIDDLESEX COUNTY COURT.

His Honor Rewarded Kerwin Because He Didn't Violate For One Whole Year.

Lawrence Kerwin, who up to a year ago kept a hotel in Piscataway township, just across the line from this city, can take down his blinds again and open up and sell liquor, Judge Booraem at New Brunswick yesterday having granted a license to him.

Last December Judge Booraem refused his license because he had been selling on Sunday. The local authorities had complained that while their saloons were closed on Sunday Plainfield men walked across the line to the Kerwin place where they secured all of the liquor that they wanted.

Judge Booraem, in granting the license yesterday morning, said that he had made an investigation from a thoroughly reliable course and had learned that since the license had been taken away Kerwin had made no attempt to sell liquor and had obeyed the law.

He thought that the man had been punished enough for the violation of the law and that he would now know by experience what would happen if he violated the law again.

Lawyer A. S. March and Senator Silzer made pleas for Kerwin before the application was granted, urging that Kerwin had been already punished more severely than if he had been before the court on a criminal charge. Mr. March presented a signed petition by about 100 people in the vicinity of Kerwin's place asking that the license be granted.

Senator Silzer presented copies of the Plainfield Daily Press to show that speakeasies had been run near Kerwin's place, in Union county.

YOUNGER SET'S DANCE ATTENDED BY OVER 200

The first subscription dance of the season given by the younger society set of the city and borough given at the Casino, last night, was a brilliant affair. More than 200 young people, including about fifty from out-of-town, attended and enjoyed to the fullest extent the happy occasion. The hall was tastefully decorated by Mrs. L. J. Denton and the arrangement was appropriate to the holiday season.

In addition to the fine program of music furnished by Austin's orchestra for the dances, Brown's famous quartet was present and gave vocal, instrumental and dancing numbers between the regular dances. The colored quartet gave a program that cauled for many encores and it responded generously. The quartet also furnished music during the supper hour.

Last night's affair was so successful that it is now being planned to give at least one more and probably two during the winter. Miss Eleanor Waring was chairman of the committee in charge and Miss Anna Fisk was the treasurer. Other members of the committee comprised Miss Marguerite Carpenter, Miss Dorothy Fisk, Miss Kathryn McCutcheon, Miss Ethel Most, Miss Gladys Peck and Miss Caroline Martin. The supper was served during the evening by De Molli.

Grocer Love Sells His Business.

Julius G. Williams, of this city, and Percy Brown, of North Plainfield, have formed a partnerhip under the firm name of Julius G. Williams & Company, and have purchased the grocery business which has been conducted by James Love on West Front street for many years. Mr. Love retires for the benefit of his health, which has been poor for some time. The new firm will take possession next week. Mr. Williams has been employed as head clerk by Mr. Love for several years and is thoroughly conversant with the business. Mr. Brown, who will be the company in the business, is also well known here.

Gets Patent for Cushion Crutch.

Andrew Muir, of Essex street, and Charles W. Dilks, of New York, have been granted a patent on an adjustable cushion crutch. The contrivance holds a coiled spring at the bottom of the support that prevents any jarring to the shoulder of the user. The crutch is to be manufactured and demonstrated by a New York concern. The idea originated with Mr. Muir and was developed with Mr. Dilks' aid, the latter being an expert draughtsman.

CHARLES L. HYDE WEDS

Plainfielder Takes Miss Kathlyn Stryker of Trenton as His Bride.

SENATOR COLBY AN USHER.

Groom's Brother, F. deL. Hyde Also An Usher — Ceremony at Shortly After Noon at Bride's Home.

The wedding of Miss Kathlyn Stryker, daughter of Mrs. William H. Stryker, of Trenton, to Charles Livingstone Hyde, of this city, took place today at the Stryker home, 321 West State street, Trenton, at 12:30 and was one of the most important social functions of the winter season at the State Capital. Guests were present from New York, Philadelphia, Newark, Pittsburg, Baltimore, Boston, Chicago, Washington, Cincinnati, Princeton and other cities and towns.

The Rev. Henry Collin Minton, D. D., pastor of First Presbyterian church, Trenton, officiated. Mrs. John H. Montgomery, sister of the bride-elect, was matron of honor and Miss Mathilde Hamill the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Emily Roebling, Miss Helen Roebling, Miss Katherine Hall, Miss Frances Dickinson, of Trenton; Miss Georgiana Smith, of this city; Miss Emily Ayres, of New York. Louis A. Hyde, brother of the bridegroom, and president of the City National Bank here, was best man, and the ushers were Francis de Lacey Hyde, another brother of the bridegroom, from this city; John A. Montgomery, of Trenton; Senator Everett Colby, of East Orange, and Robert Fairhaven, of this city.

Following the ceremony there was a reception and Winkler's full orchestra will furnish music. Dinner was served by Caterer Detruille, of Philadelphia.

The interior of the Stryker home was decorated for the occasion with southern smilax, holly and evergreens in addition to cut flowers, lending a truly yuletide air to the event. The walk from the carriage entrance to the house proper was canopied.

Miss Stryker is one of the most popular of the younger set at Trenton. She is an accomplished musician and linguist and excels in outdoor sports, particularly golf. She made her debut two seasons ago and was acknowledged to be one of the most handsome buds in that section of the State. She has a most charming personality.

Mr. Hyde is a graduate of Yale and is a son of Mrs. Charles L. Hyde, of this city.

REVILLE CHAIRMAN OF DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE

The City Democratic Committee met at the Hotel Kensington last night and organized for the coming year by electing Patrick J. Reville chairman, J. V. F. Dilts secretary and Charles A. Sturtevant treasurer.

This organizatiton follows the holding of the primaries a week ago, when members of the city and county committees were elected. Those who will serve on both committees are as follows:

First ward—First district, J. A. Staats; Second district, Richard Curren; Second ward—First district, Charles A. Sturtevant; Second district, J. V. F. Dilts; Third ward—First district, Thomas Newman; Second district, Frank Shattle; Fourth ward—First district, Daniel J. Galbraith; Second district, Patrick J. Reville; Third district, Aaron Newman.

Hospital Sunday.

The last Sunday of the year has for a long time been "Hospital Sunday" in Plainfield, most of the churches on that day making their annual donation to Muhlenberg Hospital. Accordingly, tomorrow collections will be taken in many of the churches. In the present month of December up to date 77 patients have been treated in the hospital and 55 operations have taken place; and this great activity makes the need of funds very urgent. The Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church found it necessary to take its hospital collection last Sunday, and, in spite of the unfavorable business conditions, the amount received exceeded by several dollars that of last year. The management of the hospital feel that if all the churches do as well it will be gratifying.

Plainfielders at the Chalfonte.

These Plainfielders are registered at the Hotel Chalfonte, Atlantic City: Mrs. W. K. Browning, Miss E. A. Browning, William J. Browning, Mrs. Edward Rushmore and Miss E. R. Rushmore.

GAS JET STARTS $400 BLAZE IN A SHOE STORE

A gas jet in a show window at John Kenney's shoe store on West Front street flared up suddenly just before 5 o'clock last night and ignited a bunch of Christmas greens above it. A fire resulted that destroyed nearly a hundred pairs of shoes and rubbers and caused a total loss of $400.

Samuel Fields, a clerk, was the only occupant of the store at the time and disregarding personal danger made a desperate attempt to extinguish the flames. He was having poor success but continued at work until the fire department arrived in response to an alarm turned in by a passerby. A stream from the chemical engine put an end to the blaze. Fields' hands were slightly burned and he sustained a number of cuts on the face.

Mr. Kenney places his loss at $300 while the damage to the building is estimated at $100. It is owned by John Corey.

LETTER CLEARS IDENTITY OF RAILROAD VICTIM

Through a letter found in the victim's coat, Undertaker George Cole succeeded today in establishing the identity of the young man killed on the New Jersey Central tracks at Cranford on December 10. He was John Engler, thirty years of age, who sailed from Liverpool, England, on December 1 to visit his parents, living somewhere in New York. Their address is not known but an attempt is being made to find them.

The letter in Engler's effects was from his fiancee, Miss Mary Ashe, of Liverpool, and it bore her address. Mr. Cole wrote to her immediately and a reply came this morning. Miss Ashe stated that Engler came to America expressly for the visit and they were to have been married when he returned to England. She could not give the address of his relatives as they had only preceded him a short time and she expected to get it as soon as he landed. She states the parents are in comfortable circumstances.

The body was held in this city for a week and was then buried at the county's expense.

TO HELP THE BLIND.

Meeting to Be Held In Newark Tuesday, January 7.

Arrangements have been completed for a meeting to be held in the Public Library, Newark, Tuesday afternoon, January 7, in the interest of the blind people of the State. This movement has been started for the purpose of securing the passage of a bill in the Legislature which will take care of the blind of New Jersey.

It is argued that all other classes, such as cripples, consumptives, etc., are provided for by the State, but that nothing has ever been done for the blind. A meeting is to be held at Hoboken today, when it is hoped to have framed such a bill as will meet with the approval of the Legislators and the blind. Percy Cannon, of East Second street, is among those who are working hard for the objects sought.

City's Health Very Good.

An adjourned meeting of the Plainfield Board of Health was held yesterday afternoon for the purpose of closing up the business for the year. It was reported that there were very few contagious disease cases in the city during the month, but many cases of grip. Only four houses were under quarantine, three for scarlet fever and one for diphtheria. There was one case of typhoid fever, but the disease was contracted in Rahway and the patient is now being cared for at the hospital.

Pandhandlers Arrested.

Joseph Dillon, of Bayonne, and Thomas Conway, of Paterson, were arrested at Front street and Compton avenue by Patrolman Nolan, last night, for vagrancy. They posed as umbrella menders but added to their income by panhandling on the side. They promised Judge Runyon that they would get out of town and never return if they were let go and sentence was suspended with that understanding.

Exiled for a Year.

Sentence was suspended on Frank Scheelein in the city court, this morning, arrested last night for helpless intoxication. He agreed to remain out of town a year and grabbed a trolley car for Somerville as soon as he got away from police headquarters.

Benjamin Doane and family, of Brooklyn, have taken up their residence at 52 Sandford avenue. Mr. Doane is a son of Captain Benjamin Doane, of East Seventh street.

FANWOOD IN A TURMOIL

Mayor Babcock Removes Councilman Burton Hall to Appoint a New Man.

AND THEREBY HANGS A TALE.

Deposed Member Will Be Succeeding Mayor and Friends Say Present Executive Wants to Tie His Hands.

Fanwood borough, which has more governmental mix-ups and official scraps to the square foot than any other commuting colony in Jersey, is involved in another tangle through a peculiar move on the part of Mayor Wright Babcock at last night's borough Council meeting. As in all previous instances, the residents have paired off on each side of the controversy, each faction has secured a lawyer's advice and each side steadfastly maintains it is in the right.

Mayor Babcock, who is called "Wrong" instead of Wright by the opposition, will cease to be chief executive at midnight on December 31 and will be succeeded by Burton P. Hall, at present a member of the Council. When the borough fathers assembled last night in regular session, Mayor Babcock announced that he had been advised by Lawyer G. W. V. Moy that he could declare Mr. Hall no longer a member of the Council and accordingly did so. The incoming mayor and his lone constituent, Harry Knight, protested against any such action but they were voted down. As the office was then vacant according to Babcock's view he appointed George P. Neider to fill the unexpired term, which runs until January 1, 1909.

Hall and Knight again protested and the Council chamber was the scene of a hot tilt in which the honors were about even. The former stated in emphatic terms that Fanwood would have his as a councilman until he assumed the maporalty on January 1 at noon and on the advice of Borough Counsel W. R. Codington he wouldn't allow anyone to take his heat. Neider did not appear at the meeting, although Mayor Babcock said he would, and Hall continued to vote on questions after he had been retired to private citizenship. The clerk took cognizance of what he did and subsequent developments will establish the legality of his voting.

The present Council will hold no more meetings and the new body will organize on New Year's day at noon. According to Hall that is the time when he ceases to be a member of the Council and assumes the duties of mayor and he has mapped out a plan of action. He asserts that as Babcock has made Neider a member of the 1907 Council and the organization will be officially dead when he takes up the reins, he will refuse to appoint him councilman for 1908. If he appears at the New Year's day meeting, he says, he will refuse to recognize him as an official nor will he accept any vote from him should he attempt to take his seat.

Hall's constituents maintain that "Wrong" Babcock's peculiar move was merely an attempt to tie the incoming mayor's hands. The majority of the councilmen are friends of the present executive and with the accession of Neider he would find it impossible to secure favorable backing. They declare that they will aid him in his contention no matter how much advice Babcock gets from Lawyer Moy.

The present mayor has been an antagonistic office holder and has a habit of putting his foot down hard and fast on questions of all kinds. As a result he has given the commutors something to think about besides stocks and bonds when they return from New York at night. Though not directly implicated, he was quite active in the recent Hoar-Vincent tilt that upset the community for several months and ended in an assault and battery charge.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Rowland & Clifford's production of "Thorns and Orange Blossoms" is the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight.

Any play that teaches a great moral lesson is bound to do good to a community. Some of the greatest sermons ever preached against evil deeds and association are embodied in the plays of the stage. The lesson of life is presented to the listener in a way that makes an impression on the mind and gives him food for thought. While the spectator is listening to the text of the play, his visual sense is being attracted by seeing the scenes enacted before his eyes, that are being described in the words to which he is listening. In such a play as "Human Hearts," which will be shown at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night, the contrast between virtue and vice is sharply drawn. The author has not minced matters in drawing his characters, and as the incidents of the play are based on real occurrences, he has not had to draw upon his imagination to invent a motive for "Human Hearts."

"Mrs. Temple's Telegram," which ran for three hundred nights at the Madison Square theatre, New York, three months at Powers' theatre, Chicago, and two months at the Waldorf theatre, London, Eng., will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre New Year's afternoon and night. It is a farce comedy that is excruciatingly funny, and yet one that is clean and wholesome, devoid of even the semblance of an objectionable feature. It is a class of plays that is seldom seen now-a-days, one which was in vogue a decade ago, when "Charley's Aunt," "What Happened to Jones" and other side-splitters held the boards. Why theatre managers have discontinued this sort of entertainment and insist upon inflicting the public with so-called musical comedies, would be hard to fathom, for certainly those who have witnessed such a performance as "Mrs. Temple's Telegram" have received it in much the same manner that a tired traveler would welcome the sight of a green oasis in a desert waste.

The "Nature Scope," the latest device in the clever art of stage craft for producing atmospheric effect, with remarkable fidelity to nature, projects a mirage effect of startling realism in the big production of Howard Hall's latest musical success, "The Boy with the Boodle," which is booked for the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday night. The play is one of the strongest scenic successes of the season and the whole of two baggage cars is required to transport the scenery and properties. The play is one of unusual cleverness, and the musical numbers are highly pleasing and catchy. There is a dashing chorus of pretty girls, stunningly gowned and a general air of merit about the production which appeals at once to the intelligent and appreciative.

The company which surrounds McIntyre and Heath in Klaw & Erlanger's big musical production, "The Ham Tree," which is to be presented in this city next Saturday afternoon and night, requires twenty-three speaking parts in the relation of the story and a great chorus of forty young girls and young men who possess remarkable ability as singers and dancers. The young women of this company are exceptionally attractive and range from eighteen to twenty-two years of age. Each was selected for sweetness of voice and lightness of foot. The principal members of the company are Alfred Fisher, Jeanne Towler, Carolyn Gordon, Belle Gold and Otto F. Johnson.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

John Winzenreid, of Lee place, is a reliable trucker and will promptly attend to all orders.

A. H. Enander, the sanitary plumber of Watchung avenue, will attend to your work promptly and satisfactorily.

Brokaw's creamery on East Front street is the place to secure fresh eggs, butter, milk and cream at lowest market prices.

Boice, Runyon & Co., of Park avenue, besides selling a superior quality of coal, also carry a large stock of builders' materials at low prices.

A. E. Force & Co., proprietors of "The White Store," are ready to supply their patrons with the best goods, even though the holiday rush did deplete the stock in all departments. They have been replendished and you will be able to get as many bargains during the coming year as in the past. The quality of these goods is unsurpassed and the prices are low.

Plainfield Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will nominate and elect officers Monday night.

Central Lodge, No. 48, A. O. U. W., has received and accepted an invitation to attend the twelfth anniversary celebration of Memorial Lodge, of Newark, on January 8, and a large delegation will leave here on the 7 o'clock train that night for Newark.

—The Board of Trade will not meet again until its annual banquet to be held in January. The next regular date for meeting is Wednesday night, January 1, but this being a holiday, it was decided to omit the meeting early in the month.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The wholesale graduation of football stars that will affect Princeton, Yale and Harvard has caused widespread speculation as to where these teams are to get material to fill the gaps that will be left. Harvard graduates nine of the men who played against Yale, Yale loses eight of those who played against Harvard and Princeton, and Princeton and Cornell also suffer losses. The most serious difficulty that confronts Yale and Harvard is to find a quarterback, as each loses both of its quarterbacks. Tad Jones and Dines graduate from Yale and Newhall and Starr from Harvard. Princeton has to replace Brown and Wister at end, Phillips at centre, Harlan at half, and McCormick at fullback of the regulars.

Word has been received from Montreal asking that the Marathon run to be held by the Boston Athletic Association next April be fifteen miles instead of at the regulation distance of twenty-five miles.

Lawn tennis players assembled at the Seventh Regiment, and about the clubs in New York, scouted the idea that there was the prospect of taking the national championship tournaments from the Casino courts at Newport for a year or two at least. The news from the Tri-State Association in Cincinnati, that Beals C. Wright and Raymond D. Little favored the change to the Crescent A. C., at Bay Ridge, was declared to be preposterous. Wright has always stanchly upheld Newport.

Ralph Rose, the champion shotputter of the world, who holds every record from the eight to the twenty-eight pound shot, is under a cloud that will bar him from the Olympic team. It is alleged that he has broken faith with the Amateur Athletic Union and he will be banished by the organization.

Amos Rusie, once the greatest pitcher that ever stood in a box, is now a pearl diver at Vincennes, Ind., and while he has thus far not discovered any gems of very great value, he has made a fair living for his family. When Rusie first retired from baseball, having spent the many thousands that had been paid him for his services as a twirler, he found employment in a planing mill at Vincennes at the fancy salary of $1.50 a day, $9 being crowded into his hand each Saturday night. Later he tried to pitch independent ball, but his arm failed him. There is a great lump under the arm of the Giants' former celebrity and the idol of the New York fans in the long ago, and medical science can find no way to reduce it.

When the pearl-fishing craze struck Vincennes, Rusie did not pay particular attention to it, but as one after another of his neighbors began to find pearls and build houses and buy property on the proceeds, he became interested. Thus far Rusie has discovered nothing but buttons and slugs, the latter being worth about fifty cents each, but he is hopeful of some day finding a pearl that will make him rich.

BASEBALL.

Albert Bender, the Indian, one of the greatest pitchers on the Philadelphia Athletic staff, showed his versatility this week by carrying off the honors in the Christmas Day live bird shoot at Point Breeze from a strong field of gunners. Bender first met A. A. Felix, a veteran wing shot, in a match at twenty-five birds. Felix allowed Bender two yards handicap and the Indian defeated him by killing twenty-four to twenty-two for his opponent. Twelve of his birds were killed with the first barrel. His only miss was on the fourth bird. Bender divided with Murphy in the fifteen-bird handicap, with fourteen kills, and he should have had a clean score, for his fourteenth bird dropped dead out of bounds.

President A. B. Potter, of the Buffalo club, has made announcement that the Bisons would train in the South next spring. He also declares that Manager Smith has several new players who will be tried out on the trip.

Eddie Lennox, third baseman, was the first Bronco to sign a Rochester contract for next season.

It is probable that Oswego will be in the New York State League circuit next season, taking the place of the A. J. and G. club.

The Boston Nationals will have an appendixless battery next season in Dorner and Brown. Brown underwent an operation for appendicitis a few days ago. As Brown went through the ordeal successfully Dorner has decided to have his appendix removed next week. Dorner claims that his trouble was responsible for his "slowing down" last season.

It is reported that the New York National League club has decided not to pay over the $1,000 awarded by the National Commission to the New Orleans club for the failure of the Giants to play out a series with the Philadelphia Athletics in New Orleans last spring. President Brush, it is expected, will take steps to have the commission modify the ruling.

The New York National League club has asked for waivers on Danny Shay, utility second baseman for the Giants last season.

Sandow Mertes, a few years ago the star outfielder of the New York Giants, has been released by Minneapolis.

THE CENTURY MAGAZINE IN 1908

"The best has been none too good for this publication, which has been such an important factor in the cultural development of the American people in the past three decades and which promises to be an equally important factor in the future."
—Boston Globe

¶ In the magazine world the one by which the rest are measured has always been and is today THE CENTURY.
¶ Ask writers where their best productions are first offered,
¶ Ask public men where articles carry the most weight,
¶ Ask the public what magazine is the choice among people of real influence,
¶ The answer is the same,

"In all the feverish desire of magazine makers to cater to the superficial taste, the makers of THE CENTURY have stood firmly by the ideals of the best in 'literature, art, and thought'; and THE CENTURY MAGAZINE today is one of the finest monuments to their genius and one of the greatest forces in the literary life and culture of the nation."
—Minneapolis Journal

THE CENTURY

The best of fiction, and of popular scientific articles, the most richly worth while biographical articles, the finest and best pictorial features, will be found in THE CENTURY during 1908. There will be "The Reminiscences of Lady Randolph Churchill," the story of the beautiful American girl who shared her brilliant husband's brilliant social and political successes during one of the most interesting periods of English history.

Prof. Percival Lowell will discuss "Mars as a Possible Abode of Life"—fascinating, authoritative papers, intended specially for unscientific readers. All Helen Keller's recent poetry and prose writings—by far her most remarkable work—will appear in THE CENTURY in 1908. And Dr. S. Weir Mitchell has written the fiction serial of the year, "The Red City," a delightful historical novel of Old Philadelphia, continuing his famous "Hugh Wynne."

No magazine today publishes such remarkable color pages as THE CENTURY; in no other magazine are to be found so many illustrations suitable for framing, and really worth while. For 1908 M. de Ivanowski is painting portraits of the most noted opera singers. There will be more of Cole's beautiful wood-engravings, description and illustration of new processes in photography, and scores of pages in color, tint, and photogravure.

Subscription Price $4.00 a year.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS.

At a meeting of Camden City Council Thursday night the salary of the Mayor was increased from $3,000 to $4,000.

The Twelfth Regiment Band of Salem gathered in $90 while parading the streets rendering Christmas carols, and will devote the money to purchasing additional instruments.

Five generations were represented at the ninetieth birthday anniversary of Mrs. Sarah W. Davis, mother of Ivins J. Davis, president of the First National Bank at New Egypt.

Solomon J. Harwi, of 910 Avenue C, Bayonne, reported yesterday that thieves had entered his home and stolen all the Christmas gifts, but had not touched the silverware or money.

Postmaster O. C. W. Lang, of Bayonne, was notified yesterday that his request for additional carriers had been granted by the postal officials of Washington, and that two will be added to the corps on January 1.

Councilman John H. Donohue, who has been a member of the Bayonne Council for more than fourteen years and will retire on January 1, after having served longer than any other member, is anxious to obtain for the public a recreation pier on the Kill von Kull, at the foot of Avenue D, before he retires.

Millions of surf clams, wrested from their beds by the storm tides, have been cast up on the lower beach at Atlantic City. The clams can be used for food, but they are not the kind sold in the markets. The surf clams are used by the fishermen to catch cod and are worth from one to two dollars a barrel.

John Claflin was murderously assaulted at Palmyra Christmas night by an unidentified negro, of whom so far no trace has been found. Claflin was spending the evening at the home of Alfred Bissell, and hearing a noise near the window began to investigate. As he stepped on the ground he saw a negro, who the next instant struck him with a blackjack. Claflin fell unconscious and Mr. Bissell, who had heard the blow struck, rushed out, but was too late to capture the negro.

Mrs. Margaret E. Maltman is dead at the home of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Farrell, at 565 Ferry avenue, Camden. She died from injuries she sustained by falling against a stove last week. Mrs. Maltman was a remarkable woman. Although past ninety-two years, she was able to look after her household duties, and it was while she was thus engaged that she tripped and fell against the stove, her clothing catching fire. She lived in Camden for nearly three-quarters of a century.

Many prominent clergymen and laymen of Bayonne are deeply interested in a movement to establish in that city a branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, and to erect a building which will provide innocent and helpful amusements for the young men of the city. An executive committee, with Frank W. Edwards as chairman, is engaged in receiving contributions. It is estimated that for $50,000 a complete building can be erected, and efforts will be made to get the heads of the large corporations interested financially and otherwise.

The Mayorality contest in Linwood Borough was heard before Judge Endicott, presiding in the Circuit Court at May's Landing yesterday. Curtis Somers, candidate on the Citizens' ticket for Mayor, contested the election of John C. Steelman, the Republican candidate, who was declared elected by one majority, upon the ground that three persons voted who were not residents. Both parties are Republicans, but a factional fight was waged and every vote in the borough was polled. The court will render a decision in a few days.

TWO BOYS DROWNED IN LAKE HOPATCONG.

Dover, Dec. 28.—A hole in the ice off Raccoon Island, in Lake Hopatcong, hardly a stone's throw from Neidlinger's cottage, gave mute evidence of a tragedy when the members of a searching party came upon it Thursday. They had started out to look for Daniel and Michael Dunn, thirteen and eleven years old, sons of Joseph Dunn, a farmer on the mainland on the west shore of the lake. Using grappling hooks the searchers soon brought the bodies of both boys from the lake bottom.

The boys had left home Wednesday to look after traps which they had set, taking a sled with them. When they failed to return at night Mr. Dunn concluded that they had joined a fox hunt, and would spend the night with an uncle. It was not until Thursday that Mr. Dunn learned that the boys had not been of the fox hunting party and that their uncle had not seen them.

A searching party was at once organized and search was begun along the shore of Raccoon Island. Where the boys broke through the ice was but little more than an inch thick.

TWO LICENSES REFUSED IN SOMERSET COUNTY

In the Somerset Court at Somerville yesterday Justice James J. Bergen and Judge Louis H. Schenck gave a hearing to three applicants for hotel licenses which had been deferred from the opening day of the term. All three of the applications were for hotels that had been licensed as such for a number of years.

Charles Kisonak, who keeps a Slavic hotel in Raritan, was refused a license. He had a photograph of his hotel in court, and there were a number of bottles of whisky in the window. Justice Bergen asked him if he sold this to be taken home, and he admitted that he did. Justice Bergen said this was a violation of the law, as the applicant had no wholesale license, and refused the application.

Louis Roller, who keeps the Waldorf in Somerville, withdrew his application for a hotel and presented one yesterday for a saloon. The court disagreed as to the granting of the saloon license, and it was not granted. Subsequently the court consented to give a further hearing next Friday. James Shay, who keeps a hotel in South Bound Brook, was granted a new license. The grand jury has returned thirteen bills of indictments.

MRS. MINER'S FUNERAL.

Service Held At Aunt's Home in This City This Afternoon.

With a large gathering of relatives and friends in attendance, the funeral of Mrs. Ralph K. Miner was held at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Emil Messerschmidt, of East Fifth street, this afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring and Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, in whose churches she had been a soloist at various times. A previous service was held at Oriskany Falls, N. Y., her late home, on Thursday night. During the obsequies two solos were rendered by William Holmes. There were numerous floral tributes.

Burial was made in the North Plainfield cemetery, the pall bearers being Charles B. Morse, Willard M. Miner, William Holmes, E. H. Beekman, G. P. Inman and E. M. Vail.

Funeral of Mrs. Kiely.

The funeral of Mrs. Bridget Kiely, wide of Michael Kiely and mother of Chief of Police Kiely, was held in St. Mary's church this morning. A solemn mass of requiem was said by Father Bogan in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. Burial was made in St. Mary's cemetery, the pall bearers being six members of the local police department: Captain Frederickson, Sergeant Herbert L. Overbaugh, Detective-Sergeant John Flynn, Roundsman Morris Higgins, Patrolmen John Kelley and William McCarthy.

PLEADS FOR THE "3 R'S"

Noted Educator Declares Against Higher Education in Public Schools.

HIS TALK CONCERNING SALOONS

Other Experts Urge Training for Trades at the Jersey State Teachers' Convention.

Plea for "higher education" in public schools, while thousands are unable to read and write, was given a roasting before the New Jersey State Teachers' Association at Atlantic City yesterday afternoon by Dr. Nathan C. Schaeffer, State school superintendent of Pennsylvania, who spoke on "The Rural School Problem." Declaring that pedagogues are preventing proper instruction in useful branches while they fight over proposed changes in school curriculums, Dr. Schaeffer pleaded for a more general teaching of the three R's, beloved of our grandfathers, as the proper method of raising the general educational standard.

"Teach reading and the proper habit to secure the pleasure to be derived from books, and you will do much to break up the saloon habit among the young men, who are now forced through improper early education to seek recreation in roof gardens and drinking places," he said.

Instead of undertaking to expound the fly-speck geography, which forces children to work their imaginations overtime trying to tell something about black dots on a map, teach them the practical methods of using the maps, which are so easily secured in any part of the land when real information is desired for use in later life.

Trade and Farm Preparation.

Other experts, including college professors, seconded the condemnation of higher education, and favored changes that will give the trades, farming and other ordinary avocations a standing that will attract the boy and girl who is forced to work for a livelihood.

"Our boasted public school system utterly fails in its greatest object of doing educational good to the greatest number," declared Professor Paul H. Hanus, of Harvard. "We are spending time and money on giving the few higher education in high schools, while the many have been forced to leave school at early ages with very incomplete education in the very things that they most need to carry on the work of the world."

Impressing on his hearers the necessity for introducing useful training in the schools of State and country, Josiah Main, lecturer on agriculture in Tennessee, declared that "the so-called hayseed, whose muddy boots and bad English has made him the laughing stock in the past, is demanding that his children be grounded in the sciences that will give them culture and at the same time teach them the things most necessary to carry on the work of farm or shop."

More Singing in Schools.

Powell G. Fithian, musical superintendent of Camden schools, advanced the theory that school music will take a place in the saving of lives, when early throat culture so hardens the cords of the throat that the great annual mortality from diseases of the respiratory organs is cut down to a minimum.

Leaders of the Teachers' Retirement Fund fight, whose object of teachers' pensions was secured by State laws last year, were formally enlisted yesterday morning in the fight for divorcing of political influence from the appointment and advancement of teachers.

To Bar Politicians From Schools.

Plans to dissolve the section because of the completion of its work were thwarted, and the band of zealots which carried the pension fund to success will descend on the State Legislature this winter with bills intended to put the petty politician out of business, so far as securing jobs for teachers is concerned.

The following officers were elected today: President, James A. Bryan, of Camden; vice presidents, B. C. Wooster, of Hackensack, and Miss Margaret A. Cocker, of Paterson; secretary, Charles B. Boyer, of Atlantic City; treasurer, H. J. Neal, of Lakewood; executive committee, Miss Lydia H. Ennis, of Jersey City.

Final session of the convention was called this morning.

Jerusalem Chapter Elects.

Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., elected these officers Thursday night for the coming year: High priest, J. Hervey Doane; king, M. H. Ewart; scribe, A. F. Brokaw; treasurer, Henry Liefke; secretary, B. F. Coriell; captain of the host, E. M. Vail; royal arch captain, Edward Nelson; trustees, W. R. Codington, Henry Woodland and C. H. Rugg; representative to Masonic Hall Association, W. R. Codington.

Benjamin Duvier, of Jersey City, is the guest of his sister, Mrs. P. A. McVoy, of East Front street.

Alexander Smith, of Keyport, is visiting his brother, William C. Smith, of Grandview avenue.

THE FORUM.

Editor, The Daily Press:

I wish to state in your paper that the assault on me Thursday was entirely unprovoked. I had no controversy whatever with Wagner about baggage. I have not spoken to him in some time for which I have good reason. He came up behind me when I was pushing a baggage truck across the tracks and without saying a word or making a sound struck me a terrible blow on the back of my head, knocking me down and striking me once while I lay on the ground and also a third blow when I was trying to regain my feet. He then ran across the platform, jumped into a wagon which seemed to be in waiting and drove hurriedly away.

J. F. GARRETSON.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Referring to an article printed in a local paper last night I wish to make the following remarks and wish to know why it is that I am blamed for things done around the North Avenue station. I suppose it is because I am a colored man trying to make an honest living. I am picked at continually. I was born and raised in Plainfield, have always worked and tried to do what was right; have never interfered with any of the expressmen's business or any one else. I have worked at the station about twenty-five years and if anyone says that I have raised any disturbance with anyone I am willing to meet that person. When a man tries to do right in this world he need not be afraid of anyone. Ever since I have had the express business and put my brother on the wagon so as to give him work to help him along there has been talk about the business. I am sure every man has a right to earn all he can to make an honest living and take care of his family. I also wish to say that Mr. Garretson has nothing to do with my express business. He has never put a penny in it. I can swear before God and man.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Social Club of South Plainfield met last night at the home of its president, Arthur Randolph, and spent an enjoyable time. Those present were: Mrs. P. C. Johnson, Mildred, Florence and Elwood Johnson, John Terry, Robert Horn, Jr., Munroe Pyatt, Roy Clauson, Louise Randolph, Robert, Charles, Sadie and Eunice Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Elliot, George Saverecol, Victor Attlee, Mrs. Jackson, Verna Allen. After refreshments, music and games occupied the hours very pleasantly until the early morning.

The Sunday-school entertainment of the South Plainfield Baptist church was well attended last night by a large crowd. The time was spent in games, singing, dialogue, recitations, and distributing the Christmas boxes of candies and oranges to the children of the Sunday-school.

Services will be held as usual in the South Plainfield Baptist church tomorrow. The morning subject will be "Steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord." In the evening there will be singing and Scripture reading and recitations.

The Christian Endeavor meeting at the Baptist church will be omitted tomorrow night on account of the special service.

Lorena Harris is passing a few days with her aunt, Nellie Van Nest, of Tottenville.

bury was assistant superintendent and musical director of Bethel chapel from the time the school was organized until the death of S. A. Ginna, its founder, when he was chosen to take his place.

The address of presentation was made by the pastor, Rev. F. D. Tildon, and the acceptance on the part of the superintendent was received in the midst of applause.

Faith Chapel.

"All Hail the Santa Claus," was the name of a Christmas cantata given at Faith chapel last night by the Sunday-school. The chapel was filled with members and friends and all had a jolly good time under the direction of the superintendent, L. W. Randolph. The program was opened with Scripture reading by Frank Stewart, assistant superintendent, and prayer by Rev. J. W. Musson, after which the cantata was given. Those who took the leading parts were as follows:

"Uncle Sam," Frank Stewart; "Liberty," Mrs. J. W. Musson; "Santa Claus," William Holmes; "Mrs. Santa Claus," Mrs. Charles W. Quint; "Jack Frost," Paul Jones. Mrs. J. H. Buckley was at the piano. During the intermissions there were songs by Blanche Askhan and Lizzie Frank, while Miss Florence Randolph sang the solo parts and the school the chorus in several carols. Mrs. Clarence L. Murphy was the chairman of the committee in charge of the entertainment and was assisted by the other teachers.

After the entertainment there was the presentation of gifts. Blanche Askhan, Oswald Meyers, Christopher Meyers, Eddie Simons, Walter Simons, Russell Stewart and Mrs. M. I. Roll were present every Sunday and each received a special prize. Nine Bibles were also given to members of the school who had none. The smaller children received candy, oranges, etc., those in the intermediate department books, while every member of the school was remembered with a suitable gift. The school presented the pastor with a handsome table dish, and the Baraca Class gave him an arm chair. The school gave Superintendent L. W. Randolph a shaving glass and the Junior Baraca Class gave him a pair of slippers. The Philathea Class gave its teacher, U. B. Crane, a bathrobe, and the assistant superintendent, Frank Stewart, was also remembered. The choir presented to William Holmes, director, a piece of cut glass in appreciation of his services during the past year. The chapel was elaborately decorated with greens and holly and a large tree brilliantly lighted and loaded with presents was the object of much interest.

First Presbyterian Church.

Under the auspices of the Sunday-school of the First Presbyterian church, a cantata entitled, "Santa Claus in Japan," was given in the chapel last night. The play abounded in witty sayings and the music was catchy. Those who took part in the cantata were the following: Abram Gaston, Bernice McClintock, James Buckle, Elston Hoagland, Preston Dunning, Mabel Townley, Henrietta Englehart, Ada Woodsworth, Pauline Gates, Haymond Westervelt, Athalie Selby, Carlton Dunham, Chauncey Murphy, Roy Gates, Bertha Englehart, Eva Kelly, Helen George Ruth Wean, Grace Woolston, Helen and Florence Fowler, Irene Dunham, Jessica Hill, Bertha Townley and Hazel Silby. Following the entertainment there was distribution of gifts. In the afternoon the primary department had an informal program and the little ones greatly enjoyed the festivities and presentation of gifts from the tree. The affair was in charge of the teachers of the school.

"Teddy" Trevardee, of Butler, engineer, was hurt about the head and neck. There were two others, who were only slightly injured.

THE NEW YORK & NEW JERSEY TELEPHONE CO.

READ THIS!

From a Prominent New York Newspaper:

"In this hustling, bustling age of ours, where every second has a commercial value, the telephone plays a most important part. Without it the activities of the day would not be possible and business would proceed at the sober pace which characterized it some fifty years ago. And yet although most people will realize the truth of these assertions, few appreciate the enormous void which would be left were the telephone to be suddenly wiped out of existence."

AMUSEMENTS.

Another big bill, and always a good show are familiar expressions of the numerous patrons of Proctor's theatre in Newark. Next week's bill is headed by big novelty acts. The biggest and newest act in vaudeville, a distinct and realistic novelty. New Wayburn's latest creation entitled "The Star Bout" seen for the first time in Newark. A return engagement of America's Premier Ventriloquist, Ed. Reynard, with his famous mechanical figures and special scenery. The reappearance of those clever jugglers, acrobats and equilibrists, the Kitancura Japanese Troupe. Crane Brothers will cause much merriment with new sayings. The six American Dancers will captivate with nimble feet and fetching costumes. Carletta, an importation from Europe, in a novelty act. Howe and Scott, two real Hebrews, will depict some comic scenes from every day life. Joe Deming in songs and stories, and a reel of films with comical subjects will round out an excellent bill.

The sale of seats for Maude Adams' farewell two weeks' performances of "Peter Pan," at the Empire theatre, is the largest advance sale that Miss Adams has ever had at the Empire theatre, larger, even, than the demand for her famous, "The Little Minister." The line formed at half-past six on the morning of the first day's sale and curled itself out of the theatre lobby, clear up Broadway. Passersby could not but think of the sight as anything except a sign of financial uneasiness. During the week of January 6, Miss Adams will give eight performances of J. M. Barrie's "Quality Strett." On January 15 Miss Adams will make her first bow before any audience in her new play, "The Jesters," John Raphael's translation of Miquel Zamacois' French text, "Les Bouffons."

Speaking the other day of "A Grand Army Man" and Mr. Belasco's noted star, at the Stuyvesant theatre, an old actor said of David Warfield:

"Warfield has always been a pretty genuine sort of fellow. I remember in the early days on tour there used to be some tough times. We knew what it was once in a while to go hungry.

"In one of those lean times Dave got an unexpected remittance, and on the strength of it invited two of us to dinner with him. When we reached the table there he sat, shamefaced and apologetic, with his well-cleaned plate before him. He explained that he was so hungry he couldn't wait. Our chops were brought to us, and we all went to the theatre happy.

"Two or three days later the two guests were again at the same little restaurant, and chatted with our waitress. 'Say,' she said, 'that's a pretty good-hearted fellow you were with. He couldn't afford to order for the three of you the other night, so he made me get him a greasy plate so as to make you chaps think he had eaten before you came."

The spirit of happiness and good cheer which the holiday season brings finds no greater and more popular playground than the New York Hippodrome, with its unending array of amusement features and continuous parades of novelties. In the brilliant history of the Hippodrome, no more alluring and entertaining bill has ever been presented than the latest remarkable effect, "The Auto Race," which, with its picturesque surroundings and its exciting realism, exceeds in thrill and wonder anything ever before attempted on the Hippodrome's monster stage. Added to this is the glittering and rainbow-colored ballets of "The Four Seasons," which Messrs. Shubert and Anderson have produced with an expenditure greater than any ever before made upon a spectacle. Clustered between the big auto effect and the sparkling ballets are the circus features, in which ten new European arenic acts are introduced. It will make every youthful heart beat fast with happiness and bring new years to the grown-ups to see the new and mirth-making antics of the Hippodrome's famous funproducer, Marceline, the Droll; then come the Hagenbeck's elephants, twelve splendid specimens, in an act that is as thoroughly new as it is delightfully diverting; Hodgini's equestian skill in a graceful and daring bareback riding act is another feature.

The indications are that "The Round Up" will run at the Broadway for many weeks to come, where it is playing to capacity audiences at every performance. The battle scene in the third act is a stupendous stage effect, the like of which has never been seen before. The appearance of sixteen mounted Indians riding along a ledge of rock far above the stage level is a thrill indeed, but it is far surpassed in the great incident at the end of the act, where "Slim" Hoover, the sheriff, and a troop of cavalrymen are shown in an actual hand-to-hand fight with a band of Apache Indian marauders escaped from their reservation. There have been great thrills presented on the New York stage in years past, but nothing that touches this in point of realism has ever been seen in any theatre in the world. In the last act a troop of cowboys are shown riding bucking broncos. This, too, is a novelty never before seen in what is termed an indoor attraction. To effect this, Klaw & Erlanger were obliged to have made a great cocoa matting weighing many tons, which covers the entire stage of the Broadway theatre. This mat is four inches thick and renders it possible to ride a bucking horse with perfect safety to horse and rider.

GOWN GOSSIP.

The princess with the seam down the center front and back and the Japanese sleeve cut in one with it is one of the most novel of fashion's new models.

The all over braided jackets are very fashionable, and a few long coats are seen. In both instances the preference is given to the military cut, which somehow seems most appropriate.

The return of the overskirt is inevitable. Fashion designers have foreseen this, and some of the latest models show the overskirt in all its pristine glory, shawl sgirt and all. As yet there is little tendency toward draping it, but even that is merely a question of time.

While fur is more in demand than for many seasons, it cannot be said that as a trimming it has so far created the furore predicted for it. As to the entire garment of fur, its reign is supreme. Even whole suits are made of it, but for this broadtail is about the only fur allowable, the others being barred on account of their weight.—New York Post.

PROGRESS AND LABOR.

Thirty cents an hour, with Saturday afternoon off, is the new arrangement of the Canadian Pacific railroad with its machinists.

A sun motor was one of the objects shown at the recent exposition in Madrid. It is useful for pumping water, working thrashing machines, creating electricity, etc., and after the machine has been bought there is no further expense.

Magnets for lighting purposes are coming into increasing use in British iron works. Castings weighing two or three tons arae lifted by electro magnets. Much time is saved in comparison with the use of hooks and other revices, as the throwing of a switch energizes the magnet.

A Parisian metallurgical engineer claims to have perfected a process of welding copper to steel wire so as to make a noncorrosive coating. Many advantages, it is said, will result from the use of this new wire, such as high tensile strength and elasticity, combined with smaller surface exposed to wind and sleet than would be the case with iron wire of the same conductivity.

WOMAN'S REALM.

The recent single tax conference held in New York city adopted resolutions declaring for woman suffrage.

The national grange passed a woman suffrage resolution at its recent annual meeting in Hartford, Conn. Resolutions in favor of woman suffrage have also been adopted by the state granges of California, Delaware, Illinois, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Minnesota, Michigan, New York, New Jersey, Oregon, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Washington.

The Methodists of Detroit has done an unexampled thing in electing Mrs. Jane Bancroft Robinson to head the lay delegates from that city to the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, which will be held in Baltimore next May. Mrs. Robinson originated the Methodist deaconess movement in America and is president of the National Women's Home Missionary Society.

KITCHEN HELPS.

By cutting onions, turnips and carrots across the fiber it makes them more tender when cooked.

Salt should never be added to any dishes containing milk until it has cooked. Salt curdles raw milk.

After boiling beet roots they should be thrown immediately on leaving the pan into a bowl of cold water. This facilitates the removal of the skin of the beet root.

A dainty for serving with afternoon tea is made from whole wheat bread. Butter the loaf, cut off the slices, then cut into strips about an inch wide. Cover each piece with melted chocolate and sprinkle with finely chopped nuts. Put aside for an hour or so to harden.

DON'TS FOR YOU.

Don't imagine you know everything, for you don't.

Don't expect acorns to become oak trees in a day or a year.

MISSIONARY WORK.

Ten years ago the Baptists of Texas had 66 missionaries where now they have 320 at work.

The old McAuley Water street mission in New York has started on its thirty-sixth year of work.

The Woman's Society of Georgia Missions of the Christian church has established ten churches in ten years in the mountains of the state.

Forty-five of the ninety-six churches in the Episcopal diocese of Michigan have made no contribution in the past year to the foreign and domestic mission funds of the church.

"A cat can look at a king, they say. Yes, I can scratch well enough. A king's tyranny has made me groan; I hope you will not die so quickly, Ferdinand, that I shall not have time to laugh at your groans." He struck Ferdinand a violent blow with his clenched fist.

"Oh, la, la, la! Lese Majeste!" shouted Bratinau. "Restrain your enthusiasm, comrade."

"Otto Kuhn, of Macedonia! He is an old acquaintance of your Majesty's. But you will not have the joy of thrusting your hand, Ferdinand, into his pocket for his American dollars. They are to be spent in a better cause. And lastly (for Councilor Bratinau and I, of Bulgaria, are old friends and need no introduction), Councilor Gingaja, of Moldavia."

"You see, your Majesty," crief Ignatieff, "this is an international affair. Will it be a comfort to you to know that you will not be the only king that sets out on his last mysterious journey during the next 24 hours? It is not Bulgaria alone or Servia that are to taste the sweets of liberty, though King Alexander and his paramour and yourself are to lead the procession this night."

"And now, messieurs," shouted Starva, "that we are introduced, and his Majesty is thoroughly at his ease, let us eat, drink and be merry, for at midnight he dies!"

A scene of riot and savage revelry ensued. In the veins of this ruffianly crew flowed the hot blood of races half oriental, half barbaric. It was boiling now to a degree of frenzied, savage excitement. Already these men were as dangerous and as blind to reason as a cage of savage beasts. Their ferocity would be stirred to an ecstacy of madness by drink.

My friend Jacques had wheeled a table from the dining-room into the hall. It was loaded with viands and bottles. Savage toasts were drunk; there were cries of liberty and freedom; glasses were held tauntingly at Ferdinand's mouth; every indignity was showered on him.

There is a glamor about a crown that dazzles even a democrat, let him boast his indifference as he may. I am not ashamed to say I felt a strange horror as I saw the prince disdainfully facing his enemies in silence. A vain monarch Ferdinand might be, and no doubt his reign had not been altogether a wise one, but his calm courage, his kingly dignity awakened in me a romantic desire to die for him if need be.

The confusion in the hall below was so great that Locke and I could converse freely and be in no danger of being overheard.

"Have you noticed Kuhn and Gingaja?" whispered Locke excitedly. "They are strangely distrait and somber. Kuhn has lived most of his life in America. Though he was born a beast, his brutish instincts must have been a little subdued by the Stars and Stripes."

"I have noticed," I nodded grimly. "I saw, too, that Dr. Starva gave them no opportunity of speaking when he mentioned their names. They will bear watching, those two. Perhaps we are not to fight alone for Ferdinand presently."

"Heaven grant it!" exclaimed Locke with an emotion that came strangely from him. "But—"

I gripped his hand for silence. On the company below had fallen a silence—a silence tragic and ominous. Suddenly the laughter had died on their lips. They were standing quite motionless, cigarettes poised between their finger tips, the smoke flickering, and their faces were turned as one man toward Bratinau, who stood at the door, and had held up his hand for silence.

Never again shall I see on the faces of men a look of such fierce, tense excitement. Some of them were trembling; more than one was catching his breath in sobs; one snapped the stem of his wine glass.

Three raps and silence—two and a pause—one, and again three. Bratinau drew the bolts.

It was the messenger whom they had waited for. He was breathless in his haste; the sweat stood on his forehead; and he held high above his head a telegram in triumph. He staggered into Bratinau's arms.

Bratinau tore open the dispatch. As he read, his gross face became purple with passion. His eyes glowed like two living coals. He tried to speak, but his emotion suffocated him.

The paper was snatched from his grasp by Starva. Again he leaped to the chair by Ferdinand. His bull voice thundered:

"Liberty, comrades, freedom; and death to tyrants! Alexander of Servia and his paramour Draga were dragged from their beds not an hour ago. They lie dead of a hundred wounds. Drink, drink to Servia, who has led the way to liberty!"

Ferdinand's head had fallen; he had fainted in his chair, his body huddled up grotesquely.

Gortschakoff of Servia, maddened with excitement, raised his dagger to strike the senseless king. Starva felled him with a blow, then ran from imploring, demanding silence.

"Patience, comrades!" he shouted. "Are we children that we cannot make history this night as men? Let us do all things calmly and in due order. Patience a little longer. Who is there that has a better right to strike the blow than I, Starva of Bulgaria?"

"I," clamored Bratinau. "I also am a Bulgar."

"No; it is I, Gornji of Montenegro! I have suffered most from the tyranny of kings; it is my right."

"No, it is mine!" shouted one. "Mine!" clamored another.

"You see, comrades, each of us strives for the honor. But though Bratinau and I of Bulgaria have the prior right, we do not wish to be selfish. We will cast lots—and in the darkness. Ferdinand shall stand yonder by the spiral staircase in front of the tapestry. Two candles behind his head will make him a fair mark for a revolver. But the man who has been singled by fate, concealed by darkness, shall do his work in darkness. No one will know to whom the lot has fallen: then," he looked steadily at Kuhn and Gingaja, "if there are any here whose courage falters and who would turn traitors at this late hour, their treachery will be powerless. For each man by his presence here shares the guilt of the rest. No one can betray another himself. Is it agreed?"

"It is agreed!" they shouted. But Kuhn of Macedonia was silent.

"Is it agreed, comrade Kuhn of Macedonia?"

"Yes," he replied hoarsely, moistening his parched lips with the glass he held in his hand. "If Ferdinand must die, he must."

"What! You are not convinced of the necessity of that?"

"I refuse to be a puppet, Starva, to dance because you choose to pull the string!" cried Kuhn, his rage bursting the bounds of prudence. "I will neither be cajoled by lies nor frightened into obedience."

"No?" questioned Starva softly, but his smile was frightful. "Is it not a little late, comrade, to be making excuses at this hour?"

"I for one wish to know why you lied to me this morning? I have been tricked into this desperate move."

"And who has tricked you?" demanded Starva, with a gentleness that was more terrifying than his anger.

"You told me yesterday that Sir Mortimer Brett was dead. He was seen in the village of Alterhoffen this morning. You told me that England had refused absolutely to countenance Ferdinand's invasion of Macedonia. Not an hour since I received secret information from my agents in London that instructions had been sent to Sir Mortimer that he need hesitate no longer—that England would see he had a free hand. I say I have been tricked."

"I Will Neither Be Cajoled by Lies Nor Frightened Into Obedience!"

"And I!" echoed Gingaja.

"This is treachery, if it is true," added Count Piteschti of Bosnia.

"By the Almighty!" gasped Locke at my side; "I believe there is a fighting chance for us yet."

CHAPTER XXXV.

The Fight on the Staircase.

Had not Kuhn been supported by the other two his temerity would doubtless have cost him his life. As it was, Gornji of Montenegro leaped toward him, drawn dirk in his hand. Starva sent it spinning along the polished floor.

"Imbecile!" he hissed. "There is none here who will be more loyal to our cause than Otto Kuhn of Macedonia. There is none who can help it so much. He needs but to be convinced. Is it not so, comrade?"

"I ask only to go into the affair with my eyes open," muttered Kuhn, his voice trembling with rage and fear.

"But we will have no traitors," Gornji grumbled.

"And if any have forced their way into this meeting and are unwilling to pay the price of admission, they must be put out—yes, out of this world!" cried Ignatieff.

The four assassins most zealous ranged themselves side by side, facing the three. Starva stood between them.

"Patience friends. What you say would be quite true," he pleaded, "if it were so. There can be no traitors among us. No one may leave this room to-night until he is committed irrevocably to the cause. As it is, each man by his presence has committed himself. There must be complete harmony among us. Ferdinand is to die. But he and Alexander merely lead the procession of ghosts. There are others to follow them into Hades. And that is only the beginning of our work. We shall find half of Europe arrayed against us. The new republic will have to fight perhaps for its existence. We shall need money, and comrade Kuhn has pledged his millions to the cause—"

"But only on the condition that England had refused to aid Ferdinand," interrupted Kuhn defiantly. "I say you have tricked me into committing myself."

"And if," fiercely shouted Gortschakoff of Servia, "the British ambassador were actually living—if he could promise what he has been vainly asked, it could avail nothing now. Has not Ferdinand heard the names of all of us? Can he not see us? Enough of this vain talk. Gornji speak with reason. We can have no traitors among us. If Caesar fell pierced by the daggers of 50 senators, Ferdinand must be content with eight. But there can be no shirking. Each man must have a hand in his death."

"All in good time. But first of all I would answer our skeptical friend here. You say, Kuhn, that the ambassador is living. If I show him to you on his bier will you believe me?"

"Prove to me what you say," said Kuhn, uneasily.

"I tell you that it is you who would have been tricked had it not been for my vigilance. Sir Mortimer Brett has been dead these four days. With his death ended the schemes of the woman, the Countess Sarahoff, Ferdinand's spy. But by one of those jests of fate she found a ready tool to aid her as a price for her caresses. This tool of hers bears a marvelous resemblance to the dead minister. It was he whom you saw this morning and not Sir Mortimer. He came to this chateau with the Countess Sarahoff to play the part of the English minister. It was he who was to trick you out of your millions. Now what have you to say?"

"This sounds too improbable to be believed without proof," Kuhn replied, turning to the two men who stood on either side of him.

"I shall show you the proof," thundered Starva, his patience at an end, "and that before you leave this castle. I hold them all in the hollow of my hand—the countess herself, her accomplice, and the king's messenger. Now what have you to say?"

"Show me this man who has tricked me, and I am with you heart and soul," was Kuhn's response. His words were brave enough, but they were those of a man forced into a corner. "I told you that I wish only to go into this affair with my eyes open."

"You see, friends," said Starva, "a little patience was all that was necessary. Our comrade needed but to be convinced. I shall satisfy his curiosity without delay." He raised his voice: "Jacques!"

The servant came forth from the dining-room and stood silent before him.

"Jacques, go to the tower and bring to me the friend of Countess Sarahoff. You are armed? If he gives you any trouble, call me."

"He will give me no trouble," said the man, contemptuously, starting on his errand.

Locke and I instinctively poised ourselves to leave our hiding place to greet Jacques when he should near us.

"But when this man comes," objected Ignatieff, angrily, "is he to recognize all of us to gratify the curiosity of Kuhn? Unless he is to go with Ferdinand—"

"That is not necessary," assured Starva. "Let all these candles be snuffed except those in the candelabrum that stands at the head of the staircase. Bring your man, Jacques, to that point and no farther. We shall see him; but he will not be able to see us."

Fortune was favoring us indeed. Locke and I silently bestirred ourselves. Now at last had come the moment for action. But still another grumbled; and still fortune favored us.

"That is all very well," objected Ignatieff. "And perhaps a traitor may strike a blow in the dark. I for one refuse to gratify the curiosity of Kuhn in this matter."

"But Starva was determined to have his way.

"To prevent that," he answered, "each of us will lay his weapons on the table at the end of the hall."

There were cries of fierce dissent. Starva silenced them with an angry gesture.

"One moment, friends," he purred. "You do not quite understand. When we first came into this room I suggested that lots should be drawn, and he who was favored with the lucky number should fire, concealed in the gloom, that none might be sure who had been chosen to snuff out Ferdinand's little soul. But since our friend Kuhn's loyalty has been questioned, it is he who shall have that honor, and with Gornji's dagger he shall do the work. And lest an accident should happen, or lest his courage should fail him, Bratinau and I will keep our revolvers. I think there is none to question our loyalty?"

Kuhn had grown frightfully pale; he trembled. But he spoke no word.

"By this arrangement," continued Starva, "the loyalty of Kuhn of Macedonia will be established. And if," he was glaring at Gingaja and Count Piteschti," there are any mad enough to dream of disloyalty at this late hour, and harbor treachery, they will be powerless."

Starva's ruse was hailed with shouts of approval. Gornji, Ignatieff, and Gortschakoff strode to the table at the end of the hall and flung down their weapons defiantly. Gingaja reluctantly followed their example. Piteschti folded his arms defiantly, standing motionless.

"This is child's play," he muttered, with pale lips.

"Nevertheless," whispered Bratinau in his ear, "you will obey, and quickly. By all the saints, Starva, I think your plan has proved a wise one. Come, sir, we are waiting. Or are you so ignorant of the rules of etiquette that you insist in taking precedence over a king?"

With a gesture of despair Count Piteschti walked slowly to the table and left his revolver there.

"Now, friend Kuhn, we are waiting only for you!" cried Starva sharply.

"I have no arms," answered the poor wretch, with a sob.

"You shall be armed presently," cried Gornji.

"Now, Jaques, you may go. Out with the candles, Gornji and Ignatieff. The rest of you remain quietly as you value your lives. You will find your man defenseless, Jacques. But if he proves troublesome you have only to call and I will come. You have taken care of Alphonse?"

"I have put him to sleep," he chuckled.

As Jaques lifted the tapestry Locke choked him into silence. Together we carried him struggling up the hidden staircase and burst into the anteroom of the tower. Not until we had flung him breathless into the room of the safe, and had locked the door, did we answer Forbe's frenzied questions. Locke gripped his arm for silence.

"Quick, there is not a moment to lose. Have you arms?"

"No," growled Forbes, ready for action.

"In the first room to the right of the corridor," panted Madame de Varnier. "In the drawer of the cabinet near the door."

"Then come. And you two stay here. There is man's work below."

We stole silently down the stairs, Locke and myself in the lead, to the cabinet, where both Locke and Forbes chose their revolvers.

"Do you, Capt. Forbes, make your way along the gallery until you come to the spiral staircase at the end of the hall," I commanded, briefly. "When I appear at the main stairway with Locke, reach the hall with no delay. There is a table by the little stairway; there are arms on it; let no one approach that table until Locke or myself have reached your side. Now then, Locke, are we ready?"

We had filed silently into the corridor. Forbes sped with caution to his vantage ground. Locke was already approaching the main staircase when I seized him by the arm.

"I am going to fool Starva. I am going to call for help. He will think it Jacques. As he comes, I shall take care of him. Bratinau is your man. Wait till he shows himself, and mind you, aim straight."

I raised my voice in a cry of distress.

"A moi, Starva!"

My trick succeeded admirably. Starva bounded up the staircase. As he showed himself in the light of the candelabrum I fired. He fell headlong without a groan. Locke stood at the head of the staircase waiting. I peered down in the darkness below. Forbes' revolver rang out again and again. The uproar was terrible.

"Kuhn! Gingaja! Piteschti! To the staircase!" I cried in French.

That was the last I knew of our melee.

I sank gently to my knees behind the antique rug. Bratinau's bullet had struck me.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Never attempt to exercise in an unventilated room. Open the windows and let in plenty of fresh, pure air.

Facial scrubbing brushes used on red noses will at first make them redder, but will later whiten and refine the skin.

The white of an egg is good for slight burns. Never use a carbolic solution, as their tendency is to stick to the raw surface.

One of the most soothing applications for a fire burn is raw potato scraped or grated and bound like a poultice on the injured surface.

Absolutely clean teeth never decay. The flourishing condition of the dentists is a painful commentary on the lack of cleanliness in the majority of mankind.

To stop the flow of blood bind the wound with cobwebs and brown sugar pressed on like lint or with fine dust of tea. When the blood ceases to flow, apply laudanum.

For a hot water formentation a much easier way than wringing cloths out of hot water is to fold the cloth to the required size, put it into a steamer and place over boiling water.

Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Penmanship, etc.; and also special instruction is given in Algebra, Arithmetic, Geometry, and Penmanship.

Our NIGHT SCHOOL is doing most excellent work, and is open to all of good moral character. There is no age limit; even married men and women are now enrolled among our students. No public reciting is required of students. individual instruction is the rule. A fine class of young people attend both the day and evening sessions of this College, and there is no reason why you should hesitate to enter on January 2, 1908. MAKE THIS YOUR NEW YEAR RESOLUTION, you will never regret it.

☞ EIGHT STUDENTS WERE PLACED IN GOOD POSITIONS DURING THIS MONTH TO DATE. There will be more positions for those who are prepared to fill them. WELL TRAINED young people have no trouble to get positions.

BOWLING TEAMS ROLL AN EXCITING SERIES

Marked by a succession of surprises that filled the gallery with joy and woe at turns, the series between the Wellingtons and Napoleons in the bowling tourney, last night, resulted in a two-out-of-three victory for the latter. The contest was a red-hot one all through and neither side was sure of any one game until after the eighth frame.

The biggest surprise of the night was a tremendous pace set by the Wellingtons in the second try that netted them high team score, a 989, forty-five pins better than tne one put up by the Washingtons Thursday night. The Napoleons ran alongside for the first half but gradually dropped back and tallied 903. In this game Harry Gillpore hit for six straight strikes and stood in line to get individual score, but a split in the seventh pulled him down. He landed a 245, three pins behind Orrie Dodge's top-notch 248.

Another surprise was a collapse of the Wellingtons in the ninth frame of the first game. They had it clinched up to that point but a bunch of easy spare misses helped the opposing side pull through a winner. Almost the same thing occurred in the last try when the Napoleons again pulled out sixty-one to the good. Double century marks in the three games were plentiful, Captain F. J. Blatz landing two and Gillmore, Toense and Willett getting one each.

For the first time since the tourney started, a new roller appeared on one of the teams in the person of J. Henry Crane, who took George Firstbrook's place on the Wellingtons. Firstbrook found it impossible to continue in the contest because of business and as a bowler's average is reduced ten each time he stays out of a series he would soon be owing the alley a bunch of pins. The executive committee held a meeting yesterday afternoon and as Crane has an average corresponding with Firstbrook's original figures, he was given the place. He is practically a new man at team or match work and the gallery had his nerve in the first game. He went over the foul line three times and the resultant loss of pins pulled his score down to ninety-seven, the lowest recorded in the tourney. He afterward straightened out and banged the timber for 167 and 168.

The scores:

ELIZABETH COUNCIL WANTS TO OUST FREEHOLDERS

The Elizabeth City Council at a meeting held last night adopted a resolution favoring the substitution of county commissioners to take the place of the present Board of Freeholders, under the Strong act. This act provides for a commission of seven members in counties of the size of Union. The council directed that the resolution be sent to the city attorney with instruction that he prepare a bill which will permit the question to be voted upon at the next general election.

When questioned as to the cause for the above action, the members of council said that they believed that the interests of the county would be better conserved through a commission and they would lend their efforts to the proposed change.

AUTOMOBILE INSPECTOR DROPS INTO PLAINFIELD

One of the State automobile inspectors made an unexpected visit to Plainfield this morning for the purpose of catching auto owners who have been running their machines without a license or displaying registered numbers. He was stationed at Park avenue and Front street most of the morning and a great many machines were held up for examination. As far as could be learned no arrests were made here, but the inspector made a number of notes in his memorandum book. Among those held up for inspection were a number of woman who were running machines. Those stopped were questioned about the ownership of machines, licenses, etc.

This inspection is in line with the policy adopted by the State Automobile Commissioner who intends to keep a sharp lookout in all parts of New Jersey for people who have been in the habit of running machines when not licensed to do so and who never take any pains to see that registered numbers are displayed, according to law.

Attention is also being paid to speeding machines and whenever a case of this is found the number of the machine is taken and the owner will hear about it later. He will be given a warning and if the offense is repeated a heavy fine will be imposed and it is possible that the license may be revoked.

FIRE CHIEF RIDES TO BLAZE WITH LOVERS.

When Chief Allen, of the Trenton fire department, answered an alarm of fire late last evening his automobile "bucked" and would not move near the city hall. The chief jumped into a buggy containing a young Trenton man and his best girl returning from a late ride.

He grabbed the reins and urged the horse toward the fire, notwithstanding the protests of the driver. The chief threatened the young man with arrest if he did not keep quiet.

The girl enjoyed the fun, but hid her face when the fire sent its ruddy glow into the buggy. Reaching the fire, the chief was courtly enough to wish his "friends" a pleasant journey before he went to work with his men.

R. M. EDWARDS BOND IS DECLARED FORFEITED.

Several persons against whom indictments were found by the Sussex County Grand Jury have pleaded to charges against them before County Judge Joseph Coult, Jr., at Dover. Robert M. Edwards, indicted for assault and battery, was called but failed to respond. His bond of $1,000 was declared forfeited. It was said that Edwards lives in Plainfield. He was a member of a acarnival company which appeared in Newton last fall. William H. Earl was bondsman for Edwards. It is understood that an effort will be made to produce him in court later.

Christmas Dance at Oark Club.

The Christmas dance at the Park Club, Thursday night, was largely attended and one of the most enjoyable of the season. The clubhouse was attractively decorated in red and green. During the early part of the evening general dancing was the order and afterward the cotillion, which was led by Harry McGee, chairman of the entertainment committee. The favors were minature figures of Santa Claus. The patronesses for the affair were Mrs. Charles A. Reed, Mrs. T. W. T. Bakewell, Mrs. Joseph Yerkes, Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Jr., and Mrs. Walter McGee. Music for dancing was furnished by Muller, of Brooklyn.

Appointed to Committees.

In the appointment of committees at the State teachers' convention, Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of the Plainfield High schools, was made a member of the committee on educational progress, and Principal Ira W. Travell was made a member of the committee on resolutions.

Walrus Skin.

Hope Chapel.

The entertainment at Hope chapel was in the form of a cantata entitled "Santa Claus, Jr.," and delighted a large gathering of Sunday-school scholars and their friends. The principal characters were taken by James Penny, as "Santa Claus," Charles Kreager, "Santa Claus, Jr.," Charles Vincent, "Uncle Sam," and Miss Gertrude Hunter, "school teacher." During the action of the piece a large number of children sang and recited and six girls gave a very pretty scarf drill. Superintendent Condict was in charge of the program. Candy and oranges were distributed in closing.

The committee in charge comprised Ira W. Travell, chairman; Miss Jessie Munger, Mrs. Williams, Judge Runyon, Mrs. Donald McInnis, James Penny, David Bowden and Donald Mortimer. Miss Bertha Jones acted as accompanist during the evening for the singing of carols.

J. W. Van Sickle, the North avenue butcher, is very ill at his home on East Third street.

THE ADORATION SUNG AT 7TH-DAY BAPTIST CHURCH.

Under the direction of D. E. Titsworth, musical conductor, a quartet, comprising Mrs. J. B. Cottrell, soprano; Miss Nan. Randolph, contralto; William Holmes, baritone, and George Smith, tenor, assisted by a chorus choir, rendered a beautiful Christmas cantata, "The Adoration," at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, this morning. The musical numbers were given in a finished and delightful manner and especially noteworthy was the work of the soloists as well as the chorus.

A feature of the cantata was the explantory remarks made during the rendition by Rev. A. H. Lewis. Miss Jessie Utter was the organist and Miss Mabel Maxson presided at the piano. The service opened with a voluntary, for organ and piano, "Gloria Patria," invocation; anthem, choir; responsive reading; hymn, "Calm on the Listening Ear of Night;" prayer, and then followed the cantata.

Death of John Sprague.

John Sprague, the young man who was recently committed to the Rahway reformatory for setting fire to his father's home on West Front street, died at the institution Monday. He had been ailing most of the time since his commitment. The body was brought to the home of his parents, who now reside at Scotch Plains, and the funeral was held there Thursday afternoon, Rev. L. R. Howard officiating. Burial was at Hillside.

RE-ENTER "CONJUNCTION"

Irrepressible Colored "Professor" Once More Gets Into the Limelight.

GOES TO JAIL FOR 20 DAYS.

No Clemency Despite the Fact That A Stab Wound Helped Land Him In Policeman's Clutches.

"Professor Conjunction" Jones, the well known local colored celebrity, who uses large words and gets into trouble as regular as sun-up, was arraigned in the city court this morning for the 'steenth time. His appearance was brought about by an occurrence somewhat out of the ordinary and in greeting a twenty days' sentence in jail it seemed as if he was being insulted after undergoing an injury.

"Conjunction" was wending his way along Plainfield avenue near Third street at 1:30 yesterday morning, somewhat intoxicated and rather noisy. He chanced upon a group of white men who had a large bottle of whiskey but were unable to drink any of the contents because of an obstreperous cork that refused to be extracted. "Conjunction" "butted in" on the crowd and offered a pocket knife to remove the obstacle, receiving the promise that if it proved effective he would be rewarded with a drink.

The cork was quickly pulled out and the professor roused the neighborhood with his shouts of joy. In his exuberance he danced an impromptu buck and wing, Boulevard booze adding speed to his feet. Remonstrances from the white men failed to stop him and one of the crowd decided upon a drastic move. It was the same fellow who had the pocket knife—"Conjunction's own property—and while the performer was sent at an angle of forty-five degrees the blade was jabbed into his anatomy. In stating that the dance stopped immediately it may be also said right here that "Conjunction" has since refused to sit down for reasons best known to himself.

The racket that had been in progress brought a cop to the scene but the colored man was the only one who didn't beat it. He was howling blue murder and as soon as the patrol wagon could be roused out he was removed to police headquarters. From there he was taken to Dr. Lufburrow's office and after getting several stitches placed in the knife wound was advised to take his meals in an upright position for the next month or so.

When the victim was arraigned before Judge Runyon he made an eloquent plea for clemency but there was "nothing doing." The magistrate remarked that it wasn't a nice thing to be stabbed with one's own knife and he was sorry and all that sort of thing but as the caps said "Conjunction" had been iosy all through the evening twenty days at Elizabeth would give him a chance to remain quiet while the wound was healing. The professor was led away vowing that he would prefer a charge of atrocious assault against the man who had injured him as soon as he came out.

In the past year or two "Conjunction" has been in court some dozen or fifteen times. Among his offenses have been the stealing of a dressed lamb from a West End butcher, the larceny of a crate of eggs from a Third street grocer, slapping a young negress in the face because she refused to kiss him, hurling stones at a crowd of boys who jeered because he wore a stove-pipe hat and for making off with money given to him by friends to "rush the duck." In between times he has paid fines and served sentences for ordinary drunks.

Failed to Appear.

On complaint of Mrs. Adelaide Margentino, of Richmond street, Walter Robinson, of East Third street, was arrested by Patrolman Dobson yesterday, on a charge of disorderly conduct and using profane language. He was afterward released on his own recognizance with instructions to be in court thtis morning but he failed to show up. A formal complaint was made out and he will be apprehended during the day.

Hotel Chef On a Tear.

Abram Hargrow, chef in a local hotel, went on a tear late Saturday night and ended up in a police cell. He pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct in court this morning but "first offense" got him a suspended sentence.

Changes at Local 'Phone Exchange.

Miss Nellie Messenger, who has been chief operator at the local telephone exchange for several years, has been transferred to the Westfield office, where she will act in the same capacity. Her place here has been taken by Miss Eva Doeringer. A number of other changes in the supervising and operating staff have been made during the past week.

MAYOR TOWNSEND TALKS

Most Important Question for His Administration is Union with Plainfield.

HE WANTS SEWERAGE SYSTEM.

Successor to Mayor Smilley Is a Self-Made Man—Now In His Prime and Great Things Are Expected.

"I shall advocate the installation of a system of sewerage, believing this to be an improvement greatly needed. The one matter of more public importance than anythong else is the consolidation of the borough of North Plainfield with the city of Plainfield. The places are now one in everything but government, a narrow brook a few feet in width separating them, and the control of their affairs by one set of officers would be of great benefit to all."—Samuel Townsend, Mayor-elect of North Plainfield.

Mr. Townsend, who succeeds Mayor Smalley on Wednesday, is fifty-five years old. He was educated in the district school of Greenport, Long Island. He went to New York at the age of sixteen and entered the employ of a dry goods commission house, afterward becoming a partner. He retired with a fortune in 1900. He has been four times elected member of the Board of Education of the Borough of North Plainfield, from which he lately resigned to take the office of Mayor on January 1, 1908, to which position he was elected last November, being nominated on both the Republican and Democratic tickets. He is president of the People's National Bank of Westfield; is director of the Plainfield Trust Company and is a member of the Board of Governors of the Muhlenberg Hospital.

WATER HEATER EXPLODES; LOSS $50 AND A DERBY

An explosion of gas in a water heater at "Pete" Feiring's barber shop on Park avenue, Saturday night, created great excitement in the place and stirred up the neighborhood for ten minutes or more.

It was brought about by Michael Acolia, an employe, turning a wrong handle on the contrivance, allowing the gas to accumulate, and afterward applying a match to the regular burner. A report rang out that could be heard for a block and the top of the heater whizzed to the ceiling of the shop with force enough to gouge a hole in it. When the metal dropped back it came in contact with a New Christmas derby worn by George Ruggles, who was sitting close to the heater, and left it a wreck. George also got a bad bump on the head that dazed him for the rest of the night.

Acolia did a back-action somersault toward a side door but managed to get out of the danger zone in time to avoid injury. He was somewhat shaken up as were several customers who sat waiting for the cry of "next."

The water heater was put out of business with a resultant loss of $50.

Self-defense Plea Fails.

Theodore Smith, colored, twenty-five years old, of 27 Augusta street, Newark, whom the police of that city have been looking for since Christmas Eve, when he attacked "Zip" Little, twenty-eight years old, formerly of this city, in a saloon at Arlington and Augusta streets, surrendered himself to the police of the First Precinct Saturday morning. He claimed that he stabbed Little in self-defense, but Judge Howell refused to admit him to $500 bail, as he requested, and turned him over to Prosecutor Young. Little's condition is still very serious.

L. E. Waring a Judge.

Lewis E. Waring, of West Seventh street, was the judge of the various classes at the mid-winter exhibition of the Brooklyn Horse Show Association held in Brooklyn, Saturday night, and his awards gave general satisfaction. There were over 100 entries of a high class.

Elton Smalley Dead.

Lieutenant Elton Smalley, of the borough fire department, died at his home on Linden avenue at 2 o'clock this afternoon. He had been ill with typhoid fever.

POSTMASTER MUST QUIT

Dr. Brakeley Notified that He Will Not be Reappointed for Dunellen.

VIOLATION OF DEPT. RULE.

Sold Postage Stamps to Plainfield Bank Swelling Dunellen Receipts—Inspector Acts.

Henry S. Garretson has, or soon will be, recommended by Congressman Benjamin F. Howell to be postmaster at Dunellen to succeed the present incumbent, Dr. P. W. Brakeley. The postoffice department has refused to accept Dr. Brakeley for another term.

The objection to Dr. Brakeley was based upon a curious rule of the department, not very well understood by postmasters and which many, like Dr. Brakeley, have innocently violated. In this case a friend of the doctor's living at Dunellen, often bought postage stamps in large quantities at the Dunellen office, for use in a Plainfield bank, where he is employed.

The extra business naturally helped the standing of the Dunellen office, but at the expense of the one in this city, where the stamps would otherwise be purchased. The postoffice department presumes that when stamps are bought in bulk they are to be used in the district where they are purchased. A postmaster is expected to refuse large orders for stamps when he knows that the purchaser comes from another place and will mail them at his own office. Even when a man is unknown the postmaster is expected to investigate as to where the stamps are to be mailed.

Of course this rule is not rigidly anhered to, indeed it cannot be. But once in a while the inspectors pick out a case of violation for the sake of making an example.

The Dunellen case was brought to the department's attention some months ago. In cases of flagrant violations the offenders are summarily removed, but in this case the circumstances were such that Dr. Brakeley was permitted to serve out his term, on the understanding that he would not be re-appointed.

GEN. HOWARD PUBLISHES A FINE AUTOBIOGRAPHY

In his "Autobiography," Oliver Otis Howard, Christian gentleman, distinguished soldier, and all-round useful citizen, makes a contribution of marked value to the annals of American achievements, says the Newark Evening News. General Howard is an uncle of Rev. Lawrence Riggs Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, and is well known in this city, which he has frequently visited.

The "Autobiography" is divided into four parts. The first, "Preperation for Life," brings the author up to the outbreak of the Civil War. The second, must the longest, treats of the war, while the third, "Reconstruction," has for its leading subjects, General Howard's administration, as commissioner, of the Freedman's Bureau, and the founding of Howard University. The last division takec up General Howard's commands of various army departments and his later doings. Both volumes are embellished with many finely executed portraits.

General Howard, a native of Maine, begins his narrative with recollections of his boyhood home at Leeds, where he was born, November 8, 1830. He writes entertainly of his course at Bowdoin, from which college he was graduated in the class of 1850, and where he numbered among his classmates William P. Frye, now United States Senator from Maine, and among other college friends Melville W. Fuller, now chief justice of the United States. Like many an associate dependent largely or entirely on his own resources, young Howard taught school to earn money to continue his education. It was his hope to become a lawyer, but an appointment to West Point secured through the offices of his uncle, John Otis, changed his plans and modeled his future.

Repeated Christmas Music.

The choir of the First Baptist church repeated last night the Christmas music given a week ago Sunday morning, before a large congregation of worshippers. The anthems with solo, luet, trio and quartet parts, together with selections by the chorus were greatly enjoyed. The musical program was under the direction of Howard Case, organist, and was given in a finished manner. The pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, delivered a short sermon appropriate to the occasion.

DUAL SILVER WEDDINGS

Two Westerly R. I., Couples Celebrate Marriage Anniversaries at Truell Hall.

WERE MRS. TRUELL'S GUESTS.

Fifty Local Friends Attend Reception and Are Delightfully Entertained at the Resort.

An unusual dual event was celebrated at Truell Hall, Saturday night, when Mrs. J. R. Truell gave an informal reception in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John Tanner and Mr. and Mrs. Orson Rogers, of Waverly, R. I., in honor of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. Both couples were married a quarter of a century ago and they decided to visit New York and Plainfield in their celebrations. The interesting part of the affair was that neither couple knew the other's intended plans and that their meeting at Truell Hall was an unexpected pleasure.

Mr. and Mrs. Tanner arrived during Friday morning, while Mr. and Mrs. Rogers reached the hall late in the afternoon of the same day. Their surprise can be imagined when they met in the large reception room and learned that their visits to Plainfield were for the same purpose. The guests are old friends of Mrs. Truell and in their honor she invited about fifty friends from among the Seventh-Day Baptists in the city to attend an informal reception Saturday night.

A program of vocal and instrumental music was enjoyed. Miss Nan. Randolph, contralto, giving several selections, and Miss Jessie Utter rendering a number of piano solos. The company was also favored with vocal numbers by Mr. Tanner. During the evening refreshments were served by Mrs. Truell in the handsome private dining room.

Mr. Tanner is prominently connected with the Cottrell Press Company, of Westerly. His wife was Miss Minnie Berry, of Noank, Conn. Mr. Rogers is a Civil War veteran, having served on the staffs of Gen. Burnside and Gov. Sprague. He went out with the first Rhode Island regiment and performed heroic service during the war. His wife was Miss Mary Noyes, who has been and is still the owner of Noyes Beach, in Rhode Island. They are wealthy and influential residents of Westerly. Both couples are members of the Seventh-Day Baptist church at Westerly.

TRUST COMPANY TAXES CONSIDERED EXCESSIVE

The Plainfield Trust Company has appealed to the Union County Board for the Equalization of Taxes, asking that it reduce the assessment levied this year, which is considered excessive. Pending a decision of the matter, the company has made a tender of the amount paid last year, but as the law does not allow the collector to accept payments on account while an appeal is pending before the Board, he has been compelled to refuse it.

The Trust Company hopes to have a decision in a short time so that its taxes may be paid.

MR. REED WILL BEGIN HIS TWENTY-FIRST TERM

Mayor-elect Samuel Townsend has requested Corporation Counsel Chas. Arthur Reed to accept a reappointment as legal adviser to the borough of North Plainfield. Senator Reed has already served twenty consecutive years in the office under all sorts of administrations and has saved the municipality thousands of dollars by his valuable services.

When the borough laws were revised, Senator Reed was a member of the commission. He served as chairman of the committee on boroughs in the Legislature for six consecutive years and before his retirement from the halls of the lawmakers at Trenton was president of the Senate.

All the other present borough appointive officials will continue in office under the new administration.

Last Pay Until Jan. 18.

The 8,000 employes of the Singer Sewing Machine Works at Elizabethport received Saturday their last pay for several weeks to come. The plant will reopen January 6, but it will be January 18 before the company will make another payment to its operatives, as one week is always kept back at the beginning of the new year.

LICENSES FOR AGENCIES

Mayor May Urge Common Council to Take Advantage of a New Law.

GOOD REVENUE FOR THE CITY.

Police Chief Gets Half of Such License Fee—Provisions of the Law Which Is Sweeping in Effect.

Among the matters that it is reported Mayor C. J. Fisk will recommend in his annual message to the incoming Common Council are the provisions of an act of the Legislature to regulate the keeping of employment agencies. There are now a number of such agencies in Plainfield and, it is said, Mr. Fisk believes the time has arrived when some restrictions should be placed on persons conducting such places.

The act covers any individual, company, association or corporation, or their agents and the nature of business includes that of procuring or offering to procure help or employment or of giving information as to where help or employment may be procured, and the business of keeping an intelligence office, employment bureau, theatrical or shipping agency, nurses' registry or agency for procuring engagements for vaudeville or theatrical performers, where a fee or privilege or commission is exacted.

The license fee to be imposed for conducting agencies shall not exceed $25 annually and the power of granting licenses is invested in the Mayor. One-half of the fee goes to the chief of police or license inspector of one be appointed. The act further provides that such agencies shall not be maintained in saloons or where liquor is sold or in rooms used for living purposes, excepting cafes and restaurants in office buildings. It further provides for complete registry of names of persons licensed and the names and addresses of persons for whom employment is obtained and the mount of the fee which agencies can charge for securing employment to any person.

CAMP COOK AS HOST FURNISHES FINE MENU

A reunion of the members of "Camp H. B." was held Saturday night at the home of Robert Hand, 34 Fairview avenue. The early part of the evening was devoted to a musical program during which the Misses Frances Kulp and Lavinia Hand rendered piano solos; Robert Hand gave violin selections; the Misses Edna Swain and Ethel Webster sang college songs; Lester Radford recited an original poem relating to the trials of camp life.

The feature of the evening was the supper, prepared entirely by Robert Hand, who was the camp cook at Lake Hopatcong and in the Berkshire Hills. He surprised the members with an East India dish of curry and rice, prepared out of red curry from Calcutta. Although not accustomed to the taste, all voted the dish the best ever. The Misses Lavinia Hand, Edna Swain, Ethel Webster and Frances Kulp acted as waitresses. The balance of the evening was spent in a "smoker," during which the graphaphone selections were given. The favors were Philippine cigarettes.

BURGLARS BUSY.

Get $700 as Booty in a Westfield Home.

While the family was attending the theatre burglars entered the home of B. G. Abercrombie, on Euclid avenue, Westfield, Saturday night and carried off a large quantity of silverware, clothing and jewelry. The value of the stolen property is estimated at $700. The acid test was applied to the silverware. This is only one of a series of similar burglaries which have occurred in this place within the last six weeks. B. G. Abercombie is the New York representative of Newton, Sessender & Co., of No. 63 Clearing street, Boston. His office is at No. 179 Broadway.

Many Surprises for New Year.

E. E. Iremonger, as chairman of the "Jollification Committee," for the New Year's Eve dance at the Casino tomorrow night, has been very busy planning for the many surprises to usher in the New Year. The electrical effects and other "stunts" promise to be most elaborate and unusual. The demand for tickets is large and it is expected that the Casino will be taxed to its capacity to accommodate those who will attend the social function.

W. U. MAY QUIT STATION

Jersey Central Will Probably Have Telegraph Office Removed from Main Depot.

IT IS NO LONGER NECESSARY.

Likely that Concern Will Seek New Quarters Somewhere in the Business Section of Town.

Since the installation of switch towers on the New Jersey Central, between Elizabeth and Somerville, the company has curtailed its expenses by closing the telegraph offices in the stations at Bound Brook and Somerville after 7 o'clock at night. They were kept open more as a convenience to patrons of the Western Union Company, and at an additional expense to the railroad company. Now that trains are handled entirely from the switch towers there is no need of the telegraph offices at the several stations.

In connection with this change, the recommendation has been made by the telegraph department of the New Jersey Central that the telegraph office at the North avenue station be abolished. If this is done it will mean that the Western Union will be obliged to establish its office at some other point than the station and will have to provide for the entire expense of maintaining it as the Postal Company has been doing here.

On account of the amount of business handled by the Western Union here it could not afford to give up its office here entirely and it would probably secure suitable quarters at some convenient point in the business section of the city.

It is believed that the recommendation to abolish the office at the station will be adopted in the near future.

BAD MAN "SCOTTY" GOES TO HOSPITAL

"Scotty" Fisher, erstwhile companion of "Dutch" Ides and his gang, was found in a barn on South Second street, last night, by Patrolman Sweeney. The officer discovered that he was very ill and on advice from headquarters had him removed to Muhlenberg Hospital in the patrol wagon. A diagnosis showed that he is suffering from pneumonia, undoubtedly brought on by exposure.

When he engages in conversation with anyone, "Scotty" always states in emphatic terms that he's a bold, bad man and a desperado. He was too far gone to tell about it, last night, but when the hospital people trimmed him for the customary bath they were reminded of the fact by finding a razor suspended about his neck beneath his undershirt. As a matter-of-fact, "Scotty" is about the mose harmless hobo in trampdom but close companionship with Ides for a month or two made him believe he was a regular cut-up.

FARMERS' MEETING HERE.

President Collins Arranging for Gathering.

The first meeting for January of the Union County Board of Agriculture will be held at Elizabeth on Thursday. "Hay as a Paying Crop" will be the subject for discussion. The meetings of the board are held in room 12 of the Court House at Elizabeth. Anyone interested is always welcome.

President Collins is making arrangements to hold a meeting in Plainfield some time this month for a general conference of the farmers in this end of the county. The date and place of meeting will be announced later.

Week of Prayer Services.

The First M. E. church will observe the week of prayer in Vincent chapel, January 5-12 inclusive, and the subjects will be as follows: January 5, "The Promises of God;" 6, "Things Unseen and Eternal;" 7, "The Triumphs of Faith;" 8, "The Church Made Truly Glorious;" 9, "Missions, Home and Foreign;" 10, "Intemperance the Master Social Curse;" 11, "Christian Unity;" 12, "God Revealed."

Grateful to Friends.

The friends who have responded by gifts of money, toys, polls, provisions, etc., may be sure of the gratitude and appreciation of the ladies of the Relief Committee of the Charity Organization Society. Christmas has been made a happy time, by their generosity, for many children and others. On behalf of the committee, Mrs. Ryder, chairman.

Dec. 29, 1907.

J. Harry Milligan, of Attleboro, Mass., returned home yesterday after spending a week in town with his mother and other relatives.

GLAZIER CASE RESUMED

More Witnesses Heard in Action to Suppress the Obnoxious Fat Rending Factory.

EX-GOV. VOORHEES INTERESTED

Former Governor a Spectator at Proceedings for a Restraining Order—Hearing Still On.

The hearing in the case of Miles Reusch and others against Theodore Glazier, Jr., seeking to make permanent a temporary injunction restraining the defendant from conducting his fat rending factory at Alton, was resumed this morning before Vice-Chancellor Walker in the Common Council chamber, when a number of witnesses were called by the counsel for the plaintiffs. Former Governor Foster M. Voorhees was a spectator during the morning session, frequently conferring with W. R. Codington, of counsel for the plaintiffs.

It was learned later that his presence here was due to an interest he has in the pollution of streams. He is identified with water companies in the county, one being located near Alton, and it was for the purpose of ascertaining facts concerning the reported contamination of streams in that vicinity that bright him here.

The first witness called was Dr. Hunt, of the State Board of Health, who testified to his knowledge of the rending factory and of the complaints that at various times had been received by the State body. John Simpson, a civil engineer employed in the construction of water works near Alton, also testified as to the objectionable odor, as he described it coming from the factory. Other witnesses called during the morning were John Maire and his wife, Mrs. Mary Maire, who reside near the factory. Both stated that they had been made ill by the odor, and Mrs. Maire added that the stench always gave her a headache.

In the cross-examination by Judge Newcorn for the defense, it was learned that Mr. Maire at one time killed and disposed of a couple of dead horses on his premises, but his wife said that the way he did the work was all right and she did not detect any odor. Judge Newcorn tried to show that Mr. Maire was an interested party to the suit and that he was not acting in good faith.

Mrs. Maire also testified that she was frequently obliged to shut the windows at her home to keep the odor out, and when asked to describe the small, she said that it was so awful that she could not do so. It was entirely different from any other odor she could think of and it always made her ill.

The last witness examined before the noon adjournment was Ernest Tietz, a trucker, who resides near the Glazier place. In language that was quaint but expressive, he related how he had been made ill by the odor from the factory and how at times it made him so sick at his stomach that he could not retain his food. The smell made him dizzy, weak and faint, he said.

An adjournment was then taken until 2 o'clock. It is not believed that the hearing will be concluded today, as the defendant has not presented his side of the case as yet, and it is known that he will call a number of witnesses to offset the testimony of those for the plaintiffs.

Talk on Local Option.

Rev. J. F. Burke, State secretary of the Anti-Saloon League, occupied the pulpit of the First Baptist church, yesterday morning, giving a vigorous talk on the progress of the local option throughout the country. He spoke especially of the good work in the South and West and of the intention of the league to rest neither day or night until the State of New Jersey has a similar law. He quoted statistics which were very encouraging to the friends of temperance, and at the close of the service a great many subscribed various amounts toward the support of the work.

Ephraim S. Ackor Weds.

Miss Mary Kehlm, daughter of Henry Kehlm, and Ephraim S. Ackor, both of Watchung, were married Saturday night by Rev. J. Duerschner, pastor of St. Peter's German Lutheran church. The ceremony was performed at the parsonage on Stone street and the couple was unattended. They will reside at Watchung. Mr. Ackor is collector for North Plainfield Township and both he and his wife are well-known and esteemed in a large circle of acquaintances.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

Panels of very deep tucks are inserted at the bottom of evening gowns. The plain portion beneath the tucks shows embroidery designs.

Braid is seen everywhere on street and house costumes alike. Soutache and the flat silk braid of plain weave are preferred to more fancy kinds.

The return of the tailored shirt waist—and its return is assured—bespeaks for the trotteur skirt the severest simplicity, as anything else naturally would be out of keeping.

Shaded satin and velvet have been revived and are being used for trimmings on cloths, as also are cords formed of silk and wound into fanciful border and other effects. In black this latter idea is particularly pleasing.—New York Post.

BASEBALL.

If Tad Jones has any ambition to become a professional baseball player after graduating from Yale in June, it is reported he can secure a berth with Cleveland. Larry Lajoie, manager of the Naps, after seing him catch a game last year, declared that Jones was speedy enough for major league company. The Cleveland club, it is said, has already made the Yale star an alluring offer.

Fred Tenney, playing first base for the New York Giants next year, and being financially interested in the Boston club, will occupy a unique position in baseball next season. Tenney owns stock to the extent of $15,000 in the Boston club. He is willing to sell out, and recently made President Dovey of that club an offer to hand over his holdings for $2,500 in advance of the sum he paid out for the stock, but Dovey refused to pay his former manager a premium. Now it is likely that Tenney will hold on to the stock.

Jack Chesbro, pitcher of the New York Americans, announces that he is through using the spitball. He says that he only operated it a few times last season and that next year he will not use it at all.

Jack Hayden, the Rochester outfielder, will be among the absentees on the Eastern League circuit next season. Hayden has been sold to the Indianopolis club of the American Association.

The success of the series of games last fall between the Baltimore and Old Orioles during the home week in the former city has resulted in Jimmy McAleer, manager of the St. Louis Americans, hatching out an idea for a series between the old Cleveland Spiders and the Naps some time next year. All of the old Spiders are alive with the exception of "Chip" McCarr, the old third baseman. If the games are arranged there will be seen in the Spider lineup McAleer, Cy Young, Nig Cuppy, Chief Zimmer, Jack O'Connor, Pat Tebeau, Cupid Childs, Ed McKan, Jesse Burkett, Bobby Wallace, Harry Blake and perhaps George Davis and Jack Doyle, who played in Cleveland for brief periods.

There will be three Cy Youngs in the big leagues next season—Cy I., of the Boston Americans; Cy II., of the Boston Nationals, and Cy III., of Pittsburg. The last named is from Wichita and was once tried out by Manager McAleer, of the St. Louis Browns.

GOLF.

It looks as if the East Jersey Golf League will undergo a decided change of policy ere the start of another season. The main question at issue when the organization has its next annual meeting later in the winter, will be whether or not to continue on with the interclub team matches.

Ever since the organization of the league, back in 1900, these team matches have represented its chief activity. The time was when they were quite popular, although it has ever been a fact that the East Jersey Leaguers have never taken any too kindly to living up strictly to a hard and fast schedule. It has been the organization's history from the start that these team contests have been more or less of a burden.

At times different club captains have experienced no end of difficulty in mustering a team, and there never has been a season when some team or teams have not been compelled to play short handed and thereby incur the usual penalty of three points for each man short.

In the opinion of G. W. Thomas, president of the league, the time has passed when a regular team schedule can be maintained with any degree of success. He is in favor of dropping this feature and letting the league in future devote its attention to promoting tournaments.

A. F. C. Milligan, of the Suburban Club of Elizabeth, said recently that the latter body would not be able to continue in the league under the present arrangement. He says the club finds it too much of an undertaking to keep up these team contests. Milligan also favors substituting tournament play.

Another drawback to the success of team matches is the inconvenience to which they put the members of the home clubs. These matches, held on Saturday afternoons, as they are, generally start about the time when the courses are crowded with regular members. The latter often accept with bad grace the requests for right of way usually advanced by the principals in these team matches.

Helped Arrest Jefferson Davis.

Kinsa Belt, one of the captors of Jefferson Davis, the president of the Confederate States, died Saturday, aged 63 years, at Thornville, Ohio. Belt was for years a merchant of Thornville, and for some years has been living on his farm. He was a dispatch bearer of the Twelfth Ohio Volunteer Cavalry.

Miss Margaret H. Schick, of Silver Lake, N. Y., has been visiting her sister, Mrs. George Schmidt, of Watchung.

GREAT JANUARY FURNITURE SALE

$250,000 Worth of Furniture at Reduced Prices.

This Year's Sale Surpasses All Its Predecessors.

It is no trifling task that presents itself to us semi-annually as the time for conducting our great furniture sale arrives. To outdo the offerings of previous seasons, to outsell any sale that has gone before, means mighty skillful planning, deep thinking and hard work.

When we say that this year's sale will surpass all that have gone before, we speak advisedly, for the conditions this season are rather extraordinary. High priced goods have not sold so readily as was anticipated, making it necessary for us to cut more deeply than usual into the prices in the higher grades of furniture, and the reductions in general will be more generous than ever in order that we make sure of beating last season's wonderful record.

Our regular price tickets, bearing the original prices, remain on every piece of furniture with the special price tag alongside it, so that you can accurately figure the actual savings which this January sale brings you.

Fully a quarter of a million dollars' worth of furniture is thus presented to you under price, and included will be found furniture for every room and every purpose—a thoroughly complete stock, embracing not only the ordinary things, but many novelties.

Furniture for the Parlor

Furniture for the Library

Furniture for Bedroom

Club Room Furniture

The Furniture Sale That is Different.

Hahne & Co.'s Furniture Sale differs in some important essentials from almost any other furniture sale held anywhere.

First, we embrace in this sale only the regular standard stocks of the store, nothing being bought for special selling; nothing being made up in the hurried, slipshod way that much furniture is manufactured for January sales; all of it constructed in the most dependable manner and covered with varnish of the best sort and finished in a way that insures absolute satisfaction.

Second, many pieces of furniture will be sold at reductions running as high as 50 per cent.; more will be sold at a reduction of 25 per cent., and every piece in the house that is not marked lower will be sold at a reduced price, excepting only the few articles restricted by the makers.

Third, notwithstanding the fact that every piece of furniture in the house (excepting only a few articles restricted in price by the makers) is reduced most decidedly in price, we will sell any single piece or any suite of furniture on our popular Household Club Plan, asking you no more than the special price quoted, yet enabling you to pay only a part of the purchase price at the time of buying, and the balance in such payments as best suit your convenience. This Club Plan extends not only to the furniture, but to floor coverings and upholsteries as well. The Club Plan has been taken advantage of by hundreds of patrons and we number among them some of our best customers who have profited by the easy paying plan.

There's No Wolf At the Manufacturer's Door!

Don't be fooled!

What you may fancy to be the scratching of a hungry invader of your peace is more likely to be the gentle knocking of Opportunity at your door.

Don't be fooled!

Forget the wolf-scare, and don't keep Opportunity cooling her heels.

The mere fact that commercial nervousness exists and that so many manufacturers and wholesalers just now are affrighted and weakening, means the best sort of chance for the live, courageous business man to take hold and work out his biggest success.

We want to hear from that kind of manufacturers and wholesalers.

We have assisted in working out the advertising problems of a great many manufacturers who had real difficulties to encounter, and who have faced them, fought them out—and won!

And advertising—wise advertising in newspapers—has played a great big part in their successes.

We can be of the same kind of practical, profitable service to you.

May we call upon you, at your convenience, to discuss with you a co-operative plan for grasping the present advertising opportunity?

There's a way in which you can help your salesmen get more orders—or get them direct, if you want to. It's a way that gets the business, too. Our plan is not based on theory but on long and successful experience in getting business that is hard to get. It is remarkably economical and tremendously effective.

Just say you're interested, and we'll tell you all about it.

NEW YORK

NEW DROWNING IN HOPATCONG.

Nephew of S. C. Neidlinger Lost as the Dunn Boys Were.

Charles M. Boyle, 18 years old, a son of Robert D. Boyle of New York, was drowned in Lake Hopatcong while skating with a companion from Raccoon Island to Nolan's Point. Both young Boyle's mother and his uncle, Samuel C. Neidlinger, who is with Robert C. Wood & Co., bankers, at 37 Wall street, have summer homes on Raccoon Island, and the boy, who was home from school for the holidays, came up a few days ago in advance of a house party, which had to be called off on account of the death of Boyle's grandmother Thursday night.

Saturday the two boys started for Nolan's Point to fetch some supplies. The ice was thin, and Boyle broke through. His companion pushed a board toward him, but was unable to reach him, and an attempt to shove out a leaky boat which he found on shore proved equally futile. He then started off to find help, and when he got back Boyle had disappeared beneath the surface. The body was recovered soon after, and attempts at resuscitation were unsuccessful. Word of the drowning was telegraphed to Mr. Neidlinger, who went to the lake Saturday night without telling Mrs. Boyle what his errand was. He returned to New York with the boy's body yesterday morning. It was abreast of the Neidlinger cottage that the two Dunn boys were drowned on Christmas Day. They were buried in St. Mary's cemetery at Dover. Boyle and his grandmother will be buried together.

SKATER RESCUED BY FRIEND.

John J. Sacco, eleven-year-old son of Gaetano Sacco, of Chatham, narrowly missed drowning on Brickyard Pond Saturday morning, and his escape was due to the exertions of his companion, George Conklin, who could swim.

Both boys with a number of others were skating on the pond yesterday morning, and did not discover the treacherous nature of the ice until it began to crack ominously. All the skaters reached safety but Sacco and Conklin, who disappeared in twelve feet of water when the ice opened. Sacco, who could not swim, sank twice before Conklin grasped his arm and by much exertion pushed him upon some solid ice, and he crawled to a safe location.

Conklin was able to save himself, and both boys, thoroughly benumbed, made their way home.

"The Prudential Girl for 1908."

"My idea was to get youth and beauty, grace, refinement and innocence," said Carle J. Blenner, the artist, in describing the beautiful girl's head he painted for the 1908 calendar of The Prudential Insurance Company of America.

The Prudential is sending out several million copies of this calendar. It is an excellent piece of color work, being lithographed in eleven colors to get the required flesh tints and the shadings in the draperies.

The calendar is known as "The Prudential Girl for 1908," and is one of the series of handsome "Prudential Girl" calendars issued in recent years by The Prudential.

Here are some of the favorable comments the "Prudential Girl for 1908" his elicited:

"The 'Prudential Girl' is again abroad in the land. If possible secure a copy—she's a beauty."

"The 'Prudential Girl for 1908' has made her formal bow to society. To us she simply looks like a beautiful, substantial and healthy American maiden such as one occasionally meets at important social functions."

"'The Prudential Girl for 1908' is a pensive lass of sober mien, but withal one in whom a man might feel safe to put his trust—typical of the Company of which she is the pleasant reminder."

A copy of this calendar will be sent free upon writing to the Home Office of The Prudential, Newark, N. J.

Husband Let Wife Burn?

Mrs. Julia Dennie, aged fifty years, was fatally burned Thursday night at her home, in Orange Road, Montclair, and died Friday morning at the Mountainside Hospital. Neighbors who rushed to her rescue declare that Dennie, who was in the house when the explosion occurred, made no move to aid the woman, but, instead, roughly urged her to get out of the building, emphasizing his remarks with oaths. The police are investigating the charges made against Dennie.

Mrs. Dennie made a statement before her death exonerating her husband from any blame for the accident.

Girl in Gold is Attractive.

One of the colors which the girl in her first season has taken up more enthusiastically than any other this year is yellow. Buttercup, daffadil, old-gold and the soft tones of crocus yellow are all included in her color card, and these, when softened with veilings of cream niuon or lace, are taking the place even of the all-white gown when the important ceremony of the debut is over.

Plainfield, N. J., December 30, 1907.

Will the Mayor in his annual message be good enough to again urge the city fathers to provide proper fire protection in the Netherwood section.

Before the time for another election rolls around, it is more than probable that the voting machines will be abandoned by Legislative mandate or by Court decree.

It matters not what the millions of other voters may decree but Tom Lawson is going to star Roosevelt while Augustus Thomas intends making Bryan his headliner in the next Presidential campaign.

When State Senator Frelinghuysen consents to speak, it is sure that some sensible utterances are to be made. That has been his rule in the past and consequently one may expect to hear an instructive talk on the occasion of the Board of Trade banquet at Truell Hall on January 28. At that time, the efficient and vigilant representative of Somerset will take as his topic "New Jersey; Its Progress and Prosperity." Probably no man in the State is better qualified to discuss such an important subject for it cannot be gainsaid that he has followed the trend of events in New Jersey as few other men have. Another equally valuable contribution to the oratorial flow will be the address of Governor-elect J. Franklin Fort, the man who is to be a real executive of this grand old State.

GUARDSMEN TO FIGHT TO SAVE SIDE INCOME.

Officers of the National Guard have determined to give the skating rink proprietors at Trenton a fight to prevent them from closing up the rink in the armory, the proceeds of which go for pianos for company rooms and for building a bowling alley in the building.

The judge advocates of the various regiments will go to Camden January 6, when the rule to show cause why the temporary injunction on the rink in the Trenton armory should not be made absolute will be argued.

Judge Advocate Van Doren, of the Second Regiment, will have charge of the case, but John G. Horner, of Nurling, judge advocate of the Third Regiment, will be at his elbow, as well as the three other judge advocates. The contest is important, for an injunction closing the rink in the Trenton armory would close all other armory attractions to raise money for the use of the companies.

Officers of the regiment say that the skating rink helps recruiting, and that something must be done to make the armories more attractive. The State will not dot it, so the colonel allows these company money-making plans to go through. The skating rink proprietors say that the armory rink hurts their business.

FRIGHTENED, TAKES POISON.

Young Woman Feared Fire Was About to Attack Her Home.

Fire, believed to be of incendiary origin, almost totally destroyed the large wholesale grocery warehouse of Bernard Marenus, at Livingston and First streets, Elizabeth, Saturday night, entailing a loss of $35,000, partly covered by insurance. Only the hardest work by the fire department saved several tenement houses adjoining.

Miss Elizabeth McCudden, 20 years old, who lived at 58 Livingston street, became crazed with excitement because the flames threatened her home and tried to commit suicide by swallowing carbolic acid. She was taken to the General Hospital and probably will die.

GRADUATION EXERCISES AT TRINITY REFORMED

Yesterday was a very happy day for the Sunday-school of Trinity Reformed church, when the annual graduation exercises were held in the afternoon and the whole afternoon was occupied with an interesting program to mark the event. Children were graduated from the beginners to the primary department, from the primary to the junior department and from the junior department to the intermediate.

Superintendent F. E. Smith was in charge of the general program, although Mrs. L. R. Schofield, of the junior department; Mrs. J. M. Tier, of the primary department, and Mrs. H. E. Gayle, of the beginners' department, each took charge of their children, who took part in various exercises, showing what had been accomplished during the past year. Scripture verses were recited and in some instances the Lord's Prayer, the Twenty-third Psalm and the names of the Apostles. The work of the littles ones called forth much commendation, showing much proficiency.

Aside from the encouraging remarks to the children by Superintendent Smith, who also spoke to the new teachers, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor, congratulated the graduates, as well as the whole school upon the excellent results. Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, acting pastor, also made a few remarks of a congratulatory nature and then presented a Bible to those graduated from the primary to the junior department. Afterward he addressed the whole school. Superintendent Smith in addition presented a diploma to every graduate.

Those graduated were as follows:

From beginners to primary department—Alfred Townley, Earl Cooke, Gladys Colthar, Anna Maas, Marjorie Dufford, Edwin Addis, Reginald Applegate, Clifton Wiggins, Charles Weaver, Ruth Compton, Jester Sherback, Malcolm Sheppard, Elsie Zipp, Lulu Brown, John Dunn, Wilma Tier, Mildred Tier, Carl Schlief, Dorothy Seader, Harold Scribner,, Earl Kirch.

From primary to junior department—Adelaide Grace Cole, Maud Pearl McAfee, Helen McCready, Nettie Meeker, Grace Heminway Vail, Ada Voorhees Smith, Sine Greaves, Clara Virginia Marion Lee, Albertina Therese Braun, Helen Louise Leitheausser, Alfred Shyrback, John William Dress, Raymond Cutter, Roscoe VanCamp, Charles David Beckman, Harold Williams, John Willoughby Rogers, Charles Alleger, William Arthur Compton, Oscar Kenney Dilts, Raymond Stevens, Max Hanson, Milford Kenneth McAfee, Wilbur Hoffman, William Smith, Ernest L. Pruden, O. Oscar.

From junior to intermediate department—Henrietta Enander, Edith Richards, Blanche Terry, Gretchen Van Zandt, Ruby Taylor, Lulu Trewin, Anna Lee, Ida Hummel, Helen Hummel, Erma Coddington, Ella Miller, Alice Aughten, Agnes Brown, Margaret Neal, Irma Lindsay, Leila Wherry, Louise Maass, May Porter, Hilda Bennett, Lillian Smith, Emma H. Ryno, Harold Storr, Henry Kinney, Clifford Cole, Arthur Martin, Ernise Stevens, Theodore Layton, Percy Diehl, Russell Hoagland, Ralph Martin, Horace VanArsdale.

In the formation of new classes, Miss May Randolph, Miss Minnie Berg, Miss Mabel F. Gano each took classes of girls graduated from the junior department to the intermediate, and F. M. Smith took one of boys for the same department.

BELATED XMAS MUSIC AT TRINITY REFORMED

The postponed Christmas musical service was rendered at Trinity Reformed church, yesterday morning, by the quartet choir under the direction of Arthur L. Titsworth, organist and choirmaster, before a large congregation, and all were delighted with the well selected program and the excellent work of the singers. Great praise was bestowed upon Mr. Titsworth and the members of the quartet, Miss Etta Raybert, soprano; Miss Winifred Carroll, contralto; E. D. Young, tenor, and F. S. Cutter, bass, for the perfect rendition of the various numbers.

In connection with the musical numbers, Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, acting pastor, preached a strong sermon on the subject, "The Babe in a Manger," appropriate to the occasion. The program of music follows:

Organ prelude, "Pastoral Symphony," Handel; Gloria, "Hosanna to King David's Song," J. H. Wand; anthem, "Angels from the Realm of Glory," W. H. Neidlinger; "Te Deum in F," J. Alzamora; contralto solo, "Night of Nights," B. Van de Water; Miss Winifred Carroll; anthem, "Star of the Orient," Harry Rowe Shelley; organ postlude, "Hallelujah Chorus," Handel.

In the evening there was also special music, and Miss Raybert sang, by request, "The Birthday of the King," which was rendered so delightfully a week ago, besides anthems by the choir. Dr. Johnson's subject for the evening was "Honoring the Holy Child." There was also a large congregation at this service.

FORT'S INAUGURATION TO BE WITHOUT FRILLS

With the organization of both houses of the Legislature agreed on, the attention of politicians is again turned to the disturbed condition of the Republican party in Hudson. The 132d annual session of the Legislature will convene on January 14, the second Tuesday in January. Governor Stokes will deliver his third and final message, the committees in both houses will be announced and an adjournment taken to the following Monday night. The term of Governor Stokes does not expire until January 20, although he is prohibited by law from making any appointments after January 14.

J. Franklin Fort will take the oath of office and be inaugurated on the afternoon of January 21, after which he will deliver his inaugural address and the new administration of the State will begin. The Governor-elect is now at work on his message to the Legislature, and although he wants to make it as brief as possible there are so many subjects throughout the State that need attention that it will probably be somewhat lengthy.

The inauguration will take place at the Taylor Opera House at Trenton. The Governor-elect has said that he wants his induction into the office to be as simple as possible, but he will no doubt give way to the pleas of the Assembly committee having the affair in charge for an imposing ceremony.

AGED WOMAN ASSAULTED.

A Granddaughter of President Tyler Attacked by a Robber.

Miss Letitia Tyler, 60 years old, a clerk in the navy department and a granddaughter of President John Tyler, was assaulted by a robber Saturday night, in front of her home, 1337 L street, northwest, Washington.

Miss Tyler was knocked senseless by a blow behind the right ear and did not recover consciousness for several minutes. Her pocketbook was stolen.

Miss Tyler had been to the Louise Home for Aged Southern Gentlewomen, where her aunt, Mrs. Letitia Tyler-Semple, a daughter of President Tyler, had died a few hours before. She was ascending the steps of her residence when the robber attacked her.

Miss Margaret Finck, of Sag Harbor, L. I., has returned home after a visit with local friends.

PAINTER OF NATURE IN HER ATHLETIC MOODS

The New York Sun's art critic yesterday paid this tribute to a Plainfield artist: "Jonas Lie needs no introduction to the picture loving readers of The Sun. Each new exhibition of his increases in interest. The young artist is growing rapidly. Norwegian sap is in his blood, but American air, crisp, nipping and lung filling, blows across his canvases. At the New Gallery, 15 West Thirtieth street, there is a group of his recent studies that once seen will compel many visits. High peaks, snow patched, the rays of the setting sun touching them with a cold light; stretches of snow that must crunch harshly under the feet of the solitary wayfarer; boys burning leaves, the bluish smoke swirls aloft of athwart flamed colored trees; lonely village streets; sun worshipping trees that lean toward the horizon as if to catch the gleam of expiring light; canals, icebound or bearing flocculent masses of snow and angular lumps of ice; experiments in wind and weather with an occasional expanse of fresh green fields; frosty summits that Brand would have stormed, cliffs over which Peer Gynt might have tumbled; these effects Mr. Lie portrays with mastery, though one hears occasionally the rumble of too thick oily paint and the squeak of forced sentiment. A painter of nature in her most athletic moods is Lie."

NO CAMP AT SEA GIRT NEXT YEAR, HE ADVISES

In his annual report to the Governor Quartermaster General C. Edward Murray suggests that the annual encampment of the National Guard be postponed until 1909 in order to put the military branch of the State on the footing required by the Dick Federal act. The report states that it will require $26,000 to purchase new clothing and equipment for this purpose. The total cost of maintaining the guard for the year was $236,389.92 for the land forces and $19,783.46 for the naval forces, a total of $256,783.38.

The total cost of the encampment of 1907 was $82,863.63, of which $62,200 was paid by the State and $20,663.53 by the United States. The cost of the encampment in detail was as follows: Construction, $5,530.21; cooks, waiters, etc., $1,340.75; forage and straw, $1,292.17; freight, expressage, etc., $451.16; fuel and light, $914.90; medical stores, $53.16; quartermasters' stores, $2,189.07; subsistence, $11,763.98; transportation, $7,935.64; horse allowance, $4,786; pay, $45,809.08; miscellaneous, $797.51.

The cost of maintaining the State armories for the year was as follows: Newark, $4,770; Jersey City, $4,959; Camden, $4,571; Paterson, $4,414; Trenton, $4,538.

Purspant to the provisions of the national militia bill of 1903, the sum of $30,495.41 in cash has been drawn on requisition of the Governor for arming and equipping of the militia. The balance standing to the credit of the State on the books of the war department is $42,324.61.

HAMILTON KEAN'S WIFE INHERITS JUST $100,000

Mrs. Katherine T. Kean, wife of Hamilton F. Kean, of Elizabeth, and several of her relatives, have received bequests of $100,000 any more, part of the nine million dollar estate of George C. Taylor, of Great River, Long Island, who died on September 18. Mr. Taylor was a son of the late Moses Taylor and lived the life of a recluse on his estate near Islip, Long Island. John R. Veink, transfer tax appraiser, of Patchogue, L. I., Saturday filed his report in the matter of the estate of the multi-millonaire. Taylor was reputed to be worth about $20,000,000. The report made by Mr. Vunk, shows that the estate is not quite half that sum. The exact figures are $9,212,321.27.

The debts are $218,026.68. These, together with bequests of $1,170,000 to charitable institutions, reduce the net estate transferred to $7,825,304.49.

Under the original will Stephen Palmer, of Princeton, N. J., and Henry A. Lindsay, of Newark, N. J., were named as executors of the will, but on April 20, 1903, Mr. Taylor submitted Percy R. Pyne in place of Mr. Palmer, and gave Pyne an additional $50,000 for his services as executor.

Woman Nearly Beheaded.

While Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Borden, of Philadelphia, were motoring from their home in Philadelphia to Lakewood yesterday, the steering gear of the automobile broke and Mrs. Borden was nearly beheaded by striking the glass wind shield. Her head came down sharply on the screen, and only the wooden framework kept her from being decapitated. Dr. Silvers, of Windsor, was obliged to take eighteen stitches in Mrs. Borden's neck. She was then taken to Lakewood.

DINNER FOR GOVERNOR IN NEW YORK TONIGHT

Members of the personal staff of Governor Stokes will tender him a farewell dinner in the Hotel Astor, New York, tonight. The officers who will participate will be Adjutant-General R. Heber Brientnall, Quartermaster-General C. Edward Murray, Colonel Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, Lieutent-Colonel Walter E. Edge, Lieutenant-Colonel Mahlon R. Margerum, Lieutenant-Colonel Leon W. Manton and Captains Kramer, Vickers and Stevens.

When Governor Stokes' term expires the officers who have been detailed on his staff will return to their respective departments and a new detail, supplied by Governor Fort, will be named as aides-de-camp.

WOMEN MAY SMOKE.

On New Year's Eve, and Perhaps Afterward.

James B. Martin, proprietor of the Cafe Martin, in New York, let it be known yesterday that he is arranging a holiday gift to the women of New York city, which is to be a milestone in restaurant development.

On New Year's Eve all women may smoke cigarettes in any of the rooms of the restaurant, at Twenty-sixth street and Fifth avenue, and this privilege may become permanent thereafter, if all goes well. With his shrewd eye on his guests, Mr. Martin will determine whether New York is ready to follow the precedent of Paris and London.

WANT POLICE JUDGES NAMED BY GOVERNOR

If the plans of certain Republican leaders go through, Mayor Wittpenn's appointees as police justices in Jersey City will be ousted whether or not the Ripper law is defeated. It is proposed to place appointments of police justices and recorders in the hands of the Governor, as they were before the Democratic Legislature placed the power in the mayors of cities.

One argument for this change is that police justices are an important part of the State's judicial system, as are the district court judges, and that only the best men obtainable should hold the offices. Under the present system it often happens that justices are selected not so much for their legal qualifications as for their willingness to be subservient to the bosses of the political party under which they hold office, and that "pull" too often defeats the ends of justice. This is peculiarly the case at times in matters affecting violations of the excise laws.

A commission appointed by Governor Stokes in 1906 is preparing a bill to codify the various laws relating to police courts, crimes, children's cases and the like, and this bill will place the appointment of police judges in the hands of the Governor and provide that only counselors-at-law may be named. The members of the commission are District Court Judge James S. Erwin, of Jersey City; Police Judge Algernon T. Sweeney, of Newark, and County Judge John Rellstab, of Mercer. The commission bill and the report to accompany it is not yet ready, but the finishing touches are being put to it and it will be in shape, it is expected, to be placed in Governor Stokes' hands before the opening of the Legislature on January 14.

But for fear there should be any slip-up in the introduction of the commission bill two other bills have been drafted, one by Jersey City Republicans and the other by Newark Republicans interested in the retention of police judges in those cities. The bills will be ready for introduction probably the first day of the session. Conferences will be held, however, with a view to having the Jersey City and Newark people agree upon the terms and then introducing only one bill as a compromise measure.

It is figured that the Legislature will promptly pass the proposed police judge Ripper bill, and that Governor Fort will sign it, especially in view of the fact that the commission appointed by Governor Stokes will recommend the enactment of such a law.

"NEW BRAND OF BOOZE" VIOLATES PURE FOOD LAW.

A new brand of booze, poetically styled "Thousand Flowers of the Alps," made from herbs of the flowers that grow on the Alps, a delectable amber concoction, imported from sunny Italy, seems likely to meet with a sad fate at the hands of the pure food experts of the Department of Agriculture at Washington.

Ruthless analyses of the liquor, which, by the way, comes in a bottle about two feet high and has a small, leafy branch on the inside, covered with candy crystals, reveals that its ingredients include saffron, for coloring; anise, for flavoring; plain sugar and alcohol. When the latter is poured in, a weed is inserted in the bottle and beautiful crystals collect. The alcohol forms the greater part of the fluid. Poetic names don't go with Uncle Sam, and the Milan manufacturer will have to relabel his product or else leave America off his exporting list.

STATE MAY CONTROL SHAFT.

The Trenton Battle Monument Association met Thursday at Trenton, probably for the last time as an official body, and the State hereafter may control the big shaft dedicated to Revolutionary heroes.

Attorney-General McCarter's opinion is that under the act of 1907 relative to institutions supported in whole or in part by the State funds, all battle monument funds must pass through the hands of the proper State authorities.

Since the organization of the association and the erection of the monument, the shaft has been operated and maintained by the association. It has two sources of revenue. From the State it receives an annual appropriation of $500. The remaining income is from elevator tolls from visitors. From that limited income the cost of maintenance and the wages of the Grand Army man who runs the elevator are paid.

Friday it was decided to let the State take charge, and a bill to accomplish that end will be introduced at the next session of the Legislature. The association will not disband, however.

Held Guilty of Forgery.

The jury in the case of John Andrews, a county employe, charged with forgery, brought in a verdict of guilty Friday night, at May's landing, after deliberating only fifteen minutes. Andrews, when apprised of the jury's findings showed no signs of emotion. Counsel for Andrews gave notice that the case will be appealed. Andrews will be sentenced on Thursday.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"Human Hearts" will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night. The play is ingeniously constructed, and the lovers of plain, lucid dramatic fiction cannot fail to detect in it qualities which they are sure to admire. There is enough dramatic material in "Human Hearts" for half a dozen dramas. Each of its leading characters combine enough definite traits to equip a whole community of people; yet its intricate, ramifying interests are pieced and dovetailed together with extraordinary technical skill. They are plausible and they work out logically in the end.

The mirth-provoking and uproariously funny farce, "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," which had a successful run of an entire season at the Madison Square theatre, New York, three months at Powers theatre, Chicago, and two months at the Waldorf theatre, London, England, will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre New Year's, afternoon and night. If you are interested as to whether a husband is ever justified in telling his wife a lie, go and see "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," and have your curiosity appeased. The charm of the piece, however, lies in the acting and rarely has a more finished piece of work been seen than the Frank Fuller of Allan Murname. He takes the reins of comedy in hand upon his entrance, and from then on holds them. Miss Frances Gaunt as "Mrs. Temple," has a difficult task in making an impossibly, gallible character interesting, but her strong personality aids her materially. Mrs. Temple's Telegram is bright, clean and free from all suggestiveness. This play has won the distinction of being the most emphatic comedy success of the last three seasons. There is no straining after-effect, no squeezing for a laugh, no buffooning for applause, but straight, serious effort that is most telling and effective.

In "The Boy with the Boodle," Howard Hall's novel musical play, which he is using as a vehicle to exploit the particularly bright artists, George Ovey and Louise Horner, there are many bright, catchy up-to-date songs that will appeal to everybody from the musical critic in the orchestra box to the boy in the topmost gallery. Seldom if ever has a greater array of pleasing tuneful songs been introduced in an entertainment of any character. These songs are sure to be whistled or hummed by everyone for their melody is infectious and humor or sentiment catchy. Bright, witty dialogue is made the most of in this play and there is not a dull moment throughout its entire four acts. Mr. Hall determined on a vovelty in writing this play and his success in having made it one is assured by the liberal praise and patronage bestowed upon it. It will be at the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday night.

McIntyre and Heath in Klaw & Erlanger's production of George V. Hobart's musical novelty, "The Ham Tree," will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday, afternoon and night. This is one of the funniest and most interesting shows now on the stage. It was first presented at the New York theatre in New York, where it had two long runs, and since then has been seen in Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Chicago and other large places. In each of these cities the New York verdict was repeated. McIntyre and Heath are undoubtedly the greatest impersonators of negro character. In this production they are surrounded by a great company, and they appear to better advantage than at any time during their career. Their old skit, "The Georgia Minstrels," has been incorporated into the new play in such a clever way that it becomes a part of the story, and in the second act they keep an audience convulsed by their funny description of the stranded minstrels. Throughout the piece twelve musical numbers are presented by the principals and chorus. "The Ham Tree" is most elaborately mounted with magnificent scenery and brilliant costumes.

MAY BE FLORETTA WHALEY.

Girl Thought to Be Preacher's Victim Found in Louisiana.

That Floretta Whaley, the young girl who eloped last April with the Rev. Jere Knode Cooke, the rector of St. George's Episcopal church, of Hempstead, of which August Belmont is senior warden, may now be in Louisiana, is indicated in a letter received Saturday by Samuel T. Wright, chief clerk of the Nassau County Surrogate's Court.

The letter is dated from Emden, La., is postmarked New Verde, La., and is signed "V. O. Jones."

It says that a girl about 17 or 18 years of age, who gave the name of Floretta Whaley, was brought to his home last April by a man named Cooke. The man said that the girl was his stepchild, that her mother was dead and that he was no longer able to care for her, the writer of the letter declared.

Strangely Shot; Walks to Hospital.

With a bullet in his side fired from a source which is still a mystery to the local police, Frank J. Dillon walked into the Alexian Brothers' Hospital at Elizabeth Saturday and asked for treatment. Dillon is reported to be in a dangerous condition. Dillon says the shot came from the darkness, that he had been in no quarrel, and had as far as he knew no enemies.

The CASTLE of LIES

BY ARTHUR HENRY VESEY

COPYRIGHT, 1906, by D. APPLETON & COMPANY

CHAPTER XXXVI.

"Honor, My Sword."

I awoke to consciousness to find myself in the music room. I opened my eyes languidly. Helen was bending over me.

"What is it?" I murmured. "Yes, I remember—the fight on the staircase."

I struggled to my feet, but sank back dizzily, my hands to my aching forehead.

"Thank God you are alive, and it is all over!" cried Helen, brokenly.

"And Ferdinand is safe?"

"Quite safe and unhurt. Already he has left the chateau. Capt. Forbes will tell you everything presently."

"I have been unconscious so long? Am I wounded? I feel no pain, only this headache and dizziness."

"A bullet grazed your temple—an eighth of an inch more—" She shuddered. "It wounded you only slightly, but you have been unconscious nearly an hour."

"My usual luck," I cried, bitterly. "It was to have been my chance; I hoped to retrieve myself; and I am winged the first shot. Fate is determined, it seems, that I shall stick to my role of coward."

"Don't, don't ever say that horrible word again!" cried Helen, passionately. "It was your shot that killed Starva. It is you who have saver Ferdinand; it is you who have saved for me the honor of my poor brother so far as the world can know. How can I ever be grateful enough?"

"Helena" I cried, passionately, "you remember at Lucerne, on the terrace, when I told you of Willoughby's death, how he had died calling me coward, it was you that pointed out to me a way of escape—you told me how I could regain the self-respect I thought I had lost forever. It was to be a life for a life, you said. When I had saved a life for the life that was lost through my cowardice, I was to stand once more upright among men. Tell me, you despise me no longer?"

"Despise you!" she murmured. "If you knew how I honored you!"

"Ah, it is worth while to hear you say that. But you must say more, infinitely more than that now, dear, to satisfy me. Helena, I thought only a week ago that if I could win your respect I should be happy. But now I want your love."

"Don't!" she cried in pain. "How can you speak of love at such an hour!"

"Forgive me. What a selfish brute I am. But by the by—when time has softened your bitter pain—in happier days may I come to you?"

"Happier days!" She clasped her hands in quick despair, looking beyond me as if into a future that must be always dark for her.

"Yes," I said, passionately, "there shall yet be happier days for you and for me. Do you remember on the terrace the little beacon light in the far-off mountains? That was my star. It comforted me then; it bids me hope now; it tells me, Helena, you love me."

"Never!" She withdrew the hand I had held almost fiercely.

Her vehemence brought me rudely to my senses. I had been mad to hope. I turned slowly from her, groping my way toward the door; for my head was still throbbing furiously.

She stopped me with a cry of distress. She clung to me in her eagerness.

"You don't understand," she pleaded. "You have saved my brother's honor as far as the world can know. But this shame that curshes me this disgrace, can I forget it?"

"I would help you bear it."

"Mr. Haddon, we Bretts have been a proud race. Our happiness we share with others. But disgrace we bear alone."

"Don't say that; you are bitter now, but—"

"If you had known me better," said Helena, quietly, "you would understand that I do not give to-morrow what I must deny to-day."

When I told her of Willoughby's tragic death, I had thought it pathetic that a woman should be so strong. It was her calm courage that had first awakened my love for her. I must not complain now if she was not to be moved by my entreaties. But this question I did ask:

"If I could have proved that your brother had not, after all, shown himself false to the motto of your house, 'Honor, my Sword,' would you still have refused to listen to me?"

"Ah, if, Mr. Haddon!"

For almost the first time since I had known her she smiled; and that faint smile opened the gates of paradise to me. She would not be moved to declare her love for me, but she did love me; I was sure of it.

And then suddenly I thought of the words of the Countess Sarahoff when I made my escape by the ladder of stones: "Go, and I swear by the cause I hold sacred, that, if you can save Ferdinand, the honor of Sir Mortimer shall be saved." That promise might mean little. It might mean that she would show her gratitude by refusing to make public Sir Mortimer's disgrace. Or had her words a deeper significance?"

"But," I cried eagerly, "nothing is quite impossible. I repeat now what I said to you when in your grief

He Fell Headlong Without a Groan.

you asked me to meet the banker, I cannot believe in your brother's guilt, I cannot conceive how a man whose integrity has been undoubtetd during a brilliant career should suddenly stoop to the shame of taking bribes."

A flash of hope shone in Helena's pale face, only to be followed by the deepest dejection. "But there are the proofs," she said, mournfully. "I cannot, would that I could, deny my brother's writing."

"I must see Madame de Varnier. A few hours ago she held us at her mercy. But now we have the upper hand; there are many things she must explain. Where is she?"

"She left the chateau with Ferdinand half an hour ago."

"Left the chateau!" I cried, aghast. "Why was she not held?"

"Prince Ferdinand insisted that she must go at once to Sofia. He has sent her on some secret mission. I think she must be one of his spies."

"And she left no message for me?" I demanded, gloomily.

"No," replied Helena, looking at me in wonder. "Why do you ask?"

I did not tell her of Madame de Varnier's promise. I knew now that it had been given me quite recklessly to spur me to action. I was mad to expect mercy and gratitude from such a woman. She was too determined on her revenge. I remembered bitterly how she had told me in the tower that she sacrificed friends and enemies if they proved obstacles to her plans.

"I had hoped," I answered, vaguely, "now that Ferdinand was saved, that she might in some way be able to show us that your brother's dishonor is not so great as it appears."

"But could she explain away his writing?" asked Helena mournfully. "No; even if she feels remorse for her cruelty in torturing me, it is too late. I have eaten of the tree of knowledge, Mr. Haddon, and it is very bitter. Heaven has reversed my fate and yours. It is I who now have lost my self-respect, while you have gained—"

"No," I cried, bitterly, "I have failed utterly in my task. I dared hope for too much. I have dared too greatly in dreaming that I should find happiness in this Castle of Lies."

"But," she whispered, "I, too, have dared, Ernest, and I shall not forget."

"Helena!" I crushed her hands in mine. "Even now I refuse to despair. I will find this woman though I search the earth for her. She shall tell me everything, and perhaps even now—"

"Not even your love can bring about the impossible."

"But if it could— If by a miracle your brother's honor were shown to be stainless?"

"Ah, if you could work miracles—yes," she faltered.

The door was flung open brusquely. Locke stood at the threshold, his keen glance bent cynically on me.

"So you are quite yourself again?" He concealed his embarrassment by a gruff demeanor. "So much the better; for you must be off before the dawn, my friend."

"And where?" I demanded astonished and not a little piqued at his cool assurance.

"En route for America, if you are wise."

"You are settling my destiny in a rather highhanded manner," I cried, angrily. "And will you tell me why you dispose of me so summarily?"

"Why," replied he, with a quiet laugh, "I have promoted you—"

He became suddenly serious, glancing uneasily at Helena.

"Miss Bret, Capt. Forbes and myself will accompany you to your hotel presently. Will you wait here while I say a few words to Mr. Haddon?"

"But it is not possible that you still mistrust him after to-night?" she demanded with indignation.

"No, no," he assured her. "I would spare you from embarrassment; that is all."

"Come, then," I said, shortly.

when we had reached the gallery I saw to my astonishment that the hall below was empty. I listened and there was complete silence.

"What have Forbes and yourself done with your prisoners?" I demanded. In my perplexity I forgot to ask what Locke had meant in saying flippantly that he had promoted me.

"They are all gone but two," Locke answered cooly. He lighted a cigarette, and leaning on the gallery rail stared down into the hall. "Starva and Bratinau's bodies are in the dining-rooms, but their souls have been swiftly ferried across the Styx by old Charon. Nothing reminds us of our fight except the dark stain on the staircase carpet yonder. It was a good scrap while it lasted. Your shot winged Starva, as you probably know. I settled Bratinau. Forbes peppered away in the dark, and had fair luck. The man called Go on or Geeup, or something like that, got a shattered ankle, and the Servian a rather nasty wound in the thigh. As for the rest of the gentry, three of them rallied to your slogan and joined me at the staircase; the other two were easily settled with. Yes, it was a good fight, but much too short—especially for you, old chap." He shook his head despondently.

"But your prisoners?" I demanded again, irritated by his superfluous comments.

"It was Prince Ferdinand who insisted on their release."

"Their release!" I interrupted, furiously. "What incredible folly!"

"You remember that Starva and Bratinau were the only Bulgars among the conspirators, and they are dead. The two ringleaders are wounded badly enough to go to a hospital. Forbes himself has accompanied them there to see that they are not discharged until one of us is told. Practically they are prisoners. There remains Kuhn, Piteschti and Gingaja, the three men who showed that they had some instincts of humanity when it came to the crisis. The other two were arrant cowards; Ferdinand prefers to consider the three his loyal friends and two others powerless. He has set them at liberty."

"By Jove, his magnanimity or his folly will cost him dear."

"I am not so certain of that," resumed Locke, thoughtfully. "It is possible that he has made five friends of five enemies. You must remember that even if he wished to punish the conspirators he is powerless to do this without advertising to the world the intended uprising of the Balkan States."

"But their release will be the most effectual way of spreading the news."

"On the contrary, they cannot make it known without exposing themselves. If they do that, Ferdinand will see to it that their respective sovereigns quitely but effectually remove them. Each of them is so well known that they may be arrested at any time. Ferdinand shrewdly makes them hostages, as it were. The three certainly will exert their great influence to check the rebellion they themselves have fostered. As for Gornji and Gortschakoff, before they are released from the hospital the crisis will have passed."

"And are we left to account for the deaths of Starva and Bratinau as best we may?" I questioned anxiously.

"If you remember, I told you at Lucerne that I am an old newspaper man. It is impossible to hide the fact that an attack has been made on Prince Ferdinand here to-night. But an attack by his own countrymen that has proved a disastrous failure is quite a different thing from a deliberate gathering here of representatives of each of the Balkan States. Ferdinand has taken my advice to post in hot haste to Sofia. I shall see to it that this night's work does not get into the papers until 24 hours have passed. By that time he will have shown himself safe and sound in Sofia. The episode of the death-mask will have proved a complete fiasco. My story will make Prince Ferdinand a hero triumphant over his foes and not a weak king who was lured here unwittingly by his mistress to his doom."

"There still remains Jacques."

"Oh, Jacques," said Locke, with contempt. "He was only a tool of Starva's and a stupid tool at that. It was he who was to lower the flag at half-mast, it seems—to give the signal to the conspirators who were watching in the village. But when he rushed to the chamber window to lower the flag he found both rope and fastenings wrenched away. He supposed that the gale had done this, but seeing the flag at half-mast, the rope being caught in the pulley, he said nothing about the matter to Starva. I suspect that you were responsible for the lowering of the flag, and not the gale."

"I needed the rope," I said, shortly, too impatient to make further explanation. "And now for my last question: What the devil did you mean when you said that you had promoted me? And why this haste that I leave Alterhoffen?"

Court Rebukes Prompting Pastor.

While a German witness was on the stand in a license application case at New Brunswick Friday he became confused and the Rev. William F. Barney, pastor of the Milltown German Reformed church, who was on hand to oppose the license, made signs to prompt him. Judge Boraem indignantly said: "I don't care who it is, if such a thing is repeated in this courtroom the guilty one will be ordered out." The license was refused.

THE FIGHTING CHANCE

BY ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

ILLUSTRATED BY BERGER, RYDER AND JONES

IN this story the gifted author conducts the reader into the inner circle of New York society showing him the fast set in their giddy rounds of pleasure or their fierce combats for business supremacy. As he reads he will discover that happiness dwells in the human breast as much in the gloomy grandeur of a Fifth avenue mansion as in the cottage of the poor. So he finds his supreme interest and sympathy fixed upon the unhappy couple—old New Yorkers both of them—whose friends declare it would be the wildest folly for them to marry because of hereditary tendencies on both sides.

Has a man a fighting chance to overcome an inherited appetite for strong drink and to win a woman who, while admitting she loves him, deliberately chooses to sell herself for wealth and station?

Because the interest in this love affair and the author's brilliant satire on New York society nave made "THE FIGHTING CHANCE" the most eagerly sought and the most widely talked of novel of the year, we have secured the serial rights and will print it

WOMEN TO CAMP-OUT AT GREENWOOD LAKE.

The Misses Dorothea and Gerusha Appleby of Mountain avenue, Montclair, accompanied by Miss Estelle Hastings of Great Falls, Mont., are camping on the banks of Greenwood Lake, near Sterling Forest, Passaic county. The three young women left for the summer resore early Saturday morning. They will live in a bungalow belonging to Herman B. Appleby, father of the Miss Applebys. They expect to stay in camp for a month.

The notion of going into camp in the winter came as the result of a visit made a year ago by the Miss Applebys to the home of their friend, Miss Hastings, at her home in Montana. While there the three young women spent several weeks in camp in the Rocky Mountains, and obtained two Big Horn sheep, several antelope and black tail deer, as well as mountain trout, and land-locked salmon. In their invitation to Miss Hastings to come to Montclair and spend the Christmas holidays this year the Misses Appleby promised her some good hunting and fishing.

The young women expect to get well settled by the first of next week, and will then begin their hunting and fishing. They hope that their bill of fare for New Year's dinner will consist of a haunch of vension, wild duck, patridge, and other game.

The young women assert that it will take pretty cold weather to drive them home before the end of January.

CHAPEL 20 YEARS OLD

Hope to Celebrate Its Anniversary on New Year's Day and on Sunday.

REUNIONS ARE TO BE HELD.

All Old Members and Some Former Pastors to Take Part in the Interesting Exercises.

In celebration of the twentieth anniversary of its organization, Hope chapel's members are preparing an appropriate program that will begin Wednesday and end next Sunday. It will be one of the most auspicious occasions that the congregation has had to observe in a long time and will be in the nature of a big reunion.

Hope chapel was organized by members of the Crescent Avenue church and the first session was held on Sunday, January 1, 1888. There were four officers, five teachers and twenty-nine pupils, the beginning of what has since proved to be one of the largest Sunday-schools in the city and an institution that has accomplished great good in the section where it is located.

The celebration will begin on New Year's afternoon with an "open house" for all the chapel members and friends. Supper will be served from 4 until 8 o'clock and in the evening an entertainment is to be given. Not as part of the celebration, but in line with the program, the Boys' Club of the chapel will have a basketball game in the gymnasium tomorrow night and a watch night service will be held, commencing at 10:30.

The "feature" observance program will take place next Sunday. There will be special preaching in the morning and at night an anniversary address will be delivered by Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, of the St. Cloud church, Orange, who was Hope's first pastor and who remained ten years. At this service, an elaborate musical program will be given and all old members of the chapel are asked to hand in the names of their favorite hymns. In the regular Sunday-school lesson on Sunday afternoon, the time will be devoted to an anniversary reunion. It is hoped to have as many of the original officers, teachers and pupils as possible in attendance and the roll of January 1, 1888, will be called.

The speakers will be Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, Frederick H. Andrews, H. R. Munger, Rev. L. R. Howard, Rev. F. D. Tildon, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, and possibly Mr. Newell.

The roll call of original members is as follows: Pastor (temporary), Rev. Dr. William R. Richards; superintendent, Henry C. Squires; musical leader, F. H. Andrews; secretary, Charles Hunter; pianist, Miss Nellie Day; teachers, F. H. Andrews, H. R. Munger, Stephen R. Struthers, Mrs. S. R. Struthers, Miss Jessie Day; pupils, George Firstbrook, Sr., William Firstbrook, Sr., Mrs. William Firstbrook, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Stewart, Frederick Pearce, Robert Laughlin, George H. Fountain, Fred C. Morris, Amos Andrews and Benjamin Hand, comprising Mr. Munger's bible class; George E. Firstbrook, William Stewart, George Weston and Fred Firstbrook in Mr. Struther's class; Mrs. Mary Johnson, Miss Lavinia Weston in Mr. Andrews' class; Miss Lizzie Mowinkle and Miss Lena Mowinkle in Mrs. Struther's class; Miss Alma Johnson, Miss Lizzie Firstbrook and Miss May Mowinkle in Miss Jessie Day's class; Willie Tunison, Bertie Firstbrook, Mabel Firstbrook, Eda Tunison and Willie Firstbrook in the primary class. The visitors were W. H. Sampson, Henry B. Newhall, Harry Newhall and William H. Hillman.

The anniversary as a whole is being arranged by Rev. L. R. Howard and G. H. Condict, superintendent of the Sunday-school, while the supper for Wednesday is in charge of the following committee: Mrs. L. R. Howard, chairman; Mrs. Thomas Hendry, Mrs. William Gray, Mrs. Harry Corliss, Mrs. James Herron, Mrs. Frederick Weber and Mrs. Donald McInniss.

TRUST MAY LOWER MILK RATE.

Fight by Small Jersey Dealers Said to Have Cut Its Profits.

Montclair, Dec. 30.—The fight of the small dealers against the increase of price by the big milk dealers may force the large concerns to cut their rates according to those familiar with conditions in the milk trade in this part of New Jersey.

There has been a general protest over the recent heavy advances hereabout, and the small independent milkmen who supply a part of the trade have obtained many new customers by refraining from charging the higher prices. In November the big concerns advanced the price 1 and 2 cents on the different grades of milk. They alleged that the advance in price paid the farmed for milk, the increased cost of feed, and the expense entailed by compliance with modern hygienic demands made the business unprofitable at the lower figure.

—The Plainfield public schools will reopen after the holiday vacation on Monday, January 6.

URGES TARIFF REFORM, AS DEMOCRATS' SLOGAN

In an interview in a New York morning paper, former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., the recognized leader of New Jersey Democracy, says that tariff reform should be the party slogan for the next Presidential campaign.

"In my opinion," says Senator Emith, "tariff reform is not only the paramount issue for the next Presidential campaign, but the only issue distinctly Democratic that has not been appropriated by the Republicans. With tariff revision as the issue and the proper candidate to stand for it, the Democratic party, in my opinion, can be successful, and the sooner the Democratic leaders realize this the better it will be for their party and for the people of this country generally.

"If we are not careful our Republican friends may steal the tariff question as an issue. The late President McKinley advocated it with almost his dying words, and President Roosevelt has made it a subject of a message to Congress."

NEW JERSEY WILL BE WITHOUT A CHANCELLOR

New Jersey will soon be without a Chancellor for a whole week. The term of Chancellor William J. Magie expires January 14, and his successor cannot be named by Governor Stokes because of a provision of the Constitution prohibiting the Governor from making an appointment in the closing hours of his administration. The appointment must accordingly go over until after the inauguration of Governor-elect Fort on January 21. It is expected, however, that the naming of a new Chancellor will be one of the first official acts of the incoming executive.

Chancellor Magie is 75 years old, and his age is being urged as a reason against his reappointment. He is still in good health, however, and his friends feel that his years should not count against him. The situation is a peculiarly embarrassing one for Governor-elect Fort, in view of the fact that he must soon make an appointment of a successor to Supreme Court Justice Charles E. Hendrickson. Mr. Hendrickson has also reached an advanced age and is in poor health, and yet he is a personal friend of the Governor-elect, his sister having married Mr. Fort's brother, and it is the desire of the new executive to reappoint him. Judge Fort is also said to be desirous of naming a new Chancellor, and his associates are wondering how he will turn down Chancellor Magie on the age limit and not Justice Hendrickson.

—The Senior Class of the Plainfield High School will give a dance and supper at Truell Hall, tonight.

CITY FATHERS HEAR THE OFFICIAL ANNUAL REPORTS

Review of Year's Work in Various Departments of the City Government.

MUCH WORK IS ACCOMPLISHED.

Building Inspector, City Judge, City Physician and Councilmanic Committees Make Reports.

The Common Council for 1907 held its final meeting last night and concluded all business for the year, prior to the Council for 1908, taking up the reins of city government at 12 o'clock tomorrow noon. The last session for the year was devoted to the consideration of a number f matters of more or less importance and to the expression of regret and good will to the retiring members, President Daniel and Councilmen Mellick and Ginna. All of the unfinished business in the way of petitions was referred to the 1908 body and will come up next year.

Corporation Counsel Marsh advised the members concerning an old petition from F. J. Harris regarding the taxes on certain property, a question having arisen as to who paid the tax. The property was sold under the Martin act and Mr. Harris is desirous of getting possession of it. Mr. Marsh suggested that he could apply for a deed of bargain and if the city desires it has the authority by law to sell the property to the petitioner in the usual way. It appears that the tax was paid on the property during certain recent years and Mr. Marsh advised that the city has the right to deduct this amount in settlement. The matter was referred to next year's Common Council.

New Building Ordinance.

Building Inspector Doane reported that six permits were granted during December and in his annual report he stated that in all 278 permits were issued during the year, representing a total valuation of $637,000, in new buildings and additions. He recommended a new building ordinance, believing that the city had outgrown the present one and new conditions are constantly arising. He also suggested that a more safe place be secured for the keeping of building plans which are kept one file. This report was referred to the 1908 body.

City Physician's Work.

Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, city physician, reported 125 visits to the Industrial Home, 179 visits to the poor sick of the city, 106 miscellaneous visits and sixty-four visits to police headquarters on emergency calls, etc.

Horace G. Adams, clerk of the district court, reported receipts for the past month of $177.87 and expenditures of $42.42, leaving a balance of $135.45 turned over to the city treasurer.

Firemen's Pension Fund.

The semi-annual report of Treasurer Andrew Jennings, of the Firemen's Pension Fund, showed a balance of $2,631.70. All of these reports were filed. The reports of the chief of police, chief of the fire department and city engineer were presented and filed without reading, because of the fact that all that is important concerning them are published in another part of The Daily Press today.

City Judge's Report.

The annual report of City Judge William N. Runyon showed that he has disposed of 742 cases in all, of which number 75 were sent to the county jail, 20 were dismissed, 125 fined, 6 turned over to the juvenile court, 9 are still pending, 14 put in charge of the probation officer and sentence was suspended on 490. The total received in knes was $841, of which $69 was paid to Chief iKely for expenses and his share of the money received from certain cases. The net balance turned over to the city treasurer was $702.

Shade Tree Commission.

The shade tree commission, composed of E. T. Barrows, A. J. Gavett and Miles Roberts, presented a brief report, showing that many trees in the city have been sprayed and that under the direction of R. P. Gay, an expert forester, the tree trimming process has been progressing and the Public Service Corporation has been installing new electric wiring throughout the city. Mr. Gay's salary is paid by the company. It was recommended that a uniform height for street lights be adopted. There is a question as to the right of the commission to remove trees and this part of the work has been omitted. The report states that a bulletin is being prepared concerning the work and will be ready for distribution early next year. Of the $1,200 appropriated for the work by the city, $1,093.99 has been expended, leaving a balance of $106.01. The report was filed.

Petitions Referred.

The petition from Mrs. L. C. Hurtt for remission of taxes was reported back by Mr. Tolles with the advice of the corporation counsel that the Common Council had no power to act. Mrs. Hurtt will be so informed. The same member also reported back the petitions of Dorothy M. Stewart, R. W. Emerson and Julia V. Keely, administrator and they were referred to next year's Common Council, as were also several petitions reported back by Mr. Hibbard. Mr. Tyler reported back the petition from the Town Improvement Association regarding billboards and moved that it be referred to the corporation counsel with instructions that he advise next year's body what power, ways and means it will have in the matter. Mr. Tyler also turned over a batch of petitions to be referred to the incoming body, as did also Councilmen Frank Randolph and Montgomery.

Water Commission.

As a retiring member of the water investigating commission, Mr. Mellick reported that many meetings had been held and that the engineering committee had accomplished a great deal of work which will be reported upon early next year. He offered a resolution, which was adopted, that the commission be continued and that it be instructed to report to the 1908 body.

After Stenographer George B. Wean had read the minutes of the last meeting and they were approved, the Common Council for 1907 adjourned not to meet again.

Some of the annual reports, in brief, follows:

CHIEF DOANE REPORTS DEPARTMENT'S WORK

Following is an abstract of Chief Doane's report:

"According to the requirements of the City Ordinance governing the Fire Department, I herewith tender this my twentieth, annual report of the condition and operation of the Fire Department under your control; giving the number of fires, the amount of insurance and losses as nearly as they could be ascertained.

"The manual force of the department ils divided into two classes, permanent and call men. The permanent force consists of: 1, chief engineer; 1, assistant engineer; 3, captains of companies; 1, driver of chief's wagon; 1, tillerman; 5, drivers of apparatus; 5, hose and pipe men; the call force consists of: 1, captain; 1, engineer of steamer; 1, veterinary surgeon; 24, privates. There were two full-paid men added to the department this year, and would respectfully recommend that two more men be added next year.

Hose.

"We have in use in the department 6,000 feet of good hose; about 1,300 feet of hose which should be sold. There should be purchased 1,000 feet of new hose next year.

Fires and Alarms.

"There have been 129 alarms during the year, an increase of 30 over last year.

Insurance and Losses.

"Loss on building, $18,330.10; insurance on buildings, $171,100; loss on contents, $18,951.25; insurance on contents, $263,090; total amount of insurance, $434,190; total amount of insurance collected, $17,841.35; total loss insured and uninsured, $37,281.35; value of property involved: Buildings, $288,700; personal, $233,800; total, $522,500.

Water Supply.

"The water pressure throughout the city is about 75 pounds, except in the Eastern end of the city, where it will probably average about 40 pounds.

Recapitulation and Recommendations

"No. 3 Engine House has been repaired and painted, new brick laid in front, and the house is now as good as new.

"The old floor and beams in No. 1 Engine House were removed and new beams put in and the floor relaid with 1 7-8 inch maple. Also the front door openings were widened and the old doors replaced with new ones.

"I would recommend that the old brick tower, and the present partition, be removed, and the stone walk in front replaced with cement, which would make that house a first-class, up-to-date engine house.

"There should be a heater placed in No. engine house to keep the water warm in the engine boiler, so that the engine could be placed in service in ten seconds; under present conditions it takes from fifteen to twenty minutes. When we need this

3 YR. LIGHTING CONTRACT

P.S.C. Agrees on $15 Rate for Incandescent and $85 Rate for Arc Lights.

FIVE YEAR TERM FOR ARCS.

Corporation Also Promises to Remove High Tension Wires—New Council to Ratify the Contract.

One of the most important matters presented at the final meeting of the Common Council for 1907 last night, was the report of the special committee which has had in charge the making of a new contract with the Public Service Corporation for electric light. The report was offered by Mayor C. J. Fisk, Corporation Counsel Marsh and President Daniel, to whom it was referred as a special committee. Accompanying it was a lengthy statement prepared by Dr. F. A. C. Perrine, of New York, the electrical expert engaged by the committee to assist it in the work in the interest of the city.

According to the report the company agrees to furnish the city with incandescent lights of 25 candle power for $15 per year and arc lights up to the number of fifty for $35 per year and for over fifty a charge of $80 per light will be made. It is optional with the city as to the installation of the arch lights. The company further agrees to remove all high tension wires of 5,000 voltage or over within a reasonable time and in all new work to conform to approved methods suggested by the city.

It is further stated by the committee that the company would not agree to a one year contract and at first insisted on a five year agreement. A compromise was secured, however, the company agreeing to make a three year contract for incandescent lights and a five year contract for arc lights.

The suggestion was made by Mr. Tyler that each member of the Common Council be furnished with a copy of the report, but when Mayor Fisk explained that this would be impossible within a few days, it was finally agreed to let the matter go over until next year.

The report carried with a resolution that a fair contract be drafted and filed in the office of the Mayor by today so that the matter can be taken up with the company and the new Council at the earliest possible time. This will be done and when the new Common Council takes office the contract will probably be among the first to receive consideration.

SENIOR CLASS DANCE HELD AT TRUELL HALL

Among the pleasant holiday festivities was the cotillion given at Truell Hall, last night, by the members of the senior class of the Plainfield High School, and it was a complete success. Including the members of the class and their friends there were about fifty young people present and through the courtesy of Mrs. J. R. Truell they were given the freedom of the popular resort.

The large ballroom was set apart for dancing and all were delighted with the arrangement. Miss Mary Collier presided at the piano and furnished an attractive program. An extra figure much enjoyed was entitled "Paul Jones." Miss Hope Miller and Stanley Karner led the cotillion and they introduced many novel figures. About midnight a fine supper was served in the private dining room, which Mrs. Truell also permitted the young people to occupy. Just before the affair terminated at 2 o'clock this morning all joined in an old-fashioned barn dance. The committee in charge of the dance comprised Stanley Karner, chairman; Miss Esther Crampton, Miss Elsie Knowlton and Miss Sarah Sanderson.

Second Theatre Meeting.

The second of the present series of Y. M. C. A. theatre meetings will be held at the New Plainfield theatre Sunday afternoon. Rev. Dr. W. H. Morgan, pastor of the Central Methodist church, of Newark, will be the speaker and a special musical program has been arranged. The choir of the First Presbyterian church will be in attendance and Miss Anna L. Case, one of its members, will be the soloist.

Pine Yetman's Funeral.

The funeral of Pine Yetman, who died at his home on Fillmore avenue, yesterday morning, will be held at Mount Olive church Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be at Hillside cemetery.

—On January 2, 1908, U. G. Pierson, the butcher, will remove from East Fifth street to 426 Watchung avenue. ***

FIGHT FOR INJUNCTION

Complaints Close Their Case in Effort to Have Factory Suppressed.

OVER FAT FACTORY SMELLS.

The Defense Will Put More Witnesses on Stand on Friday, January 24.

Owing to the number of witnesses yet to be called by the defense, it was impossible to conclude the hearing yesterday in the case of Miles M. Reusch and others against Theodore Glazier, Jr., before Vice-Chancellor Walker in the Council Chamber. In an effort to make permanent the temporary injunction restraining Glazier from continuing to operate his fat rending factory at Alton, the plaintiffs have thus far called twenty-five or thirty witnesses and Judge Newcorn, of counsel for the defendant, says that he will probably have in the neighborhood of forty witnesses.

When the hearing was resumed yesterday afternoon the complainants finished their side of the case with the calling of Mrs. Kate Tietz, wife of Ernest Tietz, who was a witness in the morning, and George H. Johnson, clerk of the Board of Health at Fanwood. They testified to the bad odor coming from the factory and Mr. Johnston gave dates of complaints made against Glazier. He had visited the place and had detected the smell, which he considered objectionable.

The defendant opened his side of the case by calling Charles Frentz, former clerk of the Board of Health of Fanwood; Max Reidell, a farmer residing in the vicinity of the factory; Charles H. Hand, who had visited the vicinity a number of times negotiating for the sale of F. M. Masker's farm, and H. C. Van Emburgh, civil engineer, who gave all the distances in that neighborhood showing how close to the factory the houses are situated. According to his testimony the nearest dwelling to the factory is a quarter of a mile, while some are a half and three-quarters of a mile away. Mr. Hand did not detect any objectionable odor when he visited the vicinity, he said.

Mr. Frentz said that he could see no reason for so much complaint against Glazier. He had investigated the premises and saw nothing that was particularly objectionable. He admitted though that many complaints had been made, petitions circulated to abolish the alleged nuisance and that Glazier had been convicted of violating a section of the health code.

Another witness called for the defense was Miss Edith Parsell, who formerly worked for F. M. Masker. She said that she had lived near the factory for three years and the odor was not objectionable to her. This concluded the taking of testimony for the day and the hearing was adjourned to Friday, January 24, when the defense will resume. It is believed that at least two more days will be required to complete the examination of witnesses.

DEBUT OF MISS LOWE AT THE ST. REGIS

A brilliant reception was given yesterday by Mrs. William E. Lowe, formerly of this city, but now of 67 East Sixty-sixth street, New York, at the St. Regis, to introduce her daughter, Miss Margaret Lowe. The affair was largely attended by New York and out-of-town society.

Miss Lowe, in a gown of white chiffon, trimmed with Irish lace, and carrying orchids, and Mrs. Lowe, in a heliotrope gown, received in the Louis XVI drawing room. They were assisted by Miss Eleanor Waring, Miss Anna Fisk, Miss Helen Timpson, Miss Florence Stewart, of this city; Miss Margaret Hayes, Eleanor Fowler, Louise Taft, Laura Merrick, Mrs. Henry Lowe and Mrs. Frederick Mead Shepard. Tea was served in the gold and white ballroom. After the reception Mrs. Lowe gave a dinner, followed by a theatre party.

Shooting Match.

A shooting match, fifty birds to a man, $50 a side, will be the attraction at Thomas Brantingham's Hotel Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The match will be between Samuel Adams and Thomas Brantingham and F. C. Bissett, of South River, and J. S. Booraem, of New Brunswick. Following this match, others of minor importance will be arranged for to be followed by sweepstakes.

TEN YEARS OF SERVICE

What Mayor Smalley Has Achieved During a Decade in the Borough.

THE BEST MAYOR IT EVER HAD.

All Sorts of Splendid Improvements Made by a Model Executive—Some Here Enumerated.

Mayor Newton B. Smalley will retire at 12 o'clock tomorrow noon as the chief executive of North Plainfield after ten years of faithful and conscientious service in the interest of that municipality. As he retires, Mayor-elect Samuel Townsend will assume the duties of the office and take up the reins of the borough government.

There are not a few regrets expressed in all quarters over the retirement of Mayor Smalley for he has often been referred to as "the best Mayor North Plainfield ever had." The fact that he has not been a mere figure head, but an active official, has resulted in the accomplishment of many reformss and improvements in the borough.

A glance backward over the ten years shows that under Mayor Smalley's administration and personal supervision, Somerset street has been widened, and a storm sewer installed in that thoroughfare. Duer street was opened into the city, and up-to-date street signs placed throughout the borough. One of the most notable improvements was the establishment of a paid fire department, abolishing the volunteer system and the erection of a modern and fully equipped fire headquarters at an expense of $12,000, where the department, as well as the Borough Council is comfortably housed. The old engine house has since been improved and made a suitable place for the police department.

Another fact not to be overlooked in the Mayor's administration is that in the appointment of borough officials he has selected men who have closely followed the executive's idea of good government and he has had their united support in the strict enforcement of the borough ordinances. Mayor Smalley in retiring from office pays the highest tribute to his associates in an official position and his one request to the incoming mayor is that he will reappoint those who have served with him in the past.

OFFERS SMALLEY BLDG. TO CITY FOR $39,000

The proposition of David T. Kenney, now owner of the Smalley building on North avenue, where the city offices are located and where the Common Council meets, to sell that building to the city for $39,000, was presented to the Common Council at its final meeting for the year last night in a communication from the owner. He stated that the building is 48x75 and that there is a $20,000 five per cent. mortgage on the property. He also stated that the purchased the property as an investement and not for speculation. The communication was referred to the finance committee.

Later in the evening the Common Council took a recess to consider the proposition and it was decided to refer the matter to the new Council. According to the terms of the lease which the city made with Woolston & Buckle, who were then owners of the property, the city is required to give a three months' notice of any intended change, whether it be to purchase the property or move. It is quite likely that the new Council will take prompt action on the proposition male by Mr. Kenney in order to settle the matter one way or the other as early as possible.

L. T. L. Christmas Entertainment.

Under the direction of Mrs. Alvah TenEyck, superintendent, the members of the Loyal Temperance Legion enjoyed their Christmas festival last night in the W. C. T. U. rooms. While the storm kept a few away the room was filled to overflowing with children and their friends. The program comprised the singing of Christmas carols, recitations and several drills, in all twenty-two children taking part. Their work showed careful training on the part of Mrs. TenEyck. At the conclusion of the program boxes of candy and oranges were distributed.

THANKS CITY OFFICIALS

Mayor Fisk Pays Fitting Tribute to Three Retiring Members of the Council.

PRAISES PUBLIC SERVANTS.

Messrs. Daniel, Mellick, Ginna and Gavett Come in For Good Share of Eulogistic Words.

Mayor Fisk formally bid farewell to the three retiring members of the body at the final meeting of 1907's Common Council, last night, incidently thanking all the city officials for their work during the year.

The Mayor said:

"Before this Council adjourns I have a word I want to say to it. This is probably the last meeting of the Council of 1907; this has been a busy year; you have done good work, you have accomplished a great deal you have been faithful; and in your duty toward the public I feel very grateful to the Common Council for the support they have given me.

"Next year we shall miss three members of the Common Council; our president, Mr. Daniel; Mr. Mellick, and Mr. Ginna. Three new members have been elected to take their places. Without reflecting in any way upon the new members I want to say to you, the city has lost three valuable servants; three men who have devoted a great deal of time and attention to the city's business. I am sorry that they will not be with us next year.

"In Mr. Daniel we have a most excellent official—as a public official, as president of the Common Council, as member of the police board, and in every way a man it is a credit to have served with and have been associated with in city work. The same may be said of Mr. Mellick, and the same could be said of Mr. Ginna; and I want to say to those gentlemen that I for one,—and I think it reflects the sentiments of the other members of the Council—will say, we part with all three with regret. We are sorry you are going to leave us; we are glad to have served with you, and we want to wish you a Happy New Year and in the years to come more success in every way. I want to have you look back upon your service for the city as one of the pleasantest times of your lives, and I am sure each other member of the Common Council agrees with me in what I have expressed.

"The other members of the Council will be here the coming year, and we are glad that you are going to be here; I am glad I am sure, because I feel every member is devoting his time to the city without any cause or feeling that he is to be remunerated in any other way than the pleasure and gratification of having done his duty toward the public.

"It has been a pleasure for me, as executive and as Mayor, to serve with you. I trust that during the next year our relations will be as pleasant as they have been in the past; and to the in-coming members I extend to them the most hearty welcome, and I am sure when they have once taken up the work that we shall find we have with us very efficient officers.

"The other heads of departments in the city—the city clerk, the stenographer, the city treasurer, the chief of the fire department, the chief of police, the overseer of the poor, the city physician, and the city judge, we have officials that any city can be proud of. I find them all efficient, willing, capable men; and the citizens of Plainfield should congratulate themselves that they have such a force of men in charge of the various city affairs. And I should not overlook our very efficient street commissioner, Mr. Andrew J. Gavett. He is a man that stands above and is an example to other men in the same position. The amount of work he has done this year is tremendous. He has been up against a great many obstacles. His report received tonigat is very satisfactory and should be taken up and read by every citizen in Plainfield. It answers all the questions that are necessary to answer in regard to the work and the difficulties that he has been up against, and I hope that the in-coming Council will order that report, with other reports, taken from the files and printed in pamphlet form that all the citizens of Plainfield may have the advantage of knowing what has been done.

"Now, gentlemen, I wish you all a very Happy and Prosperous New Year. I am glad I have been with you, and, as I have said before, I am sorry to part with such men as Mr. Daniel, Mr. Mellick and Mr. Ginna." (Applause.)

Thanking Mayor Fisk and his colleagues, Mr. Mellick expressed regret that his term of office was about to expire. He agreed with Mr. Fisk as to the pleasant words said about President Daniel and Mr. Ginna. He

ARNOLD TO GET A PLUM

Former Councilman Will Succeed Rowley as the Borough's Clerk.

TO RETAIN ALL THE OTHERS.

Townsend to Run Borough Government Irrespective of Party Politics—Appointments in the City.

Only one change will be made by the incoming mayor of North Plainfield at noon tomorrow, Samuel Townsend, who succeeds Newton B. Smalley, having announced that he will retain all appointive officials excepting the borough clerk. Frank Rowley, who has held the office for a number of years, is to be retired. In his place, Mayor Townsend will nominate former Councilman James W. Arnold. Both are Republicans and therefore it is said there is no political significance in the appointment.

Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed, Fire Chief Howard Woolston, Chief Marshal George Weiss and Overseer of the Poor Fred Becker will be retained in office.

In the city, Mayor Fisk will have several appointments to make. Among them will be four assessors. He has already announced the names of three, Harry C. VanEmburgh, William T. Kirk and Harry C. Runyon. The nominee for the Second ward is still in doubt, some being of the opinion that Charles H. Hand may be reappointed. Lewis G. Timpson has announced his withdrawal from the contest. John H. Doane believes his prospects are bright. But no one but the mayor knows and he won't tell until tomorrow noon.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh and Overseer of the Poor Alexander Ayres will both be reappointed.

SPICY STORY IN THIS BREACH OF PROMISE

The announcement that Stephen B. Joseph, of North Plainfield, will be the defendant in a breach of promise suit to be tried at the Y. M. C. A. Friday night, under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., has aroused unusual interest and everyone is anxious to know the name of the plaintiff. It is expected that the question as to whether the affections of fair woman shall be trifled with, her tender heart rent asunder and her future blighted, will be settled once and for all.

All of the participants have been secured for the mock trial and the arrangements for the affair completed. City Judge William N. Runyon will preside, Frank H. Smith will be the clerk of the court, Martin A. Stutsman the court officer, B. F. Coriell the court crier, while Col. A. V. Newton, of Worcester, Mass., will be the plintiff's counsel. Winfield S. Angleman will represent the defendant.

The broken-hearted plaintiff will be Mrs. E. A. Lowe. The following will be witnesses: Mrs. James S. Pray, Mrs. J. H. Cooley, Dr. D. C. Adams, L. B. Woolston and W. W. Warnock. This will be the jury, tried and true, Mayor Charles J. Fisk, foreman; W. R. Codington, H. W. Marshall, C. A. Sturtevant, E. A. Lowe, J. S. Higham, J. Hervey Doane, E. J. Cooley, James F. Buckle, Henry Woodland, Alonzo Brokaw and Henry Liefke.

New Year's at Y. M. C. A.

New Year's evening at the Young Women's Christian Association surely will be filled with surprises. An evening of mistification is the announcement on the posters, and all members are invited to come and be mistified. Each member is privileged also to bring a friend as her guest for the evening. A delightful time is promised.

Rector and Wife Will Receive.

Rev. George A. Warner, the rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, and Mrs. Warner, will hold a New Year's Day reception at the rectory on Washington avenue, tomorrow afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock, to which they invite all members of the parish and any others who may be interested.

In the City Court.

Walter Robinson, colored, of East Third street, charged by Mrs. Adelaide Margentino with disorderly conduct, pleaded guilty when arraigned in the city court this morning. Judge Runyon lectured him and afterward suspended sentence.

—U. G. Pierson, the butcher, will remove on January 2, 1908, from East Fifth street to 426 Watchung avenue. ***

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

About the surest and quickest way to unpopularity is to squelch people.

A man does not wear his diamond collar button on the back of his neck.

If you want criticism of your own work, tell your friends it is the work of some one else.

A man never discovers what a remarkable memory he has until he is trying his hardest to forget.

You become tired of pulling your boat up stream, but if you lay down your oars to rest for an hour you will drift backward farther than you can recover in a day.—Atchison Globe.

Life Saving Clothes.

A Norweigen inventor has presented a suit of clothes which will protect its wearer against drowning. The clothes are lined with a nonabsorbent material made of specially prepared vegetable fibre which without being too heavy will effectually hold up the weight of a man in the water. Twelve ounces of the new material will, it is claimed, save a person from sinking. The invention has been tested with favorable results at Christiania. Successful trials were also made with rugs made of the same material capable of supporting two persons in the water.

Dancing Barred in State Armory.

Vice-Chancellor Walker has signed an order, which was filed with the chancery clerk Saturday, enjoining the use of the Second Regiment Armory at Trenton for roller skating or dancing. The order will continue in force pending a hearing on January 6 before Vice-Chancellor Learning, at Camden. The application for the order was made by John H. Backes, as counsel for men interested in the roller skating rinks of the city.

Flirted, Courted Two Days.

Mrs. Julia Singer, of Trenton, has just been granted a divorce by the Court of Chancery from her husband, Nathan Singer, of Philadelphia, whom she married a year ago after a two days' courtship, following a street flirtation. She charged that her husband deserted her in less than a week, leaving her stranded in Philadelphia; also, that he was a gambler and that he ordered her to make a living for him.

Three Raisers.

It may be intersting to recall the names given in Germany to the present kaiser and his two predecessors. The first was "der greise kaiser," the second "der weise kaiser" and the present "der reise kaiser." It is perhaps hardly necessary to say that this means "the gray emperor, the wise emperor and the traveling emperor," but, at any rate, the names are a happy inspiration.—London Globe.

THE CENTURY MAGAZINE IN 1908

"The best has been none too good for this publication, which has been such an important factor in the cultural development of the American people in the past three decades and which promises to be an especially important factor in the future."
—Boston Globe

¶ In the magazine world the one by which the rest are measured has always been and is today THE CENTURY.

¶ Ask writers where their best productions are first offered,

¶ Ask public men where articles carry the most weight,

¶ Ask the public what magazine is the choice among people of real influence,

¶ The answer is the same,

"In all the feverish desire of magazine makers to cater to the superficial taste, the makers of THE CENTURY have stood firmly by the ideal of the best in literature, art, and thought"; and THE CENTURY MAGAZINE today is one of the finest monuments to their genius and one of the greatest forces in the literary life and culture of the nation."
—Minneapolis Journal

THE CENTURY

The best of fiction, and of popular scientific articles, the most richly worth while biographical articles, the finest and best pictorial features, will be found in THE CENTURY during 1908. There will be "The Reminiscences of Lady Randolph Churchill," the story of the beautiful American girl who shared her brilliant husband's brilliant social and political successes during one of the most interesting periods of English history.

Prof. Percival Lowell will discuss "Mars as a Possible Abode of Life"—fascinating, authoritative papers, intended specially for unscientific readers. All Helen Keller's recent poetry and prose writings—by far her most remarkable work—will appear in THE CENTURY in 1908. And Dr. S. Weir Mitchell has written the fiction serial of the year, "The Red City," a delightful historical novel of Old Philadelphia, continuing his famous "Hugh Wynne."

No magazine today publishes such remarkable color pages as THE CENTURY; in no other magazine are to be found so many illustrations suitable for framing, and really worth while. For 1908 M. de Ivanowski is painting portraits of the most noted opera singers. There will be more of Cole's beautiful wood-engravings, description and illustration of new processes in photography, and scores of pages in color, tint, and photogravure.

Subscription Price $4.00 a year.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE STREET CAMMITTEE

"We submit herewith our annual report of work done and moneys received and expended during the year 1907.

Permanent Pavement.

"After considerable discussion and delay, your committee presented an ordinance to the Common Council on April 9, last, calling for the improvement of certain streets with brick pavement, which was amended by the addition of North avenue to the list of streets. On May 6th a public hearing was given and on May 15 the vote on the adoption of the ordinance on second reading was reconsidered and an ordinance, including North avenue, was introduced and adopted on second reading. A resolution was also adopted that the Public Service Corporation be notified that an ordinance had been adopted on second reading, providing for brick pavement on certain streets. A hearing was advertised for June 3, and on this date the ordinance was referred back to the committee for further consideration. On June 10 the ordinance was placed back on second reading, North avenue was eliminated from the list of streets proposed, and notice of a hearing on July 1 was given. After this hearing the ordinance was adopted on third reading and final passage. On July 15 a resolution was adopted to advertise for bids; these were received on August 5, and after securing a report on the relative qualities of the bricks proposed to be used, the contract was awarded to Charles M. Meeker, of this city, on August 12.

"On August 29 the contractor started work on the storm sewer in Park avenue, and on September 16 began excavating Park avenue for the pavement. On October 7 a petition was received by the Common Council from the Public Service Corporation asking permission to rearrange its tracks in Watchung avenue and East Front street so that the double track would extend from Watchung avenue near East Fourth street to the double track already in West Front street, and this permission was granted by resolution adopted October 14. The company started at once with the double tracking and also laid grooved rails on a part of West Front street, finishing their work about December first.

"The pavement is being constructed with a foundation of five inches of Portland cement concrete (mixed one part cement, three parts sand and five parts broken stone), a sand cushion one and one-half inches thick and 'Brady's Run' vitrified brick on edge. The bricks are furnished by the Pennsylvania Clay Company and have proved very durable in other cities. They were used in the Watchung avenue pavement constructed three years ago. The joints of the bricks are filled with Portland cement, to hold the bricks in place and protect the corners from chipping.

Three-fifths of the work under this contract has been completed. Raymond Bonham served as assistant and I. S. Randolph and J. F. Casey, Jr., as inspectors on construction of brick pavement.

"Pruden's Alley was paved with Hassam concrete pavement, (the abutting property owners contributing $600 for the work) and has proved a very satisfactory improvement.

Repair Work.

"It has required most of the time of the street force for the past few months to take care of the macadam and crosswalk stone removed to make room for the brick pavement, and a number of streets have been repaired with the trap rock, though they have not been fully completed. Work of this kind has been done on East and West Third, East Fifth, East and West Sixth, East Seventh, West Second and Church streets, and it was expected to surface East Front street from Watchung avenue to Richmond street and to use some of the Telford stone on East Second and West Third streets.

"The work of re-surfacing Park avenue was continued, but was not completed from Martine avenue to a point north of Cedar Brook, as the sanitary sewer was in process of construction on this section of the street.

"Repair work was also done on Watchung avenue, Richmond street, Kensington avenue, Webster place, Evergreen avenue, Berkeley avenue, Prospect avenue, Cushing road, Woodland avenue, Terrill road, South avenue, West Fifth street, Randolph road, Arlington avenue, Columbia avenue, Madison avenue and Clinton avenue.

Slag Streets.

"By the courtesy of the Pond Machine Tool Company, slag has been furnished free of charge to the city for use on streets in the vicinity of the works, and Evona avenue, begun last year, has been completed; Hunter avenue and the part of West Third street between Clinton and Evona avenues have also been graded and paved with slag. Grading is now in progress on West Third street, east of Clinton avenue, preparatory to similar improvement.

New Macadamizing.

"The contract begun by C. M. Meeker in 1906 was completed this year and included the following streets: Division street between West Fifth and West Sixth streets, Park terrace, Berkeley avenue between Park terrace and Leland avenue, Webster place south of Putnam avenue, Berckman street between South Avenue and East Seventh street, Richmond street between Putnam and Watchung avenues, Kensington avenue between Watchung and Prospect avenue and John street.

"Contracts for new macadamizing work were awarded this year to three contractors, as follows:

"To the Hassam Paving Company for West Second street, between Liberty street and Plainfield avenue.

"To Warren B. Travell for Randolph road, between Arlington avenue and Cedar Brook, Cottage place, Park lane, Elmwood place and College place.

"To C. M. Meeker for Arlington place, Denmark road, south of Berkeley avenue, Sycamore street, between East Fourth and East Fifth streets, Hillside avenue, south of Evergreen avenue and West End avenue.

"All of the above work has been completed except Arlington place and West End avenue, and work on the latter is well advanced.

"Evergreen avenue was macadamized from curb to curb by the Central Park Realty Company, the sidewalks were flagged, concrete curb constructed, shade trees set out and sanitary sewer put in, all at the expense of the company, and the city was not asked to accept the street until after these improvements were completed.

"No assessment has yet been made for either the 1906 nor the 1907 contracts, but the committee has paid $2,500 from the year's appropriation as a part of the city's proportion of the cost of the work under these contracts, in addition to the sum of $2,243.74 paid from this year's appropriation for the city's proportion of the cost of macadamizing Monroe avenue, Lee place, Spooner avenue, Norwood avenue, Carlton avenue and Denmark road, between Belvidere and Berkeley avenues.

"As usual, some work has been done with the steam roller for contractors in macadamizing streets, the cost of which has been paid by the contractors, but has been included in the amount shown on the schedule for each street.

Storm Sewers.

"The storm sewer in Richmond street from East Fifth street to North avenue, begun in October, 1906, was completed this year and has proved a great benefit to the street. The upper section is circular in form, 33 inches in diameter, the next section 3 feet by 4 feet, with arched roof and nearly flat bottom while the outlet section constructed a year earlier is rectangular, 3 feet high and 4 feet wide, of reinforced concrete, this shape being rendered necessary by its very shallow depth. The pipe from the old 15 inch storm sewer between the railroad and East Sixth street was used to construct a storm sewer in Putnam avenue from Franklin place to Cedar Brook, allowing the long open gutter across Franklin place at Putnam avenue to be filled up.

"In connection with the brick paving, storm water was provided for by a fifteen inch sewer in Park avenue and an eighteen inch sewer in Watchung avenue, each extending from East Fourth street to the railroad. The culverts on Park and Watchung avenues, where they were crossed by the trolley tracks, always gave a great deal of trouble, which has been obviated by the storm sewers.

"On West End avenue it was necessary to extend the two 18 inch sewers for a distance of 100 feet, in order to locate the inlets farther from the bridge and allow an easy approach. Similar work was done on Somerset street.

"New storm water inlets have been constructed, in addition to those built in connection with the storm sewers, at New and West Second streets, at Watchung avenue and East Second street and at Front street and Park avenue. Additional inlets are planned for Front and Somerset streets and at Front street and Watchung avenue.

"Plans and specifications were drawn for a storm sewer in Plainfield avenue from Randolph road to the small brook near the city line, to be eventually extended to West Seventh street, and bids were received for its construction but the proposals were so high, it was thought best to reject them all.

"The total length of storm sewers is now 5.47 miles.

Curbing and Flagging.

"1,965 lineal feet of curbing and 14,592 feet of flagging and concrete walk have been laid, the principal streets on which sidewalks have been completed being Clinton avenue, between West Front street and Dunellen avenue and Spooner avenue, between West Fourth and West Seventh streets. Mariners place was nearly completed, and a large amount of flagging was laid on East and West Seventh streets and Prospect avenue.

"Plainfield impresses visitors from other cities as having excellent streets, sewers, shade trees, etc., but sidewalks which are a disgrace to a city of its standing. About 200 notices, covering over two miles of walks, have been served this year to relay sidewalks, and three times as many walks still need attention. The flag stones settle, are raised by tree roots or frost and the turf grows and holds the water on the walk. Flagging will not keep an even surface indefinitely, but must be relaid, in part at least, from time to time.

Culverts.

"New culverts with iron covers have been constructed at West Seventh and New streets, at Berkeley avenue across Denmark road and at Watchung and Belvidere avenues. The old culvert across East Seventh street, east of Belvidere avenue, caved in recently and the 24 inch cast iron pipes from Berckman street at the railroad were made use of for part of a new culvert. The ends of the new culvert have not yet been completed.

"Three iron covered culverts became unnecessary in consequence of the construction of storm sewers and were moved to new locations as follows: East Third and Richmond streets, East Fourth street and Watchung avenue and West Seventh street and Spooner avenue. Iron covers are also ready for a culvert across Berkeley avenue at Denmark road. No new stone covers have been purchased during the year as the committee has favored iron ones instead, and the stone covers in stock have been sufficient for repairs.

Crosswalks.

"A few crosswalks of new stone have been laid this year but most of the additional walks have been constructed of crosswalk stone taken up to make room for the brick pavement. The stone for a number of crosswalks has been distributed ready for laying when weather permits.

Cleaning Brooks and Ditches.

"The usual work of cleaning Cedar Brook and the ditches which serve as outlets for storm sewers was continued, mainly during the cold weather last winter, and we recommend that this work be resumed early in 1908.

"This committee concurs in the recommendation of the committee of 1906 that continued efforts be made to secure such improvements along the line of Green Brook as will prevent the overflows which have caused so much damage and inconvenience in past years.

Street Widening and Extension.

"We recommend that West Second street be widened where a single building projects beyond the building line, a recent fire making the present time most opportune. Also that East Fourth street be widened at the angle point about midway between Washington and Richmond streets, where certain lots project beyond the street lines. We also recommend the extension of Kensington avenue to the intersection of Randolph road and Park avenue, and have had map and ordinance prepared for this purpose.

Street Sprinkling.

"While it is probable that the work of street sprinkling has, on the whole, given satisfaction, many complaints have been received of insufficient and excessive sprinkling, and we are of the opinion that the entire time of one person, other than the contractor, should be given to superintending this work, if it should be continued another year on the present plan.

"A preparation called 'Dustoline' has been used quite extensively and your committee has been favorably impressed with the result of its use in neighboring cities. We have been recently informed that streets can be kept free from dust by this treatment at about the same cost as that paid for sprinkling with water, and much more efficiency; we urge that an early test of Dustoline be made.

Sewers.

"Since the construction of the original sewer system of 23.65 miles in 1894 and 1895, 18.20 miles have been added, making a total of 41.85 miles at present, five and a half miles of which have been constructed this year. 1.80 miles more are now under contract and unfinished. 209 permits for sewer connections have been issued during the year and a large number will be called for as soon as the new sewers are ready.

"The contract awarded to Peter Morgan, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., last fall, for constructing the low level sewer and pumping station, known as the South Side sewer, has had a most eventful record. Soon after receiving the contract, Mr. Morgan became too ill to carry on the work and gave a power of attorney to Thomas J. Cusack, of Kingston, N. Y., who worked until July 9, when he abandoned the contract, leaving over $2,000 due for labor. On July 25 the Common Council directed the engineer to complete the contract and he arranged with D. W. Wilbur, the indemnifier on the bond of the Metropolitan Surety Company, to do the work, the city purchasing the pipe and other material upon which an attachment had been placed. These arrangements were not completed until August 29, on which date the work was started with John Sutcliffe as manager. On September 25, work was again abandoned, this time because Mr. Wilbur claimed that the quantity of ground water encountered was greatly in excess of what he and Mr. Morgan had been led to expect. The city then took direct charge of the work, continuing with the same force of foremen and laborers, and the sewers included in this contract which drain to the pumps have been completed. Mr. Cusack sublet the construction of the pump-well, but the sub-contractors were unable to complete the work, which is now being done by Richards & Gaston for the city, and with favorable weather, should be ready for installing the pumps in a few weeks. The pumping plant consists of pneumatic displacement pumps, air compressors and electric motors, in duplicate, also a gasoline engine for use in case of failure of electric current. The out-

Plainfield, N. J., December 31, 1907.

THE BEST MAYOR EVER.

Several years ago, The Daily Press was criticized because it declared that Newton B. Smalley was the best mayor North Plainfield ever had. Tomorrow, that model executive retires after ten years of conscientious and valuable service, and we are glad to record that our estimate of the man is not now contradicted by any citizen of the borough whatever may be his party affiliations. One has but to compare the condition of that municipality today with what it was a decade ago to find ample proof for our sweeping assertion.

THREE GOOD MEN.

Plainfield loses three most worthy public servants at noon tomorrow when Councilmen Leslie M. Daniel, George P. Mellick and Daniel F. Ginna retire to private life. The records of the Council meetings fully attest how invaluable this trio has been to the local government.

The retirement of Frank Rowley is a matter of sincere regret. He has made an excellent record as borough clerk and his successor, James K. Arnold, will only have to discharge his duties as well to earn the esteem of the taxpayers.

Let us be truly thankful that we have such a man as Charles Joel Fisk to guide our city's destiny during the New Year.

The Daily Press will not be published tomorrow, New Year's Day.

Our compliments, Mayor Townsend!

PERSONAL.

Miss Hazel Young, of Annandale, Pa., is a guest of Miss Cora B. Gano, of this city.

Fred Sandford, of East Front street, will leave next week for a hunting trip in the south.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Findlay and daughter, of Jersey City, spent Sunday in town with relatives.

George Williams, formerly of this city, but now of Newark, has been visiting friends here for a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Hurst, of North avenue, are parents of a daughter born to them on December 20.

Miss Trembath, of the First Baptist church choir, who has been detained at home by illness, has about recovered and expects to resume her place again on Sunday.

Miss Edith Ga Nun, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer D. Ga Nun, who is a student at the State Normal School, Trenton, is spending the holiday vacation at her home on Steiner place.

Mrs. Joseph C. Martin and family, of Duer street, have been spending the Christmas holidays at the home of Mrs. Martin's mother in Pennsylvania. Mr. Martin will join his family there today.

Christmas Tree for Poor.

A Christmas tree festival for the poor children of the city will be given in the Salvation Army hall tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Toys, candies, etc., will be distributed among the poor children. Captain Hopkins will be very pleased to receive donations of toys, candies, fruit or anything useful for this purpose. The annual distribution of prizes for the children attending the Sunday-school will also take place on this occasion. The children will take a prominent part. All are invited.

FIRE CHIEF DOANE'S REPORT

steam we need it quick.

"There should also be a permanent engineer employed so that we would have on engine on duty at a moment's natice.

Another Fire House.

"We need a larger steamer in the centre of the city, and I respectfully and earnestly recommend that a new house be built in the eastern end of the city and the present steamer and a combination hose wagon located there, and a second-size steamer be purchased and placed in No. 1 engine house.

"We have outgrown our water pressure, and, as there seems no way to increase it, we must depend more upon our steamer, and must have one that will throw large and powerful streams.

"Our hook and ladder truck (Hayes' aerial) with sixty-five foot extension, was up-to-date and large enough when purchased about fifteen years ago. We have outgrown this, and if another and larger cannot be purchased, I would recommend that the means of raising the aerial (considered all right and quick enough at the time purchased) be changed. It takes two or three men about two minutes at present; with a new and up-to-date hoisting apparatus, one man could do the work in six to ten seconds. This truck should be placed in the west end of the city and a new and larger one purchased for the centre of the city.

"For several years I have asked to have more hydrants placed on Front street in the mercantile section. I would request your Honorable Body to give this matter yaur attention.

"I stated in my last year's report, 'I would call the attention of your Honorable Body to my reports for the last three years in regard to the need of a repeater and switch-board, and would add that the Buss Bar now in use in the battery room is dangerous even for an expert to handle under certain conditions, and that with the exception of a few electric light wires, our fire alarm wires are the only wires overhead in the centre of the city.'

"The men station in the department engine houses have done a great deal of work in repairing the houses, making quite a saving to the city. The floor at headquarters has been shored up temporarily, and will need some permanent repairs, if not a new floor, next year.

"The discipline of the department is very good."

POLICE CHIEF MAKES HIS ANNUAL REPORT

Following is an abstract of Chief Kiely's report:

"I have the honor to submit herewith the following as my eighth annual report for the year 1907:

"Number of arrests for the year, 807; composed of: Males, 771; females, 36; composed as to: White, 627; color, negro, 180.

"Arrested for the following offenses:

"Assault, 16; arson, 1; automobile law, 19; burglary, 12; cart ordinance, 5; circular ordinance, 2; cruelty to animals, 7; disorderly conduct, 239; drunkenness, 158; drunk and disorderly, 135; embezzlement, 1; excise violations, 1; false pretense, 1; fast and reckless driving, 4; forgery, 2; fugitives from justice, 7; gambling, 31; hack ordinance, 10; health ordinance, 11; junk ordinance, 3; larcency, 33; manslaughter, 1; miscellaneous, 1; non-support, 1; peddling ordinance, 16; receiving stolen goods, 1; Sunday ordiance, 2; trespassing on cars, 8; vagrancy, 64; total ,807.

"Result of arrests.

"Committed, 75; dismissed, 20; extradited, 6; fined, 121; held for grand jury, 40; held for juvenile court, 6; pending, 9; probated, 14; turned over to other departments, 19; suspended, 496; withdrawn, 1; total, 807. Amount of fines collected, $841.

Expenses.

The expenditures per month of the department have been as follows: January, $1,902.37; February, $1,833.90; March, $2,094.44; April, $2,188.22; May, $2,320.90; June, $2,246.75; July, $2,151.53; August, $1,999.54; September, $2,105.22; October, $2,121.66; November, $1,956.39; December, $2,849.62; total, $25,770.54.

"The expenditures of the department during the year have been as follows: Regular police, $22,351.06; special police, $40.75; headquarters supplies, $276.38; keep of horse, $250.36; telephone service (N. Y. & N. J. Tel.), $120.20; rent of headquarters, $700; hack and automobile hire, $122.50; Y. M. C. A. Association, $75; bicycle repairs, $114.60; cost of motor cycles, $300; cost of motor cycles equipment, $1.50; cost of motor cycle maintenance, $170.02; maintenance of Gamewell system, $300; police equipments, $236.39; miscellaneous, $471.68; medical expense, $200; total, $25,770.54.

"The numerical strength of the police force is 26 men: Chief, captain, sergeant, detective-sergeant, roundsman, 19 policemen, doorman and driver. During the year there were four resignations from the force. These were filled with new men. The discipline of the force has been excellent. This is due to a large extent to the encouragement received from the Common Council, the Mayor, and the Police Board. Today the men feel that they are occupying responsible and good positions.

"The quarters, at 120 East Front street, occupied at the present time by the Police Department has been sold, so that it is necessary to find some new quarters for the department. In conclusion, I wish to thank your Honorable Body, the Mayor, and the Board of Police for the many courtesies extended to us during the year, and for their hearty co-operation, and also to think the officers and men of the department for their faithful performances of duty and their interest and co-operation in building up the police department of the city of plainfield."

said that his service in the Common Concil had been one of profit to him and with such a standard bearer as Mr. Fisk every member had felt like doing his best. In his opinion there is no place in the Union where there is a more devoted executive than right here in Plainfield. Mr. Mellick paid high tribute to President Daniel, referring to him as one whom he loved and admired for his unfaltering interest and devotion to duty. He thanked the members for courtesies and wished all a Happy New Year. He felt sure that with the new members the Common Council would carry Plainfield to even a greater degree of success than ever.

Mr. Tolles voiced the sentiments expressed by Mayor Fisk and Mr. Mellick and said that he deeply regretted losing three such valuable members, but he hoped that their places would be filled with good men and that the Common Council would make a good showing during 1908.

Just before the meeting adjourned President Daniel, in retiring, took occasion to thank the members for their help and courtesy during the six years he has served the city. He said that the members had done good work and politics had cut no figure with them in doing what was best for the city. The duties had been pleasant to him and he did not doubt but that the new members would find their work equally pleasant.

THE NEW YORK & NEW JERSEY TELEPHONE CO.

READ THIS!

From a Prominent New York Newspaper:

"In this hustling, bustling age of ours, where every second has a commercial value, the telephone plays a most important part. Without it the activities of the day would not be possible and business would proceed at the sober pace which characterized it some fifty years ago. And yet although most people will realize the truth of these assertions, few appreciate the enormous void which would be left were the telephone to be suddenly wiped out of existence."

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

It has been suggested that if it is found necessary to hold a special election for the purpose of placing the township under the protection of the laws of 1905, giving the Township Committee full power in granting franchises, it might just as well be a vote on the question of whether we are to continue a township or change to a borough. There are a number who believe the town would be better off under a borough government than a township. The suggestion is a good one.

Tomorrow every one here will enjoy a holiday. The day being generally given over to eating turkey and making good resolutions. The stores will close at an early hour. No special events are scheduled, with the exception of a clay bird shoot on the Brookside Club grounds.

One good New Year's resolution —have The Daily Press left at your home every night by carrier. Keep in touch with your home news. This will only cost you 10 cents a week.

Charles Reick, who has been visiting his sister, Miss Nettie Reick, of Westfield avenue, has returned to his home in New York.

If the last meeting of the borough Council is to be taken as a criterion, the first meeting of the New Year should be a warm session.

Willie Stanbury, who is a student at one of the West Point military schools, is spending his holiday vacation at his home.

Rev. and Mrs. George Francis, of Westfield, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Z. Hatfield, of Stout avenue.

Mrs. Frederick Stephenson, of Lincoln, has been visiting Miss Susie Parse, of Front street.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

William Jenkins, who is employed by the Lehigh Valley Railroad as detective, called to three railway tramps to get off a freight car, one of them pulled his gun from his hip pocket and would have shot at the detective, but he was too quick for them and he shot one on the finger and one on the hand and the other went through the hat. The detective chased them up Maple avenue and they were in hiding back of William Faulks' barn and they came out and went to the Faulks home to wash their wounds, which scared the family awfully, and finally they walked on to Plainfield and saw a doctor who dressed their wounds, and he afterwards telephoned for the chief of police, but by the time they got there the tramps had gone and could not be found.

Frank Hannon, who is an engineer on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, is at home on account of an accident. Another engine bumped into the caboose.

William Shields, who resides with his parents on Mill Side avenue, has just recovered from a bad attack of inflammatory rheumatism.

William Ferrill, of Metuchen, made a business trip to South Plainfield on Saturday to look over the machinery at the pump station.

Mr. Strike, of Elizabeth, is boarding at Mrs. Hannon's on Mill Side avenue.

Margaret McGuire, of Front street, is visiting her aunt, Mrs Mack, at Metuchen.

LIEUTENANT SMALLEY'S FUNERAL ON THURSDAY

The funeral of Elden G. Smalley, lieutenant in the North Plainfield fire department, who died at his home on Linden avenue, yesterday afternoon, will be held at the late residence Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. It will be attended by a delegation of firemen from the paid and exempt departments and burial will be at Hillside.

Mr. Smalley was twenty-eight years old and was the son of Mary B. and the late Samuel Smalley. He had lived in North Plainfield practically all his life and was widely known in the city and borough. He was a machinist by trade but last June accepted the appointment of lieutenant in the fire department, having gained his experience while a member of old Warren 1's in the volunteer days. He was an enthusiastic fireman and had a splendid record during his years of service. In appearance he was the picture of health but two weeks ago today he was stricken with typhoid fever and he sank steadily until the end.

Beside his mother he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. George Weiss, wife of the borough's chief marshal, and Mrs. William Campbell, of Somerset street; also three brothers, John and Walter Smalley, of the borough, and Irving Smalley, of Brooklyn.

RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE OVER MRS. KIMBALL'S DEATH.

At a meeting called yesterday morning for the purpose the managers of the Children's Home adopted the following resolutions:

Whereas, The beloved and honored president of the Children's Home Association has been removed from us by death, be it

Resolved, That we hereby record our appreciation of her noble character and of the complete dedication of her powers to the welfare of others, and our sense of the heavy loss sustained by the community in general and by the Children's Home in particular in her death;

Resolved, That we hereby commemorate the absolute devotion of Mrs. Kimball to the interests of the Home from the time when as one of its founders she played a large part in its small beginnings, until after long years of patient work and skilful management she left it the strong and widely beneficent institution that it has gradually become.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent with the heartfelt sympathy of the Board to her bereaved family, and that the same be published in the local papers, and spread upon the minutes of this meeting.

FORT APPOINTS HIS SON AS PRIVATE SECRETARY.

Governor-elect Fort made announcement of his executive force yesterday as follows:

Edward W. Gray will retire as private secretary, and Leslie Fort, editor of the Lakewood Times and Journal, his youngest son, will become the Governor's private secretary. Col. Edward D. Fox, who has been executive clerk for forty-two years, will retire, and be succeeded by John P. Dengler, for many years stenographer of Justice Fort, while on the bench. Miss Ida D. Phillips, stenographer, will remain. So will Samuel Gordon.

The Governor-elect called Quartermaster General C. E. Murray and Adjt. Gen. R. H. Briennall into the office and told them they need not retire during his administration. The former is a Republican and the latter a Democrat.

Major Frederick Gilkyson, of Trenton, named Assistant Adjutant General of the State by Adjt. Gen. R. H. Breinall. He fills the place vacated by the elevation of the Supreme Court bench of Judge Charles W. Parker, of Jersey City.

SHOWER OF SILVER DOLLARS.

One Thousand of Them Scatter About Elizabeth Street.

The sudden bursting of a canvas bag containing 1,000 silver dollars created a commotion and a wild scramble for the coin among a crowd of newsboys, telegraph messengers and others yesterday afternoon just outside the Union County Trust Company at Elizabeth.

The twenty-five sacks of silver were being taken out of the bank and placed in an Adams Express wagon when the break occurred. Only the opportune arrival of a policeman on the run saved most of the coin from being scooped in as the silver rolled over West Grand street. Not all of it was recovered. Boys are still eagerly searching the street for some of the missing money.

STREET COMMITTEE REPORT

fit is ready for setting up, and is furnished and guaranteed by the Ingersoll-Rand Company, of New York, through Warren B. Travell, of this city. Cecil Pittis has acted as assistant on the South Side sewer work, with E. K. Powlison and R. K. Taylor as inspectors.

"On August 12, a contract was awarded to T. Foster Callahan for the construction of about five miles of sanitary sewers.

"Mr. Callahan has completed about three-fifths of his work. A steam ditch excavator was used on most of the work, taking out about 800 feet of ditch per day under favorable conditions. Raymond Bonham was assistant on this contract, with William Nischwitz, Howard Drake and R. Hummell as inspectors.

"At the sewerage disposal works C. A. Peterson has continued as day operator and C. Petersen as night operator. Acting on the suggestion of George W. Fuller, of Hering & Fuller, the well known experts on sewage disposal, who have taken a great deal of interests in the Plainfield plant, the scum in the septic tanks has been kept broken up, with a view to reducing the amount of scum by bacterial action. This work has required the labor of an extra man for about five months, but it is expected that a saving will result in disposing of the scum and sludge. A screen has been erected, with concrete walls, to prepare fine clinker for use on top of the contact beds, and the coarser material is being stored for use as working material in the contact beds. It would be well to accumulate a stock of coarse clinker, and renew or wash the material in two or three beds each year.

"The plant has operated in a satisfactory manner during the year, the effluent indicating improved conditions."

MR. BRYAN'S VISIT.

There can be no mistaking the import of William J. Bryan's visit to New Jersey in February next. He will enter the State at Camden, on Thursday morning, the sixth, and will make a speech. Thence he will hasten to Paterson and make a speech. Thence he will go to Jersey City and make a speech, and, along in the night he will come to Newark and make a speech. The tactics of 1896 and 1900 are to be repeated. Mr. Bryan is in 1908 to take his way into the Democratic candidacy for President, and into the President's chair, if possible.

It is a long time in advance to make a prediction, and yet if the foresight of leading Democrats in this and in other States is to be taken as accurate, Mr. Bryan will get the nomination and will be again defeated. No man in the party looms up as he does at the present time. No other man is making such efforts as Mr. Bryan is making to become the Democratic standard bearer.

The difficulty with "the peerless one" is that he looms and then vanishes. When he returned from his trip abroad he was, before he set foot on his native heath or opened his mouth in political harangue, far and away the leading candidate of his party. In fact, he was at that time the only candidate. Twenty-four hours after his landing he had not only lost his lead, but had become an utter impossibility as a nominee. His unnecessary, uncalled-for, unwarranted, unwise advocacy of government ownership of all railroads destroyed, for the time being, every vestige of his prestige as a safe party leader.

But, either because Mr. Bryan is inherently great, or because the Democratic party has no other man who approaches him in statesmanship, Mr. Bryan once more occupies the centre of the stage and the limelight flashes upon him. He is again the most conspicuous Presidential candidate of his party, and he is coming to New Jersey to make four speeches in a single day, and to enroll, as far as possible, the New Jersey delegation among his supporters at the Denver convention.

He will spend a night—or what remains of it—at Cedarbrook Farm, the hospitamle home of James E. Martine, and at this place he is scheduled to meet all the Democratic leaders of the State. This does not necessarily mean that Mr. Martine has visions of the Vice-Presidency, but it does mean that whatever influence he can command for his eminent friend will be exercised in his behalf, and exercised with that vigor which is characteristic of the "Farmer Orator."

The February visit, then is to be the initial part of a great scheme to further Mr. Bryan's eternally springing Presidential aspirations. Mr. Martine admits it. "You may rest assured," he said to the newspaper men who interviewed him, "that Mr. Bryan will lead the people's cause in the next Presidential campaign. * * * Bryan's nomination is inevitable; nothing can prevent it but an act of God."

Twice the people of the United States have refused, by a majority of votes, to invest Mr. Bryan with Presidential honors and obligations, many of his own party being opposed to him. Yet he is undoubtedly the leading candidate of the national Democratic party today. Whether he will capture the whole New Jersey delegation or not is yet an unsettled question. He will not if former President Grover Cleveland is CERTAIN RESULTS.

Many a Plainfield Citizen Knows How Sure They Are.

Nothing uncertain about the work of Doan's Kidney Pills in Plainfield. There is plenty of positive proof of this in the testimony of citizens. Such evidence should convince the most skeptical doubter. Read the following statement:

Albert Naylor, music teacher, of 436 East Fifth street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Several years ago I was afflicted with a dull aching in the small of my back and sharping pains when stooping or lifting. I resorted to the use of Doan's Kidney Pills for same, as I had been told that they were a cure for such pain as I had been having. I took only two boxes before the pains left me, and was soon feeling first class in every respect. I have often endorsed and recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to those suffering from backache as I was."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

"Are you so anxious then that it be known that you have been impersonating the British ambassador?"

"Scarcely," I said, uneasily.

"And, my dear fellow, Kuhn and the rest think that it was Sir Mortimer who came to the rescue of Prince Ferdinand, and not Mr. Ernest Haddon, an American tourist."

"But why do you allow them to think this?"

"Haddon, at times you are singularly dense. If these men believe that the British ambassador has been killed by one of their number while defending Ferdinand, do you not see that this will keep them even more silent regarding their share in this night's tragedy? For if England's ambassador were really murdered, you may be sure that she would not rest until she had brought the assassins to justice."

"You are right, Locke; I must leave Alterhoffen at once."

CHAPTER XXXVII.

The Second Dispatch.

I was about to go to Helena in the music room to bid her good-by, when Capt. Forbes returned from his errand.

"Well, that's settled," he cried, joining us. "And do you agree with Locke and myself that it is wise that you should leave Alterhoffen before daybreak?"

"Perfectly."

He heard my decision with evident relief.

"You will accept my apology for mistrusing you, Haddon, and I hope we shall be friends," said he offering me his hand with a winning smile. "But you must confess you gave me ample grounds for being a little wary of you. Before long we shall meet, and I shall hope to hear your reasons for going into this extraordinary adventure. In the meanwhile, may I trouble you for the dispatch I gave to you in the hotel at Vitznau, or did it fall into Starva's hand that night?"

"To prevent that I dropped it from the window into a disused fountain in the garden below."

"Where I found it," interrupted Locke. "Here it is, and please observe that the seals are unbroken."

"Frankly, Forbes," I said, "I thought you rather an idiot to give me an important dispatch that night. You must have seen that I was more or less in Starva's power, and that he was likely to gain possession of the papers."

"Had that dispatch fallen into his hands," replied Forbes, "it is quite possible that Ferdinand would have been saved his bad half hour. Do you remember I told you, my pseudo-ambassador (and you acted the part remarkably well, let me tell you), that I carried two dispatches for Sir Mortimer, and that I gave you the one of lesser importance?"

"Yes. And the second dispatch? Was it stolen from you by Starva when he trapped you in the tower?"

Forbes nodded. "I took the liberty of taking it from him just now."

"And may a humble American consul ask," drawled Locke, "how tonight's episode would have been averted had the dispatch you gave Haddon fallen into Starva's hands, instead of into the fountain?"

"My chief at Downing street would retire me, and with no pension, if he knew that I were going to divulge state secrets. However, I am going to tell you.

"This dispatch you have returned to me, I happen to know, authorized Sir Mortimer Brett to meet in conference the men who so very nearly snuffed out Ferdinand's life an hour ago. I am referring now to the dispatch which I gave you at Vitznau, Haddon. He was to assure these representatives of the various states that England realized that a harmonious confederation could alone permanently allay the present discontent in the Peninsula. Had Starva seen this dispatch it is not likely that he would have had recourse to violence."

"Do you mean to tell me," exclaimed Locke, incredulously, "that your ministers of the foreign office cherish so Utopian a scheme? Are the various kings to abdicate because England nods?"

"I am telling you nothing of the sort," chuckled Forbes. "You Americans are infants when it comes to the intricacies of diplomacy. Secret agents and spies at Sofia had warned the government of the intended uprising. It was necessary that England should know more of the conspirators. Therefore, Sir Mortimer was instructed to profess a sympathy for the cause which, of course, was not sincere. This dispatch Sir Mortimer or myself were to allow to be stolen if necessary. Its contents were explained to me before I left London, that I might repeat verbally the message, should the dispatch not reach him."

"Since you have already betrayed your government's confidence," said Locke, jocularly, "tell us the purport of the second dispatch."

"I will read it to you since the seals are broken," agreed Forbes after a moment's hesitation. "The same messenger who gives you this dispatch will deliver you another which authorizes you to treat with the committee of the various states of the Balkans, who have for their aim a confederation of these states. You will use the aforementioned dispatch at your discretion. It is needless to say that neither this ministry nor the other powers can for an instant sanction a scheme so impossible. But it has come to our knowledge that a dangerous conspiracy exists to overthrow the rulers of the various states. To check this conspiracy it may be well for you to temporize. If you think it expedient, permit the dispatch mentioned to fall into the hands of this committee. Capt. Forbes will follow the same course if necessary. He has full instructions to exercise his discretion in this matter.

"It is not without surprise that the ministry has learned of your promise to Ferdinand regarding England's support of his project, namely, the threatened invasion of Macedonia. Fortunately, the ministry is convinced that some such move as you sanction is expedient to free Macedonia from the atrocities of Turkish misrule that have shocked Europe so long. His majesty's ministry therefore is inclined to overlook in this instance any undue bias you have shown in espousing Macedonia's cause.

"If you are convinced that the financier of New York city whom you have named is sincere in his offer to give Prince Ferdinand financial support, you are authorized to tell him that his majesty's ministers are heartily in favor of Prince Ferdinand's invasion, and will exert every influence to insure him unrestricted action. Moreover, the foreign office is in full accord with your views as to the sum of money indispensable to Ferdinand's project.

"But while his majesty's government agrees with you that lofty principles actuate Bulgaria, it realizes with yourself that lofty principles are not sufficient to insure the success of Ferdinand's cause.

"In conclusion, we hasten to assure you of our fullest sympathy in your endeavor to help an oppressed people gain their liberty; and that it is not without satisfaction we find ourselves enabled to further your personal wishes and ambitions in this matter. Nor need you have anxiety that your own interests will run counter to those of England. We view with concern the precarious state of your health; but we trust that it will not prove an obstacle to your contemplated meeting of the financier in conference at Alterhoffen at the chateau of Prince Ferdinand's secret agent. With renewed expressions of our complete confidence in you,

"Believe me, sir, etc."

"Haddon," said Locke, not a little crestfallen, "I was ruefully wide of the mark in my conjectures concerning Sir Mortimer's relations with the Countess Sarahoff. I told you that morning at Lucerne that I was behind the scenes. I confess myself the veriest amateur."

Never has writing thrilled me as did that dispatch. A great light was dawning on me. I clutched the paper. I held it with a trembling hand.

"Forbes," I cried, hoarsely, "once, though quite unwillingly, I tricked you out of the dispatch Locke just returned to you. But now I ask you to give me for half an hour the dispatch you have just read. It means everything to Sir Mortimer's sister. Man, there has been more deviltry in this Castle of Lies that you are aware of. The honor of Sir Mortimer himself is at stake. This dispatch will help to save it. Give me the paper that I may show it to Miss Brett."

"I have been too much astonished at the events of the past 24 hours to wonder at your request. Take your dispatch, but you will return it intact?"

"You need have no fear as to that. But I have still another request; the papers you saw me take from the safe, which Madame de Varnier wrestled from me—they belong to Miss Brett."

"Our Happiness," She Said, Shyly, "We Share with Others."

"On my honor, they concern no one but her. What! Do you still mistrust me?"

"No, my dear fellow."

He placed the packet in my hand. I entered the music room to bring to Helena tidings of great joy.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

Tidings of Great Joy.

She stood at the open window looking out on the mountains in the far distance. They were phantoms of despair beckoning to her in the moonlight. They had brought suffering to her as well as to myself, for had I not gone to Lucerne, and told her the story of my cowardice, perhaps she would have been spared the knowledge of her brother's disgrace.

"Dear," I said gently, "do you remember the little beacon that shone long after the lights on Pilatus and Rigi had flickered out? That little light put heart into me then. It tells you to hope now."

"There is no light on the mountains over there to-night."

"It may burn though you do not see it. The packet I took from the safe, have you destroyed it?"

"I was about to do so as you entered. Here it is."

"Capt. Forbes has just given me the second packet—the one that Madame de Varnier took from me forcibly. It is possible that its contents concern your brother. May I open it?"

"Yes," she said listlessly.

I tore open the packet with deliberation, though heavens knows my fingers trembled. I spread the paper on the piano where I had shown Madame de Varnier the death-mask the evening before. I read them one after the other. The proof was absolute. Sir Mortimer's honor could no longer be questioned. Fools we had been and blind.

"Helena," I said, mastering my emotion with an effort "it is as I thought; these papers throw a flood of light on the letters and notes of your brother that we have so harshly misunderstood."

She came swiftly to my side. "Harshly misunderstood!" she repeated with blanched lips.

I was sorting carefully the papers Helena had just given me, the letters supposed to have been written by the committee of freedom, and to which Sir Mortimer's comments were pinned. I laughed aloud when I saw that these letters, supposed to be the originals were typewritten, as were the copies.

Now I understood why Madame de Varnier had refused to let me see what she called the original papers. It was not so much that she feared I should destroy them; she knew that the fact of their being typewritten would at once awaken my suspicion.

"Did it not occur to you as being rather suspicious that these letters were written on a typewriter?"

"At first it did," replied Helena, searching my face wonderingly. "But she quieted my doubts by explaining to me that the letters were typed to prevent the possibility of their being traced."

"The ingenious Madame de Varnier!"

Helena did not speak; her agitation was too great for words. She watched me, at once bewildered and eager, while I read the contents of both packets carefully once more. When I had read them, I sorted them no less carefully. For ten minutes there was silence between us.

"Helena," I said with a deep sigh, when I had finished my task, "once to-night I said this was a Castle of Lies, but I did not realize until now how surely I spoke the truth. These letters are forgeries."

"Impossible," she murmured, wringing her hands in anguish. "I know my brother's writing too well."

"Follow me carefully, and you will see that I speak the truth. I do not question your brother's handwriting. But listen first of all to this dispatch which was taken from Capt. Forbes when he was trapped in the tower. Tell me if any of the expressions in it are familiar to you."

"Yes, yes," she cried eagerly, when I had finished. 'Lofty principles actuate Bulgaria, but lofty principles are not sufficient to insure success;' 'You need have no anxiety that your own interests will run counter to those of England;' the references to the loan, to my brother's indiscretion, to his ambitions—all these appear in my brother's notes in connection with the letters of the committee of freedom."

"Now read these letters—the contents of the second packet. They were written to your brother by Prince Ferdinand himself, and deal with the loan to be floated by the banker to finance Ferdinand's invasion of Macedonia. The notes and comments of your brother have reference, not to these typewritten letters, which were never written by any committee of freedom, which were never received by Sir Mortimer, but are the cunning fabrications of that woman—but to these letters of Ferdinand. Look, you can see the pins pierced each of Ferdinand's letters. As I place your brother's notes on the respective letters to which they have reference, the pin marks fit precisely. You may still cherish proudly the motto of your house: 'Honor, my Sword!'"

"Ernest, if this be true—"

"It is true," I said firmly, and I drew her to me. "I must leave Alterhoffen to-night, Helena. It must not be known that I have been mistaken for your brother. I am going to find Madame de Varnier. When I return to you I shall bring with me her written confession. And when I return, sweetheart? You Bretts, you have told me, are a proud race. Disgrace you would bear alone. But your happiness?"

"Our happiness," she said shyly, "we share with others."

MISS MAY WARING TO BE A NEW YEAR'S BRIDE.

Miss May Waring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Waring, of Park avenue, and Theodore F. Reynolds, of Orange, will be married at noon tomorrow at the home of the bride's parents. The affair will be a quiet one and the invitation list will be limited. Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, rector-emeritus of Grace church and an intimate friend of the family, will officiate. Miss Waring's only attendant will be her sister, Mrs. Humphrey, wife of Captain Chauncey Humphrey.

After an extended trip the couple will reside in Orange.

Borough School Board Meeting.

The borough Board of Education held its regular monthly meeting last evening but transacted little beyond routine business. Dr. Cooley submitted a report to the effect that the school census recently ordered by the board had been completed and that it showed a total of 1,322 children of school age. J. Herbert Case, recently elected to succeed Mayor-elect Townsend as a trustee, was in attendance. The board's fiscal year does not end until March.

New Seat Reservation Rule.

Beginning with today, a new rule has been placed in effect for the reservation of seats at the New Plainfield theatre. Hereafter none will be held after 10 a. m. for matinees and 6 p. m. for night performances. The move was made necessary because of the great number of tickets not called for after being ordered and is in line with the action of managers at Newark, Elizabeth, Trenton and other places.

Threatened with Blood Poisoning.

Walter Clarkson, of Elm place, is slowly improving from a severe injury to his leg. Two weeks ago he struck the leg against a hard surface scraping a piece of flesh from the bone. He did not give it prompt treatment and the sore became infected, threatening blood poisoning. Dr. P. J. Zeglio was called and Mr. Clarkson is now recovering.

FESTIVALS OF CHRISTMAS

Park Avenue Baptists and Congregationalists Have a Merry Time.

SANTA CLAUS'S VISITATION.

Cantata at Baptist Sunday-school—The Little Ones Are Made Happy By Gifts.

Among the Christmas festivals held in local churches last night were these:

Congregational Church.

The members of the Congregational church Sunday-school and their friends enjoyed an elaborate Christmas entertainment, last night, the attendance being very large notwithstanding the unfavorable condition of the weather. The program had been arranged and the participants drilled by Miss Aimee Emmons, the satisfactory result showing her conscientious and painstaking work.

The feature of the entertainment was a playlet, "A Substitute for Santa Claus," which showed what great trouble the good old fellow was put to in getting someone to take his place as gift distributor when an attack of gout notified him he would have to remain at home. All the holidays of the year and familiar characters were called upon, but none of them qualified. Finally Santa Claus discovered that his ailment was getting better and he decided to do the work himself. St. Nick was interpreted by Clarence La Rue and the other participants, all wearing appropriate costume, were the following: "Father Time," Roland Rice; "St. Valentine," Athol Newman; "Jack Frost," Clarence Steiner; "Fourth of July," Philip Phillips; "New Year's 1908," Russell Tomlinson; "Spring," Miss Marguerite Fisher.

Another interesting number was "The Five Jolly Elves," a song and capering effect by Harold Tomlinson, George Parker, Donald Updike, Philip Phillips and Holmes Clawson. This contribution was one of the best of the evening. Miss Muriel Courser, a very little tot, recited "Somebody's Coming," in a delightful way, and Miss Amy Winant gave "The Night Before Christmas in 1908." Other recitations and songs were given by Miss Helen Weseman, George Parker and members of the primary department.

At the close of the program, the "Jolly Elves," who wore elfish costumes, distributed candy and gifts to the various classes.

Park Avenue Church.

"What Happened to Santa Claus," was the name of a cantata given at the Park Avenue Baptist church, last night, as the Christmas entertainment for the school. The plot, an interesting one, held the attention of both old and young from start to finish. The costuming was a feature. Superintendent George E. Hall presided. Miss Mary E. Clark was the pianist and Arthur S. Mosher violin, and Whitney E. Frazee cornet, assisted.

The children gathered for a rehearsal of the cantata. The sexton informs them by order of one of the church members, that no rehearsal will be held. He doesn't believe in Santa Claus. They secure the assistance of the fairies who turn the old man into a rag doll. In the meantime, the gypsies capture Santa Claus, who escapes and is joined by a band of brigands who had gone out to rescue him. They in turn capture the gypsies, who have never heard of Santa Claus. The story of Bethlehem's Star is told them and they are released.

Santa has with him his secretary, Mr. Scribble, who has a record of the children who have forfeited the favor of Santa. The old man turned into a rag doll is brought before Santa. He pleads to be restored to his normal condition. They endeavor to teach him the real spirit of Christmas time. He admits his error and is willing to be influenced by the generous spirit of doing for others. With dialogue and song the various parts were cleverly acted. The characters and those who impersonated them follow:

"Daisy," Elinore Stutsman; "Violet," Isabel von Brakle; "Lily," Hannah Boyd; "Mark," George Cratsley; "Karl," George E. Hall; "Pansy," Lillian Cuming; "Sexton," Charles Van Winkle. Fairies—"Sparkle," queen of the fairies, Mabel Stutsman; other fairies—Agnes Dooley, Ruth Stryker, Anna Smith, Ethel Nielson, Edith Whitney, Rose Ungemack. "Jack Frost," Benjamin Hadley; "Brigands," Martin Stutsman, Augustus Nash, Albert Hardcastle, Holmes Sutton; "Tots," Agnes Dooley, Anna Smith, Rose Ungemach, Ethel Nielson; Gypsies, "Roma," queen of the gypsies, Miss Emily S. Runyon; Annie Littell, Lizzie Cratsley, Florence Smalley, Grace Weeks, Mary Leveridge, Arline Brown, Autumn DeLany, Anna Clark, Bessie Giles, May Pierson, Sarah Boyd, Lulu Stryker, Viola Hillyer, Dorothy Smith, Florence Cuming, Mamie Simms.

"Santa Claus," Joseph Martin; "Scribble," William Doane; "Betsy Jane," rag doll, Harry C. Runyon; "Workingman," Charles Dayton; "Poor Woman," Miss Elma Runyon; "Girl," Miss Alice Brown.

After the entertainment a handsome clock was presented to Rev. A. E. Finn by his Sunday-school class. The presentation speech was made by Harry C. Runyon, to which the pastor responded. The entertainment was considered the best ever given by the school.

Christian Church.

In spite of the rain a large audience gathered at the Christian church last night where Christmas exercises were held for the first time since the congregation was organized. The church was decorated with pine boughs, the platform representing a chimney corner in an old time house. A large tree beautifully decorated and covered with gifts was lighted with electric globes. After a short program Santa Claus appeared and distributed the candy and gifts. The program consisted of a number of songs by the school, recitations by the Misses Tillie Lutz, Helen Thomson, Maude Edell, Madeline Myers, Amy Lorton, Elsie Townley, Ruth Naylor and Eva Edmonds. Music by E. E. Townley, cornet; Miss Edgar, solo; Miss Ruth Delahnut, piano. J. R. Naylor was master of ceremonies. A few remarks were made by the pastor, Rev. Phil Parsons, and after the distribution of presents Mr. Parsons was presented with a purse of about $15.

Marconier Chapel.

Marconnier chapel at Oak Tree held its Christmas exercises last night. They were of a simple character, the program for the most part being taken up by Professor Rankin, of this city, the well known magician. An address was made by Rev. J. T. Lansdale and gifts were distributed by Irving Marclay in the guise of Santa Claus. Miss Mamie Morrison, pianist for the Sunday-school, was remembered with a gold piece.

SMITH MAY LOSE AUTO JOB.

Frelinghuysen and Martin Preparing to Amend Law.

Senator Frelinghuysen, of Somerset county, has decided to offer such amendments to the automobile law as shall warrant a more perfect policing of the public roads. Others among the legislators-elect, notably Assemblyman Martin, of Essex, will seek to amend this act in more essential particulars.

It is proposed to take the Department of Motor Vehicles on the Department of State, cutting off the salary of $1,500 now paid to Assistant Secretary of State Smith as automobile commissioner, while he already has a salary of $3,000 as assistant secretary, and establish it independently, as all other State departments are arranged and located. The object in this contemplated change is to eradicate the system of dual job-holding which the automobile law now encourages.

Governor-elect Fort is believed to favor an independent department while it is known that he is decided in his purpose to put an end to everything savoring of dual job holding as reflecting discredit on the government. Others will ask that the department be united with the Department of Public Roads, without extra expense, the present appropriation for the object to serve in running the reorganized automobile bureau.

CURIOUS WOMEN BARRED.

Will Not Be Allowed at Harry Thaw's Next Trial.

All women except members of the Thaw family and the women reporters will be excluded from the court room during the second trial of Harry K. Thaw, under an order issued by Justice Dowling in New York yesterday. Thaw's trial will begin next Monday.

The reason given for this order is that the seating capacity of the court room had been reduced greatly, since the first trial and will now accommodate only about 150 spectators. Justice Dowling is said also to be determined to prevent a recurrence of the annoyance caused at the last trial by women moved by morbid curiosity who made use of every means of their command to secure admission to a court room already overcrowded.

She Played Detective.

Late one night at a house in a Midland town a lady's maid, after retiring to her bedroom, was trying on a new pair of corsets. "Not such a bad little figure, after all," she soliloquized aloud, with a pretty conceit, as she saw her reflection in the glass. That same night the house was entered by burglars, who got away with a quantity of jewelry. Some weeks afterward the lady's maid was in the midst of a crowd when the remembrance of that night was brought vividly to her mind by her overhearing a man say pestingly to his companion. "Not such a bad little figure, after all." Quickly grasping the situation, the maid followed the men and informed a policeman, and so was the means of the couple being arrested. Needless to add, the men proved to be the much wanted burglars.—Birmingham Post.

Robert W. Lyngaard.

Robert W. Lyngaard, aged twenty-one years, died this morning at the home of his mother on Somerset street. He had been ill quite some time. The funeral will be held at the late home Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

SCIENCE SIFTINGS.

While cannon firing for breaking up hail clouds has proved a failure, Signor Moggiora, an Italian, believes it would disperse fog.

Nobody knows who discovered Mars. He has been known as a planet for thousands of years. The same may be said of Venus. The diurnal relation of Venus was discovered by Cassini in 1667. Neptune was discovered in 1846.

The abnormal orbits have led some astronomers to believe that comets come from beyond the solar system. Late researches have convinced M. Fayet, the French astronomer, otherwise, and and hec oncludes that all recorded comets are as much a part of the sun's family as are the planets.

PITH AND POINT.

One of Jerrold's Puns.

One morning Douglas Jerrold and Compton proceeded together to view the pictures in the Gallery of Illustration. On entering the anteroom they found themselves opposite to a numberof mirrors. "Look at that picture," said Compton, pointing to own reflection. "Very fine," said Jerrold, regarding it intently, "wants hanging, though."

TALES THEY TELL.

Secretary Shields, of the water board in New Orleans, has a spaniel that delights to catch bugs and take them to the yard for the chickens to eat.

A Sturgeon (Mo.) man says he sent his overalls to a laundry, forgetting to remove his watch. The watch, he declares, went through the wringer and continues to keep good time.

Mrs. Scholler, of Manayunk, Pa., bought a life size marble statue of Venus, which was placed in the parlor. When her husband came home late at night he thought te statue was a burglar, and Venus was smashed.

A Greenfield (Mo.) citizen says that when his dog saw two preachers approaching his house he trotted around the corner and returned with two plump chickens; which he deposited near the door and then went to sleep.

ENGLISH ETCHINGS.

A London barber advertises for 200 men to be shaved in a music hall exhibition and says "cabmen preferred."

A new timepiece is shown in the shops in London so small that it can be worn on a finger ring over a lady's glove. It is very fashionable and costs $100.

A hotel has been started by Mrs. Bramwell Booth of the Salvation Army at Leeds for the workingwomen only. The establishment is entirely staffed by women.

There is a famine of copper coins in England owing to their utilization in automatic machines and gas meters. It is estimated that 60,000,000 coins have thus been withdrawn from circulation.
